One other bout is also on tap and the show starts at 9.00 p.m.

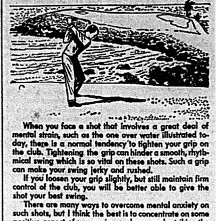
RELAX YOUR GRIP IN TENSE SITUATIONS



When you face a shot that involves a great deal of mental strain, such as the one over water illustrated today, there is a normal tendency to tighten your grip on the club. Tightening the grip can hinder a smooth, rhythmical swing which is so vital on these shots. Such a grip can make your swing jerky and rushed.

If you loosen your grip slightly, but still maintain firm control of the club, you will be better able to give the shot your best swing.

There are many ways to overcome mental anxiety on such shots, but I think the best is to concentrate on some positive aspect of your swing, such as merely striking the ball squarely.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAIND

Rain, the farmers' friend, also the fishermen's helper, although all of you will not agree, is badly needed in the Quinte district.

How does this lack of rain affect the fisherman? Very many of the Pickerel fishermen and also most of the speckled trout fans use minnows and worms. Rain is essential in order to have a good supply of this type of live bait.

Most of the worms used in the area are picked locally from lawns, and from the golf courses at Belleville, Napanee, and Picton.

Most of the worms produced from these courses end up across the border in U.S.A. where upwards of one million worms a week are supplied to live bait wholesalers in Watertown, Syracuse and New York.

These are transported, by refrigerated trucks, in bulk boxes containing 500 worms to a box to the American jobbers where they in turn contribute to local American live bait shops.

With the small numbers of worms being picked due to lack of rain, and the great amounts of local bait being shipped out of the country a shortage of worms has developed in this section of the country. One local wholesale, retail outlet supplying Prince Edward County and Belleville Trenton area has been picking up worms from Kingston, Oshawa, and Ottawa in order to keep his customers happy. The cost of worms has gone up a little to partially cover the expense of this extra travel.

Now speaking of this drought we are having, have you noticed the level of the water in the river lately? Pretty low is it not. The creek's around the country are at the lowest level they have been in years. In many of these good trout creeks there are only a few deep holes with any water in them. All of your specks and minnows are crowded into these potholes and if we do not have rain soon all of these fish will die.

While seining minnows one day this week in one of these creeks we took 800 salable minnows out of one hole, also we caught and released 58 speckled trout from 8 inches up to 12 inches.

I told a trout fisherman about this and how to get there and this ardent Walton caught 35 of these trout in 3 days, all on a dew worm and No. Mepps Gold. In another spot a different fisherman caught 12 very nice specks.

This is good fishing but, if these creeks dry up completely, what is it going to be like next year when all the fish are dead and we have to start with scratch. A pretty grim tale believe me. So lack of rain is not only doing the farmer harm but every outdoorsman as well.

Tim Whalen and Ron Wood combined for a two-hit triumph. They struck out 14 and walked four. Rick Bell and Steve Cowan fanned three and walked three for the Bakery.

Bruce Clark lashed a double and two singles, Pat McKinney slammed a triple and double, and Dave Flesch and Scott Sturgess had a double and single each, to lead the barrage. Tim Whalen cracked two base hits, and Ron Wood, Bob Woodbeck, Greg Bradshaw and John Menna one each.

Lightfoots Goof, And Point Wins

A throwing error in the bottom of the seventh permitted the winning run to score as the Point Anne Cementmen nipped Lightfoots 3-2 in a nip and tuck Commercial Softball tilt, at the Point, last night.

The winners increased their league lead to eight points with the win.

Lightfoots twice took one-run leads but each time Point Anne came right back to tie it in the bottom of the inning.

Dennis Maher came home with the winning run on the only error of the contest. He stole third and continued in on the overthrow to third.

A walk, and Wood's double netted Lightfoots' first while Cook's hit, passed balls and Eric Maher's fly tied it 1-1. Hall's two-bagger and two ground outs made it 2-1. Cook's double and Akey's base knock made it 2-2 after five.

Ron Maracle hurled a two-hitter on the Cementmen's hilltop to register the victory. He struck out eight and walked five.

As was noted earlier, the clubs played perfect ball afield until the final throw.

Vern Whalen and Mike Cook had two Point Anne hits each. David Akey, Ron Maracle and Rick Rosebush split the others.

Quinte Couple Wins Napanee Tournament

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Munson, Bay of Quinte Country Club, won the Russell Hunter Trophy with a low net of 67 at the Napanee Golf Club's annual 18-hole Mr. and Mrs. Tournament on Saturday. The two 36-handicappers carded a gross of 103.

Runners up for low net were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher, of Belleville.

Other net score winners from Belleville were: Dr. and Mrs. Frank McCue, 3rd low net; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Townson, 7th; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Payette, 8th.

Gross winners from Belleville were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ketcheson, 4th; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cork, 6th; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bowerman, 7th.

Forty couples participated in the tournament.

Shannonville Edges Read

A two-hit pitching performance by Dave Lewis and a four-run explosion in the fourth gave Shannonville a 4-3 South Hastings Baseball victory over Read last night.

Read used errors and one hit to jump in front 3-0 in the initial frame. Shannonville collected four hits in their winning eruption in the fourth.

Lewis gave up just two singles in the seven-inning contest. He struck out nine and walked only one.

Frank Farrell pitched well in defeat, giving up nine hits and one free pass. He struck out seven and got errorless support.

Jack Hughes spearheaded the Shannonville attack. He clouted two doubles and a single. Bill Barberstock also hit a double and Dave Lewis had a brace of singles. Larry Lewis, Barry Ryckman and Carl Boombower also hit safely.

Mud Hens Sweep Jets, Leafs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Columbus Jets are glad to be rid of Toledo Mud Hens for a while, but they're probably leary about Syracuse Chiefs, who they meet today.

The league-leading Jets open a new series against the now cellar - dwelling Chiefs tonight after Toledo completed a three-game sweep by downing Columbus 4-3 Thursday night.

That brought the Hens to within a victory of the Jets along with Toronto, which holds a percentage - point advantage over Toledo.

Elsewhere, the Leafs walloped Buffalo Bisons 9-3, while Rochester Red Wings edged Syracuse Chiefs 6-6, and a game between Richmond Braves and Jacksonville Suns was rained out.

Leads Quebec Qualifiers

MONTREAL (CP) — Henri Gelinas, professional at a La Tuque, Que., golf club, fired a one-over-par 73 Thursday over the Pinegrove course to lead the qualifying round for the Quebec open golf championship.

Along with Gelinas, 26 others among the field of 70 made the grade with scores of 80 and better and start today in the first round of the 54-hole championship.

Mike Nestorowich, 30-year-old amateur from the LaSalle club of Montreal, was second with 74 despite a seven at the ninth where he twice suffered a penalty stroke when he hit into the water.

Don Renaud of Peterborough and Alain Gousse of Montreal tied for third, along with amateur Bob Mason of Montreal, with 75s.

The leading pro will get $1,200 of the $5,000 purse and an expenses-paid trip to the $200,000 world tournament at Liverpool, England, next month.

Trimble Looks Over CFL

Rates Ti-Cats, Bombers Strongest Clubs

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Trimble, former coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes, has sized up all nine training camps in the Canadian Football League and concludes that the rich have gotten richer.

"I rate Winnipeg and Hamilton as the strongest . . . this year," he said Thursday night.

But Trimble, now a Montreal resident who embarks on a career as a football broadcaster this season, looks to Saskatchewan Roughriders as the team that could surprise.

"Saskatchewan could be a real sneaky. On paper, they're as good a football team as there is in the country. They have a real strong offence and excellent offensive blocking and line play, but they don't have the depth. They're thin on the bench.

"Barring injuries, they could win in the West. But if they lose anyone, they'll bleed."

Trimble will do half - time commentary on CFL games carried this year by the CTV network.

He feels the Bombers of the Western Football Conference have improved defensively and have added to their offence with Tom Urbanik, a 225-pound back from Pennsylvania State University and Washington Redskins of the National Football League.

He rates Hamilton's defence, which dominated the Eastern Football Conference last season, tops again this year and feels the team has added strength offensively with the acquisition of such rookies as halfback Marshal Starks from the University of Wichita.

He picks Ottawa Rough Riders for second place but thinks third place is a toss-up between Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts.

The Argos have a flock of good receivers "but everything rests on this one kid, Gabler."

Wally Gabler, quarterback from the University of Michigan, is being counted on to guide the Argos this season.

Trimble looks for a four-team scramble in the West with Calgary Stampeders and British Columbia Lions joining Winnipeg and Saskatchewan in the race for the three playoff positions. And he rates Edmonton Eskimos as potential spoilers.

"The Lions have everything but receivers. With (Joe) Kapp throwing passes, if they had Toronto's receivers, they'd be the best in the league."

He said Calgary will miss guard Tony Pajaczkowski—traded to Montreal—and speedy flanker Frank Budd, who has retired.

Edmonton has a top receiver in Tommy Joe Coffey and a strong crop of rookies

"At quarterback they have lots of quantity, but the quality isn't proven."

Skrien Raising Eyebrows

Lions Same, But Different!

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dave Skrien says his British Columbia Lions will have few changes this year. But some people aren't so sure.

In essentials, says coach Skrien, the club won't differ from the 1965 edition that dropped to fourth place in the Western Football Conference from the 1964 Grey Cup championship.

"We're not doing anything different," he said in an interview. "We are preparing a football team to play a football season."

But to some he has acted like Trader Laine during the off - season, exchanging and selling several erstwhile darlings of Vancouver football fans.

Gone are Bob Swift, Steve Cotter, Gus Kasapis, Peter Kempf and Norm Winton—all via the sell - trade route. Walt Bilicki and Paul Seale have retired.

CUT BIG CATCH

The first day of camp, Skrien ran the club through a stiff contact drill and drew comments from veterans like:

"Hey, get on this guy. He's going to kill us out there.

"I can hardly believe my eyes. What's happening?"

The 37-year-old coach told Bill Munsey and Sonny Homer that, no matter how much they loved defensive play, they were slated to play offence.

He ran Willie Fleming from directly behind the fullback, instead of the normal halfback slot, and shifted Norm Fieldgate to deep safety from corner linebacker, where he has played 10 years.

Greg Findlay also has been moved from his old position in the new defensive alignment, a brainwave of new defensive coach Bill Hildebrand. Findlay, the other corner linebacker, will be a left end. Dick Fouts now is a tackle, instead of left end.

Rookie Wayne Foster, a 235-pound All - American from Washington State University, will likely be a linebacker, as will sophomore Gary Porterfield.

Rookie halfback Bud Spicer, from Wyoming, looked impressive enough in camp to make the club, as did end - kicker Len Frketich, from Oregon State, and taught end Dave Moton, from Southern California.

With 13 holdover imports from last year, and only 14 allowable on the roster, Skrien is faced with keeping just one rookie or cutting veterans to make room for new blood.

To complicate matters, rookie quarterback Chick Graning, also an import, looked great as he guided an almost - all rookie team to victory over almost-all veterans in the Lions intrasquad game July 16. And fullback Larry Eilmes, from Washington State, was equally proficient.

Of Eilmes, Skrien said, "You don't let go of football players who can run like that."

And Frank Made It Work

Rookie Gave Robinson Tip

BALTIMORE (AP)—All tips don't come from the top.

A suggestion from rookie Dave Johnson of Baltimore Orioles has corrected a flaw in the batting stance of Frank Robinson, his superstar teammate.

Robinson immediately capitalized on the tip and started his latest batting streak which has him solidly in the running for the American League's triple crown title.

He came to Baltimore from Cincinnati Reds of the National League in an off-season trade.

Since going back to his old stance Monday, Robinson has collected 12 hits in 17 trips, including five home runs.

He had two homers and two singles Thursday night, driving in three runs and scoring three as the league - leading Orioles defeated Detroit Tigers 6-4 and moved 11½ games in front.

"Davey noticed I was standing about six inches further up in the batter's box," Robinson said. "On Monday I moved back and started hitting."

Johnson was a bit apprehensive about approaching Robinson—who has hit 351 homers and has a lifetime average above .300.

"But Frank is the kind of guy you can talk to.

"I just noticed that he was standing closer to the pitcher. He wasn't getting around on the pitch and he seemed concerned about it."

Johnson was especially aware of Robinson's stance because he had watched him closely since spring training, trying to emulate the plate - crowding technique.

Robinson's latest spurt has left him first in the league with 27 homers, second with a .328 average and third with 67 runs batted in.

"I have a good shot at two of the departments," Robinson said, "but I'd have to be lucky to catch up in RBI."

Robinson trails team - mate Brooks Robinson by 12 RBIs and is only four percentage points in back of team-mate Russ Snyder's .332 average and is five ahead of the field in homers.

Bob Panasiuk Shoots 67 In Practice

MONTREAL (CP)—Bob Panasiuk, a professional from Windsor, Ont., averaging close to 300-yard tee shots, carded a five-under-par 67 Thursday in a practice round for the 58th Quebec open golf championship, which opens today.

Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., looking for his third provincial title after winning the Manitoba Open, in Winnipeg three weeks ago, and the Alberta Open, at Calgary the week before that, shot a 69.

There were 151 amateurs and professionals entered in the 54 hole tournament.

Jerome Decides To Run

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Jerome, co-holder of the world record in the 100-yard and 100-metre dashes, will compete in the British Empire Games Aug. 4-14 at Kingston, Jamaica.

Jerome was reported Thursday as having cleared up a schedule conflict involving a summer school course at University of British Columbia and will be able to go to Jamaica.

The young school teacher, a key to Canada's sucess in the dashes and relays at the Games, was still undecided about entering the BEG following his world record-tying run at the Canadian championships last weekend in Edmonton.

JAIL THAT BIRD

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A Rhode Island Red rooster was charged with disturbing the peace when police were tipped off by unhappy sleepers and apprehended the bird. They think it fell off a truck that passed in the night.

Guy Who Wed Betty White Tells What Life Is Like

By ALLEN LUDDEN
(For Cynthia Lowry)

It takes a strong, secure, well - adjusted fellow to marry a well-known woman in show business. Allen Ludden did just that and here tells, without a whimper, what it's like to be — but only occasionally—hailed as Mr. Betty White. (And Betty wasn't sure he should write this column).

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the many notable things that have happened to me since the advent of a little television game called Password has been the fact that I am called so many different things. You may take that any way you wish, but what I mean is that people call me different names.

Because they see me on the tube in the afternoon, they associate me with my electronic neighbor Linkletter and I'm hailed as "Art". So, I answer.

Because I emcee a game show, they call me "Bud," as in Collyer.

Because I wear glasses and belong to that venerable group known as television hosts, I get "Bill"—for Bill Cullen, I guess.

But the one I get most often and the one I enjoy the most is, "Hey, there's the guy who married Betty White." It's been three years now since Betty and I married and I've become something of an authority on Betty White fans.

RESPECTS THEIR TASTE

Let me make it clear at the outset that I have nothing but the heartiest respect for these people. Obviously I respect their taste. I married the girl. Most of them look upon me as a Johnny-come - lately. They've known her much longer than I have.

There is a very large group who remember Betty from the "Al Jarvis Days." She was doing a 5½-hour daily local show in Los Angeles. There weren't many TV sets to begin with (I kid Betty about being a star of the silent TV) and it was a local show. Yet these people turn up all over the country.

When we married we had 9,000 cards and at least 6,000 of them mentioned Al Jarvis.

They usually went on to mention Life with Elizabeth, too, because all of her Al Jarvis friends followed on to that series. They were joined by armies of new and vigilantly faithful followers.

A lot of them must have been about 10 at the time, but they loved Life with Elizabeth. I've read some of the scripts just lately, and the reason those shows were so popular is that they were very, very funny.

Betty is constantly amazed to have teen-agers today come up to her to tell her that hers was their favorite show when they were kids.

Then there are the hard core fans or, even better, friends, who have known Betty through Life with Elizabeth, Date with the Angels, and The Betty White Show, which was her daytime NBC network show.

Sets Record At Greenwood

TORONTO (CP) — Perfect Mir set a trotting track record while strutting to a 1¾-length victory in the eighth-race feature at Greenwood Raceway Thursday night.

Nancy Brook B. held the previous best—2:07 clocking—over the limestone oval.

Bob and Gertrude Polk's Willow Brook Sadie, from Kingston, romped to her third season's victory in the first and clicked with Sunset Lee M., from Gerald Moore's Ancaster Barn, in the second for a $45.50 daily double.

Ronnie Feagan, Canada's leading reinsman, registered season win No. 111 while setting up the head end of a $76.10 exactor with Jack and Jean Fenton's Mistress Mine.

HAMBURG, N.Y. (CP) — Maryann J., owned by Bob McLean of Goderich, Ont., upset the field in Thursday nights' pacing feature in 2:05 2-5, returning $25.20 to win.

SO WHY RETIRE?

TV panelist Henry Morgan says he plans to retire, "as soon as I can figure out from what."

World Cup Patter

LONDON (CP) — Nearly 1,000,000 persons have attended the 24 World Cup soccer games played in the championship tournament so far. Official figures listed total attendance of 979,412, an average of 40,808 a game. Biggest crowd was at Wembley—92,500—for the England-France encounter Tuesday night; smallest was 13,792 at the North Korea-Chile match in Middlesbrough July 15.

LISBON (AP) — Benfica Soccer Club paid a record 5,000,000 escudos (about $154,000) for Portuguese halfback Jaime Graca, now playing with Portugal in the World Cup in England, it was learned Thursday.

Graca has been the star of Victoria de Setubal, a Portugal first league team.

It was the most expensive transfer in Portuguese soccer history.

LONDON (AP) — England's Jimmy Greaves and Jackie Charlton missed training with the English World Cup squad Thursday because of injuries they received against France.

The Benfica star has scored three goals—an average of one a match. The other players with three goals are Roger Hunt of England, Bene of Hungary and Artime of Argentina.

BUILD NUCLEAR REACTOR

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia's third nuclear reactor, built with some U.S. government assistance ($233,000), has begun operation at Podgorica. It is to produce radioactive isotopes and for general research in physics, chemistry and medicine.

U.S. Marksmen

Set World Shoot Marks

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) — Gary Anderson of the United States and the U.S. team set world records Thursday in capturing the individual and team titles in the three-position, free-rifle event of the world shooting championships.

The Americans now have won 16 championships to eight for the Soviet Union in the meet, which ends Saturday.

Anderson scored 1,156 of 1,200 in the combined standing, kneeling and prone firing.

In the team competition, the United States scored 4,602 of 4,800. Russia was second with 4,573 and Switzerland third with 4,535.

Canada's team wound up 14th among the 14 countries competing, with a score of 4,240.

Edson Warner of Lennoxville, Que., was the best Canadian in the kneeling rifle event, finishig 39th with a score of 387.

In the prone event, Schulze was 51st with a score of 368, Warner 55th with 361 and Mayer 57th in 358.

In the standing event, Marsh was 35th with a score of 351, Schulze 57th with 331, Warner 59th with 309 and Mayer 60th with 263.

"Fight Game Dead"

"There is no fight game today. There never will be again."

Dempsey made the remark Thursday en route to a big celebration at his birthplace, Manassa, a tiny community in Colorado's San Luis Valley this weekend.

He will dedicate Jack Dempsey Park, the chief feature of which is a small log cabin in which he was born 71 years ago.

"The lack of small clubs has killed boxing," Dempsey said.

"There are no more small clubs where a boxer can have a chance to learn how to fight.

"Also, there's more money in others sports: Football, baseball, basketball, hockey and so forth.

Unity Bred by Common Enemy Weakens Among African Lands

When Morocco, Tunisia and Algeria were seeking their freedom, the common enemy was France. Today, with the enemy gone, they are often found squabbling among themselves. A Canadian Press reporter explains why.

By PETER BUCKLEY

TUNIS (CP)—The old comrades-in-arms unity that blossomed when the nations of North Africa were fighting for independence from France is vanishing beneath the new pressures of nationhood.

Algeria and Morocco have already battled once in the desert and could well fight again. Tunisia and Algeria seem on the verge of breaking off diplomatic relations.

Behind both disputes is the perennial question of frontiers — that troublesome legacy of colonialism that haunts whole areas of Africa on both sides of the Sahara.

In North Africa, the problem is aggravated by other deep-rooted differences — of political tendency, of temperament, of history.

The Arab's strong feeling for personal dignity and property rights heightens the emotional impact of any outside pretensions to what he now regards as his hard-won national territory.

Until recently, the arid tracts of the Sahara now in dispute lay unclaimed and unwanted. Far from the rich green farms and heavily populated cities of the North African coast, they were inhabited only by a few nomadic Bedouins.

The frontiers between the countries had been only vaguely defined. No one worried particularly — until rich iron and gas deposits were found in the area now claimed by Morocco and an oil strike was made on the land now sought by Tunisia.

FEEL BETRAYED

Both Morocco and Tunisia feel they have been betrayed by their bigger, richer neighbor. The two countries, freed from French "protection" in 1956, sheltered and supported Algeria's nationalists in the bitter years until Algerian independence in 1962. The border issue was left in abeyance, with Algerian leaders promising it would be negotiated after independence.

But no negotiations have taken place and Algeria now insists it has no intention of giving up any of the territory it inherited from French rule.

There was a brief bloody clash with Morocco in the disputed region in 1963. Morocco placed its claims—part of much wider territorial pretensions that take in much of West Africa—before the Organization of African Unity and has pressed continuously for a decision.

But African experts say a decision is unlikely. If one variation of the old colonial boundaries were permitted, a whole Pandora's box of claims and counter-claims would be opened. Hardly a single West African nation could expect to exempt its territory from some neighbor's interest.

WAR THREATENS

A veteran Western resident of Rabat said gloomily: "I can think of a dozen reasons why there should be war and only one — common sense — why there shouldn't."

Both Morocco and Algeria, wrestling with internal problems of dissidence and development, might welcome the unifying and distracting effects of a "holy war" for a rich purse.

Both have strong, well-trained armies which carry substantial weight in the political balance of power.

Morocco, with its traditionalist society and powerful monarchy, has reason to distrust the leftist revolutionary government of Algeria. Algerian leaders tend to see Moroccan independence as a sell-out of revolutionary aspirations as long as the monarchy holds power.

The dispute is on a lower key with Tunisia, mainly because the territory in question is not as rich and the Tunisians, with their smaller army and more moderate outlook, tend to be less pugnacious.

Chances are remote now of uniting the whole of the Maghreb — the three former French colonies, plus Libya — or even of developing useful economic and cultural ties. There is widespread talk of such a union but apart from desultory co-operation in such fields as broadcasting development and education the idea seems dead.

STILL DEPENDENT

Each of the Maghreb states is being left to tackle on its own the massive problems that colonialism failed to solve or even aggravated.

All three have unbalanced economies that depend heavily on trade with France or on outright subsidies and technical aid from France, the United States and other developed nations.

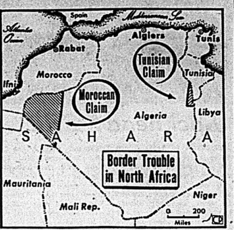
As much as three-quarters of North Africa's population is illiterate, tied by tradition and circumstances to a land that often yields food only reluctantly.

The shortage of trained administrators and technicians is crippling. Unemployment and under-employment are chronic. And the birth rate, one of the highest in the world, swamps almost every effort to improve the North African's lot.

"It's possible that they'll continue like this for years, neither fighting nor making up," said one diplomat, mentally scanning the North African picture. "But the possibility is probably greater that this border issue will only get worse as the governments take a firmer hold over their territories.

"And in that case, watch out. It's unfortunate because they have so many other problems to be worrying about."

Tomorrow: North Africa needs a new image.



BORDER PROBLEMS DISTURB NORTH AFRICA — The vaguely-defined frontiers between Morocco and Algiers and Tunisia are a source of friction in North Africa. Algeria and Morocco have already battled once and Tunisia and Algeria seem on the verge of severing diplomatic relations. Possession of the barren Sahara areas was not disputed until iron, gas and oil were discovered there.

Only Canada Increases Foreign Aid

By ARCH MacKENZIE

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told the conference Wednesday that interest rates on long-term loans are being wiped out for deserving countries and that in certain cases Canada will assume up to 25 per cent of the local cost involved in getting foreign-aid projects off the ground.

The conference was the fifth high-level session of the Development Assistance Committee, an offshoot of the Organization of Economic Co-operation and Development. Representation includes Japan and Australia as well as the Atlantic Community.

But while the conference was emphasizing its concern about the rising interest rates for poor countries, the United States Senate clipped $250,000,000 worth from development loans and stepped up the interest rates.

Sunday School Lesson

Sincere About What?

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

If men were as sincere about wanting to know and do the will of God as space scientists are in wanting to know how to put a man on the moon, fewer people would feel like saying, "Stop the world, I want to get off." If people were as sincere in their worship of God as Jesus was, there would be less talk about the death of God, and more about the new birth of men.

Everyone is sincere about something. The question is, about what? Hitler was undoubtedly sincere in his hatred of the Jews, but his sincerity plunged the world into a blood-bath. An advertising man accepted a contract to advertise a product he knew was inferior. He remarked to a friend, "I'm going to try to sell two million of those but I wouldn't own one." "Then why advertise it?" asked his friend. "Because I'm out to make money," he confessed. The friend commented, "How low can you get?"

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 24: "Sincerity Before God," Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37;6:5-15; Mark 7;5-9; Titus 1:16.

This man was sincere about wanting to make money, but not about being honest with prospective customers. Men are sincere about getting ahead, or making money, or experiencing love, or social status, or having a good time. But all too few are sincere about seeking to know the living God. And yet the promise is, "You will seek me and find me; when you seek me with all your heart." (Jeremiah 29:13 RSV)

NO SUBSTITUTE

There is no substitute for sincerity. The public wants to believe the salesman is sincere in what he says about his product. The congregation wants to believe the pastor is sincere in what he says from the pulpit. The beloved wants to believe her lover is sincere when he says, "I love you." The world wants the church to be sincere in its concern for people.

The Bible insists men must be sincere in their relationship to God. It says, "You shall not take the name of your God in vain." (Exodus 20:7 RSV) This is not just a commandment against swearing. This is a warning against hypocrisy. To speak to or about God without sincerity is to take His name in vain. To pretend to love Him when the heart is far from Him is to claim to know Him in vain.

Swearing an oath does not guarantee sincerity. A person can swear on a hundred Bibles and still be guilty of perjury. As Jesus insisted, swearing an oath is no guarantee of integrity. (Matthew 5:34-37) A person who speaks to impress or mislead others is not sincere in his fidelity to the truth. Just saying "Cross my heart and hope to die," does not make a person honest. Sincerity must come from the heart or it is nothing.

JESUS HITS HYPOCRISY

Jesus' harshest words were directed against hypocrisy. A person, said Jesus, must be sincere before God. He must not practice piety, or give alms, or pray merely to be seen or praised of men. (Matthew 6:1-5) These must be done out of a sincere heart or they are an offense to God.

Sincerity is not proved by words, but by life. Many a person belies his sincerity in saying he loves God by his lack of stewardship. The difference between a sincere believer and an insincere one is the difference between a shepherd and a "hireling." (John 10:11-13) The shepherd demonstrates his sincerity by risking his life for the sheep. A hireling, having no sincere love for the sheep, runs at the first sign of danger. Persecution is a great revealer of sincerity. Under testing or persecution the sincere disciple stands fast; the insincere follower runs for cover.

When a person stands before God, no amount of pretense will stand the test. What matters then, as Jesus pointed out, is not what a person has said or done to impress others, but what he has been and had done in secret. (Matthew 6:1-6)

Whatever claims a person's sincerest loyalty is really his God. If his god is social approval, he will have one kind of reward. But if he sincerely seeks the blessing and guidance of the one true God, his reward is a deep inner satisfaction the world cannot give or take away.

To serve God sincerely, a person must have a sincere love and respect for his fellowmen. As Jesus said, a person gives the supreme evidence of his sincerity and love when he is willing to lay down his life for a friend. (John 15:13) Jesus demonstrated the utter sincerity of His love by His willingness to die for all, even those who rejected Him.

Lockhead Starlifter Viewed at Trenton

TRENTON — A 5½ million dollar fan-jet aircraft that flies 154 fully-equipped troops at 550 mph for more than 5,000 miles may solve the armed forces' air transport problem, caused by ever increasing commitments at home and abroad.

On June 16 when Defence Minister Paul Hellyer attended an Air Transport Command briefing for the Parliamentary standing committee on defence, he told The Intelligencer considerable expansion in the Canadian forces' air transport could be expected. At the same meeting committee members sought information from transport officers about training service personnel in servicing full-jet aircraft. A technical officer advised the committee technicians would need six months to become proficient after the switch from turbo-prop techniques.

The defence committee also learned that Air Transport Command had been taexd to a point considered serious during its involvement in a spring commitment named "Exercise Winter Express." Transport Commander Air Commodore G. G. Diamond reported the movement of 1,000 army personnel, 197 vehicles and 100,000 pounds of supplies to the northern flank of the NATO area in Norway left the command with no reserves. He noted, however, the deployment operation was regarded as a success although back in Canada all routine service flights with the exception of one to the Arctic had to be suspended.

Subsequently, the defence committee left Trenton that day having gathered a complete report on Air Transport Command's accomplishments and requirements for continuing an efficient record in its role with the Alliance.

STARLIFTER SHOWN

Significant this week was the demonstration for air transport officers of the Lockheed Starlifter at the Canadian Forces Base, here. The thundering roar of the giant's four powerful engines turned heads of local residents skyward. Senior Air Transport Command officials were taken for a flight over the Quinte area.

The large fan-jet aircraft has a wing span of 160 feet, tail height of 39 feet and is 145 feet long.

Weighing 316,000 pounds, the plane has a speed of 550 mph and a military payload of 70,000 pounds.

Comparing the Starlifter with the Yukon, the largest transport in service with the Canadian forces at present, it would cover 3,624 nautical miles, the distance between Trenton and Dakar, Africa, in eight hours and five minutes. The slower Yukon with a true speed of 350 mph, requires 11 hours and 30 minutes to make the trip. The Starlifter is the largest jet transport in operation with the U.S.A.F.

Economic Reform Is Changing Communism in Eastern Europe

A tour of Eastern Europe has convinced John Best, Canadian Press Moscow correspondent, that most Soviet - bloc countries are ahead of Russia in adopting economic reforms. The effect on the Communist world is discussed in this story.

By JOHN BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Economic reform is changing the face of communism in Eastern Europe, opening a window to liberal influences that will profoundly affect the whole structure of tight, authoritarian control.

Generally speaking, it is racing ahead of the reforms being introduced in the Sovet Union itself, which by comparison wear a halting, plodding look.

One reason probably is that Eastern Europe as a whole is not so doctrinaire in its approach to communism as the Soviet Union which, as the first and most powerful Communist state, carries the psychological burden of trying to prove to the world the superiority of the system.

Eastern Europe takes a more pragmatic approach.

The galloping pace of economic change should have the effect of further removing the East European states from the close embrace of Russia. For the reforms, fundamentally, represent an effort to run industry and trade along business-like lines rather than on a basis of centralized planning norms often having nothing to do with reality.

DOOR OPENED

And the inspiration for such a business-like approach will come from the West, not from Russia. This introduces a wide range of possibilities for the insinuation of new, un-Communist ideas and influences.

The open discussions provoked by the economic stagnation which practically all of Eastern Europe has experienced in recent years, and questions of how to deal with the problem, have had their effect in the realm of free speech.

It's impossible to document this. And possibly the effect has not been all that deep, so far. But you notice, in talking to East Europeans—officials as well as ordinary people—a refreshing eagerness to treat questions on a practical basis, devoid of petty ideology or stilted doctrine.

"Remove politics from economics," is the cry in Yugoslavia. The same sentiment is beginning to make inroads in the other countries, notably Czechoslovakia.

And it's impossible to think that the rising tide of innovation and radicalism can be restricted to the economic realm.

Yugoslavia, of course, is in a category by itself, having been tossed out of the Soviet bloc in 1948 and forced, willy nilly, to develop its own special relationship with the West.

However, changes that take place in Yugoslavia have an uncanny knack of showing up in the other countries years later. In Belgrade, it's the government itself—the Communist regime headed by President Tito — that has championed the cause of liberal reform and declared war on old - guard, unrepentant Marxists who resist it.

Ironically, in some ways, the only country that isn't overly concerned about economic reform is Romania, the one that is currently taking the lead in another direction of change, that of throwing off the fetters of Moscow control.

The Romanians say they are too busy constructing new factories — what economists call the extensive phase of industrial development — to worry about how they are to be operated once installed.

Foreign observers say it's just a matter of time before Romania's economy will have to come to grips with the stagnating effects of over-centralization, just as all the other countries have had to. Romanian officials say they will cross that bridge when they come to it.

Still more ironically, Romania's very independence policies have played no small party in forcing the pace of change in the other countries.

Rich in minerals and good agricultural land, Romania was to have been a principal supplier of raw materials and foodstuffs to more advanced countries such as Czechoslovakia and East Germany under an economic integration plan hatched by the Kremlin several years ago.

When the Romanians balked, insisting on pursuing their own great industrialization drive without orders from abroad, the East European economic picture was thrown into turmoil.

The Communist countries, already weak from economic inbreeding and planning methods that put a premium on stylized fulfilment of norms instead of inventiveness and hard work, began to show even less purpose and direction than before.

Thus the need for change became more acute.

A question often debated is whether, having embarked on the road of economic reform, Eastern Europe is not on a slippery slope which eventually will bring it to a market economy in the Western sense.

Even under the advanced programs adopted by Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, the play of supply and demand is kept under strict control. Both countries maintain important controls over the price structure.

However, Yugoslavia has been having economic reforms of one kind or another for about 15 years, Hungary since 1957.

Each plan is more liberal than the one before. Each generates a new set of forces and circumstances that bring on still further relaxation of controls.

If it's not a slippery slope it certainly has the appearance of an inexorable slide.

Mayor Calls To Discuss Sewer System

DESERONTO — Mayor Gerald Lott announces that he is calling a meeting of the Town Council at 7:00 p.m. August 2, to meet with engineers from the firm of Hisey and Barrington to discuss the plans for the proposed sewer system for the town. Plans have now been completed by the firm and are now in his hands.

The plan includes a survey of the whole town, parts of which have never been developed. The council will decide which parts of the project will be completed first, probably for the section of the town now in use, and then must send the engineer's plans and its own proposals to the Ontario Water Resources Commission for approval. They go then to the Ontario Municipal Board for its aprpoval, and again to the OWRC before debentures can be issued.

Deseronto Personals

DESERONTO — Alan Aylsworth of Toronto, with Mrs. Aylsworth, Douglas, Terry, Janet and Robert, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Aylsworth and his brother Ralph and his family of the Napanee Road, over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden Elliott of R. R. 1, Deseronto, have returned from a holiday by motor which took them as far as Norfolk, Va., and back by way of Washington, D.C.

Staff and employees of the Canada Optical Co., Ltd., began their holidays a day early when the plant closed down last Friday noon for two weeks.

Mr. Bert Coles of St. George St., Deseronto, is under treatment in the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital.

Kathy Schell of Toronto spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schell of St. George St. Kathy has accepted a position with a Toronto insurance firm.

Clerk-Treasurer Joseph Reynolds and Mrs. Reynolds of Thomas St. returned Wednesday from a holiday of nearly two weeks, which they spent in Port Hood, Cape Breton, N.S., with Mr Reynolds' brothers and sisters.

Around Town

NAPANEE — The Mackey Construction Co. which is installing the interceptor sewer in Clarksville has run into sand, and the work has been slowed up. Several minor cave-ins occurred while they were installing a manhole, which is now completed.

The rain which fell in the Napanee area Monday night and again Thursdy afternoon has improved conditions slightly, but it is too late to help grain, especially on thin land. Also, the danger of grass fires has been lessened temporarily.

The Rotary Club wading pool near the Memorial Building is being well patronized by the small children of the town. Many older ones are taking advantage of the swimming classes.

Fire Chief W. F. Patton expects to leave Sunday for a month's holiday which will take him and members of his family to Vancouver. The men of the Fire Department here have had little rest for the past two weeks because of grass fires, all of them controlled before there were any buildings lost.

Constable Tom McCrae, who won the car at the Lions Club Jamboree, sold it back to the club at a third of its cost. The car will be sold and the proceeds turned over to the hospital.

DESERONTO — Will the homeless Inch Arron find a berth at last in Deseronto? The question is still unanswered, but it is receiving consideration.

Last Sunday a meeting was held in the club house of the Deseronto Boat and Gun Club, attended by the club executive, Mayor Gerald Lott representing the town, and Peter Morris, representing the recently formed Business and Professional Men's Association. Invited by President Harry Fraser to act as chairman, Ernie Luck explained the purpose of the meeting and introduced Mr. John Hale of Kingston, who had been invited to attend.

Mr. Hale, president of the Kingston Mariners' Association, told the story of the Inch Arron and outlined the plans that had been made when it was acquired from the federal government for a youth centre. It was expected that the frigate would be a tourist attraction, in addition to serving as a centre for youth entertainment, as well as for training in such things as seamanship, sailing, engineering, boat building, weather station operating, and kindred skills.

The ship is now in Toronto being stripped of her engines and boilers, and parts which will not be necessary when she merely rides at anchor and this work will be finished by mid-August.

Unfortunately, Mr. Hale has been unable to find a berth for her in or near Kingston, and he had been invited to the present meeting to look over the feasibility of using the property of the Deseronto Boat and Gun Club and to explain the Inch Arron project so that Deseronto might consider issuing a formal invitation for the Inch Arron to find a home here.

Together with those present, Mr. Hale made a survey of the facilities of the Club, and when the meeting was resumed, the discussion continued.

Approval of the venture was expressed by Mayor Lott, who believed the people of Deseronto would support it; by Peter Morris, who felt the Business and Professional Men's Association would be in favor of it; and by the officers of the Boat and Gun Club: President Harry Fraser, Walter Kelly, vice-president, H. Newman, secretary, Keith Brooks, treasurer, and Frank Topping, chairman of the property committee.

After the departure of the guest, President Fraser resumed the chair, and further serious discussion followed. It was decided to hold a general meeting in the near future to come to a decision on the matter.

Bethany United Church To Mark Centennial

"The new Methodist Episcopal Church in the Third Concession of Thurlow, north of the brick school house, will be opened for Divine Service this Sunday." This coming Sunday, July 24, 100 years after this statement appeared in "The Canada Christian Advocate", the parishoners of Bethany United Church will attend a special service to commemorate the fact that the small red - brick building has served the surrounding Thurlow community for a century.

Special invitations have also been extended to some 300 former members of Bethany Church, with the provision having been made to accommodate part of the congregation on the lawn outside of the church. The service will be conducted by Rev. Robert J. McCrea of North Bay, who formerly served the Bethany parish.

Bethany was one of the six original churches on the Cannifton Circuit, and was united with the congregation of the Third Line church in 1909.

Over the years a number of improvements were found necessary in the maintenance of Bethany, including the building of a stoop and porch, and the installation of hydro facilities in 1929.

BIG SUNDAY SCHOOL

Bethany's Sunday School still has the 60-plus attendance that it had 50 years ago and for some year its Young People's organization proved equally as successful. In recent years, Cannifton Circuit "Hi-C" and "Kairo" groups have furnished the Bethany Young People with organized church - sponsored activities.

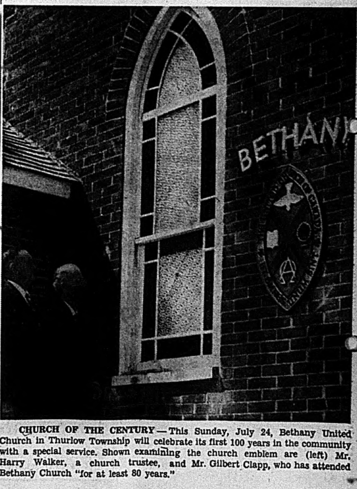
It is believed that the Women's Missionary Society of the church was organized about 1912, with a sister organization, the Bethany Women's Association, being formed in 1947 to help bear the burden of church expenses. These two groups became one in 1962 with the formation of the United Church Women. The addition of a hall to Bethany Church in 1953 was largely the result of the planning of the ladies of the congregation.

Bethany Church is at present without its own full-time minister, but this situation will be remedied when Rev. John Hobbs, from Point Clair, Quebec, arrives in August.

Patrick Watson Gets Waterloo Appointment

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Patrick Watson, 36, of Toronto has been appointed to the department of political science at the University of Waterloo.

Mr. Watson, a main figure in the controversy surrounding the CBC's This Hour Has Seven Days program, has an MA degree in English from the University of Toronto.



CHURCH OF THE CENTURY—This Sunday, July 24, Bethany United Church in Thurlow Township will celebrate its first 100 years in the community with a special service. Brooklyn, Cleveland Gunfire Is Resumed

NEW YORK (AP)—Gunfire from a moving car carrying four Negroes wounded two white men early today in the racially seething east New York slum area of Brooklyn, police said.

The shots were fired as the two men stood at a street corner in a section where 1,700 police were reported on the streets or held in reserve.

Frank Tuledo, 24, was shot in the abdomen and was reported in critical condition. Gregorio Cruz, 35, was shot in the right buttock and was reported in fair condition.

Scattered disorders broke out through the early morning. Several policemen were injured and 15 persons were arrested on various charges.

HALTED MARCH

The gunfire erupted three hours after police broke up a crowd of 45 young Negroes charging toward a predominantly Italian-American section of east New York and chanting "get the whites."

Police in five radio cars closed in on the gang—aged 17 to 25—and chased them back toward the Negro section.

Police said knives and clubs were taken from some and eight were arrested.

There has been racial disorder in east New York almost nightly for a week—the worst in the city since the Negro riots two summers ago in Harlem and the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

JOINED HANDS

Police feared violence Friday night from about 200 young Negroes and Puerto Ricans but they suddenly ran into the street shouting, "We want peace. We're all brothers." They joined hands and walked together along the street, encouraged by bystanders who waved at them and clanged garbage can covers.

Police Commissioner Howard B. Leary arrived in the section shortly after midnight and cruised in a department car.

Leary said there was no evidence that outsiders were in the area causing trouble. Two Negro community leaders had said Friday they had seen agitators who previously had been spotted in racial trouble spots in Chicago and Los Angeles.

In addition to the heavy police reinforcements in east New York, an estimated 1,000 police were deployed as a precautionary measure to several other ghetto areas, including Harlem, the southeast Bronx and Brooklyn.

HER FRIENDS INJURED DURING RACIAL VIOLENCE — A young Negro girl yells at bystanders as several of her friends lie or sit injured on a sidewalk in the East New York slum area of Brooklyn last night. Racial tension, which had caused several disorders in the area eariler in the week, turned into violence Thursday night when an 11-year-old Negro boy was shot dead, apparently by a hidden sniper. (AP Wirephoto) 1966

CLEVELAND (AP)—A shotgun fired from a moving car wounded a Negro motorist critically early today in guerrilla rioting that has wracked Clevelands east side Negro area for five nights.

Until the shooting, police and the national guard had kept relative calm during the night in areas hit by fire - bombing, shooting and vandalism since Monday.

Shots were fired from the passenger-side window of a car carrying two white youths, police said. Six white youths were detained within minutes, but police clamped a tight lid on information.

The man shot was identified as Benoris Toney, 29, a father of five. His wife said he was on the way to pick up a friend at work on the west side.

He was the 10th victim of gunfire wounds in rioting that has taken three lives and caused heavy damage from fires and looting.

Toney was shot in a parking lot two miles outside the Hough area where most of the rioting has occurred and which police and 1,750 national guardsmen have sealed off.

POLICE CHASED CAR

Police hunting a sniper in the area, were in the parking lot when Toney was shot and quickly took after the car.

The shooting heightened fears that Cleveland is headed into a bad weekend. The violence F day night moved nearer to the same white ethnic pockets in predominantly Negro neighborhoods where racial fighting occurred in 1964.

The fifth night of disorder saw police and national guardsmen covering wider areas and being tougher about it.

More persons were searched. A 9 p.m. curfew was rigidly enforced against youngsters under 16. Small groups of three or four men were dispersed. Suspicious persons were photographed by police on the spot.

ASK GENERAL CURFEW

Mayor Ralph S. Locher received requests from two Negro councilmen for martial law, a general curfew and an increase in the national guard forces augmenting the city's 2,000 policemen.

The mayor said he expected increased lawlessness over the weekend, but had decided against martial law and a general curfew or a call for more guardsmen.

Discuss China With U.S.

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada's review of its future attitude towards China was discussed with senior American officials once again Friday, External Affairs Minister Martin said.

Other subjects in the luncheon conference with State Secretary Dean Rusk included NATO, Viet Nam and a Canadian proposal to wrap up negotiations that have continued for 1½ years on putting Canada's 12-mile fishing limit into play.

Martin spoke to reporters at the end of a three-day visit, during which he also attended an international foreign - aid conference.

Sitting in at the Rusk-Martin luncheon session was A. E. (Ed) Ritchie, who presented credentials to President Johnson Friday as new Canadian ambassador, and five senior American foreign affairs advisers, including roving Ambassador Averell Harriman and Far East authority William Bundy, both recent Ottawa callers.

Canada is nursing plans to extend recognition to China and the timing is the question, as well as the possibility China won't accept it.

The fishing-limits issue now rests on putting in the base lines from which the limit extends and Canada will await American reaction to a proposal for settlement, Martin said.

The U.S. also has been told Canada will proceed in any event to satisfy terms of the legislation.

Think Warning Against Tractor Parade Is Bluff

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's demonstrating farmers plan to resume provincewide tractor parades Monday despite police warnings that charges may be laid and vehicles impounded if traffic is blocked.

Walter Miller of Tara, Ont., Ontario Farmers' Union vice-president, said Friday police are bluffing and may have "an awful lot of tractors on their hands Monday night" if they proceed with their plans.

A. E. Ayers, police superintendent, said earlier Friday farmers cannot be permitted to hold up traffic any more.

About 1,000 farmers are expected to parade tractors in groups of 25 to 50 along main highways in the province to back demands for higher milk prices. Similar parades were held last month, but were postponed to allow completion of haying operations.

SEEKS SUPPORT

Meanwhile, OFU President John Dolmer of Corbetton, Ont., sent a telegram to Charles Huffman, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, seeking support in the demonstrations.

Mr. Dolmer said the OFU was formed in 1952 by farmers who felt the OFA, which represents farmers through local commodity groups and marketing boards, was not giving enough attention to their requests.

The OFU president said meet-

Zambia May Withdraw From Commonwealth

LUSAKA (AP) — President Kenneth Kaunda said today Zambia will start disengaging itself from the Commonwealth because the British government has not taken tougher action against Rhodesia's illegal seizure of independence.

A final decision on withdrawing from the Commonwealth will be taken in September, he told a press conference.

Kaunda said he is beginning to doubt that Prime Minister Wilson of Britain is interested in fighting Premier Ian Smith's white - minority Rhodesian regime.

Only a threat that the British Labor government would split over the issue had prevented a sellout over Rhodesia, he suggested.

Zambia will take up at the United Nations allegations that Portuguese troops made a bazooka raid on a remote Zambian village near the border of Portuguese Angola.

Portugal said it knew nothing about the incidents.

Plan New Bid to End Walkout

MONTREAL (CP)—The provincial government is ready to make another bid to end an eight-day walkout by 32,000 non-medical hospital workers.

Gaetan Charbonneau, government negotiator, says the offer will be made once talks have settled a tough promotion issue. He gave no details.

The talks are expected to continue until Monday and a union spokesman said Friday night little progress has been made.

The promotion issue effects 2,294 nuses on strike at 53 hospitals. The nurses also seek a $20-a-week wage increase on their present basic wage of $80.

The 32,500 non-medical workers have struck against 109 hospitals. They seek an increase of $8 a week on the present weekly average of $68.50. Workers at 21 hospitals struck July 15 and those at the remaining hospitals joined them July 16.

Both the nurses and other workers are represented by Confederation of National Trades Union while hospitals are represented by the Quebec Hospitals Association.

A CNTU spokesman said nurses are not promoted to administrative posts in some hospitals. Directing religious orders are given preference automatically.

Wages pose particularly difficult problems. Any increases will have to be authorized not only by the hospitals, but also by the Quebec government, which would have to raise the budget of the Hospital Insurance Services.

A spokesman for the hospitals association, said questions concerning pensions, fringe benefits and employee classification remain unsettled.

CNTU officials, meanwhile, have made it clear they would welcome early government intervention.

Union Official To Aid Pearson

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Henry J. Waisglass, director of research for the Canadian sector of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), is to join the staff of Prime Minister Pearson as an economic adviser, union sources said Friday.

Plan Detailed Examination Of Blueprint for Unification

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department's blueprint for uniting navy, army and air force into a single service is to undergo detailed examination within the department and the armed forces in the next few weeks, informants said Friday.

Described by Defence Minister Hellyer as the 'cornerstone" of unification, it first will be discussed by the defence council. This top-level policy group is composed of Mr. Hellyer, Associate Defence Minister Cadieux, the deputy defence minister, the chief of defence staff, the vice chief of defence staff and the chairman of the Defence Research Board.

So far the blueprint is being kept under wraps. It was prepared by a group of navy, army and air force officers under the chairmanship of Vice-Admiral Ralph L. Hennessy, comptroller-general at Canadian forces headquarters.

Once dealt with by the defence council and senior personnel at headquarters here, the plan is to get critiques from officers of the various commands based on their own views and discussions of unification among "representative" groups of servicemen.

This is the procedure now being followed with respect to a complete revision of the pay structure of the armed forces, informants said. The new pay structure has been promised for the fall.

There's no sign the public will be told the details until the parliamentary stage, expected this fall.

To Resist U.S. Rule of Firms Here

WASHINGTON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin stressed Friday the Canadian government is determined to resist any effort to have Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies comply with the United States' Trading with the Enemy Act.

The act prohibits the U.S. companies from supplying goods to such countries as Cuba and North Viet Nam.

Martin told a press conference any application of the act which would restrict the subsidiaries in a similar manner would conflict with Canadian sovereignty.

The comment, in answer to questions, was in respect to the refusal of three American-owned flour mills in Canada to seek business generated by shipments to Cuba.

Fulbright Says U.S. Tries to Be Asian Policeman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator J. W. Fulbright has launched a new attack on the administration's Asian policy and received a tart reply from the White House which reported President Johnson was disappointed with the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

Inconsistent, disappointing and difficulty to follow was the way presidential press secretary, Bill Moyers, described Fulbright's argument in a renewal of the Fulbright - Johnson dispute over U.S. commitments to Asia.

The latest exchange was triggered when Fulbright told the U.S. Senate Friday that statements by Johnson and Vice-President Humphrey revealed an "emerging 'Asian doctrine'" under which "the United States is taking on the role of policeman and provider for all non-Communist Asia."

"I think it extremely important that the Senate, which used to be asked for its advice and consent on major foreign commitments, consider some of the sweeping implications of the 'Asian doctrine' before it becomes an irrevocable national commitment undertaken without the consent or even the knowledge of the Senate."

As a possible measure of Johnson's irritation, the White House response was the one of longest and strongest yet made to a member of the U.S. Congress.

Moyers was asked whether the president has any plan to spell out a formal Asian doctrine.

"I never heard him mention the word," Moyers replied.

What was Johnson's reaction to Fulbright's speech?

"Well," said Moyers, "the president told me he finds it rather difficult to follow what the senator is saying in respect to the government's Asian policy."

Union Fails to Persuade Men to Lift Barricades

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—The area negotiating committee of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) was scheduled to go before a union membership meeting here today in an effort to persuade 16,000 strikers to remove barricades at International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. properties.

Union officials announced the meeting Friday and called for a secret vote Sunday on the union's policies.

The ballot was ordered after union leaders conceded they had failed to persuade members to concur in an agreement with management for the resumption of contract negotiations.

The agreement, which included a company provision that white - collar workers be allowed access to Inco's area properties, was made at Toronto during talks arranged by the provincial labor department.

The talks recessed Wednesday after three days and union negotiators, led by L. A. Soden, Local 6500 president, returned to Sudbury to convince steelworkers the agreement was in their best interests.

Both PM and Dief Have 'Gone Fishing'

OTTAWA (CP)—When the political wars allow, Lester Bowles Pearson and John George Diefenbaker have a favorite sign to hang on the door:

"Gone fishing . . ."

The Liberal prime minister and his Conservative predecessor, usually diametrically opposed on political issues, agree on the soothing effect of fishing as a restorative for the wear and tear of public life.

Both get real pleasure from the sport Both took advantages of opportunities this week to keep their hands in.

Since he became prime minister in 1963, Mr. Pearson's fishing has been restricted to Harrington Lake, at the doorstep of his summer residence in the rolling Gatineau Hills across the Ottawa River from the capital.

That's where he was wetting a line this week.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker also has found his fishing reduced by powder-keg aspects accompanying three years of minority government.

But he took advantage of the current Commons recess to get to Fairmont Hot Springs in the Kootenay hills of British Columbia. There he combined hot bath treatments for Mrs. Diefenbaker's rheumatic back with a quest for Kamloops and rainbow trout — six good ones in his first two days.

Govt. Seeks Report on Ways It Should Protect Consumers

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has asked the Economic Council of Canada to make a broad study of competition policy.

The council is being asked to advise the new registrar-general's department what it should do about protection of consumers and the whole question of combines, mergers, monopolies and restraint of trade.

The president of the Privy Council, Guy Favreau, in announcing the study said the government wants a report as swiftly as possible so enacting legislation may follow "with a minimum of delay."

He said the government wants to avoid piecemeal legislation especially in its amendments to the Combines Investigation Act.

The minister's statement also declared dead any lingering hope of early legislation based on the 1962 report of the restrictive trade practices commission.

The commission called for action against exclusive dealing and tying arrangements between oil company suppliers and service stations.

But the justice department has found that the Combines Investigation Act will be held valid by the courts only as criminal law in these matters. Government sources say civil law technique is needed against price discrimination and predatory pricing.

The statement says the commission's recommendation will be considered in Combines Act revisions that mayy follow from the economic council's report.

Believes U.S. Airmen Will Be Tried, Convicted, But Spared

Ponder Fate Of Captives

WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy Secretary Paul H. Nitze said Friday the United States is pondering "the future disposition" of 19 North Vietnamese sailors it is holding as prisoners.

Nitze did not rule out the possibility of an exchange of the sailors for captured U.S. airmen Hanoi has threatened to try as war criminals. But he added: "I do not know the status of any exchange."

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle's special envoy Jean Sainteny, who recently visited Hanoi, said Friday night he believes the American airmen captured in North Viet Nam will be tried and condemned to death, but their sentences will not be carried out.

In a radio interview Sainteny said: "In my opinion, the American airmen imprisoned in North Viet Nam will certainly be tried in the presence of a very large crowd.

"But I do not think that the resulting sentences — probably capital punishment—will be carried out."

Sainteny, a former French government minister, said earlier in a newspaper interview he warned North Viet Nam's President Ho hi Minh against having the airmen executed as war criminals.

He was in Hanoi when captured U.S. airmen were paraded through the streets.

Sainteny told his radio interviewer that while the North Vietnamese government might not be hostile to a negotiated solution of the Viet Nam war, it would never give in to an ultimatum.

"They do not want a Munich," he said. "The people have decided to go on to the end. The resistance will last as long as is necessary."

Sainteny, French delegate-general to North Viet Nam from 1954 to 1958 and a minister in de Gaulle's government until a cabinet shuffle in January, said he found Ho at 76 still enjoyed his full vigor and finesse.

Jeep Breaks From Car And Badly Damages Truck

A bizarre accident on Highway 37, five miles south of Tweed, Friday morning resulted in some $1500 damage to several vehicles.

The incident occurred when a jeep being towed by a 1966 model northbound car driven by Floyd A. Cavanallo of Ohio came loose, swerved across the highway, and struck a south bound tandem truck in the rear.

The truck, which was carrying a load of pulpwood at the time, was being driven by Benny Alfred Rosien, of Denbigh.

After the jeep had broken loose, the Cavanallo car also went out of control, striking the truck's front end. The mishap occurred on a long, bending incline known as Martin's Hill.

An estimated $500 in damages to the Cavanallo vehicle and some $1000 damage to the truck resulted from the accident. The jeep was a total wreck.

No injuries were incurred in the accident which is being investigated by the Madoc detachment of the O.P.P.

Potato Growers Hold Meeting At Maynooth

A Field Day was held by the North Hastings Potato Growers' Association at the farm of Andrew Eilenberger, Maynooth. There were about fifty people in attendance, including the local 4-H potato club.

Mr. C. E. B. Fuller of the Canadian Department of Agriculture gave a short talk on plant diseases. He conducted the group through the various potato fields and demonstrated diseases.

The second speaker was Father Jeans of Madonna House, Combermere. He spoke on how ARDA had helped in the maple syrup industry for the area. He reported the group had made a start on the potato co-operative at Palmer Rapids and he suggested that the North Hastings Growers should meet with this new group to consider ways and means of uniting in common effort. As a result the North Hastings Growers are planning a meeting with the interim executive of the proposed co-operative to discuss the whole proposal. This meeting will be held in the Community Hall, Maynooth, at an early date. At the same time tentative plans were made for the people from both groups to attend the Ontario Potato Field Day at Alliston on August 9th.

EMPLOYMENT NEWS

By J. R. STAVELEY
Employer Relations Officer

The local labor demand decreased during the past week, as represented by the employment vacancies listed at the National Employment Service Office.

No doubt the fact, that several of the community's industrial plants are currently on a progressive or total production shut-down during their annual holiday period, has contributed to this trend.

Moreover the scarcity of moisture has decreased labor requirements from the local agricultural field and its allied canning industry.

There was also noticeable decline in the local labor demand from both small and large construction firms.

As is normal at this season of the year, the requirements for the female worker for the services field continued to be quite strong.

It is appropriate at this time of the summer to recommend to those young High School Graduates seeking permanent employment, that they seriously consider the many excellent career opportunities available to them through the apprenticeship system, and as manager-trainees in the retail, consumer credit and banking fileds, to mention only a few. At the present time, there is a constant demand for the skilled and professional worker.

The following job opportunities represent only a few of those now available at the local National Employment Service Office:

In the female division locally, an excellent position is available in the transportation field as a dictaphone - typist. The requirements call for a Grade 12 education and a typing speed of 60 words per minute. For future promotional opportunities, the successful applicant must also possess a short hand speed of 110 words per minute. Still required by a retail departmental store is someone for window display work. Although experience is preferred, consideration will be given to an applicant possessing an artistic flair and an interest in this type of work. A ladies' wear store is seeking an experienced sales woman for regular work. Other attractive employment opportunities throughout Ontario call for an experienced IBM operator, a typist pool supervisor and a qualified secretary for a plant production manager.

In the male division, locally, there are openings for licensed class "A" automobile repair mechanics. A large retail departmental store requires a capable janitor for regular work. Also required is an experienced real estate salesman. Qualified machinists are in short supply and the industrial plants are always interested in interviewing skilled tradesmen. There is a requirement for qualified cooks for hotel and restaurant work.

For those young people possessing either a Grade 12 or 13 education, there are numerous career openings in the banking, retail and consumer credit organizations. For those persons willing to move to other areas in Canada, there are positions available in a wide range of occupations.

Both workers seeking employment and employers seeking workers can contact the NES office, 324 Church Street, Belleville, Ont., or phone 962-8681.

NEAR COMPLETION — A giant step in the completion of the Roblin's Mill located in Metro Toronto's Black Creek Pioneer Village is the installation of an overshot water wheel which will power the mill equipment. The five-ton wheel, measuring 18 feet in diameter, and built of oak, was moved into place by modern crane last week. The wheel was built by village staff in four months. The mill, which will be completed in time for the 1967 opening of the Village next May, was owned by the ancestors of Manitoba's Premier Duff Roblin, and originally stood for 120 years at Ameliasburg. It was moved some years ago.

U.S. Readies Gemini II

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — While the Gemini 10 astronauts relived their dramatic moments in space for the experts today, launch teams here were busily preparing for the next Gemini adventure—No. 11, scheduled Sept. 9.

The Gemini 10 pilots, navy Cmdr. John W. Young and air force Maj. Michael Collins, returned here Friday after an overnight stay aboard the helicopter carrier Guadalcanal, which retrieved them from the sea after a near-perfect landing climaxed their three - day journey.

The launch crews of the Titan II-Gemini rocket went right back to work and erected another Titan II for Gemini 11 on a launch stand. The spacecraft, Atlas and Agena are being checked out in hangers here.

Space walker Collins said: "We were very happy with the mission, but feel there is much more to be done up there."

Just what can be done is being discussed in 10 days of extensive debriefing sessions which started soon after the astronauts' return here.

They began talking with technical specialists and into tape recorders about the over-all aspects of the flight—the double rendezvous, Collins' two shortened space excursions, the altitude record of 476 miles, the hookup with an Agena target vehicle and use of its engine for manoeuvring, and the fuel shortage that curtailed some activities.

Young and Collins will fly to the manned spacecraft centre in Houston, Tex., late Sunday or Monday to continue more detailed discussions and for a reunion with their families.

Gemini 11 will seek to exploit knowledge gained by Young, Collins and the earlier Gemini pilots.

The spacecraft will have an all-navy crew — Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., veteran of last year's Gemini 5 flight, and Lt.-Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr.

Like Gemini 10, it will be a three-day mission and calls for a linkup with an Agena less than an hour after launching. The astronauts may use the Agena power plant to zip as high as 850 miles into space, and Gordon plans at least one space walk.

After that, one more Gemini flight will remain.

Obituary

JOHN EARL MORGAN

John Earl Morgan of Foxboro, who had been a resident of Orangeville for the past two years, died yesterday at the Dufferin County Hospital, Orangeville. Ill for seven weeks, he was in his 67th year.

Born in Crookston, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Royal Morgan. He was predeceased by his wife, Annie Elizabeth Crawford.

He is survived by a step-son Earl Way of Orangeville; one grandson, Keith; a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Reynolds of Toronto, and a brother, Russell of Roslin. He was a truck operator at Foxboro for a number of years and was an adherent of Foxboro United Church.

The funeral will be held Monday, July 25 at 2 p.m. from the Grant Funeral Home. Rev. C. C. Gilbert will officiate. Interment in Foxboro cemetery.

Abuse of Son Brings Jail

TORONTO (CP) — Ronald Bernhardt, 21, Friday was sentenced to a year in jail for punching his two-year-old son in the stomach, striking him with a rubber hose and holding his head under water in a bathtub.

"This is a vicious display of animal temper," Magistrate James Butler said.

Bernhardt, who is on welfare, said he became enraged when the child spilled his breakfast food and there wasn't any more.

Weed Cutter Not Needed in Harbor Here

A Belleville Harbor Commission spokesman said this morning that there is no need for obtaining the services of weed cutting equipment in the bay here, this year. It has been reported earlier that the Department of Transport had arranged for Aquatic Controls (Canada) Ltd. to carry out weed cutting here after the harvester had finished up in the Bay of Quinte at Trenton.

D.O.T. officials and members of the local Harbor Commission recently surveyed the weed situation in Belleville waters and found the services of the harvester would not be needed.

Produce Finds Ready Sale At Market Here

A varied selection of produce was offered for sale this morning at Belleville market. Throngs of city dwellers turned out early to purchase the fresh vegetables and fruit displayed by district growers. There were few slow movers among the items for sale.

Six-quart baskets of new potatoes brought $1 each while tomatoes sold well at 25 cents per pint and 50 cents per quart. Beets were priced at two bunches for 25 cents; parsley, 10 cents per bunch; radishes and green onions, 10 cents per bunch or three for 25 cents, and carrots, two bunches for 25 cents.

Cherries were priced at $1.75 per six-quart basket and 40 cents per quart. Raspberries brought 75 cents a quart and spy apples 75 cents per six-quart basket. A grower observed that early summer apples should be appearing on the market in about four weeks. He explained that if the dry weather continues, the appearance of these apples may be hastened but this could mean a comparatively small apple would result.

Beans sold for 35 cents per quart; cabbages, two for 25 cents and cucumbers, 16 cents each or two for 25 cents. Eggs were selling at 60 cents per dozen for large size and 65 cents for extra large.

Brigade Needs More Funds

TRENTON — The Trenton brigade of the St. John Ambulance Corps still needs funds with which to carry out its extensive first aid training programs, R. E. Leavitt, DC, superintendent of the local division said yesterday, in announcing that $1,000 had been collected during a recent door-to-door and mailing canvass.

This summer, St. John personnel have held 13 sessions where mouth-to-mouth and revised Sylvester methods of artificial respiration were taught to 274 persons. The brigade will arrange training sessions for groups of 10 or more persons in this area.

416 Admitted To Hospital During June

TRENTON — During June, 416 adults and children were admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital, acording to a report released on Friday by hospital administrator Miss Hazel Naudett.

There were 44 births and 22 deaths and 176 operations were performed.

A total of 1,767 out patients were treated and 720 emergencies handled by the staff.

Close to 1,500 physiotheraphy treatments were given and in the laboratory, 13,048 tests were done, with 481 tests being sent out to other hospital labs. Electrocardiograph tests numbered 536 and 266 basal metabolism tests were done.

The average daily population for adults and children was 110.7 and in the nursery 8.9.

Of the 416 admissions, 268 were from the County of Hastings and 29 from Prince Edward County.

Church Ten-day Camp Meeting Well Attended

NAPANEE — The ten - day camp meeting of the Free Methodist Church of the district came to a close last Sunday evening The Light and Life Camp, situated near Glenvale on Highway No. 38, has 60 motel units, and several privately owned cottages and practically all were filled this year. The cottages have cooking facilities, with well water piped in, but there is a common dining room for those families in the motel units. The cement block tabernacle wil seat approximately 700, and is often filled for the evening services.

There are similar camps, with permanent buildings, at Stittsville for the Ottawa district, and at Orland, near Brighton, for the Belleville - Picton district.

Rev. A. C. Pounds of Boyton, Mich., was the evangelist this year, conducting a morning Bible Class for adults, and evening service. The song leader was the Rev. Leon Bobee of Flint, Mich., with Mrs. Bobee as soloist and choir leader.

About 100 children were there with their parents, and there were organized activities for them all day: Bible stories, crafts, and sports, beginning at 9:00 a.m. and continuing until bedtime.

The special speaker for the closing Sunday, Missionary Day, was Rev. Walter Groesbeck, former assistant to the general missionary secretary at Winona Lake. Sunday afternoon he related his experience as a missionary to a primitive tribe in the Philippines, which changed from savage outlaws to normal tribesmen when the Gospel was taken to them

As a rule, the Napanee Church is closed while camp meeting is on, but Rev. Gordon Hamond felt that there should be morning service and Sunday School for the sake of those who could not attend the camp meeting. Congregations were smaller than usual, but he feels that it was a useful change. Evening services were withdrawn.

REFINISHING FURNITURE

NAPANEE — The Lennox and Addington Historical Society is sponsoring a novel event at the historic Allan Macpherson house next Saturday, when people may come to witness an expert at work refinishing old furniture.

Ogle Workman will be on hand to show just how it is done. Mr. Workman was responsible for much of the work that was done in restoring the furniture now in the buildings in Upper Canada Village.

Now that attics are being searched for grandmother's old tables and chairs, this is a good opportunity for her grandchildren to find out how they can change them to attractive pieces of furniture.

POLICE SURVEY

In some quarters there is a lot of speculation about the survey which has so far taken place of the Napanee Police Department. This survey was requested by the Town Council in an effort to get expert advice on how to improve the condition of the department, and not because of any dissatisfaction. They simply requested the Ontario Police Commission to study the situation and tell them what they thought of it and suggest improvements.

The survey is not yet completed as two of the members of the force have not yet been interviewed.

OFFICIAL HOSPITAL OPENING

The Lennox and Addington County General Hospital has been receiving patients since March 22, but officially, it is not yet opened. Date for that official opening has been set for September 10. No details are yet available.

IN MEMORIAM

WALLACE — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Gene, who passed away July 24, 1964.
What we would give if we could say,
Hello, in the same old way,
To hear your voice, see your smile,
To sit with you and chat awhile,
So you who have a mother,
Cherish her with care,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Till you see her vacant chair.
—Ever remembered by daughters Ramona, Violet, sons-in-law Howard, Robert and grandchildren, Bonnie, Billy, Cherie, Stephen Tommy.

NICKLE — In ever loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Grace, who passed away July 24th, 1964.
When days are dark and friends are few,
Dear mother, how we often think of you,
Friends are friends if they are true,
We lost our best friend when we lost you.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Mary, son-in-law Bill and grandchildren.

REID — In fond and loving memory of a beloved son, William Leonard Anson Reid, who passed away July 24, 1965.
When memories bring heartache,
And lonely teardrops come,
Grant, we pray, the faith to say,
"Dear Lord, Thy will be done."
Always in our thoughts.
—Lovingly remembered by Mother and Dad.

REID — In loving memory of an only brother, William Leonard Anson Reid, who died July 24, 1965.
Along the road to yesterday,
Are days of joy and pain,
And each memory is a milestone,
That leads me back again,
And always in my thinking,
I seem to have a way,
Of wandering back to meet him,
On the road to yesterday.
—Sister Marion, Jack and Family.

MALLOY — In loving memory of my dear daughter Rosemarie Malloy, who passed away July 23, 1957.
What would I not give to clasp her hand,
Her dear sweet face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
That meant so much to me.
—Never forgotten by mother.

REID — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Acile A. Reid who passed away July 23, 1943.
Time goes on with many changes,
Joys and sorrows, smiles and tears,
But your memory we will cherish,
With the passing of the years.
—Ever remembered by wife Estella sons Morley and Malcolm, daughters Pearl and Ruth.

KETCHESON — In loving memory of my dear aunt, Sylvia, who passed away July 24, 1964.
Just a prayer from one who loved you,
Just a memory fond and true,
In my heart you live forever,
Because I thought the world of you.
—Ever remembered by her niece Audrey.

REID — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Leonard who passed away July 24, 1965.
He didn't have time to say farewell,
Nor was to say goodbye,
He was gone before we knew,
And only God knows why.
Please God forgive a silent tear,
A secret wish that he were here,
For in God's garden now at rest,
Peacefully sleeping lies one of the best.

Charges Homes for Unwed Potter About Recklessly With Young Girls' Lives

TORONTO (CP)—An article in the current issue of the United Church Observer criticizes homes for unwed mothers operated by churches and amateur social workers who "potter about recklessly with young girls' lives."

The article was written by Michele Landsberg, wife of Stephen Lewis, New Democratic Party member for the Ontario legislature for Scarborough West.

It says church-operated maternity homes, and particularly United Church of Canada homes, do not provide enough professional help for the girls. The United Church has homes in Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The writer criticizes the homes for their authoritarian rather than challenging environments, their catering to emotional weaknesses and their rejection of even minimal community social services.

The article quotes Mrs. L. H. Doering, director of the United Church home in Toronto, as saying:

"Would I hire a social worker if I had the money? Well, I don't know that I would. Sometimes they cause a lot of trouble; they upset the girls when they come to visit."

George Ritcher, an OFU organizer, said in London police told him Friday that tractors holding up traffic on Highway 22 will be impounded and charges of careless driving will be placed.

Mr. Miller said police have no business calling on Mr. Ritcher.

"He is an OFU staff member, not an executive member. Haven't they the guts to call on us."

The farmers seek a basic price of $4 a hundredweight for their milk. Processors now pay them $3.25 a hundredweight and the federal government adds a 75-cent subsidy. However, the farmers say transportation costs amount to 25 cents a hundredweight.

GUARD ORDERED

TORONTO (CP)—A new bylaw forcing owners of derelict buildings to post a 24-hour guard on them to keep out unwary children, arsonists and vagrants comes into effect this weekend. Controller Margaret Campbell said she expects the bylaw will result in many buildings being torn down and will ease the threat of fires.

U.S. and Russia Agree to Ban On Space War

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union have agreed in principle to ban nuclear weapons and all human military activity from outer space, the planets and the stars.

The agreement was reached in the United Nations legal space conference seeking to define ground rules for man's use and exploration of space, the moon "and other celestial bodies."

The provisions were adopted by the 28-country conference Friday.

The agreement is the third in the course of the detailed article-by-article discussions of two drafts. Earlier, the conference adopted provisions that no country should have the right to appropriate any part of space and celestial bodies and that all human activities there should be governed by international law and the UN charter.

Rescue Pair Adrift for Day

SIMCOE (CP)—Two Simcoe men were rescued Friday after spending 24 hours in a 14-foot boat, adrift on Lake Erie 10 miles southeast of here.

William Preston, 21, and Larry Tisdale, 20, were taken in tow off Nanticoke, just east of Port Dover, by two men searching in another boat.

Preston said the outboard motor on their boat quit and couldn't be started again.

Will Attempt To Separate Joined Twins

Dr. Harry Ebbs, senior staff physician at the hospital, said Friday Sherr Ann and Crystal Ann have an equal chance of surviving the operation, tentatively planned for mid-September.

The twins were born in Guelph seven weeks ago, joined from the chest to the navel. Doctors say their livers are stuck together, their hearts beat in one sac, and their rib cages and abdominal walls are not complete.

"I don't think there is much chance of one child dying," Dr. Ebbs said. "We look forward to both of them living. The chances are high."

He said they weighed 13 pounds, seven ounces.

A surgical team under Dr. James Simpson has been selected to perform the two-to-three-hour operation. They hope to be able to wait until the twins are at optimum strength.

But to be ready in the case of an emergency, such as infection or a sudden weakening in the babies' condition, two emergency teams are on call at all times. Each includes two surgeons, two cardiologists, two operating room head nurses and two of all supporting personnel-doctors.

Playground Report

By GEORGE CAMPBELL
Supervisor of Playgrounds

Another successful week was had by the twenty city playgrounds. The best playground award was won by the O.S.D. playground under the leadership of Peggy Ackerman.

Plans are now in full swing for the city-wide Indian Day to be held at East Hill playground on Wednesday, July 27. All of the playgrounds will meet at East Hill at 1 o'clock. All parents and interested persons are invited to attend this special event.

On Wednesday of the past week the first of the playground track and field meets was held at the Belleville Fairgrounds. This proved to be very successful with many of the children achieving the set standards. The following are the results of this meet as well as the special events of this week.

FIELD MEET

At the track and field meet, the following people achieved standards in various events:

O.S.D. — Bernard Howe, Dick Howe, Bill Howe, Kevan Parry, Rodney Uptown, Mike Lefebvre, Joey Edwards and Keith Parry.

East Hill — Paul Hall, Dave Theobald, Jim Potts, Brian Drumm, Richard Hueson, Mike Scarlett, Chuck Powell and Larry Shannon.

WEST HILL

On Monday, West Hill Playground played Wellington Crescent in a baseball game at West Hill, where Linda Powell is leader. The score after 4 innings was 56-1 in favor of West Hill. The power hittres for West Hill were David Royal and Robert O'Coin each with 5 home runs. Other home run hitters were: Ed Theobald (3), Gary McMurray (3), Neil Gogen (3), Fred Theobald (3), Dan Chatterly (2), George Howe and Brian Rump (1).

FIREHALL

On Thursday, July 14th, a Pet Show was held at the Firehall Playground, leader Jane Murdoch. There were 22 animals and about 60 children in attendance. Winners were: Dogs, Richard Lumes, Bobby Martin, Bobby Yarwood, Catherine Gallivan, Celeste Barriage, Donald Turner, Cathy Kleinteuber; Cats, Joy Rashotte, Ralph Templeton; Stuffed animals, Billy Sills, Mindy Bowers, Celeste Barriage, Michael Perkins, Diane Helm, Randy White, Nancy Sills, Heather White, Jo-anne Fournier; other winners Gary Skiplee, Susanne Sills, Rosemary Barriage.

QUEEN VICTORIA

On Friday at Queen Victoria Playground, where Elaine Stickle is leader, a pet show was held. The judges' panel was made up of Lyn Hunch, David O'Neil and Patty Cole. Winners were: Scot MacDonald, David O'Neil, Robby Cole, Janice Bell, David Daley, Tim Culhane, Lisa and Robbie Ross, Debbie Hannah, Robbie Cole and Sheri Lynn Bellis.

PRINCE OF WALES

On Friday, Prince of Wales Playground had its field day under the leadership of Linda Nash. Approximately 50 children participated. Winners were: popsicle race — Steven Redner, 13; running race — age 3 - 4, Peter Harris; 5 - 6, Dwight Shaw; 11 - 14, Steven Redner; backward race — 3 - 4, Jerry Baker; 5 - 6, Dwight Shaw; 7 - 10, Dale Johnson; 11 - 14, Steven Redner; bear race — 3 - 4, Tommy Davis; 5 - 6, Andy Shaw; 7 - 10, Dale Johnson; 11 - 14, Paul Ackerman; hopping race — 6 - 10, Dale Johnson.

EAST HILL PLAYGROUNDS

On the East Hill Playgrounds it was Pirate Week, under leaders Barbara Lajoie and Paula Druce. Each day during crafts, the children made pirate hats, eye patches, cardboard swords, or pirate jewellery in keeping with the theme. The highlight of the week came Thursday when the children dressed up as pirates and paraded around the playground. Prizes were given to Bruce and Jeffrey Pearce, the two best pirates. A scavenger hunt in which most of the children participated followed the parade. On Tuesday, a very successful popcorn and freshie sale was held. The profits from this sale will go back to the playground, perhaps to help finance a wiener roast on the closing day of playgrounds at the end of August. Earlier in the week a sandbuilding contest was held. Mrs. Geraldine Collins judged the entries. The winning team consisted of Julie DiGenova, Penny Webster, Debra Barclay, Dyanne Bertrim, and Maryanne McAllister. The second place team in this contest was made up of Bruce Callaghan, Doug Shaw, Robert Chase, Peter Farrell, and Wayne Lynch.

STANLEY PARKETTE

Last week at Stanley Park, under leader Lynne Neill, the children participated in various competitions. Among these were a week long checker tournament and a ringer tournament.

The checker playdowns commenced on Monday, and play continued until Friday. All contestants played enthusiastically and the winner at the end of the week was Jan Fraser. Runner-up was Ronald Ludolph and in third spot was Billy Keith. On Friday all the eager bowlers in the playground participated in a Tin-Can Bowling Match. The top scorer in this event was Dale Jones with Colleen Royle and Kevin Fraser tied for second place. As an introduction to the game, a ringer tournament was held on July 14th. Robert Smith was the winner with a score of 95. Close behind him were June McKenzie with 85 and Tom Kerr with 80.

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men armed with rifles Friday escaped with an estimated $78,000 from the Crane Co. Canada Ltd. in west end Montreal. No shots were fired as the men intercepted three Brinks employets who were delivering the company payroll.

Yesterday just south of Frankford on Highway 33, 25-year-old LAC Brian Wesley Mitchell of Trenton was seriously injured. His motorcycle (foreground) left the road and was damaged.

Lack Trained Personnel To Aid Deaf

TORONTO (CP) — A United States government expert said Friday that lack of trained personnel is the biggest handicap facing rehabilitation programs for the deaf in Canada and the U.S.

Dr. Boyce Williams of the U.S. department of health, education and welfare said "effective vocational rehabilitation programs for the deaf cannot be mounted in the face of lack of qualified psychologists, social workers, teachers and counsellors."

The manpower crisis has jeopardized "all diagnostic adjustment, evaluative and special training goals," he told the biennial convention of the Ontario Association of the Deaf.

Counsellors are only able to care for the less severely handicapped, neglecting the more critical because of the "vacuum of people and places to do the job as it must be done."

He said the U.S. government is meeting the problem by setting up personnel training courses in eight American universities with five more expected within the next three years.

LEAVES A MILLION

Motorcyclist Severely Hurt When He Runs Off Road

FRANKFORD — A 25-year-old Trenton - based airman is in serious condition in the Kingston Tri - Services Hospital with injuries received in a motorcycle accident early yesterday afternoon. The mishap occurred when the motorcycle left the road on a sharp turn on Highway 33 just south of here.

LAC Brian Wesley Mitchell was attended at the scene of the accident by Dr. Thomas Wong of Frankford and was taken to hospital by Armed Forces ambulance.

Ellwell Phinney, a Frankford school teacher, said that he had been following the airman southbound on his own motorcycle, when LAC Mitchell rounded the bend at No. 5 Powerhouse he took the dirt shoulder of the road in order to make the corner. Apparently he lost control of his machine, left the road and continued some 200 feet and then ran into a five foot culvert. The rider was thrown into the air. A protective helmet was found about 30 feet from the bike.

George Moffat, a motorist northbound at the time of the accident, said that it was an hour before the ambulance arrived. Staff Sergeant Gall of the Belleville O.P.P. detachment was on the scene and notified the detachment by radio. However, the ambulance did not arrive until 45 minutes later.

Loss to the Services

The resignations and dismissals of high-ranking officers as a result of the dispute over integration means the premature loss to the Services of experienced military men.

All are men of relative youthfulness, in the prime of life, and the transition they must make to civilian life could be a difficult one. Admiral William Landymore, the dismissed commander of Maritime Command, may be luckier than some. He has a farm near Halifax and he says he plans to return there and pitch hay.

Asked if he was thinking of entering politics, Admiral Landymore replied: "It must be obvious to you from all the statements I've made that I would not be a very successful politician."

Well, who knows? The admiral certainly stepped out of line by publicly criticizing Government policy. By doing so he ignored military regulations and left himself open to court-martial. However no disciplinary action has been taken against him beyond being called before Defence Minister Hellyer, and he is retiring on 70 per cent of his present $20,000 salary.

Explaining why he had resorted to public criticism of integration, Admiral Landymore said that while he had ignored regulations he had to respect the views of his officers and men. "When circumstances require extraordinary action, you take that acton."

Thus, like any astute leader, or politician, Admiral Landymore acted as he thought best in the interests of the men under his command and of the Services as a whole. As events have turned out, relations between the officer ranks and the defence department seem reasonably cordial, and a better understanding has been achieved.

Admiral Landymore had blamed a lack of communication between defence headquarters and the operational commands for his dispute with Mr. Hellyer. Since then, the Defence Department has promised servicemen it will listen to their views before unifying the three services. The undertaking, given in a message to the commanders of the six military commands in Canada by Mr. Hellyer and General J. V. Allard, Chief of the Defence Staff, is believed to go most of the way toward meeting the objections raised by Admiral Landymore and other officers.

Despite the shakeup in Maritime Command, involving the loss through retirement or dismissal of several high-ranking officers, and their replacement, Mr. Hellyer has indicated there are many promising men in the services capable of filling these and other appointments.

This, in itself, is a tribute to the calibre of men serving in Canada's defence forces, and to their training. However, the forces, not to mention the country at large, can ill-afford the loss of leadership that this dispute involves, and we can only hope the problems that have arisen in Maritime Command over integration are now largely solved.

Polaris Launching

The launch of the 41st and last U.S. Polaris ballistic missile submarine is a reminder of the awesome power which the Americans could unleash in naval power alone in the event of a nuclear conflict.

The submarine, named the Will Rogers after the famous American humorist, is one more in the arsenal of underwater strike vessels capable of hitting almost any region on earth.

The paradox of such power is the fact that its use may never be necessary. The Russians have a number of similar vessels in operation, but not in such numbers or quality to pose much of a threat to this continent. Thus, the fleet of 41 Polaris submarines would make any aggressor pause before unleashing a world conflict. And this, quite apart from the Americans' combat strength in the air and in land-based missiles.

As former Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain aptly phrased it some years ago: "War (meaning nuclear war), happily, has become too dangerous."

Controlling the Kids

Just as there is a fine distinction between love and hate, the so-called battered-child syndrome is not a far cry from the child who merely receives a spanking or bawling out.

True, a spanking and strong words are often necessary to achieving that rare feature of modern society — a disciplined upbringing. On the other hand, it is disturbing to observe young mothers displaying obvious impatience with their youngsters by shouting at them.

Parents can be firm with their children without having to bawl them out — and in public at that, as occasionally happens.

Two little boys were playing happily in the back of a stationwagon parked on Front Street the other day. The younger one was "beating up" his brother, but in harmless fashion. Both were enjoying themselves, until Mom turned around from the front seat, grabbed the small one and plunked him down on the back seat.

Certainly children should behave themselves, particularly in this case as Dad was pulling away from the curb and from that point on would want no distractions. But Mom's action had more than a hint of impatience.

Ottawa Offbeat

Bubble of Popularity Bursts for Joe Greene

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Isn't it strange how so many people can't stand personal prosperity of popularity?

Politicians are little different than anybody else.

Take Agriculture Minister John James (Joking Joe) Greene, orn a city slicker (in Toronto) but by self-proclamation just an ngagingly ingenuous barefoot-boy from up "The Ottawa Valley ay," as he likes to phrase it country-style.

From Arnprior, in fact, which matter how closely you examine it is scarcely the four rural corners that Joe makes it sound, but rather a clean, sharp est-pocket-size industrial city.

To hear Joe carry on, you'd hink that back in "The 'Prior" at his one-stenographer law office, he met his clients sitting philosophizing on a cracker-barrel.

But as Joe might put it, when playing his favorite Parliamentary role of the Young Abe Lincoln, it ain't necessarily so.

Knew that Joe was a real sharpie who loved playing his country lawyer part. They gave him an appreciative band for the sheer artistry of his Abe Lincoln bit — the downcast head, the lock of hair looping carelessly over the young if brooding brow, the slow, tired drawl

GREAT GOODWILL

And they gave him G for Guts when he took his initially sensationally successful crack at being the first Agriculture Minister from east of the Lakehead in some 50 years or more.

They all liked Joe..

It was easy.

For you've got to work real hard at not liking him.

He had more genuinely warm goodwill going for him among the Opposition MPs than any other Cabinet Minister for years.

Which is pretty good going even for such an enormously likable guy, for those Prairie Tories are usually man-eaters when it comes to Liberal Agriculture Ministers.

Why even Ol' Alvin Hamilton, the original swinger of big deals on the world wheat market, thought Joe was a great kid.

And then boom.

Joe started smart-cracking.

Everybody was so surprised.

Sorry, too.

What had got into good ol' Joe they asked?

The dairy industry was going sour on him, that's what was making him mean as a stirred-up hornet.

It kept bugging him about that promise of his of $4.00 milk.

Bugging him, that is, through the MPs from the Ontario and Quebec dairy country and every other place where the farmer counts on picking up a little milk money.

It went something like this. . .

Of course he intended keeping his $4.00 promise,, didn't he, they enquire earnestly?

JOLTING JOEY

Just read my recent press release, he tells them with sweet sarcasm, why even the good Liberal (ha ha) Ottawa Journal is commending us.,

But what about that economic report that said it was the Federal Government's responsibility to make good on the promise, they persist, not unkindly?

Wounded, a Tory MP suggests that his real political friends are the farmers, the dairy farmers, and he'd be obliged if Joe would come through with the $4.00 for them.

More in sorrow than in anger the Opposition MPs seemed in a mind to give up on Joe, but took one more try.

Hadn't Joe been getting representations from the farmers about that $4.00 milk that so far was turning out to be something between $3.50 nd $3.75?

Oh that, says Joe, like who cares. Why yes, it so happens he has. But don't look at him. It's not his fault even if it was his promise. It's those danged provincial governments, the dairy farm producers' associations and truckers and a lot of other people, but not him, and that's for sure.

So now Joe isn't quite the great guy the Opposition MPs thought he was, and when the Commons meets again next Fall, they'll be in a mood maybe to give him the business. Then perhaps he'll know, too late, the great political virtues of the Tightly Buttoned Lip.

Montreal's Hospitals

Montreal Gazette

If Montreal's hospitals are able to cope with the present emergency, this is due in large part to the service of volunteer workers.

Volunteers are washing floors, making beds, doing laundry, running elevators, delivering meals; doing the thousands of small jobs that make it possible for these large institutions to remain going concerns.

Some volunteers have offered their service through groups to which they belong; others have come in as individuals, and said they would do anything they were asked. Some of them are teenagers, showing the very right spirit of idealism which Cassandras are forever saying young people lack; others are elderly, showing an ability and endurance that would surprise many management experts.

Also deserving to rank as volunteers are the staff members who are not on strike. They are not only doing their normal jobs, but are also carrying much of the burden that other employees would usually bear.

If it were not for these people, and the work they are willing to do, the situation in Montreal's hospitals would be grim. It is possible that essential services would be denied patients who could not do without them.

There will, of course, be many who regard these volunteers as strike breakers. But a strike against hospitals cannot be classed as a normal strike. And whatever the merits of both sides in the dispute, neither side is the side that really counts. It is the patients who should come first, and it is for the patients that the volunteers are working.

Dutch Teens Rock the Boat

London Economist

Through the jungle of most European and American cities stalks the teen-ager — angry, jeaned and combustible. Only a spark is required — a political demonstration or the vision of some much-loved pop singer — and the explosion follows which has the oldies shaking their heads and the shopkeepers mending their windows. The latest place to suffer is Amsterdam, which has produced some individual variations on the pattern set by rockers and beats and halbstarken and blousons noirs.

The spark in this case was a building strike. Demonstrations in favor of the strike were encouraged by a group of young semi-anarchists calling themselves "provocateurs" (provos for short), whose political program consists of "five white plans" — white police, white bicycles, white houses, white chimneys and white wives.

They are not real anarchists (and are very Dutch) because although they reject the usefulness of the state they do accept the need for "organization". After a trial run at the marriage of Princess Beatrix, the provos succeeded in communicating their own indignation over police behavior during the building strike to the mass of teen-agers who then took over proceedings for three days and nights of rioting from June 14 to June 17.

The final bill came out at one dead, 100 injured and 50 arrested. Evidently the provos were detonators for the repressions of their contemporaries. While they deny that they themselves are violent the evidence is that they touched off violence in others.

This kind of thing seems to be endemic in modern industrial society, not the least of whose defects is the boredom its gifts of money and leisure generate in the young. (The money also gives them the means of making themselves felt.) The provos have a respectable ancestry, ranging from Russian narodniks to Spanish anarchists. But their power of mobilizing crowds of young people suggests that the young are very much in need of something better to do. What do you do when your stomach is full and God is dead?

Crystal Ball

The War Cry

In India, where a future husband and wife often do not see each other before marriage, a suitable horoscope — together with riches and social standing — may be a decisive factor in arranging a marriage. It will also almost certainly determine the exact date and time of their wedding.

To Your Good Health

Don't Use Gasoline For Washing Machines

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

A bit ago I replied to a letter from a mother whose son evidently had gotten lead poisoning from using ethyl gasoline ("ethyl" meaning tetra-ethyl-lead) to wash parts of the motor he was repairing.

I suggested using white gasoline (without lead) or kerosene for the washing.

Came a letter from G. C. C., an executive of a large petroleum company, who questioned even the use of white gasoline. Yes, the white gasoline avoids the lead peril. But, said he, there is also the risk of fire.

Any flame, or even a static electricity spark, can explode gasoline fumes. Here is his suggestion:

"Kerosene would be suitable or preferably detergents or proper solvents approved by the Board of Fire Underwriters."

If a man whose business is selling petroleum products can urge, "detergents or proper solvents" instead of gasoline for such use, in the interests of general safety, I'm sure I can admit that I was near-sighted in thinking only of the lead danger and not warning of the fire hazard.

Dear Dr. Molner: Last year my boy friend was knocked out in a football game. He started getting headaches and the doctor told him to take aspirin.

The headaches stopped but now they have started up again and one was so bad he couldn't see 20 feet ahead. He gets weak and dizzy. They leave about 10 minutes later.

He won't tell his folks about this and made me promise not to reveal it. Can anything be done? — Miss L. L.

The sequence of headaches and dizzy spells after such an injury can mean that there has been a brain injury. Often it is not evident at first — you point out that in the beginning aspirin was adequate — but the damage becomes manifest with time.

Your boy friend should tell his parents and he should be examined by a neurologist who may need to make special tests (electro-encephalogram or "brain wave" recordings, skull X-rays, etc.) after which medication for effective relief can be accurately prescribed.

Persuade your young man to tell his parents about his condition. And tell him, for me, that he has a thoughtful and intelligent girl friend who takes his welfare to heart.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you give me some information on hypospadias? My doctor tells me nothing except that my baby son should be taken to the hospital for this. — Mrs. J. K. P.

I don't know why you should have difficulty in learning about the condition from your doctor unless — and this is my guess — he felt embarrassed or thought you might be. Yet there is no good reason for embarrassment.

Hypospadias means that the urethra (the tube from the bladder, for the discharge of urine) does not run, as it should, through the centre of the penis. Instead the outlet is on the underside of the organ.

It can be corrected surgically, and you should not be alarmed. A urologist can advise you, indeed, whether in this specific case such correction is needed. From what your doctor told you, I would assume that such correction is advisable.

The Lachine Canal, Canada's first step towards opening up the Great Lakes for salt-water ships, was completed 141 years ago today — in 1825 — after four years of work. The canal bypasses rapids immediately upstream from Montreal on the St. Lawrence River, and had first been planned in 1700 by French settlers. A shallow canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., had been dug in 1798 and in 1841, immediately after the union of Upper and Lower Canada, the Welland Canal past Niagara Falls was modernized. By 1855, steamships drawing 14 feet of water could sail from the sea to Lake Superior.

Now you know — the world owes you a living. You have this assurance from the highest possible authority, the national minister of welfare, Alan MacEachen.

Mr. MacEachen says that the man who refuses to work has the right to public support under the Liberal government's new concept on welfare. A man can refuse to work, or even refuse training so that he could get a job, and still have a right to a living at public expense. Appropriately enough, the welfare minister made this explanation to a committee of Senators.

U.S. Views of Bank Scheme

New York Times

The heavy hand of economic nationalism is clearly visible in the new banking legislation introduced in Canada's House of Commons. Finance Minister Sharp has proposed several restrictions on the size of any Canadian bank that comes under the control of foreign investors and a prohibition on any one foreign bank from owning more than 10 per cent of a Canadian bank. It is understandable that Canadians want their monetary policy to be made in Ottawa or Toronto or Montreal, not in New York or Washington. But effective safeguards could be found for finance and for industry without indulging in punitive nationalism. Exercise of a little imagination and moderation to insure Canadian control could remove the threat of dangerous and unhealthy retaliation against Canadian banks operating in the United States that the present proposal could incite.

Interest in Old and New Cut Glass Has Returned Lately

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Fashions and fancies affect antiques as well as new decorations. Cut glass, the darling of the 1890's, was completely out of style by 1920. Only in the past few years has the interest in cut glass, old or new, returned.

The bride of 1890 received cut glass as a gift just as many brides today receive silver. The glass was made in patterns and could be "mixed or matched" in later years.

Fine cut glass was made in Europe and in the United States. Most American glass dates from 1875 to 1905. It is easy to tell good quality cut glass. The cutting is sharp, the glass heavy, the finished cutting must sparkle in the light. If the glass is struck lightly with the fingers, it should ring. The best glass is the one with the sharpest cutting, the heaviest weight, and the most sparkle.

Q. If the names "plate", "trifle", and "lay" all mean pewter, what does the word "Britannia" mean?

A. Pewter is a general term meaning a grayish soft metal made from lead, copper, tin and other metals. "Plate" pewter was made from tin and copper. "Trifle" pewter was used in mugs and it was made from tin and antimony. Lead was not used because the makers feared lead poisoning. "Lay" pewter is the most inexpensive type of pewter. It contained lead, copper and tin.

Britannia is a trade name for many types of pewter made in the late 18th and 19th century in England. Sadware was another name for pewter dishes.

Parisian Designers Will Lower Skirts

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—What goes up eventually comes down in fashion as well as physics—as hem lengths will demonstrate in the Paris couture season which opens next week.

The majority of trend-setting designers will opt for mid-knee length skirts, generally dropped a fraction of an inch lower than last January.

Two-fifths of an inch in length makes all the difference in the proportions of the over-all silhouettes, says Chanel.

Yves St. Laurent says he will lengthen skirts that much below the knee, and also revive more sophisticated and feminine silhouettes which will sound the death knell of "op" and abstract trends.

Michel Goma of Jean Patou insists he will continue an above-the-knee length, but will launch tricky "gadget" hemlines on certain models.

EXPOSE KNEES

Pierre Cardin and Emanuel Ungaro also vote for exposed knees, with heavy - textured stockings matched to the color of the ensemble. Jacques Heim will feature short streetwear but plans to show some long cocktail and dinner dresses.

The over-all mood of the French collections will remain young, but silhouettes, cut and colors will be less daring than the last two seasons.

A trend toward lithe, supple silhouettes worked in soft fluid fabrics will replace the severe architectural approach to fashion.

Many designers are speaking of a retrospective influence, recalling the bias cutting, diagonal seaming and soft clinging clothes of the 1930s.

REVIVE SLEEVES

Sleeves, revived by Dior last season, will replace the bare armhole and uniform type of sleeveless sheath dress in many other collections.

Nina Ricci, Heim and Philippe Venet will endorse modified width across the shoulders, while St. Laurent, Dior, Jeanne Lanvin and Jean Patou vote for a narrow shoulder line in natural sloped effects.

Waistlines will remain loose and easy.

The "a" line will emerge as the leading coat silhouette, featured with youthful high waisted yokes or seaming under the bosom.

There will be a modified revival of capes in both elbow and full-length circular cut styles.

Suits will feature both the cropped waist-length jackets or long-belted or flared styles suggesting a tunic or three-quarter length redingote coat.

New Halter Look

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: When I got fed up with my husband's running round, he went to the minister who knows me well, and persuaded both of us that he would change.

He has gone back on his word several times. Now he turned the older children against me by telling them I run around with men, which is not true.

When things don't go his way he starts a row of some kind. The final straw is he has tampered with my car (which I bought to go to work) so that I can't get it to run. I can't prove this but I know it is true for I caught him at it.

I dare not ask anyone to look at it for fear of a scene and being told I'm having an affair with whomever would help me with the car. Doris, just what am I to do with a man with his mind in the gutter so much? —MORE THAN FED UP.

DEAR MORE THAN: Those who make the loudest accusations are often the ones at fault. I can't see trying for peace by letting your car stay idle. Won't he accuse you anyway?

Such a feud builds up an impossible tension; and the children have to live in it. Right now they are pulled both ways and have no way of knowing where their security lies.

With such a long history of bitter unkindness, I'd urge serious thoughts of separation. Talk it over with a trained caseworker at the Children's Aid Society of Belleville and Hastings County, 63 West Moira St.

DEAR DORIS: This child is our daughter's, born illegitimately. We are raising him with our own and do not want to part with him.

Now the daughter is married and wants him. Her new husband thinks a lot of him and feels they must take the boy before he gets any older. He is not his father.

They only seem to be worried about when he will be in his teens. She admits they don't have the maternal feelings for him that we have as she says she never had time.

Even when he was born she said she had no feelings for him. He calls us Mum and Dad just like the rest of our family. Aren't the early years of a child's life important? We feel he will be lost without our large family. —GRAN.

DEAR GRAN: It's one of life's cruellest dilemmas; but the fact remains his natural mother is his legal guardian until someone else adopts him. She has the say.

Maternal feelings don't spring full grown with the first feeble cry; and in the case of your boy there were some notable reasons for resentment which would stifle any such emotions. His mother is now respectably married and ready to assume the responsibility which was hers before.

You are not in a spot to do the deciding because your feelings are in this. A talk with a trained worker could help you to see both sides of it and pave the way for a secure future for the boy — who at this point seems to be something of a pawn in the game.

Halve Eskimo Infant Mortality By Distributing Medical Packs

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP) — Eskimo babies are pretty much like other Canadians except that more of them die. One Eskimo infant in 10 dies before it's a year old. That's 3½ times the Canadian average.

But five years ago the death rate for Eskimo infants was one in five. One reason it's been cut by half is the Eskimo family medical pack, put out by the department of national health and welfare.

About 500 of the packs have been given out by northern nurses to families setting out on the traditional hunting and fishing expeditions. The kits contain medicines and bandages and instructions in Eskimo syllabics and English.

Eskimos in the Northwest Territories and Arctic islands now are using the packs, but the idea began along the west coast of Hudson Bay, says Dr. R. A. Armstrong, senior treatment officer in the medical services division.

FAR FROM AID

"It's very sparsely setled and communications are sometimes not very good. A family going out for weeks or months would be impossible to locate in an emergency, and a sick person could die before he reached medical help. The nearest settlement might be several days' journey by dog team."

The death toll is especially heavy among infants. "This is true among most primitive peoples, but the Eskimos have a particularly impossible climate on top of it. It's an area where there's an awful lot of nothing."

The climate gave the medical pack's designers the kind of headache they couldn't cure with their pills for "pain in the teeth, head or ears."

The problem is that everything freezes. "You can't raise the temperature in an igloo to more than 31 degrees or you don't have an igloo any more." Freezing shatters some plastics, and lots of medicines come in plastic containers. A tough plastic had to be found.

Babies can't swallow pills but liquid medicines turn into ice cubes in the Arctic. A liquid antibiotic that didn't curdle, lose its strength or taste awful after repeated freezing and thawing was located. It has to be thawed between the hands before it is administered from its squeeze bottle.

SOAP INCLUDED

As explained in the instruction booklet, the pack contains ointments for "eye sickness" and "skin sickness."

The eye sickness may be an irritation brought on by the glare of brilliant sun on snow, harsh winds or driving snow and ice.

"The skin sickness is usually impetigo. There's no hot water tap to turn on for a bath or a wash, so they get dirty, they scratch and blisters develop."

Even though washing isn't the order of the day, the medical pack has a bar of soap for cleaning injured areas and the hands of the amateur nurses, who sometimes appear in the role of midwife.

"One baby in three isn't born in a hospital or nursing station. A fair number are born in igloos or on the trapline. So the soap is for the husband to wash his hands if he has to assist his wife deliver."

Designers in London Abandon Short Skirts

By LYNNE EDMUNDS

LONDON (Reuters) — London's couturiers totally abandoned the clinging ultra-short skirts and plunging necklines in a display of fall "cover-up" collections ending Wednesday.

The top couturiers who design for British and foreign royalty as well as society circles, produced a new flared silhouette which disguised rather than emphasized the figure.

Bulky coats in fiery pinks and reds swirled from high collars and back yokes, their fullness often echoed in wide sleeves. Snappy suits in muted checks sported longer-than-usual jackets with back dipping hems, above skirts that hung in pleats or panels to end on the knee or lower.

Ex-architect Michael took the farthest plunge from the miniskirt with a series of fur trench coats, in coney or llama which ended at mid-calf.

The Queen's couturier, Norman Hartnell, who this fall opens the first of his continental boutiques in Paris, combined knee-capping skirts with hem interest in a seven-eighths black wool coat over a black-and-white dotted dress dropping to a black hemband.

CONTINUES TREND

John Cavanagh continued the trend toward longer, more important jackets with two checked outfits whose seven-eighth - length reefer jackets topped matching hoods and belted dresses.

He showed a new partiality to evening trousers, with a wide selection ranging from a multicolored rajah style brocade coat over gold lame pants, to a kingfisher silk cat suit worn under a billowing blue evening coat.

Royal couturier Hardy Amies' dresses gently hinted at waist and bust with sophisticated seaming or flared flying panels. came from lace frills.

Ronald Paterson, who has designed British - born Princess Muna's wardrobe for this week's Jordanian state visit to London, used tapered side-seaming to give fullness to a turquoise wool coat with small, stand - up collar and set - in sleeves.

Swiss designer Mattli, noted for his skilled use of ultra luxurious fabrics, also took his inspiration from the East for a rajah style suit with three-quarter length jacket fastening high at the neck, over an easy skirt seamed into six panels. His loveliest evening gown had an abbreviated bolero top encrusted with diamante over a high-waisted green chiffon skirt.

COLORING is a favorite pastime with most youngsters — and doubly so when they make their own patterns. Cookie-cutters are ideal for this purpose, though coins, odd-shaped ashtrays and other familiar objects will serve, too. Have your young artist trace around the edges with a crayon or indelible marker, color, and cut out the finished design. (Thanks to Mrs. Charles Daniel, Panama City, Florida)

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony so a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

QUESTION: Have you heard of a grapefruit and egg diet? If so is it any good? My doctor says I should take off thirty pounds but did not give me a diet - - Norma H.

ANSWER: I have heard of it but do not know the details.

Some safe and nutritious daily reducing menus of approximately 850 to 900 calories per day follow and are for dieters who are in earnest:

First Day:

Breakfast: 1 poached or boiled egg (75 cal.); ½ slice whole wheat toast unbuttered (30 cal.); ½ average-sized grapefruit (60 cal.); clear coffee (0 cal.).

Lunch: 1 cup consomme (15 cal.); 1 slice roast beef sandwich on whole wheat with leaf lettuce, spread thinly with French mustard (approx. 200 cal.); 8-oz. skim or buttermilk (85 cal.).

Dinner: 2 lamb chops trimmed (300 cal.); ½ cup green peas (50 cal.); ½ cup cauliflower (15 cal.); ½ medium cantaloupe (45 cal.); clear tea (0 cal.).

Second Day:

Breakfast: sections from 1 medium orange (70 cal.); poached egg (75 cal.) on ½ slice unbuttered whole wheat toast (30 cal.); clear coffee (0 cal.).

Lunch: 1 cup vegetable soup (100 cal.). 2-oz. cottage cheese (50 cal.) on lettuce (5 cal.) with 1 sliced medium tomato (25 cal.); one medium banana (100 cal.); water (0 cal.).

Dinner: 4-oz. ground lean beef cake broiled — not fried (300 cal.); ½ cup green beans — no butter or sauce (20 cal.); ½ cup carrots — no butter or sauce (35 cal.); ½ cup fresh raspberries or bluberries (35 cal.); 8-oz. buttermilk or skim milk (85 cal.).

Third Day:

Breakfast: ½ cup lightly sweetened applesauce (90 cal.); 4 slices crisp bacon (100 cal.); 1 slice whole wheat bread — unbuttered (60 cal.); clear coffee (0 cal.).

Lunch: 2-slice egg salad sandwich with lettuce (approx. 200 cal.); 10 bing cherries (approx. 50 cal.); tea with milk (15 cal.).

Dinner: 4-oz. broiled, poached or baked lean fish such as perch, sole, haddock fillets (150 cal.); 1 medium baked potato including skin — no butter (100 cal.); ½ cup sliced raw cucumber (10 cal.); ½ cup sliced radishes (10 cal.); 20 grapes (80 cal.); low-cal soft drink (approx. 5-10 cal.).

Fourth Day:

Breakfast: ½ cup dry cereal with ½ cup whole milk (160 cal.); 1 medium pear (60 cal.); coffee with whole milk (15 cal.).

Lunch: 2 slice whole wheat Cheddar cheese sandwich with 1 pat butter (260 cal.); 1 slice watermelon 8" x ¾" (100 cal.); water (0 cal.).

Dinner: 4-oz. lean broiled or baked chicken (200 cal.); ½ cup broccoli — no sauce or butter (22 cal.); ½ cup diced summer squash (15 cal.); one medium peach (45 cal.); tea with milk (15 cal.).

WITH LOVE FROM US

"To please a child is a sweet and lovely thing."— L. Frank Baum.

Who were they?

First, may we — a few hints?

"He" was born ten years before "she" was, of prosperous parents, in New York State. A sickly and seventh child of nine children, hated the Military Academy he attended, loved to act and day dream, married in his mid-twenties, became the father of four sons, failed in one business after another and finally became a reporter in Chicago for $20 a week.

The one recreation and escape from so wretched a reality were the stories he would tell his sons and their friends. One so caught their imagination, even his wife urged him to write it down and send it to an editor.

"She" was born in London, the only daughter of strict, wealthy and devoted Victorian parents. She led a solitary life, even attended school at home with governesses, and confided in her secret journal she wanted to write "but didn't know what" as she copied drawings and forms in museums of little animals she loved.

Gradually she began illustrating little stories of these animals; they seemed like animal humans, doing human things, with human thoughts. One day she sent some of her work to an editor.

Have you guessed, perhaps?

"He" was L. Frank Baum, author of "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz", first published in 1900; the story his children so loved. Today over 5 million copies have been published.

When he first told his children about Dorothy the little girl from Kansas being swept by a cyclone into a strange land where she met a live scarecrow, a tin woodman and a cowardly lion, they wished to know, "What is the name of this land?"

Mr. Baum searched about the room for an idea and his eyes fell upon a filing cabinet which bore the letters O-Z, and he at once said: "The land of OZ!"

In Los Angeles, he named his house Ozcot, and kept a lovelly garden where children flocked to see the "Royal Historian of OZ". To this day letters are sent to him, received by his publishers, by children who love his book, though he died in 1919.

Mr. Baum once wrote to his sister to say how he had hoped some day to write a great novel and failing to have done so, had "learntd that to please a child is a sweet and lovely thing that warms one's hearrt."

"She", on the other hand, was Beatrix Potter, who wrote "Peter Rabbit" and other books. "The only real and outstanding classics for small children" one critic declares, while the writer, Rumer Godden writes: "Children have taught themselves to read by (her books); they are learned by heart . . . they are tattered and stained from being taken on picnics, taken to school, out in the car, in trains and planes; up trees, read flat on the grass or during supper time and, over and over again, taken to bed."

"My books are made small to fit children's hands, not to impress grown-ups," Beatrix Potter once said. In fact, the publishers who brought out the first Peter Rabbit in 1902 have not changed its original fomat to this day. The sales are tremendous and world wide. She wrote until she married at the age of 47, when she left London to live in the country and wrote no more.

On July 28, 1966, the centenary of her birth a grateful world will pay her tribute through exhibitions, displays in libraries and art galleries, newspapers and magazines, and adds Miss Godden:

"I would not be surprised if, in 2066 children's love of Beatrix Potter will be exactly the same."

W.I. Sponsored Swimming Class Awards Night

RIVER VALLEY — At River Valley School on Saturday evening the annual awards night for the swimming class was sponsored by River Valley Women's Institute when approximately 150 were in attendance.

A total of 52 children were transported daily from River Valley to Belleville by chartered bus and two mothers chaperoned the children each day.

Mrs. Glenn Bush president of River Valley Women's Institute welcomed the group and she gave a full explanation of the expenses involved. There were pool fees amounting to $166.50 and bus transportation costs of $150. Each child paid four dollars for the 11 days of swimming instruction and River Valley W. I. gave a donation of $108.50 to cover the rest of the expenses

Mr. Clelland spoke briefly and presented each group of children in the junior, intermediate and senior classes with certificates and pins. Mr. Jerry Muldoon a member of the pool staff was also in attendance at the party.

Hot dogs, coffee and freshie were served on the school lawn and all enjoyed a social half hour.

The parents were in favor of another swimming course in 1967 if the Institute was agreeable to donate towards expenses.

WHITE BREAD

2	cups scalded milk
3	tbsp. sugar
4	tsp. salt
3	tbsp. shortening
2	cups lukewarm water
2	tsp. sugar
2	pkgs. granular yeast
10-11	cups sifted all-purpose flour

METHOD: Scald milk, stir in 3 tbsp. sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Stir 2 tsp. sugar into lukewarm water, sprinkle with yeast and let stand 10 min. Stir well. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, then add 4 cups of flour and beat until smooth. Add remaining flour, turn out dough on lightly floured board, knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, brush top with melted shortening, cover. Let rise in warm place, until doubled in bulk — about 1½ hrs. Punch down dough; turn out on lightly floured board. Divide into four equal parts, cover and leave 15 min. Shape into loaves, place in greased pans. Brush lightly with melted butter, cover, let rise until centre is 1½" higher than edge of pan, about 1½ hrs. Bake at 400 F for 35-40 min.

Makes four loaves.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT ERIC CARLISLE

Carlisle — Morrison

Holy Rosary Church, Belleville, was the scene of the marriage on July 16, 1966 at 10:00 a.m. of Elizabeth Rose, daughter of Mrs. Jeremiah Morrison of Belleville and Robert Eric Carlisle, son of Mrs. Albert Carlisle of Frankford. Rev. R. Sweeney officiated, Miss Dorothy Grant played the wedding music and Mr. William Mann was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Thomas Morrison, wore a full - length gown of white organza over taffeta in A-line style with bodice and short sleeves of Chantilly lace, and random appliques of matching lace on the skirt. The scalloped neckline came to a V at the back. Her headdress was a long mantilla edged with matching lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of red Yuletide roses and ferns.

Mrs. Gary Gow of Belleville was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Barry Browning of Sharbot Lake and Mrs. Gerald Forrestell of Belleville. They wore gowns of Capri blue organza with Empire waistlines, scoop necklines and short Guipure lace sleeves. They carried bouquets of ice blue and white pompoms.

Mr. Ross Cadwell of Frankford attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. Jack Hube of Frankford and Mr. Raymond Morrison of Belleville, brother of the bride.

To receive the guests at the reception at St. Joseph's Hall, the bride's mother wore a navy lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white cluster carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a blue organza dress with lace bodice, navy accessories and a corsage of Pink carnations.

For her wedding trip to the United States the bride chose a two-piece dress of white lace over navy taffeta with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

On their return, the couple will live at 60 Evans Street, Belleville.

Ann Landers

Nagging Just Makes Person Stubborn

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a teen-ager who wants to comment on that letter from "Mom" whose strong-willed daughter was dating a boy from the "wrong side of the tracks" as she put it. When "Mom" asked you what to do with "the stubborn brat" I knew right then that it was a hopeless case.

ANN LANDERS

Why don't parents realize that fighting with their kids never accomplished anything. It only makes kids more determined to have their own way. There must be love and respect on both sides. If parents want their children to respect them, they must respect their children. Yelling, hitting and name-calling does not generate much respect from anybody.

Last year I dated a boy my folks didn't like very well. They never told me I couldn't go with him. They were polite and pleasant and pretty soon I understood why my folks didn't care much for the boy. I stopped going with him on my own.

I hope you will write up this letter better so it will be good enough to print. It's very important to us teen-agers to get our side represented. Thank you. — NORMAL.

DEAR NORMAL: I wouldn't change a word of your letter. It is fine just as you wrote it.

It is worth noting that children talk to their parents in the same way that their parents talk to them — even the tone of voice is the same. Respect, consideration and love is always a two-way proposition.

When we old fogies say it, it sounds squaresville but coming from a teen — well, that a different bucket of bolts, toots. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN: Why would the father of a fine family be so interested in civic and charitable causes that he neglects his wife and children to the point where they feel abandoned?

These men are rarely home because they are going to meetings almost every night. Saturdays and Sundays are spent on outside activities. Their own sons are virtually fatherless because these do-gooders are always doing good for someone else's children.

I know several men who fit into this category. They are admired by everyone (except their families) for their selfless dedication and service to humanity.

By now you surely have guessed that I am married to such a man. Perhaps if I understood why he is this way I could stop feeling sorry for myself. Please help. — EXCESS BAGGAGE.

DEAR EXCESS: Men (and women, too) who devote all their extra time and energy to outside activities, at the expense of family life, are actually running away from those closest to them because they are more comfortable with strangers. It's much easier to be a hero to non-relatives, you know.

Husbands and wives, fathers and sons, and mothers and daughters who work together on community and church projects enrich not only the community bu their family's lives as well.

WEDDINGS

WOODCOCK — TAYLOR

Archdeacon A. S. McConnell officiated at the wedding ceremony in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville on Saturday July 16, 1966 at 2 p.m., when Vicky Blanch Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Taylor, Belleville, was united in marriage to James Russell Woodcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodcock, Belleville. Wedding music was rendered by the church organist, Mr. Don Davenport.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length Chantilly lace over satin bridal gown with the bodice featuring a portrait neckline and lily - point sleeves. A three - tier veil of silk illusion flowed from a tiara headdress and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Wanda Little as maid of honor wore a yellow silk floor-length gown highlighted with a lace bodice. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white baby 'mums. The two little flower girls were the Misses Susan and Janice Taylor, sisters of the bride who wore identical two-piece blue silk ensembles and carried tiny baskets of white and blue tinted baby 'mums.

Mr. Paul Taylor, brother of the bride was groomsman, while Mr Peter Thorn and Mr. Steven Thorn, both cousins of the bride were the ushers.

For the reception in St. Thomas' parish hall, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a turquoise sheath dress with matching jacket, pearl colored accessories and a corsage of white 'mums and stephanotis. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a pink sheath, pearl colored accessories and a corsage of white 'mums and stephanotis.

For a wedding trip to western points the bride chose a three-piece yellow linen suit, pearl accessories and a corsage of white roses and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock will reside in Belleville.

O'KEEFE — CLAIRMONT

MARMORA — At 11 a.m. Saturday, July 16, 1966, in Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church, Marmora, Rev. Father F. J. Spence said nuptial mass for the marriage of Theresa Marguerite Clairmont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clairmont of Marmora and Hubert Vincent OKeefe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Keefe of Peterborough.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of Poloma crepe, designed with a rounded neckline and tiny sleeves. The Empire bodice and edge of sleeves were enhanced with a narrow band of fine alencon lace. A long chapel train extended from the waist. Her lilyshaped lace headdress, was edged with pearls and Bavarian crystals from which flowed the four-tier scalloped veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of feathered mums and white roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride was attended by her sister as matron of honor, Mrs. Paul McGrath of Chicoutimi and bridesmaids, sister of the bridegroom Margaret O'Keefe and cousins of the bride Mary McCormick of Trenton and Paulette Clarke of Port Credit. Flower girl was the brides' niece, Mary Anne McGrath and ring-bearer was the bride's nephew John Paul McGrath.

The attendants were gowned in floor-length A-line dresses in pistachio green of swiss sparkle crepe. The flower girl was in Swiss lemon - yellow sparkled crepe made similar to senior attendants.

All carried cascades of white carnations and yellow roses, while the flowergirl carried a basket of daisies, yellow roses and white baby 'mums.

The groomsman was Denis O'Keefe brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Michale Theobald Vincent Kennedy and John Beggs all of Peterborough.

The wedding music was by Mrs. Hugh Brady who also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Joseph Quinlan of Norwood.

The reception was held in Sacred Heart parish hall, after which the couple left for a trip to New York State. The bride was wearing a mint-green crepe sheath, white Panama hat and accessories and corsage of tea roses.

They will live in Montreal.

COLD KILLS BUGS

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—"I personally would not buy cream-filled stuff which is not refrigerated," says Dr. E. S. Pentland, medical officer of health. "It's a beautiful place for bacteria to grow." He said 10 hours at room temperature would let any harmful bacteria in cream become "a pretty fair dose."

Christendom's First Cathedral Home for Hawks

ALEPPO, Syria (AP)—While tourists flock to seethe ancient churches of Europe, the first great cathedral of Christendom stands in ruins on a Syrian hilltop, inhabited only by lizards and with hawks wheeling overhead.

"This was the greatest building in the Christian world 1,500 years ago," says the Syrian guide, clambering among the toppled stones of the Church of St. Simeon the Stylite. "But almost nobody comes here now."

The massive church was built in the fifth century to commemorate a fanatic monk who spent 37 years perched atop a pillar, attracting pilgrims from the corners of the ancient world and influencing the affairs of the Roman empire.

After a lifetime lashed by howling desert winds, parched by the searing summer sun, and frozen by the numbing winters of north Syria, Simeon died preaching from his 66-foot-high column in 459 AD.

The stump of the column still stands on the hilltop about 30 miles from Aleppo, ringed by eight arches and the cathedral ruins which church expert Jules Roy calls "a work completely without parallel in the whole history of architecture."

The cathedral's sheer size and classic beauty of design made it an outstanding landmark in the days when much of Europe was primitive and pagan, but Syria was prospering in Christian splendor.

To the fervent believers of the time, the tales of Simeon's virtues were a sensation. Pilgrims came from lands as remote as Britain and Spain to hear the sermons of the shepherd boy who became a monk, who prayed for 40 days every year bricked up in a cell without food or water, who buried himself to the neck in sand for days at a time to mortify his flesh, who chained himself to a rock or wore a spiked girdle to enforce his piety.

As the crowds of worshippers to his village monastery increased, interfering with his devotions, Simeon moved to the top of a pillar to continue his meditations in solitude. Emaciated, weather - ravaged, unwashed, wild-eyed and half-blind from the sun, bowing in prayer more than 1,200 times a day, Simeon became the most famous holy man in the Middle East, the basin of Christianity.

Pilgrims sought his advice, church leaders dizzily climbed 60 feet up a ladder for his blessing, and officials of the Roman empire consulted him on affairs of state.

Other anchorites followed his example, and living on top of a column became fashionable for a time among eastern ascetics. Some of them stayed up for years, almost as long as Simeon, but none aquired his sanctity or influence.

When he died, his body was lowered from the pillar's capital—so small that he had never been able to lie at full length for 37 years—and taken to Antioch in a gigantic procession of church leaders, the head of the eastern Roman empire, and 6,000 Roman legionnaires.

Pilgrims continued to flock to the pillar, however, and 17 years after his death the church was built, together with monasteries and hostels to accomodate the hordes of visitors.

The great Christian cities of Syria declined two centuries later, after the Moslem conquest of the Middle East. St. Simeon's church, later transformed by the Arabs into a fortress, is only one of scores of Christian ruins scattered around the country, which cause some scholars to call Syria "the land of lost cities."

Only 500 or 600 years later were the cathedrals of Europe built, to match the majesty of the Syrian monk's monument.

A Lift for Living

The Universe Continues Along Its Mighty Way

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

July is a good month to correct our perspective and to find our true position in God's design for His universe. We are often guilty of clutching our own interests, our desires and our troubles so close to us that we blot out al lelse, like a man holding a nickel so near to his eye that all he sees is that little piece of money.

But nature in July, with its wild-flung glory, its ceaseless activity, its festival of sunshine, flowers and birdsong, reminds us that the universe goes on its mighty way regardless of our private plans, joys or sorrows. Thus, nature tells all who will look and listen that self-centredness is the height of foolishnesss. Egotism puts man at the heart of things where only God belongs.

Is your arthritis acting up? Has your gall bladder been making a fuss? Even so, bees continue to drone as they buzz over gardens, orchards and meadows, gathering nectar from flowers and unwittingly fertilizing them as they go about their important work. In spite of your private anguish, the clover continues to grow and blossom, enriching the soil, perfuming the air.

Did you fail to get an expected promotion at the office? Too bad. Fireflies still flash signals through the darkness that curtains the meadows and marshes.

Even when we hesitatingly move away from the country cemetery where we have just laid a loved one to rest, July reminds us that our universe was not brought to a standstill by the impact of our sorrow. The universe continues on its way. Daisies and Queen Anne's lace brighten country roadsides and fields that lie the route of our sorrowful journey homeward. The sun still shines, and rains still fall. Gardens still grow. Grains ripen. There will be morning freshness from tomorrow's dew, and tomorrow's dawn will be greeted by joyous choruses of birdsong.

LIVE VICTORIOUSLY

Those who have suffered private tragedy and still live victoriously are people who are mindful that the world does not revolve around their woes. It is particularly necessary for the handicapped to remove themselves from the centre of the universe if they are to avoid self-pity. Only then will they have room in their thinking for others who are burdened by affliction.

A kind woman once took a group of blind and deaf children to a circus that was performing in Madison Square Garden. It was a great day for the handicapped youngsters. But on the way home one little blind boy seemed depressed. When his host asked him why he was sad, he said. "I felt so sorry for those deaf children today."

"But, why, Jimmy?" he was assked.

"Well," the blind lad replied, "the deaf kids couldn't hear the band play, or the lions and tigers roar, or the crowd clapping their hands, and they couldn't even hear the big elephants clumping by."

The best things of life can be enjoyed only as a person removes himself from the centre of things and puts something else of worth in his place. One must lose himself in music to appreciate and enjoy it. Self-consciousness is lost for the moment, and music-consciousness takes its place. A game is great fun only when a person becomes so absorbed in it that he is hardly aware of himself and is totally aware of the game.

TRUE FRIENDSHIP

A "friendship" where each person is self-centred, seeing only what he can get out of it, is not worthy of the name. True friendship exists only when each party is more attentive to the other person's worth, wants and needs, than he is to his own.

And, of course, wholehearted worship of God has no place in the life of the egocentric, because worship is the act of turning one's attention, appreciations and desires Godward, and the self-centred is so absorbed that he has no attention for God unless it is to beg God for something more for himself. Worship is the abandonment of self-centredness and self-sufficiency and self-satisfaction. Worship is the glad recognition of Another, conversing with Him, listening to Him, being grateful to Him, seeking His assistance in all things.

One of the secrets of successful living is that of removing oneself from the centre of the universe. Another secret is knowing what to put there in one's place.

The wise and the devout know that God is the true centre of all existence, and in the design of their daily living they put God where He belongs.

Lines on Life

Grow Smug When Snug

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Sinbad the Sailor was under the impression that he had found a good place to anchor.

He discovered to his surprise that what he thought was an island was only a beast of the sea. His boat, of course, was not anchored but went charging off in all directions.

Like Sinbad, we hold on to many things which do not hold on to us, and we are easily upended in a stormy sea. For the trouble with us is trouble. Some of us are undone by trouble; still others are troublemakers. But there are those whom trouble makes. The Psalmist has a phrase for them: "Passing through the valley of weeping, they make it a place of springs." This is the kind of man a man ought to try to be.

Too often we seek the comfortable answers which lead to soft spots. We're afraid of the rough edges. We want to cuddle up into a cozy corner and shut out the world.

But we become smug when we're snug. And when life's shafts begin to fall around us we're faint-hearted when we should be tough -minded. The easy way turns out to be the longest way.

For it is not so much what happens to us that counts as the way we take it. Not what we find in life but what we do with what we find makes us men. The real question is not: "What's happened to me?" Rather it is: "What am I making of it?"

There are two ways we can meet life's difficulties. We can look for excuses and alibis, blaming our troubles for our cowardice; we can pass the buck, criticizing the times we live in for our own inner chaos and confusion. This is the way we go to pieces, because we don't see life whole.

But the man who does see life whole knows that crisis is the raw material out of which good character and conduct are made. We never learn to toughen up our "spiritual muscles' never gain the inner confidence we need to meet life "head-on" if we seek ease and run away from trouble.

One never finds life pre-fabricated. All one finds is raw material. Sometimes it is rough, and tough, ungainly and uncompromising, but in the hands of courageeous and dedicated men it can be made into a thing of beauty and meaning.

We"re not the first generation to face trouble in such vast amounts. Indeed, there has never been a great man who wasn't the product of a tough time. The darkest hours of human civilization have been among the most creative.

Some of the world's great spirits made history just when everyone else thought that it was coming to an end.

After the flood there comes the rainbow — but only to those who have seen it shining through the storm.

Lighting the Way

By Walter S. Crone

HER AIM WAS POOR

Her aim was poor, and she landed in trouble! That's what happened to Mrs. Maureen Eagle, of London, England. In court, she admitted striking her four-year-old daughter Betty on the back with a fishing rod. The magistrate sentenced her to three years' probation.

However, Mrs. Eagle had not intended hitting the child's back. Defending herself, she explained it this way. Awaking at dawn one morning, she found Betty taking fruit and chocolates out of the pantry. This "made her see red", and she picked up her son's fishing rod. Her intention was to smack Betty on the posterior . . . but Betty moved!

People everyday are getting into trouble because their aim in life is not good enough. Our jails and penitentiaries are filled with people whose experience demonstrates this to be true. Our Maker has created and redeemed us with a purpose. Life has meaning, and God has work for each of us to do. The Bible reveals the things we should aim to be and do. Those who, above all other things, are aiming to please God, will keep themselves out of unnecessary trouble, and will likely hit their mark!

Barrie Mayor Plans to Charge Humane Society

BARRIE (CP) — Mayor L. E. Cooke said Friday Tom Hughes, manager of the Ontario Humane Society, would be charged with trespassing in connection with a Thursday raid on the city dog pound.

Mr. Hughes has condemned the pound as "filthy and dilapidated" and seized animals housed there. He told reporters the pound would be closed.

"As far as I'm concerned it is open," said the mayor. "No city authority has been told otherwise."

Mayor Cooke, indignant that outside authorities could enter Barrie and tell city departments what to do, called it "another example of the erosion of municipal power."

Philippines Communists Getting Arms

MANILA (AP) — More than 500 Communist terrorists in Central Luzon are getting "massive help" in arms and equipment from unknown sources, President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines claimed today.

Marcos said the weapons include American-made automatic rifles which were "stolen or purchased" illegally from U.S. bases in the Philippines.

Marcos, who this week ordered 3,000 troops into the four Central Luzon provinces to flush out guerrillas who killed six people in the last few days, said the Communist threat is "now quite apparent within the Philippines."

Sixty-two mayors, local officials and former rebels who refused to collaborate with the resurgent guerrilla movement have been liquidated in the last few months, he added.

USE EXTORTION

Communist extortion tactics in wide areas of Neuva Ecija, Pampanga, Tarlac and Bulacan provinces have affected the agricultural development of the area.

The 48-year-old president said the renewed Communist activity is a "sharp and violent reaction" by the Communists to the Philippine decision to send troops to South Viet Nam.

"My feeling is that these are sporadic, weak and will not last under the massive scale of development of the rural areas which we have planned and are now implementing."

Marcos said the government is organizing 11 army engineer battalions for civic action work in rural areas. Ten will be used at home and the other in South Viet Nam.

STATE HOLDS HEIGHTS

The United States has 96 mountains over 13,905 feet 58 of them in Colorado.

Miss Margaret Hommersen and Paul Shechan, Toronto, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe and daughters.

The Rawdon volunteer firemen entertained the Rawdon A.O.T.S. Club and their families on Friday evening. A ball game was played at Springbrook recreation centre after which refreshments were served at the Rawdon Fire Hall.

25TH ANNIVERSARY

Last Saturday evening a dinner for 50 relatives and friends was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hoard in honor of his sister (Betty) Mrs. Clayton Thompson and Mr. Thompson on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The dinner was served by the Misses Barbara and Norma Hoard, and Jane and Susan Bush. Robert C. Hoard was master of ceremonies and welcomed the group. Jack Bush contributed two vocal solos with his daughter Jane as accompanist. Others assisting with the program were Messrs. Robert Thompson, Dick Thompson and Mrs. A. Corin.

The honored guests were the recipients of several lovely gifts for which they voiced appreciative thanks.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Murray and family of Merritton spent a holiday last week at a cottage at Deseronto. On Friday evening prior to their departure, they entertained the McMechan families on the occasion of Mrs. Wm. McMechan's birthday.

Melrose U.C.W. were welcomed to the home of Mrs. Clarence Hagerman for the July meeting on Thursday evening.

The regular meeting of First Melrose Cub Pack took the form of a hike with Akela Roque Sager in charge. As this had not been pre-arranged, the Cubs left the church grounds and made their way to the back of the farm of Mr. John English. A small attendance on this particular evening made this a pleasant way to conduct the meeting.

Mr. Sherry Demille is still a patient in Belleville Hospital. Mrs. E. Embury is still confined to the hospital pending surgery.

Stock Market Volume Low As Investors Take Vacations

By SEAN FINLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Banks, uranium issues and golds held the spotlight on the Toronto Stock Exchange this week as investors, succumbing to summer, stayed away in droves.

Volume for the week was 12,800,980 shares compared with 16,467,743 traded last week. Brokers said reason for the light volume was the number of potential buyers and sellers on summer vacation.

Trading picked up on Friday with 3,211,000 shares traded, the first day volume broke the 3,000,000 mark.

Friday also saw golds and base metals reach highs on index, with golds advancing an unprecedented 11.01 to 191.54, overshadowing the previous record advance of 7.07 points on May 31.

The advance was a result of news that the United States House of Representatives Interior Committee had given approval to a bill calling for increased subsidies to gold mines.

The bill, approved Friday, calls for a subsidy equal to six per cent of the value of gold produced since 1939—the last date subsidies were set—by mines operating at the present time.

Mines that have closed since 1939 will receive subsidies equal to $44 an ounce above the present subsidy rate of $35 an ounce.

GOLDS EDGE UP

Dome, widely-held in the U.S., rose 4⅝ to a 1966 high of 55 in gold issues. McIntyre Porcupine gained 2¼ to 102½ and Giant Yellowknife ⅝ to 14. Only dark spot in the group was Kerr-Addison, which lost ⅜ to 11¼.

Uranium issues also had a good week, as they pulled the base metals index up 1.97 to a high of 99.74. The gains came despite an announcement Monday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that production for the year ended April was 2,610,279 pounds compared with 3,640,490 pounds at the same time last year.

The announcement was offset by a statement Monday by a European Common market spokesman, who forecast substantial purchases of uranium for the 30 years beginning 1970. He said existing stockpiles in France would be sufficient until that time, but the ECM would have to rely heavily on imports after that.

Denison rose 6¼ to a high of 67¼ and Roman Corp., which holds a large block of Denison shares, 1⅛ to a high of 17⅛. Preston Mines, holder of a large interest in Rio Algom, gained 1¼ to a high of 17 while Rio Algom rose ¼ to 27½.

Banks continued to move lower for the second week as reaction to the proposed amendments to the Bank Act continued to be felt.

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce fell 1½ to a 1966 low of 61 and Bank of Montreal 1⅜ to a low of 56⅛. Royal Bank took the heaviest loss, dropping 2 to 71½. Toronto - Dominion fell 1⅜ to 60½ and Bank of Nova Scotia 1 to 67¾.

INDUSTRIALS SLIDE

In industrials, which fell 2.64 to 159.65 on index, CPR lost 2¼ to 60¾, Distillers Seagram ⅛ to 32⅛ and Walker-Gooderham 1¼ to 28⅛. Massey-Ferguson showed a loss of 1¾ to 34⅝, while Westcoast Transmission and Stelco trimmed ⅛ each to 27, and 22½.

Senior western oils, off 1.36 to 102.68 on index, presented a mixed bag, with Home A down 1⅛ to 18⅝, the B issue off 1 to 20¼ and Hudson's Bay off ⅜ to 18⅛.

On the plus side, Union gained ¾ to 31¾, Dome ¼ to 15¼ and Scurry - Rainbow ⅛ to 30⅝.

In speculative action, Silvermaque dominated penny mines, trading 1,228,425 shares and gaining 9 cents to 53 cents. Jaye lost 9 cents to 35 cents on 583,175 shares.

Provo led penny oils, gaining 22 cents to $2.90 on 141,262 shares. Place gained 11 cents to $2.25 on 71,200 shares.

In Montreal, industrial volume was 591,000 shares compared with 818,046 last week; mine volume was 4,654,521 shares compared with 6,654,521 shares last week.

On index, industrials lost 1.79 to 159.88, utilities 1.94 to 140.12, banks 2.67 to 115.96 and papers .85 to 115.53.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

They call it the "Silver Top Tournament". But don't be surprised to hear some of the club quipsters come up with "The Battle of the Bulges" — "The Antics of the Antiques" — "The Match of the Methuselahs" — and so on into the night.

Actually it is the brainchild of the Bay of Quinte Country Club's pro George Balazs and the public relations committee chairman Bob Michaud.

The youth of the club is having its fairways fling. The gals, business and otherwise stage their organized links get-togethers weekly. But the gentry of the girth and grey thatch plod along perhaps in slowed-up stride but without benefit of segregated tournament play.

So Messrs. Balazs and Michaud decided to do something about it.

They have inaugurated the "Silver Top Tournament" in which only the gentlemen of golf hovering around the half-century are eligible entries.

There will be a trophy for the winner and many other awards.

The inaugural "Silver Top Tournament" is slated for Sunday, August 28th starting at 9.30 a.m. And from interest and entries submitted it looks as though it will be a success.

"If it is successful" says Bob Michaud, "we intend to make it an annual affair and in all probability arrange an invitational tournament for the middle-age boys of district clubs."

Keep a careful eye on my friend the "Sam Snead" of the country club. He goes to Florida every winter and gets in a lot of driving and putting while you chaps up north are snow-plunging and getting in your golf on the living room putting green.

He's that bronzed ex-Maritimer Alex Wilson, who retired from the railroad about the time the diesel engines told the iron horse steamers to go take a leap into the junk heap or museums.

Alex is a grand guy, modest and quiet spoken especially about his golfing ability. But golf's silent waters sometimes run deep.

He's been known to take "observance courses" in golf. That is he sometimes caddies for top shots, takes notes of their action and applies it to the Wilson style. I cannot vouch for this story but I was told last year Alex caddied for Moe Norman.

After the tournament Moe asked who the gentleman caddy was. "I want to know," Moe is reported to have said, "because actually he taught me something."

THIS IS THE TOPS

Quinte Driving Club president Gerald Vance speaking from his home where he is recuperating from an illness, tells me the Free-for-All events at tonight's harness meet, is a classic in racing here.

"It is the best collection of horses, I believe, ever assembled in one race in Belleville," he said. "I look for records to go by the board. But I won't go out on a limb to pick a winner. Every horse entered is a potential first-under-the wire."

The eight-entry field faces the barrier in the sixth and ninth heats.

You can bet your shirt on Dave's Wee Lad, Golden Elgin, Bradcliff, Single de' Best, Nida Dillard, Yankee's Pride, Mountain Way and Hal's Pence.

So there they are. And it's your shirt.

Cash Smash Opens Gash

Blood, Yes--Contest, No!

"An eye for an eye and a gash for a gash" was the rule of thumb for Billy Cash in last night's main wrestling attraction.

Cash had a score to settle with one Terry Garvin, who opened up a 14-stitch gash on Billy's head two weeks ago here.

But he's still not satisfied.

Garvin and his buddy worked on Cash's head from the start but settled for a first - fall win by injuring Williams' back, mainly on a well - placed Garvin knee at the base of the spine.

Our heroes ripped back to deadlock the match after four minutes. Cash finally tagged the limping Williams and went to work on Mongol. He used his deadly Cobra hold to even the affair.

The heat was on in the third and Cash saw his opening. He put Garvin in a corner and went to work on the blonde noggin with his fist.

And sure enough, he struck oil.

Would you believe blood?

It gushed from Garvin's dome to everyone's delight. Cash tossed his man from the ring and continued to pound him. But too long is the sad story.

Cash chased Garvin to the dressing room but came back to grab the ring mike. He challenged Terry to a single match to the finish, a Texas Death Match. Falls don't mean a thing in this type of go, as long as both men can continue after one minute, and only strangle holds are barred. One man or the other must be unable to continue to lose.

It will beh eld in two weeks here, since the show moves to Trenton next Friday.

Last night's semi - final almost stole the show. Gorgeous George Jr. and Terry's nasty brother, Ron Garvin, fought through 45 straight minutes to a draw. And there was not a dull moment. Garvin used every trick in the book and George Jr. always gave it back, in spades. They continued after the bell yet, and without overtime, too. It was a good one.

Amazin' Mets Horse-Collar Dodgers

Betty Ingram, Shoots Ace, Breaks Record

This week has seven days! Three of them were the biggest in the golfing life of the Bay of Quinte Country Club's Betty Ingram.

Friday was top day.

Last evening Mrs. Ingram shot her first hole-in-one using a seven iron on the 125-yards 13th hole.

It was her first ace in 14 years of golfing and she is the first woman to achieve the feat at the Country Club.

Mrs. Ingram was playing with Gordon Pinder and Mrs. Ena Corke.

Thursday was second best.

She broke her own record and that of the course for women when she carded a two - over - par 76. Her former record was 77.

The club champion's third day saw her fail again in her fifth attempt to capture the Lazier Handicap Trophy.

Four times she had been the Cup "bridesmaid."

It is the only club individual trophy Mrs. Ingram has failed to win.

Mrs. Gwen Black defeated her on the 18th hole.

"Gwen played fine golf — and deserved to win" said the loser.

Team Scores 26 Homers In Game, Wow!

Well, it wasn't exactly a pitchers' duel!

The score was 56-1, for the West Hill Playgrounds over Wellington Crescent Playgrounds. Yes, it was softball.

Wellington's small score might be attributed to the fact that they only played four innings.

They chalked up 26.

David Royal and Robert O'Coin each slammed five round-trippers. Ed Theobald, Gary McMurray, Neil Gogen and Fred Theobald "only" hit three each. Dan Chatterly chipped in with a pair. George Howe and Brian Rump contributed one each.

Who said Mantle and Mays could hit home runs?

Belkin, Butt In Net Finals

Miss Butt defeated Vicki Berner of Vancouver, second-ranked female player in Canada, 6-4, 7-5 in the women's singles semi-finals. A strong backhand game carried Miss Butt to the victory.

New York Mets have quit messing around with Ron Swoboda and now he's messing around with everyone else.

Swoboda, 22, who complained last month that the Mets were restricting his effectiveness by playing him irregularly, hit a two-run homer that sealed the Mets' latest victory.

In New York's two previous games, both with San Francisco Giants, Swoboda hit a 10th-inning homer that gave the Mets a 3-2 victory and rapped three hits and drove in three runs in their 14-3 triumph.

The slugger has been playing every day recently, which is what he felt he should have been doing the entire season.

GIANTS GAIN

While the Mets remained one-half game out of eighth and moved to within one game of seventh, the Giants climbed to within two percentage points of first place in the National League by defeating Philadelphia Phillies 4-1 behind Gaylord Perry, who pitched a two-hitter and struck out 15.

Elsewhere in the NL Houston Astros defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2, Cincinnati Reds whipped Atlanta Braves 8-2 and St. Louis Cardinals knocked off Chicago Cubs 9-4.

Swoboda's homer, off Claude Osteen, came in the eighth inning. The Mets also scored in the third on Ron Hunt's single.

Bob Friend blanked the Dodgers on eight hits.

Perry held the Phillies hitless for seven innings, but Clay Dalrymple led off the eighth with a line single to right field. Perry struck out Rich Allen four times and Bill White three. Willie McCovey drove in three San Francisco runs with a homer and a double.

Larry Dierker of Houston gave up home runs to Bob Bailey and Willie Stargell, but the Astros already had built a 4-0 lead in the first inning. Bailey's error, doubles by Rusty Staub, Lee Maye and Bob Aspromonte and Ron Brand's single accounted for the unearned runs.

Cincinnati exploded for six runs in the sixth inning, three on Leo Cardenas' double and two on Pete Rose's homer. Frank Bolling scored both of the Braves' runs, the first on a first-inning homer.

Joe Hoerner's three - run homer climaxed a four - run, eighth-inning rally that carried St. Louis past Chicago. The blast by the relief pitcher helped the Cardinals get over the .500 mark for the first time this season.

Norman Tied For Lead With 68

By BOB BELL

MONTREAL (CP) — Buddy McCunn, looking for his first victory as a professional golfer, and Moe Norman who seeks his third provincial open crown this season, tied at four-under-par 68 in the first round of the 58th annual Quebec open golf championship Friday.

McCunn, 30-year-old assistant at the host Pinegrove Golf Club, closed strong at the 455-yard par five 18th when he dropped a 30-yard wedge shot for an eagle three.

MOE NORMAN

"Everything was going for me out there today," he said. "It had to be, it's only the second time I've had a 68 on our course."

Norman played his usual consistent game that has earned him the Alberta and Manitoba Opens, a second in British Columbia Open and a third last week in the Ontario Open for a total of $7,200 in prize money.

The chunky pro from Gilford, Ont., finished with a 33-35 over the 6,500-yard course.

"I'm not hitting the ball any better. It's my chipping and putting. It's been great, just great."

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, who finished with a 70 along with Jack Bisegger of Montreal and Bob Rose of Toronto, said he was looking forward to the 36 holes that will be played today.

Bob Panasiuk, 24, another tournament favorite who finished with a 71, said he was still in strong contention.

Tied with Panasiuk were Gerry Hollingsbee, Leon Decaire and Alvie Thompson, all of Toronto, along with Jean-Guy Periard of Boucherville, Que., and Frank Kay Jr., and Ray Huot, both of Sorel, Que.

Kay was the low amateur after the first round. He was followed by two Montreal amateurs, Claude Dufour and Gordon LeRiche, who each fired even par 72s.

Adrien Bigras, defending champion, shot a 72 even when he missed five putts of under six feet and in some cases three - putted them.

The cutoff point was 78 for the final 36 holes. The major prize for the professionals is not only the $1,200 first-place purse, but also a trip to the $200,000 world golf tournament at Birkdale, England, next month.

Tigers Cut Two Players

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference have released halfbacks Dave Hoppman and Terry Kozens.

Hoppman, former all-American from Iowa State University who was the seventh draft choice of New York Giants of the National Football League, joined Montreal Alouettes of the EFC in 1963 and was released in 1964. He spent part of last season with the Giants.

Kozens, who played two years with Minnesota Vikings and another with Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL, was unable to recover from pulled leg muscles.

Saskatoon Was Host

Tributes, Honors--And Howe!

SASKATOON (CP) — Thousands of people lined city streets Friday to pay tribute to Gordie Howe, the great Detroit Red Wings star who learned how to skate and play hockey in Saskatoon.

Gordie Howe Day was declared formally by Mayor E. J. Cole and a parade of bands, floats and visiting sports personalities kicked off the festivities.

During the parade, one seven-year-old girl carrying placards reading I Love You Gordie and Welcome Home Number 9 broke down in tears when she realized she had missed Howe's car as it passed by.

But she brightened when a convertible carrying Toronto goalie Johnny Bower rolled into view and she managed to get close enough to get Bower's autograph on one of her signs.

Among the guests were Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, and Jack Adams, president of the Central Professional League, who signed Howe to his first professional contract.

GORDIE HOWE

Howe's brothers Vic, Norman and Vern travelled here to join their parents and five sisters in their bometown for the first full family reunion in 18 years.

After the parade, there was a civic luncheon, a special children's reception at Gordon Howe Arena and an evening tribute program.

Howe told the gathering that the special day "tops everything" except his marriage.

Among telegrams received was one from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, who said: "Yours is an admirable record."

Howe was born at Floral, Sask., and moved to Saskatoon with his family when he was nine days old. He joined Red Wings in 1946 at the age of 18.

Four Downs Suggestion

Opinions Are Divided

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A lot has happened in the last decade—especially to Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

Ten years ago the Esks, using ball control as their chief weapon, swept to their third consecutive Grey Cup under coach Frank (Pop) Ivy.

Ivy now is gone, replaced by Neill Armstrong, and so has ball control.

"I don't think the fans like ball - control football," Armstrong said Friday, commenting on a suggestion by Calgary Stampeder coach Jerry Williams that Canadian Football League teams take four downs instead of three to move the ball 15 yards instead of 10.

Armstrong feels four downs and 15 yards would allow more latitude in setting up plays during an offensive sequence, but would lead to more long marches.

SAYS FANS AGAINST IT

He does not think the fans "want to see one team with the ball for a long time without changing hands."

But Edmonton fans didn't seem to mind seeing the Esks retain the ball for long periods at a time when they won championships in 1954-55-56. The Esks' victory formula in those days was simple — they kept their opponents from scoring by keeping the ball most of the game.

Armstrong feels rule changes in recent years have helped the offence and isn't in any hurry to bring in more new rules.

Most, like Dave Skrien of British Columbia Lions, were too busy preparing for the 1966 season which opens next Friday night with Saskatchewan Roughriders at Edmonton.

"I'm not giving any thought to it," said Skrien of Williams's suggestion. "I'm preparing for this season. At the end of the season I'd be happy to take a look at it."

There was more reaction from general managers.

Red O'Quinn of Ottawa Rough Riders said he would not oppose trying four downs in a preseason game next year, but favored retaining 10 yards. He said Williams's idea would reduce punting and change the nature and speed of the Canadian game.

The CFL rules committee discussed the idea last February, he said, and felt "the time was not right for a change."

Lew Hayman, managing director of Toronto Argonauts, agreed with Armstrong that Williams's suggestion could lead to too much ball control.

Ken Preston, general manager of Saskatchewan, was against the plan. He felt it would make Canadian football too much like the American game, which allows four downs to make 10 yards.

Williams said present rules make the Canadian game a defensive paradise and Ted Workman, general manager of Montreal Alouettes, questioned this.

"I'd question this term 'defensive paradise,' especially in the West. There are as many first downs, if not more, made here as in the National League and our games are sometimes very high scoring. We've helped the offence with rule changes this year. Let's take a look at that now and see how it works."

Workman referred to rule changes permitting more offensive blocking.

MEETS TEAM

TRENTON, Ont. (CP) — Leo Cadieux, associate defence minister, Friday night met 22 returning members of the Canadian rifle team which competed last week at the Commonwealth rifle meet in Bisley, England. Among those aboard a military flight was Maj. Dick Hampton of Alliston, Ont., who won the Queen's Prize, top honor at the meet.

Minor Baseball Results

Fountain Park erupted for four runs in the final inning to grab a 9-7 win over Bad Boys in a BMBA peewee game at the CNR last night.

Paul Wolfe and Stan Brooks threw or the Park. They gave up 10 hits, walked three and struck out six.

Danny Coulson and Dave Smith hurled or the losers. They gave up only eight hits, fanned eight, but walked 14.

Yves Beaulieu slammed two doubles for the winners. Jim Richardson and Terry Ray stroked two singles each, and Paul Wolfe and Stan Brooks one each.

Tom Coughlin banged a double and sigle for Bad Boys. Dany Coulson had a double, and Pete Wiseman, Dave Smith and Mike Bell had a pair of sinles each Andy Rickets hit a safety.

Brandon Kings Won't Join Junior Loop

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Brandon Wheat Kings announced Friday they will not join the proposed Western Canada Major Junior Hockey League for the 1966-67 season.

The announcement, made by president Paul Dunn, said a committee of the club would evaluate the matter once the proposed league is fully recognized by the National Hockey League and by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Last year Brandon competed in the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League. So far, eight teams have indicated they will participate in the proposed junior league. They are Winnipeg, Estevan, Regina, Weyburn, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary and Moose Jaw.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Swinging Sammy Snead, 54, is tickling the hearts of oldtimers with his youthful early footing in the Professional Golfers Association golden anniversary championship.

No longer The Slammer by his own admission, the West Virginian left behind him a field packed with youngsters who weren't born when Snead won his first golf championship.

Snead shot a 36-35—71 Friday for a 139 total and was the only player under par at the halfway mark of the 72-hole tournament over the 7,180-yard, par 35-35—70 Firestone Country Club course.

Limping along with a hip injury, Snead went to the practice tee after Friday's round to work on his theory that "the time to practice is when you're playing well."

Tommy Aaron, who was born the year Snead won his first tournament—the Oakland Open in 1937—walked past Snead, who kept threading perfect shots down the practice fairway.

MAKES OTHERS LOOK BAD

"No sense practising next to him," said Aaron. "It only makes you look bad."

Snead kept banging away at the practice tee, telling onlookers exactly what he would do with each shot and then doing it.

Would the legs hold out?

"Son, legs could be the secret. Over the years I did an awful lot of walking up and down those mountain sides while I was hunting and fishing. I guess, maybe, it's paying off now. Yes sir, rain or shine, snow or sleet Old Sam would be on those mountain sides."

HAS WON THREE

Snead refused to predict the outcome of the tournament, or his chances of winning his fourth PGA and first in 15 years.

"Any man who says he can say how he'll play is a liar. The two rounds I've had have no bearing on how I'll play the last two."

Going into those final two rounds Snead also was trailed by Julius Boros at 141. Grouped at 143 were Gary Player, Doug Sanders, Jack Cupit, Aaron and Billy Farrell.

Tiger Cash's Grand-Slam Tanks Tribe

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Though he must now concern himself with a problem of greater than the winning or losing of baseball games, Bob Swift is revealing in Norm Cash's heroics along with all the other Detroit Tigers.

Cash's grand - slam home run Friday night sent the Tigers to a 10-5 victory over Cleveland Indians and broke a six-game losing streak. And it gave Swift, back in a Detroit hospital the first good news he'd had that day.

Swift, who became acting manager when Charlie Dressen was felled by a heart attack earlier in the season, was told Friday he had lung cancer. But when the team physician, Dr. Russell Wright, came to visit Swift in the hospital he found the former Tiger catcher as concerned with the team as himself.

"He said he'd like to see them doing better," Wright said.

As far as Cash was concerned, it was no sooner said than done.

The first baseman stepped up in the sixth with Tigers on every base and drove a pitch by Gary Bell into the upper right - field stands, ending Bell's work for the day.

Later Cash had two chances to enter the record books, but had to settle for another two runs batted in. In the seventh and ninth innings Cash came up with the bases jammed, but the first time he was walked ad the second time hit a sacrifice fly.

In other American League games, Baltimore Orioles beat Chicago White Sox 3-1, Kansas City Athletics knocked off Washington Senators 7-2, Boston Red Sox edged Minnesota Twins in 11 innings 6-5 and California Angels took New York Yankees 6-4.

Jim Palmer threw a six-hitter as the Orioles maintained their 11½-game bulge over the rest of the league. It was his 11th victory of the season. Brooks Robinson hit his 19th homer.

Nobody Behind Senators

WASHINGTON (CP) — In the clubhouse, there was no joking, no hollering across the room, no kidding, no horseplay.

Washington Senators had lost baseball games before—second division clubs lose lots of games. But this was different.

It put the Senators in undisputed possession of 10th place, last in the American League.

It is the lowest the Senators have been this season, one that manager Gil Hodges predicted would end with Washington in the first division.

On June 2, Washington moved into the first division, only two games away from playing .500 ball, another season's goal.

ARE THEY DIZZY?

But the thin air of the first division apparently made the Senators dizzy and they began to tumble. Since the all-star break, they have won only once in nine outings.

"It's not that we haven't had the chances," Hodges said Thursday night after Minnesota Twins defeated the Senators, 1-0, fr their seventh victory in eight days over Washington.

"The boys just aren't taking advantage of the breaks."

Hodges said he plans no drastic changes in the lineup.

"It's just a matter of the boys getting the hits at the right time and taking advantage of be opportunities."

Mr. Right, who won the Dwyer at Aqueduct last Saturday, will carry topweight of 126 pounds, ncluding jockey Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B.

Oshawa Midgets Top Belleville

Belleville nursed a 1-0 lead for five innings before dropping a 6-1 decision to Oshawa in an EOBA Midget contest played at Oshawa last night.

The losers scored in the first while Oshawa netted two in the fifth and a big four in the seventh.

Henery and Blanchard in the sixth hurled six - hit ball for the winners, fanning a dozen and walking two.

Ted Shaw was the loser, allowing the six runs before giving way to Wayne McTaggart in the seventh. They gave up six hits, struck out 13 batters and walked five.

Paul Goodfellow had a pair of Belleville's singles with the others going to Bob Luffman, Wayne McTaggart, Cliff Scott and John Bateman.

He finished the 72-hole medal test two shots ahead of Maury Ferstman, also from Las Vegas.

The junior champion is 15-year-old Don Smart of Chemainus, B.C., with 81-92-85-71—339.

"We Invented Football"

Cocky Koreans Say They Will Win Cup

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP) — European teams had the betting edge as World Cup soccer reached the quarter - finals today, but all eight teams were given a chance, including the North Koreans who have one chance in 100, said the bookies.

Millions of fans agonized along with English manager Alf Ramsey after it was reported that Jimmy Greaves, the team's biggest goal - snatcher, was out of the England-Argentina game because of three stitches in a wounded left leg. The leg was injured during the game against France.

Ramsey was already struggling with a decision over another great player, Nobby Stiles, who was under a cloud because of a warning by the world governing body of soccer. He was chastised for a foul in a previous game by the soccer federation, which said stern action would be taken if he were named again.

Besides Argentina - England, today's other matches—all beginning at 10 a.m. EDT—were West Germany vs. Uruguay, Portugal vs. North Korea and Russia vs. Hungary.

Perhaps the most startling announcement Friday came when North Korea said it invented soccer and will win the World Cup, taking it to Asia for the first time.

"We know all there is to know about soccer," said Kim Deuik Joon, Korean vice-president of soccer. "After all, we invented the game."

This view received sympathy but little else from the Communist Morning Star, which noted that Portugal's players will get $1,200 bonuses if they win while the Koreans, who are soldiers and classed as amateurs, will merely get certificates of merit, from their government.

"No big bonuses for North Korea," says The Star. ". . . There's something refreshing about this in these days of all-out commercialism. But even so, it looks like £400-a-man Portugal to reach the semi-finals in convincing style."

One Korean official said his team isn't worried as far as shortage of inches is concerned. "It is ability on the ground that counts."

Another authority says that not Korea, but China, invented soccer.

HAS AN IDEA

The German view, a West German publication, arrived in London Friday with some facts and philosophy about the World Cup and how soccer started.

It says:

"The Chinese soldiers who 3,000 years ago played 'tsu chu' or 'kick the ball' would probably be fascinated if they could witness the present World Cup matches.

"The game, which originally seems to have been little better than a free-for-all in the mud, now has become a most difficult science, although in contrast to mathematics or chemistry it has a passionate appeal to the masses. . . ."

German View states that German working people, the same as the English, and indeed many other nationalities, are accused of staying away from work to watch or listen to broadcasts of cup games.

But, says this periodical: "Some of the more serious-minded observers may find this deplorable but on the other hand, one might point out that this world might be a better place if all differences of opinion could be decided on the soccer field."

"Don't Give Me Money I Need"

Clay to Drop Syndicate

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay left for Europe today and a couple of world heavyweight championship bouts—fights he says will be the last he'll fight under the sponsorship of a Louisville, Ky., syndicate.

"The sponsoring group has been good to me," Cassius said.

"They fix it so nobody can say I'm associated with gangsters and I'm not clean. I'm clean anyway, but the truth is I'll be through with the group when the contract expires in October.

"They don't give me the money I need. I want $20,000 to open an office to take care of autographs and my mail. They don't give me no tax write-off. I'm not a dumb person."

Clay's affairs have been handled by a Louisville syndicate since he turned pro in 1960. Under terms of the contract, the group gave him a $10,000 bonus, a salary of $4,000 a year and all expenses, and a 50-50 split of all purses.

DUNDEE STAYS

Angelo Dundee will remain with him as his manager, Clay said.

Jimmy Brown will be with him, but can't manage; he's ready to fight Ernie Terrell; his draft status is still up in the air; and Brian London might be tough were some other observations Clay offered.

He is scheduled for a title fight with London Aug. 6 at Earl's Court in England, and against southpaw Karl Mildenberger in Frankfurt, Germany Sept. 10.

"Jimmy Brown will be with me, but he can't be my manager because he's got 10 per cent of Main Bout," Clay said. "Angelo Dundee is my trainer and manager. I'll be with Angelo as long as I'm near a ring."

Brown, Cleveland Browns star fullback who recently announced his retirement from pro football, is in England making a movie. There had been considerable speculation that he might become Clay's manager.

Brown, however, is a stockholder in Main Bout Inc., a group that has the ancillary rights to all of Clay's fights.

As for Terrell, who holds the World Boxing Association version of the world title:

"After Mildenberger I'll fight Terrell in New York, Chicago or any place they'll let me," Clay said. "Just let him get sense and be the challenger."

PLANS STATION

OTTAWA (CP)—French plans to locate a satellite tracking station in Newfoundland have been put off for several years, it was learned here Friday. A federal official said this may indicate France intends to concentrate on equatorial rather than polar-orbit satellites.

AT THE PARK — Jerry Lewis isn't so sure he wants to try making love to a girl expert at karate, even if she is Mary Ann Mobley. It's a scene from "Three On a Couch," new Columbia Pictures release, in color. Showing for four more days until Tuesday. The Jerry Lewis production also stars Janet Leigh, Gila Golan and Leslie Parrish and James Best in his first screen comedy role. Complete shows evenings 7.00 and 9.10 p.m. Sunday matinee at 2.00 p.m.

Latta Bats Turn Back Acme 10-6

Latta rattled off a 13-hit attack and coasted to a 10-6 South Hastings Baseball League victory over Belleville Acme Electric, at the Fairgrounds, last night.

The winners built an early lead, ahead 6-0 at one point, before the third Belleville pitcher slowed them with strikeouts. It was an 8-6 game until Latta's final pair in the ninth.

Doug Chisholm got the victory nod for Latta but a steady relief performance by Lorne Cronkright, who came on in the sixth, was a factor. Chisholm gave up eight of the losers' ten hits, fanned four and walked two. Cronkright struck out four and walked three.

Ron Stratton started for Acme, replaced by Glynn Reynolds in the second who in turn gave way to Don Masters in the third. Masters allowed five of the 13 hits and struck out 14, seven in succession, while walking two. The other pair did not have a strikeout between them. Stratton passed three and each allowed four hits.

Doug Geen had a three-hit night for Latta, one of them a double, with Bob Smith hitting a triple and single and Lorne Cronkright a double and single. Howard Meeks singled twice, Doug Rowsome tripled, Doug Chisholm, Gary Ray and Ross Parks added base knocks.

Ron Archer and Terry Casselman each poled a triple and single for Belleville. Claude Carr hit a two-run homer and the other safeties went to Don Masters, Glynn Reynolds, Jack O'Neil, Roly Belanger and Ron Stratton.

Want Royalties for Actors In Foreign Films on TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The demand by actors for a greater share of the profits from their labors now has assumed global proportions.

The issue is pointed up in this month's edition of the Screen Actors Guild magazine. A guild official, Chester L. Migden, reported on the May conference in Stockholm of unionists representing actors in 13 countries, including those behind the Iron Curtain.

Nations participating were Canada, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, United Kingdom and the United States.

The principal concern of the conference was how to provide actors with more returns from the sale of movies to television. As of now, American actors are virtually the only ones who receive royalties from TV movies.

DEPRESS PRICES

"The lack of payment to foreign actors when (imported) pictures go on television in the U.S.," says Migden, has the effect of undercutting our formula by depressing prices paid for theatrical product on television. . . .

The high stakes involved are demonstrated by recent sales. Last week the American Broadcasting Co. bought 16 recent Columbia Pictures releases—including Ship Of Fools, King Rat and The Collector—for $500,000 each. CBS bought 14 Warner Brothers films at $550,000 each.

Migden observed that during a typical week Los Angeles channels showed 263 old features, of which 45 were foreign-made and hence produced no royalties for actors.

60 Pro-Ams In Ladies' Tourney

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—More than 60 professional and amateur women golfers from Canada and the United States are expected to compete July 28-30 in the first Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament held in Canada.

Less than a day remains for last-minute entrants to sign for the 54-hole, $15,000 open. Deadline is 9 p.m. EDT Sunday.

The medal-play tournament, one of the 35 in this year's tour, is ranked among the top six purses and has attracted 40 of the leading money winners on the U.S. tour.

In the amateur class, Pamela Miller of Oshawa, winner of the Ontario ladies open in Toronto July 15, will try to make it two in a row.

Detroit's Swift Out For Season

DETROIT (AP)—Bob Swift, first-base coach who became acting manager of Detroit Tigers when Charlie Dressen suffered a heart attack, was reported Friday to have a malignant lung tumor.

Swift, 51, has been in a Detroit hospital since July 14.

The Tigers said Swift will not be able to return to uniform this season.

Frank Skaff, third-base coach who stepped in as acting manager when Swift was sent to hospital, will continue in charge of the team, in second place in the American League.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

The writer has often been asked to give a short concise explanation of the investment economics of houses. Another form of the question is: Why do you find such a large number of absentee owners in slum areas and none in high priced neighborhoods. The explanation lies in rent multipliers as related to various priced houses.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: For the past five years I have been buying houses. I now own 10 houses and all are rented. I mortgage them for 80 percent and 90 per cent and let the rent pay off the debt. On paper, I'm now worth a lot of money.

My accountant recently analyzed my investments and his report has me confused. He says that I am making hardly any money on the high priced houses I bought, while my investment returns on the cheap houses are excellent. Perhaps I'm getting the wrong rent? Are there any guides as to rent levels of houses. What has been your investment experience with houses? — Potential Millionaire

ANSWER: By trial and error our reader is discovering a fundamental truth relating to income characteristics of house investments. The lower priced the house, the larger the ratio of monthly rent to price.

The following table gives an approximation of ratio of monthly rent to price for various categories. Of course it can vary somewhat in different markets.

Price	Monthly Rent	Ratio: Mthly. Rent & Pr.
6,000	75	1:80
10,000	100	1:100
20,000	175	1:114
40,000	300	1:133
60,000	400	1:150

These ratios (when reversed) are known as rent-multipliers Experience indicates that rent multipliers up to 60 give an excellent return. Multipliers up to about 100 or 110 give good returns. Beyond that, investment returns drop drastically. High multipliers represent a poor return.

The smaller the multiplier, the better the investment return. This is the explanation of the economics of the housing market. It also explains why you have high absentee ownership in low priced markets (slums) but almost 100 percent home ownership in high priced markets.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am a student and will rent my first apartment this fall. The landlord tells me that municipal regulations require that I give him a three-months security deposit. I needn't tell you it's money I can not spare. Why is it necessary to put up such a large deposit? — Graduate Student

ANSWER: This incident should further your education. I know of no law anywhere in the country which requires a tenant to give a security deposit. Rather, it is a real estate management practice.

A security deposit, if any, is a matter of negotiation between landlord and tenant. In practice the greater number of apartments are rented without security deposits. Notwithstanding, a one month security deposit is more prevalent — three months is rather rare. I would say that the landlord is asking for too much.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We have found a subdivision model house that we like. Could we get a builder to construct a duplicate of the model at the same price on our lot?—Looking Long Time

ANSWER: Normally, the cost of building a single house is from 10 to 20 percent higher than a similar house which is part of a large operation. However, since the price of the model house includes land and building, and land cost is usually about 20 percent of the total price you should be able to duplicate the model on your lot at approximately the quoted price.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My beautiful red-brick house has ugly white blotches all over. What is it? How do I get rid of it? — Recent Suburbanite

ANSWER: The white stains are known as efflorescence Rain water is dissolving the alkali in the cement, water or brick and bringing it to the surface. When the water evaporates, the salts remain as a crystalline deposit.

Scrubbing with a stiff wire brush will remove most of it. If complete eradication is desired, it is necessary to scrub with a solution made of one pint of muriatic (hydrochloric) acid in ten quarts of water. Caution: Care must be taken in preparing the solution. The acid should be poured slowly into the water, constantly stirring. Never pour water into the acid. Use old clothes, rubber gloves and goggles.

Using a fine brush, scrub the deposit vigorously. After no more than three minutes, the acid should be flushed-off with plenty of clear water from a hose. Flush for at least five minutes. If acid is allowed to remain the masonry will be attacked and become pitted.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have a beautiful cherry dining room set which has been passed down in my family from my great-grandmother. All the chairs and the table have become rickety. My husband has tried to tighten the screws but they all have become loose and keep turning How do I save the set? — Dutiful Heir

ANSWER: A problem of worn screw holes in furniture is easy and simple to solve. Remove the screws and force plastic wood into the holes. Let dry thoroughly. The screws will now grip tightly, and chairs and tables should be as solid as new.

Goldston Denies Brawling

Goldston, commenting before a game with Saskatchewan Roughriders, said Boyette did not accompany the team because he had not signed a 1966 contract when original travel plans were made.

Boyette was reported to have signed a day before the club left but wanted to go home for a visit and was left behind. The club had not intended to play him, Goldston said.

The reported fight was "no more than the normal run-in you have with a contract signing," said Goldston.

Goldston, a standout defensive back with Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal before becoming an assistant coach this season, confirmed that disciplinary considerations were part of the reason for leaving Boyette behind.

Leafs Split, Jets Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pete Magrini lost a four-hitter Friday night and Toronto Maple Leafs' drive to first place in the International League baseball standings stalled.

The split dropped the second-place Leafs two games behind Columbus Jets, who snapped a three - game losing streak by taking both ends of their twin bill from Syracuse Chiefs 9-0 and 3-2.

Rochester Red Wings also moved to within two games of the Jets by thumping Toledo Mud Hens 10-2 for their fifth victory in a row. Buffalo Bisons dropped Jacksonville Suns 7-0.

"As soon as I can find the lawn mower, that's when!"

Score Was 20-1
Saskys Trounce Larks

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference turned in a strong defensive performance and took advantage of opportunities to trounce the Eastern Conference Montreal Alouettes 20-1 Friday night in an exhibition football game.

The Roughriders held Montreal to a single point in the first half—their own offence gained only 55 yards—and then within 10 minutes in the second half used an interception and a recovered fumble to set up two of their three touchdowns.

Flanker Hugh Campbell scored two touchdowns for Saskatchewan, both on passes from rookie quarterback Ed Buzzell. Defensive end Ken Reed got the other when he picked up a fumble in the Alouette end zone. Jack Abendschan converted twice.

COLLECTS SINGLE

For Montreal, now 1-2 in the exhibition season, Peter Kempf collected a single point from four attempted field goals.

The game, played on a field drenched by a short cloudburst just before kickoff, was often sloppy and the teams fumbled nine times. Saskatchewan lost four of five fumbles and Montreal four of four.

Both clubs used quarterbacks freely. The Roughriders, with regular Ron Lancaster on the bench nursing an injured shoulder, alternated Buzzell and rookie Bruce Bennett. The Alouettes started with George Bork, mixed in veteran Bernie Faloney and closed with rookie George Narcisse.

Saskatchewan's first real break was set up by Reed in the third quarter. He picked off a short Faloney pass at the Alouette 25 and three plays and a Montreal interference penalty later Buzzell found Campbell in the end zone with a pass at 8:31.

WINS TITLE

CALGARY (CP) — Emmanual Boucher of Montreal was awarded the Canadian archery championship Friday after rolling up an aggregate score of 3,737 in four days of competition. Tom Mack of Hamilton was second in the aggregate scoring with 3,677 points. Al Miller of Toronto finished third with 3,630.

Football Fever Fatal

MEXICO (Reuters) — Two deaths are being attributed to "football fever" aroused by the World Cup soccer campaign in Britain.

A 21-year-old bricklayer playing soccer in an unfinished house leaped to prevent a "goal" and fell two floors to his death.

KATAKOLON, Greece (AP)—Police said a 19-year-old Brazilian girl student jumped from a ship into the sea Friday when she learned of Brazil's defeat in World Cup soccer in Britain.

A sailor jumped in and pulled her out while she was still screaming "I hate Pele." Pele, Brazil's star, was supposed to bring Brazil its third consecutive world title, but suffered injuries which hampered his play.

Police identified the girl as Maria Savias, student at the technological school in Brasilia She was with a group of students on a cruise aboard the Greek ship Esperos.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

EASTERN ONTARIO CLUB

Mention the name jeeps and a gleam comes into many men's eyes as they think of tackling rocky streams, rough logging trails or open meadows with this plucky vehicle. The same men would probably be heard muttering "what a waste," if they were to see the tenacious jeep just cruising along a smooth expressway.

Yet this is what they will see in the OML Toronto Club's highway patrol cars this summer — but it won't be any waste. The Club has added two new Jeep Wagoneers — four-wheel - drive jeeps in roomy station wagon clothing — to its corps of patrol cars. With all the tenacity of wartime jeeps, the Wagoneers are tackling a new kind of problem: how not only to help a car in trouble, but remove it from rush-hour traffic on the metropolitan highways and expressways.

They are doing their job well. Four wheel drive enables the Wagoneers to push a car out of traffic without slipping or sliding on wet or muddy surfaces.

"And they are specially equipped," says chief patrol driver Bob Langdon, "with push-bumpers twice the size of ordinary car bumpers." Similar to those on tow trucks, the push bumpers are flat, rubber-coated steel.

During rush hours on the Gardiner and Don Valley Expressways, Toronto Club patrol drivers have to be ready for anything. And they usually are, with such equipment as fire extinguishers, air tanks, gallon cans, battery boosters and first-aid kits. Every patrol driver is trained in first-aid by the St. John Ambulance brigade.

In the summer, drivers cover Highways 400, 401 and Queen Elizabeth Way during weekends within a 78-mile radius of Toronto. Last summer, one driver spotted a car just outside Stroud that seemed abandoned. On stopping he discovered five passengers inside, all unconscious. They had become ill from ptomaine poisoning. The patrol driver immediately administered first-aid and phoned the nearest service station on his car's two-way radio for help.

Happily, such misfortuned do not occur every day, but blowouts, engine failure, dead batteries are among those that do.

And they always seem to happen at the worst times, at five o'clock on the Gardiner Expressway, for example; or in bumper-to-bumper highway traffic crawling home from cottages on a Sunday. Now, Wagoneers, in the red, white and blue CML Toronto-Club colors, have a grip on the toughest road problems and can push stranded motorists to safety, service, and out of the way of heavy traffic.

THEY'RE HOPEFUL

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Civil Service announced Friday it hopes to meet a July 29 deadline in issuing cheques covering the retroactive section of recent pay increases to civil servants in maintenance, office and technical classes. About 22,000 civil servants will receive the wage increase. The health department, which issues its own payroll, is trying to meet the same deadline.

Hanover Sets Record

The event was the second leg of the HTA pace Bret Hanover won the first leg last Friday at Hamburg, N.Y., in 2:02 2-5.

The victory was the 53rd in 57 starts for Bret Hanover, driven by trainer Frank Ervin, 62.

The horse has paced the mile in less than two minutes on 22 occasions and a crowd of 14,830 was on hand to see if he could do it again.

The victory was worth $7,860 and boosted Bret Hanover's career earnings to $740,352. The record earnings for a harness horse is $885,095 by retired Su Mac Lad.

Bret Hanover returned $2.10 to win and $2.10 to place.

Second was Woodlawn Drummond, owned by Gerard Veilleux of Drummondville, Que., and driven by Keith Waples of Victoria Harbour, Ont. Woodlawn Drummond, 3¼ lengths behind, paid $2.10 to place.

UNVEILS PLAN

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood unveiled a long-range plan Friday to build at least seven new hospitals in Newfoundland, enlarge and improve at least six more and expand or replace another at a total cost of between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Why should our son have a newspaper route?

The living is good. Plenty of money, nice home, nice furnishings, another salary raise in sight; we've never had it so good. Why should our son manage a newspaper route?

Most any educator or businessman will tell you why in three simple words: it builds character.

Oftentimes the youngster who grows up in comfortable circumstances and who gets his weekly "handout" from dad never realizes the value of money or the efforts required to make it and manage it, until he's on his own. By then attitudes and habits are difficult to reverse.

But the newspaperboy quickly learns valuable lessons that stick. While making money on a newspaper route is important, the experience of getting-the-job-done-no-matter-what is more important. When through route management, responsibility and self-confidence are acquired at this early age, a newspaperboy has an advantage over other youngsters that no amount of money can buy.

If you're still wondering whether your son would benefit from newspaper route management, ask a community businessman or civic leader, or better still, write our Circulation Department.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 24

ARIE3 (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Key is growth rather than preserving status quo. Plan ahead. You can make this a time when you break through to greater accomplishment. Study ways of getting more for money.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Combine efforts with one close to you. Start anew to achieve harmony, understanding. Be especially considerate of mate or partner. Your life happier if you make special concession.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): This can be pleasant day for comparing notes with congenial people. Don't force or rush. If you are a good, intelligent listener . . . others make valuable suggestions, offer aid.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Some opinions, events may not be apparent or obvious. You may need to be extra-discerning. Check facts. Heed indications of subconscious. You can now help family member to succeed.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Be active . . . put ideas to work. Many attracted because of your personality, showmanship. Wonderful time for meeting people. Extend hand of friendship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Avoid excess — don't permit yourself to become overly tired. Pacing is important. Changes indicated — so is travel. Keep sharp eye on possessions. Others may cherish them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Cycle high. Friendship accented. You make inroads with pet project. Key is optimism. Avoid any tendency toward depression. Study Leo message. Stand tall!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Check various methods, sources. You can work out profitable solutions if not afraid of some seclusion. Means you require time alone today. Key is concentration.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Strive for harmonious relationships. Best course to cultivate allies. Don't push people away. Your pride could be an obstacle. If you highlight maturity . . . you can succeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Some friction evident . . . but if you spar wisely you come out on top. Test theories without being over-confident. Means be observant. Highlight perceptiveness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Be sure of facts, figures. Tendency is to become involved in legal tangles. Be charming, but firm. Don't say yes until all information is placed out in the open.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Emphasize the positive. Applies especially where ideals, contacts with opposite sex are concerned. No time for halfway measures. Make a decision. Follow through with confidence.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are peace-loving, have a desire to make family members happy. With a greater degree of self-confidence . . . you would do well in business area.

For July 25

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Fine for working out creative method of capitalizing on assets. Take advantage of abilities. Mate or partner may not be fully informed. Important to be self-reliant.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Environment may be lulling you into sense of false security. Study fine print. Subtle indications should be investigated thoroughly!

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Fine for socializing with associates, co-workers. You can impress others with basic dignity. Show of gratitude for those who aided in past can open doors previously closed.

The Golden Years

What People Are Thinking Out in 'Retirement Land'

By THOMAS COLLINS

It seems fitting on occasion to forego writing a column, an essay, or a report on retirement and simply have a talk with you who read what I write.

This is such a talk.

A lot of you are writing me letters, as a lot of you know. And your preoccupation, as always, is money. bout 70 per cent of the letters ask what to do with savings, how to live on a retirement income, and what it costs to live in sunshine country.

Your second major interest, if your letters are a gauge, is your children. They don't pay much attention to you. For what consolation it is to you, very few children pay very much attention to retired parents. Apparently not because they don't love you, and not because you failed somewhere in rearing them. But because your children, usually in their 40's, are barrelling down their superhighways to success and don't pay much attention to anybody who can't help them. You can't help much. Unless maybe you've got an inheritance hidden away.

Some of you were confused by the term "Tangerine Towns" in a recent column on where retired couples were living on small incomes. This was a short way of saying Arizona, Florida, Southern California, and South Texas, which is where the citrus fruit grows. "Sunshine Country," "Grapefruit Land," and "Shuffleboard Heaven" all mean the same.

SHAKEN UP

A surprising number of you were shaken up when the column on Mutual Funds said your savings in banks and savings and loan would look pretty sad if serious inflation came. This did not mean somebody was going to snatch your money, but that your savings were static and couldn't grow in face value, as other investments would, during inflation. Don't you remember how much more a dollar would buy in 1936 than it will now?

The columns on the perils of joint ownership of anything by a retired husband and wife seem to have led many of you to make some changes in your financial setup. But I'm still getting scolding letters from some of you who say you talked to your banker about a freeze on your joint bank accounts in case one of you dies, and the banker said I was nuts. Which could be. But the smartest thing, still, that any retired couple can do is to have the banker write them a letter, on a bank letterhead, saying the survivor can cash in a joint account, without delay, if the husband or wife dies.

Many of you seem to think that if you have signed up for Medicare you've got it made. You haven't. You'll need a doctor to recommend you to a hospital. And doctors aren't going to be inclined to recommend strangers above their regular patients. You'd better become a regular patient of some doctor, even if it costs you $5 a month for office calls.

No matter what welfare people profess, or what some of your outraged letters tell me, retired couples can live and are living in "Tangerine Country" on incomes of $200 to $250 a month. And doing it in good health and happiness. We wouldn't have to argue this point any further if you would go have a look. I've been.

IN PRIVATE

Most of you men between the ages of 55 and 64 who are reading this are reading it as a nice woman reads a sexy novel — in private. You don't want anybody to know you are getting close to retirement, and you certainly don't want anybody to think you need any advice on how to retire.

Some of you — mostly women — are a problem to me. I write columns about some little old lady who is managing on an income of $125 a month, or maybe less. The idea is to give reassurance to people on small retirement incomes, and to give some practical suggestions on low-budget living. But some of you throw everything but the churn at me when such columns are printed. You claim the cases aren't true. Why? Maybe you're campaigning for relatives, or the government, or your former company to sweeten your retirement income, and think such reports hurt your chances. I don't know. And I don't know what to do about you.

And, incidentally, I get a few letters from you saying the column is helpful. To other retired people, of course. You have no problem, naturally.

A Canadian Press reporter travelling in North Africa finds there is much more than the tourist folders suggest. In this story he describes the European-Arab blend that makes this region so interesting to the foreigner.

By PETER BUCKLEY

TUNIS (CP)—North Africa needs a new image abroad.

The standard image of camels and Bedouins, of drifting sand and stinking casbahs, seems about as valid now as the tourist-folder pictures of beavers, Mounties and Eskimos in Canada. Both pictures are true as far as they go, but they don't go nearly far enough.

A Canadian making his first trip to this vast region the Arabs call Al-Maghreb—"The West"—is likely to be taken aback by his first impatient traffic jam in Algiers or his first glimpse of paradise gardens and lush farms stretching to some soft purple mountain range in the hazy distance.

Every major city has a European - looking business and residential quarter, sprinkled with those white walled office towers and homes in an architectural style that could be known as "Underdeveloped - World Modern," a style as common in Africa and South America as it is in Arabia.

The goods in the smart shop windows are the same ones seen in Berlin and London, even though the fashions may be last year's. The restaurant menus ape Paris. Television sets boom out streaky Arab imitations of France's "Ye Ye" singers.

MEN DISCARD ROBES

Were it not for the darker skin tones and the Arab robes — still common among women, but almost an affectation now among the men—the coastal cities could well be called Barcelona or Nice or Naples.

The long-time Western residents of Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia tell visitors earnestly: "You can't pretend to have seen the Maghreb until you've been to the Interior, to the oases."

It sounds vaguely like those who say you haven't seen Canada until you've been to the Far North. With development and population concentrated heavily in a narrow belt of cities and arable land, in both Canada and North Africa, the thesis is perhaps true but increasingly irrelevant.

North Africa seems made for tourists.

Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia have all launched ambitious programs to develop their hotels, beaches and resorts. Prices are reasonable on most items. Facilities and service are frequently as good as, or better than, in Europe.

CON MEN VANISH

As for those legendary shifty Arabs who grew fat on gullible tourists, they seem to be going largely underground in the face of government action to protect the budding, vital tourist industry.

Beyond the air-conditioned hotel rooms lie fine sand beaches, virtually deserted beyond the main cities—the type that every maritime country boasts of but few provide. The French colonists left North Africa with a sturdy network of smooth highways connecting all the principal centres.

And traditional North Africa is there for the asking—in the narrow lanes of the vibrant Arab quarters, the historic walled cities and finely carved gates, the sleepy white-washed villages, the important Roman ruins, the mountain tribesmen and desert warriors, the veiled women and the camel caravans.

Nearly 20,000,000 tourists will have visited Spain this year, while a stone's throw across the Strait of Gibraltar the number who tour Morocco is not likely to exceed 800,000.

A visitor to North Africa can't help feeling that some day the tourists will tire of seeing nothing but fellow tourists in their tracks, jostling for an elbow's width of beach or a peek at gilded cherubs.

Then they'll swarm across the Mediterranean to the Maghreb. It would be worth while coming here now, before the rush starts.

Licking Vapor Lock Solves Many Woes

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

The hot weather season brings familiar sounds of motorists moaning, muttering and swearing when vapor lock stalls and strands them. It's not as common a trouble as it once was, but that's small consolation to the thousands who still suffer through it.

What is vapor lock? It's a condition which occurs when a hot fuel line, pump or carburetor causes vaporized gas bubbles to form and block normal fuel feed. It's caused by abnormally high engine temperatures, which heat up fuel line, pump and-or carburetor.

That's why you've seen some cars with asbestos wrapping and heat-deflecting shields protecting these parts. Electric fuel pumps are also effective.

But the real cure for vapor lock is to hold down engine temperatures to a normal level. This may involve a thorough check out of the cooling, ignition and fuel systems, but it can end the vapor lock problem . . . and perhaps other performance and economy troubles that have been plaguing you.

From S. A.: "There's a long, narrow stain on the right edge of our car hood and also on the edge of the fender which meets it. Would this be due to engine heat or combustion?"

An overcharging battery, which throws off an excessive amount of fumes, is more likely.

H. J. writes: "On our '60 sedan, what causes fumes to blow from the oil breather pipe? The garage says I need new piston rings."

If the garage is right, worn piston rings are allowing combustion gases to get into the crankcase. This builds up pressure, causing oil vapors to be forced out the breather. However, the same symptoms occur when a clogged crankcase ventilation system is to blame.

L. T. asks: "Why on earth do you say good engine heat is needed in summer, too? Haven't you ever heard of vapor lock?"

Timely question. Adequate engine heat is necessary to aid fuel vaporization and proper mixture distribution to the cylinders.

From S. B.: "Every summer, before vacation, I have my spark plugs replaced. My brother insists this is a waste of good money."

It is, but only if cleaning and regapping won't restore good plug performance. As far as money waste is concerned, poor plugs can hurt cooling, gas economy and performance.

People Do Not Have to Work His Quarrel With Communism

Workers are hardly ever fired in Communist Eastern Europe, no matter how much they might deserve to be. John Best, Canadian Press Moscow correspondent, back from a tour of the region, tells how this hinders economic reform.

By JOHN BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"Communism is no good," said an eager young Belgrade taxi driver. "People work four, five hours a day and the state pays them enough to live on."

If he was talking about the time spent at the plant he was wrong. In Communist Eastern Europe people "work" long hours—an average of at least 46 a week.

But, if he meant real working time he wasn't exaggerating a bit. Inefficient, time-serving labor is one of the biggest problems reformers must face in revitalizing the badly lagging economic machines.

It will be no small part of the task of economic reform to change the attitude of workers long accustomed to enjoying a tolerable if not advanced standard of living in return for relatively little exertion.

A Western diplomat who has visited a number of factories compares the phenomenon to the old army game: a number of people standing around watching others work.

Job tenure is inviolable. Everywhere, you hear the same lament from responsible people concerned over the feather-bedding: "It's impossible to fire anybody here."

UNIONS POWERFUL

An official Czech publication says much the same thing in different words: "No employee can be hired, dismissed or transferred to another job without previous agreement of the trade union branch at the factory or office concerned."

That has been a universal rule in Eastern Europe.

And from all accounts, if there's one thing Communist trade unions are good at it's protecting job security.

However, the chronic apathy and low productivity of workers is not something organic, traceable to some fatal character flaw among East Europeans.

It's but a symptom of fundamental deficiencies in the system itself—or as an economist might say, imperfections in the "model."

As long as communism was faced with the primary task of building new factories, laying the foundation of industrial economies, it could and did produce striking results.

However, when the task shifted to that of primarily making the factories work efficiently to satisfy consumption needs, the results were uniformly bad.

ALL PAID SAME

It was a case of too much starry-eyed central planning, too little attention to profit-and-loss considerations, too much political interference, too little incentive either for managers or laborers to do good work, and disregard of the real needs of the market.

Under a distorted and ill-applied principle of egalitarianism, workers got paid the same whether they turned out good work or bad.

The market was ignored from the standpoint of both quality and what people wanted.

As a result, warehouses and store shelves across Eastern Europe became clogged with goods nobody wanted.

I asked a government economist in Budapest if he could estimate the annual loss from wasted resources tied up in unsold and unsalable goods.

He replied with a kind of parable.

"Take one grain of wheat and put it on a square at one corner of a chessboard. Then put two grains on the square next to it. On each successive square double the number of grains. If you carried on to the end you would find there isn't enough grain in all the world to cover the squares of the chessboard."

It was a way of illustrating the enormous progression of losses that unrealistic planning had cost one country.

Despite such shortcomings however there are in all the countries of the Soviet bloc men of ability absolutely committed to the notion that Communism in one form or another can be made to work.

They concede that errors have been made; in fact, it was they who pinpointed and analysed them. It hurts them to contemplate the mess that misguided planning has created. But they emphatically deny that this is incapable of correction.

What they most want to see preserved is the planning principle. They insist that, employed properly and with due moderation, this can confer enormous advantages on a Communist state from the viewpoint of allocating manpower and resources.

What they most want to see discarded is bureaucratic interference in the running of the economy.

Next: Trade still ties Eastern Europe to Soviet Union.

Bus Falls Off Bridge Killing 31

From AP-Reuters

They said 28 boys and girls, aged 10 to 17, two teachers and the driver were killed in the crash, one of the worst accidents on the Frankfurt-Cologne superhighway. All survivors were severely injured, police said.

The bus broke through guard rails on a bridge at Idstein, about 45 kilometres northwest of Frankfurt and somersaulted down more than 30 feet, landing with its wheels up on a road below.

The roof supports of the bus collapsed. Police said the party was from Brussels, where the bus was registered.

A team of a dozen doctors gave first aid to the injured and dying children as they were freed from the wreck by firemen. They were taken to hospitals in Limburg, Diez and Hadamar, all about 12 miles north of Idstein.

OFFICER KILLED

A German Army officer was also killed in an accident at the scene of the crash, where a traffic jam was caused by drivers stopping to look at the wreckage. A car skidded across the dividing strip into the oncoming lane and hit the officer's car, police reported.

They said 17 died at the scene of the crash, some in the arms of rescuers, and the others in the three hospitals. Two priests performed last sacraments at the scene.

The school children were returning from a vacation in the Austrian Tyrol, a police official said. He added they were thought to have been asleep at the time of the crash.

It was not clear what caused the 8.5-ton vehicle to plunge off the bridge.

Police first gave the death toll as 35, but later revised it.

Police Commissioner Erick Wolf, who took charge of the rescue operation, said: "As far as we know, all aboard were Belgian."

The bus landed on its roof and no other vehicle was involved.

Scores of police and ambulances hurried to the scene when a passing motorist spotted the bus and raised the alarm.

"When we got to the scene, there was nothing but moaning and screaming," Wolf said. "The dead were in all parts of the bus. We had to raise it a

Viet Nam Tide Turns Says LBJ

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—President Johnson told men of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division Saturday that "our fighting men have turned the tide of battle" in Viet Nam.

"The initiative is now with us—not with the enemies of freedom," Johnson said.

Johnson said in his prepared speech that while U.S. military forces make "conquest impossible for the Communist forces in the field, our diplomats are probing for a way to make an honorable peace seem desirable to the Communist leaders in Hanoi."

In his first stop, in Indianapolis, Ind., where he made two speeches, Johnson defended his Asian policies and spoke out against street violence by Negroes.

"Our country can abide civil protest," Johnson said. "It can improve the lives of those who mount that protest, but it cannot abide civil violence."

Departing from his prepared speech at Monument Circle in Indianapolis, Johnson noted a Viet Cong attack on a U.S. navy hospital in Da Nang, South Viet Nam, and said, "that is typical of the way the Communists fight."

In the United States, he said, there are people who denounce U.S. air raids on oil storage depots near Hanoi and Haiphong, but these people "remain strangely silent" when hospitals are attacked.

UN Security Council Meets To Discuss Air Raid on Syria

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Security Council meets today to discuss an Israeli air raid on a Syrian project to divert waters of the River Jordan.

Syria and Israel each filed complaints against the other. Syrian Ambassador George Tomeh and Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay were to speak first in the debate.

Comay wrote the council that the July 14 raid was meant to show Syria how gravely Israel viewed "continual Syrian violence."

Comay previously had accused Syria of being "the source, training ground, principal supplier and main support of a vicious terrorist organization, variously known as El-Fatah (conquest) and El-Asefa (storm)—organized to penetrate into Israeli territory and carry out terrorism and sabotage."

Tomeh, in a letter to the council denied mines were planted by Syrians. He said Syria could not "be held responsible for the activities of El-Fatah and El-Asefa."

The ambassador said the planes struck "the area in which an economic development plan of vital importance to Syria and neighboring countries is taking place."

"Israeli officials have made no secret that they will prevent the execution of this plan by force . . . The Israel authorities, actively engaged as they are in usurping the Arab waters of the Jordan River, are determined to prevent any Arab countries from proceeding to good use of its waters."

The program is a project similar to Israel's. In 1964, Israel started piping Jordan water to the Negev Desert and warned that she would "act for the preservation of her vital rights" if the Arab countries took "unilateral and illegal measures."

Then an Arab League summit meeting in Alexandria called for "immediate work on projects for the exploitation of the waters of the River Jordan and its tributaries."

Some Progress Reported In Quebec Hospital Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Cautiously - phrased reports of progress came from negotiations seeking to end a strike by 32,500 non - medical employees against the more than 100 Quebec hospitals.

But the progress appeared slow. Sunday night a report by one spokesman for the hospitals said that a dispute over promotions had been virtually resolved.

Other major questions remained to be settled, however, and the workers continued their strike, which began July 15 and reached full force three days later. About 70 per cent of Quebec's larger hospitals are affected by the walkout.

They are accompanied in their work stoppage by 2,294 nurses of Quebec's 10,000-strong nurse force, who seek higher salaries and other work improvements involving 53 hospitals.

The National Federation of Services (CNTU) is negotiating for both groups.

The number of hospitals affected by the non-medical employees' walkout now is officially set at 119.

Previously the figure was believed to be 139, but Dr. Fernand Lizotte, Quebec's associate deputy health minister, said Sunday night that some of the locals did not follow through with their strike threat.

There are 139 hospitals in the Quebec Hospitals Association, which has represented the institutions at negotiations. No official joint announcement about the bargaining was made Sunday.

Expensive To Remain Canadian

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) Judy LaMarsh, Canada's secretary of state, said United States influence in Canada is so great that many Canadians know more about what is happening there than in their own country.

Miss LaMarsh, visiting Australia to promote Canada's Confederation centennial, was speaking at a National Press Club luncheon.

"It is expensive to be a Canadian," she said.

"It would be so much easier and cheaper to let ourselves slide into the United States. It takes effort to be different, to pay the necessary cost of dividing a continent artificially as we have."

Relax Picketing At Inco

SUDBURY (CP) — White-collar workers today began crossing picket lines at 14 Sudbury-area operations of International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. for the first time since a wildcat strike by more than 15,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) began July 15.

Officials of steelworkers Local 6500 worked through the night setting up a system of passes ordered after a general membership vote Sunday supported recommendations of the union's bargaining committee, made after talks last week in Toronto supervised by the Ontario labor department.

Of more than 6,000 votes cast, 3,585 approved the committee's agreement with Inco that strikers allow supervisory personnel and office workers to enter the strikebound premises.

Both union and police officials reported that "things are quiet" on the picket lines today.

Homer Seguin, vice-president of Local 6500, said passes had been issued to all Inco employees eligible to cross the picket lines.

Company officials said last week negotiations would resume only if white-collar workers were granted access to the strikebound plants.

The company promised there would be no production or shipment of products from its Sudbury-area operations.

Five Parades Are Planned In This Area

NAPANEE — Tractor demonstrations by Ontario farmers scheduled to resume today will not be confined to areas in the western part of the province. Harold Murphy of R.R. 1, Deseronto, president of Local 181 of the Farmers' Union, said this morning that demonstrations will begin today at 2 o'clock on the County Road, north of Marysville, a village 15 miles east of Belleville. After the farmers assemble their tractors on the County Road, the demonstration will take place on Highways 2 and 502.

Similar demonstrations are planned for the Marmora area, on Highways 14 and 7 and at Plainfield, on Highway 37, and in Lennox and Addington Counties at Enterprise and Tamworth on Highway 41.

Mr. Murphy expects between 15 and 50 tractors to parade at Marysville. He said an accurate estimate of the number of tractors involved will have to wait until this afternoon. Many of the farmers are still very busy on their farms and all of them want to be sure that the demonstrations are absolutely legal. They want assurance that they will not be breaking the law.

Observing that the main reason for the demonstrations at this time, is the price of milk, Mr. Murphy said that is only part of the problem.

He went on to say that the farmers are protesting conditions in order to draw the public's attention to their plight.

"This has been coming for years," he said.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Only 600 of an expected 1,000 farmers have taken to Southwestern Ontario roads to protest low milk and cash crop prices.

The farmers, demonstrating by driving tractors along on highways, hope to reach Toronto Wednesday to present their case to Agriculture Minister William Stewart.

Ontario Farmers' Union organizers blamed newspaper reports about proposed Ontario Provincial Police action for discouraging greater participation.

Staging ground for the demonstration is Woodstock, where only 10 farmers were reported to have arrived by noon.

About 125 farmers, escorted by OPP, were parading towards Woodstock from the Arkona and Park Hill areas near London.

Kent County farmers converged on Chatham this morning, also escorted by the OPP. The 60 farmers were jeered as they drove down King St. in Chatham.

A scheduled tractor blockade by Carlsruhe and Elmwood area farmers, north of Kitchener, fizzled as only two of an expected 50 farmers showed up.

John Montague, chairman of the Carlsruhe farmers' union local said "the others chickened out. They were frightened off by what the OPP said about impounding tractors."

But Provincial Police had warned that they intended to clamp down on the proposed demonstration that John Dolmer, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union said would include about 1,000 farmers and tractors in the province.

A. E. Ayers, superintendent of the provincial police, said tractors will be impounded and charges likely would be laid if traffic is held up.

"We just can't permit them to hold up traffic any more. We've played with them long enough."

He said Saturday there are several sections of the Highway Traffic Act permitting police to impound the tractors. All of the sections relate to vehicles creating hazards on the highway.

Police said there were no plans to have extra men on duty at Lobo, Ont., today where the demonstration is expected to start towards Woodstock.

He said Friday night that if the police go through with their plans they could have an "awful lot of tractors on their hands Monday night. In fact they could have more than that on their hands."

Foam or Stickiness Control Chemicals Suspect in Deaths of Beer Drinkers

CHICAGO (CP)—Did a mineral foam-control agent, a vegetable enzyme for controlling stickiness or inadequate nutrition lead to "beer drinker's heart disease" deaths reported this year in Quebec City, Omaha, Neb., and Minneapolis, Minn.?

All three possibilities are being investigated, while medical authorities continue to disagree whether there really is such a disease.

In a copyrighted story, the medical news section of the Journal of the American Medical Association, published today, reviews what is known to date about "beer drinker's heart disease."

The Journal says at least 40 persons in Omaha and perhaps three in Minneapolis have had a myocardial disease similar to those reported in Quebec this spring. Sixteen persons died in Omaha and one in Minneapolis.

In its June 13 edition, the Journal carried a report on a symposium concerning 48 persons who had suffered heart tissue damage in the Quebec City area, of whom 20 died.

The current issue says disagreement still exists among medical men whether there really is a separate disease, or whether the cases merely display traditional symptoms of alcoholism.

The victims in all three cities shared two characteristics: They were habitually heavy beer drinkers and all had symptoms of myocardial insufficiency. In Quebec, it was noted, three to seven quarts of beer daily wasn't an unusual consumption among the patients examined.

As a precautionary measure, Canadian and U.S. brewers have stopped putting trace amounts of cobalt into beer. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration late in June recommended revocation of a 1963 regulation permitting cobaltous salts to be used in fermented malt beverages. The trace of cobalt gives beer a more stable head and prevents the gushing of foam over the edge of a glass.

Investigators emphasize that it isn't known whether the foam-stabilizing cobalt has anything to do with the heart disease—it is merely one of the factors under investigation.

Another substance under study is papain, an enzyme from the papaya plant, that is added to beer to reduce its stickiness.

And a theory of nutritional deficiency has been advanced by Dr. James F. Sullivan, who has been leading the medical team investigating the Omaha deaths.

Whatever the cause, the disease appears to have subsided abruptly both in Quebec City and Omaha.

The medical symposium at Quebec City in May summarized what then was known about the outbreak there. The trouble started last August when a 39-year-old man was admitted to hospital suffering what appeared to be cardiac insufficiency. In the following months,

How to Tell if You Are Still Forging Ahead

By HAL BOYLE

Or are you just a treadmill mouse that has fallen behind?

Surprisingly, many people don't know for sure. They still think they are climbing upward and onward when actually they simply are the last to find out they are on the skids.

It isn't always easy to tell. The size of your pay cheque is one tipoff, of course. But a lot of executives with large salaries are merely marking time.

They are well-paid barnacles that sooner or later will be scraped off.

There are, however, certain symbols of status that show you are still moving up the ladder of conventional success. Here are a few unmistakable signs:

Your wife raises by at least $1 the amount she daily doles you as lunch money.

You can afford to drive a small car because your neighbors are well aware you can afford to buy a larger one.

Some of the officials at the bank where you keep your account recognize you when you enter. If your account is occasionally overdrawn, they don't make a federal case of it.

At quitting time you don't have to tote home a briefcase stuffed with newspapers just to prove how hard you are working.

THEY DISLIKE YOU

Instead of talking about office problems, the boss likes to chat with you about his golf scores.

The senior vice - president hates your guts and regards you as a conniving young whippersnapper.

All the other ambitious guys your age in the office secretly dislike you, too, although they try to be publicly palsy-walsy.

You have become so important that no one else in the organization any longer can steal your ideas without at least giving you credit for them.

The boss's secretary always smiles when you enter. You no longer address her as "Miss." You call her "Pet" or "Sweetie," and she eats it up.

You feel free to have a martini at lunch without gulping three packages of mints afterward to kill your breath.

The new friends you make dress better than the old friends you now see less often, but every once in a while you wonder if you really like them as well or trust them as much.

You get paid once a month instead of once a week like the office peons, and the office mails your cheque directly to your bank.

The office sycophants try to buddy up to you by telling you what everybody else is saying behind your back.

55 Killed In Mishaps, 36 on Roads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 55 persons were killed accidentally in Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday, local times, listed 36 deaths on the highways, 15 drownings and four persons killed in miscellaneous mishaps.

Quebec reported 16 deaths and Ontario 15. In Ontario 12 were highway fatalities, two persons drowned and one person was killed in a boat crash. Quebec's fatalities included seven traffic, eight drownings and a man crushed by a car when the jack slipped.

In British Columbia two persons died in traffic accidents, three drowned and a boy was killed by a train.

Alberta and Saskatchewan each had five weekend deaths, all of Alberta's on the highways. Saskatchewan had four highway deaths and a drowning.

Four persons died in Nova Scotia — two in traffic, one drowning and a man killed when an air compressor exploded.

Prince Edward Island was fatality - free.

The survey does not include industrial or natural deaths, known suicides or slayings.

The Ontario dead:

SUNDAY

Gertrude Schefer, 21, Windsor, Ont., when her car went out of control and hit a tree in Windsor.

SATURDAY

Anne Louise Rohn, 35, Guelph, drowned in Spear Lake near Bala, about 30 miles north of Orillia.

Michael Buckshot, 30, Stonecliffe, Ont., whose body was found near his home, 55 miles west of Pembroke, after apparently having been struck by a car.

Loretta Miller, 44, Mactier, Ont., and Leslie Connell, 56, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., in a two-car collision near Mactier.

Karen King, 22 months, of St. Catharines, when the car she was in went off the road near Penetanguishene.

FRIDAY

Lincoln Gray, 87, Cincinnati, Ohio, when the car in which he was riding went out of control near Parry Sound.

Leonard Ashton, 21, Sarnia, when his car overturned near Camlachie about 10 miles east of Sarnia.

Bandit Smacked by Ice Cream, Armed Pair Flee at Trenton

A robbery attempt in Trenton late Saturday evening was foiled by a carton of ice cream and cries for help.

Mr. Edward (Ted) Picard, 54, owner of the Dairy Queen shop in east Trenton, told police "My wife Dorothy and I had closed the shop at about 11.30 p.m. and had left the rear door with the day's receipts in a satchel. Suddenly two armed men wth light calibre rifles appeared from the building patio and told me to go near my car and to hand over the money."

Mr. Picard reportedly said "You don't have guts enough to fire", to which one of the holdup men replied "We sure as hell have", and levelled his rifle directly at Mr. Picard. Mr. Picard said "I ran to my car and threw the money in it."

At this point, Mrs. Picard, 43, said she "thought she must do something" and hurled a frozen carton of vanilla ice cream, which she had been holding in her hand striking one of the armed men in the head. "I started backing up to the street," she said", and hollered 'help' to passing motorists."

Although no motorists stopped, the thieves became frightened and fled north into the bush at the store's rear, in the direction of the Middleton Park area.

Soon after Trenton police had been informed of the robbery attempt, they set up roadblocks in the vicinity, and were later joined in the search by O.P.P. cruisers from the Belleville detachment.

As yet, police say no suspects have been charged in connection with the incident, and investigations are continuing.

ICE CREAM GIVES ROBBERS COLD FEET — Mrs. Edward Picard, wife of the owner of a Dairy Queen shop in east Trenton, struck one of two armed robbers with a frozen carton of ice cream similar to this one. After Mrs. Picard had done this and yelled for help, the two thieves turned and fled into the night, without the store's receipts that they had been after.

Swimming Pool Will Be Ready Late in August

TRENTON — The new United Service Clubs' swimming pool at the high school will be closed in this fall and can be used all year round.

This announcement was made today by the clubs concerned and the Trenton Board of Education.

The outdoor pool facilities will be ready for use by the end of August and the enclosure will be carried out in the fall.

Tenders for the initial stage have been opened and the winning contractor will be announced on Wednesday.

The Rotary Club, (initial sponsor), the Lions Club and the Kiwanis Club working in co-operation with other groups, have raised almost $50,000 of the required $60,000 for the construction of the initial stage and efforts will be concentrated on raising the additional monies required to enclose the pool after the objective for the initial stage has been reached.

More Use Trent

TRENTON — Over the weekend, 54 boats were locked through Lock No. 1, bringing to 608 the number locked through since navigation's opening on the Trent, May 13. This is 105 more boats through the lock than at the same time last year.

Lockmaster James Howard reports many more U.S. boats making the trip up the Trent this year than in former years. Bert Libling at the town dock reports great activity, especially on the weekend.

MINOR MISHAPS

TRENTON — Trenton police report four minor accidents over the weekend, with no injuries and damage kept below $500.

The Trenton fire department was called out once, to a car fire on Sunday.

Plant Announces Expansion Of Production Facilities

TRENTON — The Quaker Oats Company, (Trenton Division) has announced that its production facilities at the Dufferin Ave. plant will be expanded. Warehousing space in the present building will be converted into manufacturing space and the warehousing contracted to a local firm, pending development of further company facilities. The company now employs 13) persons.

Commenting on today's announcement, Mayor James MacDonald said: "Although we are constantly seeking new industry, we must not overlook the potential value of expansion of industries already located here."

Councillor Paul Tripp, chairman of council's industrial and economic development committee, had this to say: "although it came as a shock to learn that the Downs-Coulter firm is retiring from business, I have every confidence that such an attractive building will soon be taken up by another industry.. Already the expansion of the Trenton Dyeing and Finishing Company has taken up some of the slack by the development of a new weaving mill on its premesis. This will keep some of the Downs-Coulter workers in this area.

"The potential of growth from within of the Quaker Oats Company contributes to the industrial development of our community.

"This is indeed a welcome announcement."

CHANGE ROUTINE

TRENTON — With Canada's 100th birthday in the offing, the Trenton Rotary Club has changed its format to include the singing of "O Canada" at the start of the meeting.

Rotarians are looking forward to Aug. 8 when new officers will be installed and the Rotary governor, Jim Dods, will visit the club. This year's Trenton predient is Howard Hallick.

India Refuses to Export Her Rare White Tigers

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Zoos throughout the world are clamoring for white tigers but India is not ready to export them.

Altogether there are 17 white tigers alive in captivity and only three have found their way outside India, where they are born and bred.

Delhi Zoo has seven, each worth an estimated $10,000.

These aristocratic tigers are born snow-white, though later dust and dirt slightly stain their fur. They have grey stripes, pink pads and murderous ice-blue eyes, and their abnormal size makes them doubly fearsome.

Raja, the aggressive nine-footer in Delhi Zoo is 1½ times bigger than average tigers of his age, and he still is growing.

FLUSHED FROM JUNGLE

The unique breed is descended from Mohan, a white cub flushed out of the jungles of central India by the beaters of the Maharajah of Rewa 15 years ago.

White tigers are on India's banned export list because the whole available stock is needed for breeding purposes if the race is to be solidly established.

Experts have ruled that inbreeding among the white tigers must be kept below 35 per cent to prevent their degeneration and final extinction.

NEED MORE MATES

Raja has been mating with his sister Rani, to produce four white cubs in three litters.

A mother with a consistently bad record for mauling and biting the tails off her young, Rani is being kept under close watch in a small pen until her latest litter grows up.

Mohan, the patriarch, is still living and mating with one of his daughters.

Around the 'Cat'

Two Belleville men are mowing their lawns this week with beautiful new Lawn Boy mowers, first prize in the Lawn Boy tournament in Peterborough on Saturday. Jack Avery with his skip Otto Smith had a score of 35-3 to top 48 entries from surrounding districts. Gord. Vince and Walter Elliott did not make the prize list.

Ladies doubles were also played in Peterborough, two teams from the local club, Anne Avery with Mil. Smith as skip and Betty Vince with Carm. Mott, skip failed to make the prize list. There were 26 entries in the tournament making two full double draws. Players reported the greens in excellent condition.

No ladies club games were played last week owing to the rain, tea hostesses were Elsie Humphreys and Rita Lloyd.

Next week on civic holiday the men of the club are having their Corbin Gold Cup rinks tournament, entries from all parts of Ontario are expected for this event.

IN MEMORIAM

YORK — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Ellen, who passed away July 25, 1963.

Gone from us that smiling face,
Those pleasant cheerful ways,
The heart that won so many friends,
In bygone happy days.
There is never a night or morning,
But we think of the mother we had,
A million times we have missed you,
A million times we have cried,
If love could have saved you,
You never would have died.

—Sadly missed by daughter Edith and son Cal.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank my relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness to me while a patient in the Belleville General Hospital and also to Dr. Douglas and Dr. Empson and the nurses and staff of No. 1 West. My sincere thanks to you all.

Bert Martin, Corbyville.

We would like to thank friends, neighbors and relatives for the kindness and flowers following the death of a beloved wife and mother. Special thanks to Thompson's Funeral Home and the nurses and staff of the Belleville General Hospital.

Thomas Bowers and Family.

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our relatives, friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy during the illness and bereavement in the loss of my dear husband, and father Roy W. Sills. The beautiful floral tributes, Gideon Bibles and sympathy cards were deeply appreciated. Also to those who made donations to the Cancer Fund in his memory. A special thank you to Rev. E. Kersey and Rev. George Southall. A sincere thanks to Mr. Roy Stevenson, the Rebekah Sisters and Brothers and the John R. Bush Funeral Home.

Maysel Sills and all the family.

TWO YOUNG MEN WERE INJURED when this car overturned after it struck an embankment on the Glen Ross Road, four miles north of Frankford, early Saturday night. In Trenton Memorial Hospital are Jack Fraser, 20 of Glen Ross and 19-year-old Brian Moore of Ivanhoe.

Mail Delivery Is Extended To 8 Streets

Door to door mail service will commence tomorrow in some areas of the city formerly served by rural route carriers. The following streets will have mail delivery by letter carriers, beginning tomorrow:

North Front St. and North Park St., to Highway 401; Bell Blvd., Harris Cres., Stratton Dr., Haig Road, Janlyn Cres. and Whalen Court.

To facilitate delivery to addresses on these streets, it is required that residents have proper mail receptacles at the front of their homes, or have mail slots in their front doors.

Stanleyville Seized by Unpaid Troops

KINSHASA, The Congo (Reuters)—Fears of a new civil war in The Congo subsided today as Premier Leonard Mulamba met with leaders of rebel troops who seized control of Kisangani (formerly Stanleyville) in a weekend attack.

Mulamba, a popular former commander of the northern Congo city, flew there early Sunday after Katangan and white mercenary troops took over Kisangani in an attack backed by cannons and mortars.

The rebellion—the worst since the country was rocked by violence after gaining independence from Belgium in 1960—was believed to have been sparked off by the mutineers' resentment at not having been paid for three months.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko told reporters in the capital Sunday: "We think that a compromise is in sight and that the situation will be quickly brought under control."

The official Congolese news agency said about 800 Katangan troops and mercenaries took part in the mutiny. It said five rebel bodies were discovered after the rebellion, but beyond saying that a number of government troops were wounded gave no casualty figures for loyalist forces.

Kisangani was reported quiet, with telephone and telegraph links cut and the radio station silent. Katangan police were reported in control of the centre of the city, with the mercenaries holding the airport.

English City Uses Sewage In Manufacture of Compost

Refuse disposal is a problem that grows with a growing city. The English city of Leicester, about 100 miles north of London, which has a population of 300,000 and is one of Europe's richest industrial cities, is solving the problem in a highly economic way by manufacturing compost from industrial and household refuse and sewage.

Reporting in the BBC World Service 'Science and Industry' program, Brian Hungerford outlined the project which has cost four-and-a-quarter million pounds and given Leicester the biggest and most complex compost-making plant in Europe.

"To manufacture the compost the city sewage is piped as a sludge into huge sealed silos. To begin the process and to run the necessary machinery a dual-fuel engine is started with diesel oil. The exhaust gases from this huge engine are piped into the sludge, and gradually lift the temperature to such a point that the material gives off enormous quantities of methane gas. Though the methane is in mixture with other gases, there is enough given off for it to be used to fuel the plant engine, and no more diesel oil is necessary. The exhaust gas is then piped into the second sludge tank and the methane trapped once again. This works sufficiently well for the entire plant to be powered from the methane produced and there is always a surplus stored in gas cylinders.

SAVING IS BIG

"When the compost plant was first discussed the use of methane gas was not seriously considered, because it was not known that so much fuel could be produced. This factor alone has aroused the interest of many civil engineers from overseas. And its saving in cost for the city corporation is enormous.

"After the methane gas is removed, the sludge and the ground-up refuse, are mixed in huge revolving stablizers. The material inside is heated to 140 degrees Fahrenheit and kept at that temperature for five days. After this process the end product is safe, completely inoffensive mixture which looks like garden soil.

"After the final screening, to remove such things as plastics and metals, the material is ground still further and spread out into windrows to cure for periods of up to six months. The windrows are turned each three weeks and this maturing process also lowers the ratio of carbon to nitrogen."

Perhaps one of the most important aspects of the curing process, said Hungerford, was the constant testing of the chemical composition of the compost to detect any high concentrations of specific minerals or trace elements — particularly metals such as copper — which might create crop toxicity if spread on farm land.

"Chemical testing of the material will continue right through the processing, and in this way the Leicester Corporation has not only provided the local population with a valuable and economic product, but has also taken a step to ensure the fertility of the surrounding countryside for the next generation."

Haywagon Tips, Leg Broken

MADOC — A 15-year-old Madoc boy suffered a broken leg Saturday evening when a haywagon on which he was riding tipped over as it was descending a hill.

Larry Carswell was taken to Belleville General Hospital about 5:30 p.m. Saturday following the mishap, which occurred ½ mile west of Madoc on a county road.

Another Madoc youth, 18-year-old George Atkinson, was driving the tractor that was drawing the haywagon.

Elmira Youth Safest Driver

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian teen-age safe driving championship was won Saturday by William Scarrow, 19, of Elmira, Ont.

Second was Alexander Zwarych, 17, of Thorold, Ont., and third Bruce Ford, 17, of Nelson, B.C.

Two Youths Hurt as Car Overturns

FRANKFORD — Two men injured in a single car accident four miles north of here early Saturday night remain in Trenton Memorial Hospital, today, with multiple lacerations to the face and back and possible head injuries. They are Jack Fraser, 20 of Glen Ross and a passenger in the car, Brian Moore, 19, of Ivanhoe.

Reports indicate the accident occurred when the car rolled over after striking an embankment on the Glen Ross Road. The car came to rest on its roof, on the highway, and was described as a complete write-off. Curious motorists who followed an ambulance to the scene of the accident caused an hour-long traffic tangle.

Viet Cong Hits Posts At Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas, striking before dawn, machine-gunned and mortared nine isolated outposts almost within earshot of the South Vietnamese capital early today.

The wave of hit-and-run attacks south of Saigon was a response to the large-scale ground and air operations elsewhere by American, Korean and South Vietnamese troops.

In the north, just below the demilitarized zone, U.S. marines continued to press into an area where 698 North Vietnamese regulars have been reported killed in an 11-day sweep.

The U.S. command in Saigon said the northern fighting eased after rearguard North Vietnamese troops inflicted heavy losses on a company of marines. The Communists kept up harassing fire during the night, but, the bulk of a North Vietnamese division appeared to have evaded the marine sweep by fleeing toward Laos.

An American spokesman in Saigon said the division had been badly chewed up.

The North Vietnamese regulars were bombed this afternoon by B-52s.

"Navy" Battles Pollution in Great Lakes

A three-boat "navy" under the auspices of the Ontario Water Resources Commission has been battling water pollution in the Great Lakes this summer.

The boats are helping to tabulate the quantity and type of industrial, domestic and surface pollution from Lake Ontario which reaches the bordering Great Lakes. They are also trying to determine the effect that pollution is having on the lakes.

The boats collect samples from predetermined points in the lakes, do preliminary analyses on them, then pass them along to shore-based laboratories for further testing.

Many of the province's industries are also doing their part to help combat the severe pollution problems in the lakes.

Dominion Foundries and Steel (DOFASCO) Ltd., Hamilton, plan to instal $1,100,000 hydrogen cyanide removal and hydrogen sulphide recovery facilities. The installation has been approved by the OWRC and completion of the project is expected for December, 1966.

The OWRC has also approved installation of an oil recovery unit and American Petroleum Institute separator to serve proposed new litol and styrene plants of Polymer Corporation in Sarnia.

Construction at the works is expected to be completed in May 1967 at an estimated cost of $57,000.

Also approved was the installation of acid rinse waste treatment facilities to serve the Nicholson File Co. of Canada Ltd. in Port Hope.

Acid in the rinse water is to be neutralized and solids settled in an existing lagoon prior to discharge to Gage's Creek and Lake Ontario.

Estimated cost of the installation is $7,500.

Russia, Japan Cooperate in Development

TOKYO (Reuters) — Russia and Japan agreed today to cooperate in Siberian development projects and to promote bilateral economic relations.

The agreement came in talks here between Sovet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Japanese Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina.

There was no progress, however, in their post-war territorial dispute—Japan's claim to four northern islands in the Kurile group occupied by the Soviet Union at the end of the Second World War.

The two foreign ministers agreed to continue talks on safeguarding Japanese fishermen in the northern Pacific from seizure by Russian patrol vessels.

Racial Peace Is Restored In Brooklyn

District Attorney Aaron Koota of Brooklyn said he would meet today with Police Commissioner Howard Leary to seek information on "what criminal responsibility, if any, was behind the disorders."

Leary has said his department was not aware of any outside influence in the half-mile-square neighborhood which is largely a slum and where Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Italian-Americans and other whites had clashed.

An estimated 1,000 policemen have been in east New York each night since Thursday, when an 11-year-old Negro boy, Eric Dean, was slain by a sniper's bullet.

The biggest peace effort was made at city hall Saturday when youth leaders made pledges to Mayor John Lindsay to "cool it off" in east New York.

Howard Reid Killed When Car Hits Tree

A Belleville youth was killed instantly late Saturday evening when the small 1957 model car he was driving went out of control and struck a tree off West Moira St. just inside of the city limits.

Dead is Howard Andrew Reid, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymind Reid, 283 Sidney St.

He was travelling east on West Moira St. when he pulled out to pass another eastbound car and apparently lost control of the car, went into the ditch on the south side of the road and struck a tree about 10 feet up from the base.

He was killed instantly.

The steering wheel on the car had to be cut in order to remove the dead youth.

The car is a total wreck.

Coroner R. T. Potter pronounced the youth dead on the scene. No decision of an inquest has been made.

Abiut sir hours earlier, there was another one-car accident in the same area. A car driven by Kenneth Earl Newton, 25, of Kingston, left the road on West Moira St. near the Sidney Inn and struck a hydro pole. There were no injuries. Damage to the car and the pole was $300.

Howard Andrew Reid was a lifelong resident of Belleville. Educated at Queen Mary School and Quinte Secondary School, he had been employed by Scotty Reid Motors the last three months. He was a member of Hollowayy Street United Curch.

He is survived by his parents, seven brothers, Ronald, Douglas, Gary, Allan, Scott and Kevin all at home, and Earl of Belleville, and four sisters, Mrs. Lois Jackson of Frankford and Brenda, Marilyn and Shelba, all at home.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. Rev. T. F. Townsend will officiate. Interment will be at Belleville Cemetery.

Bell Canada gets them off to a flying start

Fast service before take-off — that's what Air Canada needed from Bell Canada. And in four years of planning, designing and engineering, Bell developed a custom-made communications system which now gives Air Canada the speed on the ground which matches their speed in the air.

A full description of this development would fill volumes — so here are just a few brief facts:

Centrex Plus (the technical name) was built by Bell in hand-in-hand co-operation with Air Canada's engineers to provide the fastest, most accurate ground communications system yet designed anywhere. It is the first of its kind in the world. It required original research and development work of the most advanced kind. Its special features were entirely engineered and built in Canada.

It brings communications to where they belong — ahead of their times.

Immigration Trends

With Britain in economic difficulties again, it is not surprising to learn that the thoughts of many people there are turning to Canada and the other Commonwealth countries.

One newspaper in London, The Evening Standard, after a check with high commissioners and embassies, says: "It looks as if emigration from Britain will reach a new high this year."

"It also seems clear," the Standard goes on, "that emigration figures can, to a large extent, be directly related to the political and economic situation. At the beginning of last year, in the early days of the Labor government, emigration statistics were down on those for 1964.

"But emigration increased rapidly later in the year and almost all the receiving countries took more British migrants in 1965 as a whole than in 1964."

At the same time, a Canadian spokesman in London pointed out that any increase in emigration can also be related to promotion by the receiving country. And Canada, he said, had increased its promotional activities considerably of late.

This recalls the clever advertising campaign launched by the Canadian authorities in Britain last year. It started simply with posters bearing the name Canada, and nothing else. In London subways and in bus and railway stations in other centres, the posters caught the imagination of Britons and inspired a wave of inquiries at immigration offices.

Forty thousand emigrated to Canada from Britain last year and as many as 45,000, if not more, are expected this year. Others will go to Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

South Africa, despite the dire warnings of eventual trouble stemming from the republic's apartheid policies, is attracting many immigrants from Britain and Europe. The country is prosperous, jobs are plentiful, and the climate is agreeable. Moreover, the government assists prospective settlers by paying part of their fares. We know of a Belleville family which is taking advantage of this provision and moving to South Africa in the fall.

Australia, with its assisted passage scheme, still attracts the greatest number of settlers from Britain. Last year it absorbed 76,000 Britons. New Zealand takes an annual quota of 4000, which is always filled, and the United States, always a popular mecca for emigrants from the old country and Europe, reports inquiries are up some 30 per cent at present.

Accident Statistics

Driver training programs in the schools and talks by police and highway safety personnel on the same theme, seem to have little effect on young audiences.

That is the only conclusion to be reached from the report on accidents in 1965 released by the National Safety League of Canada.

The Safety League shows traffic accidents killed more persons between 15 and 24 years than in any other age group. That is why they are a major cause of the high accident rate, according to P. G. McLaren, general manager of the organization.

The figures for the year show that traffic accidents killed 1,326 in the 15 to 24 age group, almost twice the 719 in the 25 to 34 age group. Collisions of two or more vehicles claimed 1,953 lives out of the 4,961 traffic deaths.

Cars, moreover, killed 1,346 pedestrians. Almost half, 571, were children under 15 years, while 406 were over 55 years.

Concentration on the job in hand and obeying highway regulations, particularly with regard to speed limits, are still the marks of a good driver. Unfortunately, too few drivers in the younger age group recognize this.

Early Indians

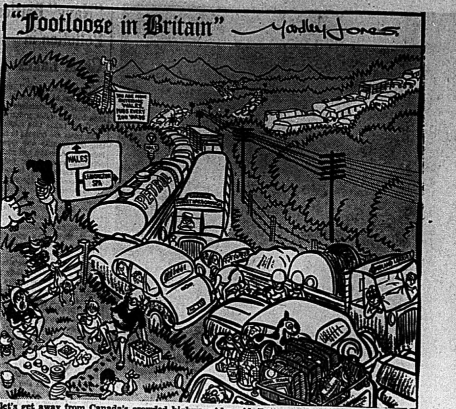
Next year is Centennial Year, when Canadians celebrate 100 years of nationhood. In 1967 it will be a century since the Fathers of Confederation met in Charlottetown, P.E.I.

And yet, as every schoolboy knows, or should know, the beginnings of civilized society on this continent go back much farther in time, back to the migrations of the early Indians across the Bering Strait and their movement south to Mexico and Latin America, and west into the heart of continental America.

A reminder of the long lineage of the North American Indian comes from Cornwall. At nearby Summerstown, archaeologists have unearthed the remains of a fortified town occupied, it is thought, by some 2,500 Iroquois between 1400 and 1450 AD.

Lt. Col. James Prendergast of Ottawa, who is in charge of the excavations, says surveys have disclosed there was a large population of Iroquois during the period from 1250 to the time of Jacques Cartier's visit in 1535 to Hohelaga, where Montreal now stands. Large numbers of them were in the Cornwall-Lancaster area.

It is interesting to note that the National Museum of Canada will issue a book shortly, on the archaeology of the region. It will give details of artifacts found at Summerstown and two other sites.



"'Oh, let's get away from Canada's crowded highways,' he said. 'Let's meander along the quiet highways of drowsy England,' he said . . ."

TV Debates Questionable

Toronto Telegram

An increasing number of MPs would like to see the debates of Parliament televised.

Eventually this may come about. But it would be a mistake at this time to proceed with it, except on an experimental basis.

This would make the House of Commons a circus. The televising of the procedures of some of the U.S. committees must make some Senators and Congressmen the laughing-stock of the country.

We don't want that to happen in Canada.

Showing the opening of Parliament on TV screens across the country is fine. Now that the practice is established, it should not be dropped.

But televising of the debates is another matter. While it undoubtedly would improve the speeches, many of the proceedings would be staged. Every MP who appeared would be performing for the cameras and his constituents back home.

If MPs are really serious about Parliament taking to the airways, perhaps some of the sessions of our more important Commons committees could be televised.

One thing it might do is assure the committees of a quorum. Several meetings have had to be cancelled this session, because not enough MPs showed up.

Foresters' Axe Is Antique

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

At the sixth World Forestry Congress meeting in Madrid last month, old-fashioned wood sawing and axing were dismissed as "antique techniques" by one of the experts in modern forestry.

The congress was told that wood can be cut far more efficiently by the use of rapidly oscillating steel wires, needle-thin high pressure water jets, high energy electronic rays, and laser beams.

And so falls the last citadel of man's mighty muscle. For centuries, the lumberjack has been the symbol of strength and skill, daring and perseverance. Legends of the feats of lumberjacks have provided a large and colorful chapter in American folklore.

Now it is to be no more. Technology has stormed and subdued the last rampart of strength and dexterity; Paul Bunyan himself would cut a sorry figure next to a high energy electronic ray or a high pressure water jet. What the computer has done to the old-fashioned bookkeeper, the laser beam is about to do to the lumberjack.

And what about all our inspirational proverbs and mottoes, with which we used to try to instill the virtues of hard work into the young — all the maxims about sawing away patiently, and putting the axe to the grindstone, and the shoulder to the wheel, and honest sweat, and all that jazz?

Every year, it becomes more difficult to preach the doctrine of hard work to the young — for work becomes less and less hard, it scarcely resembles what used to be called "work" a century ago, and the less we work, the more we prosper! This has been the great revolution of industrial capitalism — beside which, the revolution of Marx is only a transitory disease.

The lumberjack will soon be merely a dim figure in tre history books, taking his place with all the other heroic characters who tamed nature and wrested wealth from the soil. To our children, and even more to their children, such figures will be as mythic as Jack the Giant Killer.

The skill called for in the world ahead will be that of deciding more than of doing. Which trees shall be cut, and which spared; which made into planks and which into paper; which sawed by steel, which by water, which by electronic ray. The big muscle in the arm will be replaced by the little muscle in the head.

Something is lost, of course — it always is when civilization takes a step forward. And it may turn out to be that our prime social task in the future is to provide some satisfactory substitutes for the young, some models of courage and diligence as the lumberjack was a century ago. The laser beam, however useful its function, can hardly be expected to develop character, gumption, or guts.

Going Strong

Montreal Gazette

Almost three months ago the London Times made one of the boldest decisions in its history — to take classified ads off the front page and put news there instead.

As a result, The Times announces its average daily circulation has gone up 15,226. Circulation now is well over 285,000 and going strong.

What will they think of next?

Centennial Program in Ottawa

Ottawa Journal

Centenary Year has been sneaking up on us now for, say 100 years. For at least 10 years people in Ottawa have been asking that the City of Ottawa make adequate plans for the birthday celebration of the country of which it is the capital.

This week the city's centennial committee appeared for the first time out of a mist of informal meetings and held a formal meeting giving approval to as curious a set of curtsies to a centenary as one could imagine.

Approval was given to a civic sports hall of fame, presumably to honor athletes who didn't rate the two national halls of fame already in existence. Approval was given "to lay the groundwork" for an historical film to show centennial visitors. A bit late to start laying groundwork?

There'll be a hockey clinic on indoor rinks — and clinics for other sports! It was decided "to find" and redecorate a house of confederation time and fill it with appropriate furnishings. That too will be a bustle. It was also agreed "to help find" a sponsor to give $10,000 for a drum corps competition, and to "start action" to have the Centennial hymn sung at midnight church services New Year's Eve and Christmas.

It was decided to print all tourist literature in four languages: English, French, Spanish and German.

And so on. The committee said it felt a great start was made towards spending the $75,000 the city has granted it.

Well now it may be that each of these ideas has something to be said for it and that none is truly bad. And yet . . .

How will a parent reply 20 years hence if his son asks: "What did Ottawa do to celebrate the Centenary?" And after he has strung out this list of uninspiration, or those parts of it he can remember, will the son be impressed?

Mayor Reid and others have expressed chagrin that they can't get proper recognition for Ottawa at Expo '67. This suggests we have in Ottawa virile and imaginative plans for the centenary. Well, suppose some of Expo's 30,000,000 visitors come to Ottawa and ask any of us what Ottawa is doing in Centenary year. Are we to reply that we had a hockey clinic during the winter and will also have a drum corps competition?

This list of goodies for the nation's capital to consume at the centenary banquet doesn't get past the hors d'oeuvres state.

And the worst, we fear, is yet to come. The committee presumably has approved its best works. It offers only vague hints of many more things to come. "Our calendar of events is mushrooming," says the program chairman. The executive director says his telephone is ringing off the wall with people trying to get information on the city's plans, and that they have all kinds of ideas in the hopper. If our best is a hockey clinic and to find and redecorate a house it is more charitable not to wonder what is yet to come.

True, the city and province and federal government are putting up one - third of the cost of the three centennial swimming pools; but that is only partly to our credit and is hardly celebration as such.

The mayor should call a halt now to the serving of hors d'oeuvres and see that the rest of the money, time and wit at the committee's disposal be directed to more engaging ideas that will do the city proud and be appropriate to a national capital.

We have been quick in Ottawa to find fault with federal centenarly planning, and pretty fast off the mark to be jealous of the excitement Montreal is stirring up. We are also pretty touchy when the government talks of moving another building or department to another part of Canada. These criticisms are usually well founded: but as things look now the city of Ottawa will not have earned much right to criticize if Canada's Centenary is not well and memorably observed in the capital itself.

Old Ulcer Treatment Is Replaced by Better

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: About 20 years ago I had a stomach ulcer. The doctor prescribed Sippy powder and in a short while I was able to eat foods quite within reason.

Lately I find I have an ulcer again and it gives me a lot of trouble. I have tried every drugstore in town to buy Sippy powder but they don't know what I am talking about. Can it be procured anywhere, or has something taken its place? — C. M.

Various preparations have taken its place. Years ago, Dr. Sippy developed an excellent routine (including his antacid powder) for treatment of peptic ulcer.

The powder consisted of such chemicals as calcium, bismuth, sodium bicarbonate and magnesium compounds. It worked quite well, especially if the patient realized that he couldn't sensibly expect the medicine to do it all. Proper attention to diet, adequate rest, avoidance of excessive tension, learning not to let one's emotions get in an uproar — all these were important parts of treatment.

There was one fly in the ointment — or in the Sippy powder. It was found to produce a tendency to excessive alkalinity, and the digestive system must be somewhat acid if it is to perform properly. This alkalosis was due to the high absorbability of Dr. Sippy's chemicals. Antacids have now been developed which are less absorbable, hence work more gradually and gently and while reducing excess acidity do not destroy it to a degree that retards digestion. The new medications, featuring aluminum and magnesium salts, are very effective.

I suspect from your letter, Mr. C. M., that you are trying to treat yourself and have not been to your doctor this time. I think decidedly that you should see him.

Without wanting to frighten you, I must point out that recurrence of ulcer symptoms after a 20-year lapse are a suspicious situation Could what seems to be an ulcer be the beginning of a malignancy?

You should be examined, with X-ray, to find out promptly while cure is still possible. Using ulcer treatment when the "ulcer" actually is a cancer will not bring relief, and it will waste precious time.

You'll find further discussion of this in my booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed," which you may have for 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send your request to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

Or let's take the more optimistic view. Let's say your problem is just an ulcer recurring. My booklet will help you do your part of the treatment routine, but you may have need of further medication, such as drugs to reduce the motility (activity) of the stomach.

But before you do anything else, have a physician confirm whether it is an ulcer or something else.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can anything serious come of an adult having pinworms? I have loose bowel movements and wonder if it is the result of pinworms. — C. H. E.

Besides irritation and rectal itching, pinworms can get into the appendix and cause trouble there. Your persistent looseness should be investigated by a doctor. It could be worms, or something else. Either way, it should be corrected.

Note to Mrs. R. H.: No responsible people have yet claimed to be able to cure acute leukemia; however, there are now many cases which have been kept in remission (improved) for a number of years, and some for as much as 10 years.

Expo Rooms Will Be Costly

Amy Booth in The Financial Post

The Quebec government is expected to crack down soon on reported price gouging for accommodation in Montreal and the surrounding area during Expo '67. A 10 to 15 per cent increase limit is understood to be in the cards.

Earlier the former Liberal government put through an order-in-council intended to keep prices at reasonable levels. But there are indications already that the system is not 100 per cent effective.

There seems little doubt that some persons with rooms to rent have decided to make hay while Expo shines.

One Ontario man trying to book a room for Expo claims he was asked to pay $45 for single accommodation in a medium-range hotel where one would expect rates to be $12 to $15 a night.

An outskirts motel near Montreal will be charging $30 a night during Expo for a single room which this summer is going at $12 a night. At another motel, singles which now start at $14.50 will go up to $25, and at a third the price for a single will rise from $13.50 to $22.

Some travellers arriving at the desks of the big downtown hotels claim to have been told by outskirt operators, "Our prices are $45, and you'd better take the accommodation as you won't get a room downtown."

The order-in-council advanced the date by which hotellers and lodging house keepers must declare prices for Expo year to June 1 this year. The deadline was later extended to July 1. Normally, under the Hotel Act, prices for a particular year beginning in May do not have to be declared until February 15 of the same year. But, once declared, these are the maximum prices which can be charged.

In most instances, a moderate increase has been posted for Expo year to compensate for higher wages, renovations and the like. Some hotels have posted $30 to $40 prices, but so far are charging only $15 to $20 a night for advance reservations. Some are asking for larger than usual deposits, however.

If hoteliers and lodging house keepers fail to declare their prices by the required date, the prices they may charge in the Expo year must be the same as they were charging on July 1.

The whole price picture for accommodation still remains confused. Some hotel operators told The Financial Post they did not know what their prices would be during the Expo, even though the July 1 deadline for posting prices is past.

Opinions vary widely as to just how tight accommodations will be. Some hoteliers do not think there will be any difficulty accommodating the five million fair visitors expected from out of town. Others say, however, that even by offering accommodation as far away as Ottawa, Cornwall, Trois Rivieres and the United States border, there will be a nightly shortfall of several thousand rooms during the August peak period.

Queen Mary of England married Prince Philip of Spain 422 years ago today — in 1544 — and added ties with Europe's strongest Catholic empire to her policy of returning England to Roman Catholicism. Philip became nominal King of England but was by treaty excluded from government. The marriage put England on the Spanish side in a war with France which lost Calais, the last English stronghold on the continent. She died in 1558 to be succeeded by Elizabeth and it was against her that Philip, by then king of Spain, launched the Spanish Armada in 1588 to attempt to seize England.

Public Inquiry Into Drug Prices Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Russell B. Long said Saturday he is planning a public inquiry into drug prices and federal health programs.

When it comes, the Louisiana Democrat said, "people are going to be finding out that they're paying 400 times too much for some of their drugs."

Long's forum will be the U.S. Senate finance committee; his topic, prescription practices under medicare and federally-aided health programs.

Long, assistant democratic leader, has introduced a l that would require the prescribing and dispensing of medicare drugs under their chemical, generic names, not under private brand names.

Long said that would reduce the cost of medicine prescribed under the new program of medical care for the aged.

Airlines Say Strike Costs $126 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The five U.S. airlines closed down by the machinists' strike estimated today their revenue losses so far total almost $126,000,000.

The airlines also estimated striking and laid-off employees have lost almost $29,000,000 in pay sine they walked off their jobs 18 days ago.

The airlines — Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United — listed the estimates as their representatives and those of the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO) prepared to resume negotiations.

A one-hour session Sunday produced no progress, Assistant Labor Secretary James Reynolds reported. The union and management still were far apart on all the issues.

Reynolds said a new disagreement involving the Northwest Airlines' military aid flights did not figure in the talks.

He said that dispute would be taken up privately by the airline and the union. Northwest said three of its military flights were delayed Saturday night by the refusal of aircraft crews to cross picket lines despite an agreement that military flights would continue throughout he strike.

Gen. Stilwell Is Missing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Brig.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell Jr., commander of the U.S. Army's green beret training centre, is apparently missing on a flight to Honolulu, the U.S. Coast Guard indicated today.

Military sources said Stilwell left San Francisco Saturday about 11:30 p.m. on a C-47.

That is approximately the departure time of a Royal Thailand Army C-47 which is reported missing in the Pacific with three persons aboard.

The coast guard said information it had indicated that Stilwell was aboard the missing plane. They said, however, this was not definite.

MR. AND MRS. CLARENCE CARD

Couple Returns to District To Mark Golden Wedding

WOOLER—Married in Belleville 50 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Card of Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, returned to the Quinte district to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary last weekend.

On Saturday the town hall here was the setting for an anniversary reception given in the couple's honor. In attendance were relatives from Hamilton, Toronto, Perth and Mountain Grove. Mr. and Mrs. Card will be visiting their son-in-law, Edward Lloyd, and his family until the end of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Card were married in 1916 in St. Thomas' Church rectory, Belleville, by the Rev. G. R. Beamish. Mrs. Card's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baker, acted as witnesses for the ceremony.

The couple settled first in Belleville and four years later moved to Hamilton, where they resided until Mr. Card, a foreman in a brush manufacturing plant, retired recently. Now they live with their oldest daughter, Miss Elsie Card of Stoney Creek.

The dinner in the town hall was followed by a dance, with friends and relatives taking to the floor with their honored guests to accentuate the gay atmosphere to the strains of popular old time music.

Mao was one of 5,000 persons taking part in an annual swim across the river and he taught a young woman how to swim backstroke, the radio said.

Meat on Friday OK for Italian Catholics

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Bishops of Italy have granted permission for the country's Roman Catholics to eat meat on all Fridays of the year, except during Lent.

The Vatican daily L'Osservatore Romano Saturday published the new fast and abstinence rules for Italy.

Pope Paul issued an apostolic constitution Feb. 17 authorizing changes in fasting and abstinence. He set the start of abstinence from meat at age 14, instead of seven. He kept the ages for fasting—taking only one full meal—at 21 to 60 years old. He reduced lenten fast days from 40 to two: Ash Wednesday, which starts Lent, and Good Friday.

Everything else the Pope left up to the 53 national and regional conferences of bishops around the world to decide, including whether to keep or do away with the traditional Friday abstinence.

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of meatless Fridays for Canadian Roman Catholics is on the agenda of an October meting of the country's bishops, the Canadian Catholic Conference said today.

Protestant Mobs Gather Outside Jail

BELFAST (Reuters)—Heavy police reinforcements were on the alert in this capital city of Northern Ireland today following three days of rioting by supporters of Rev. Ian Paisley, an extremist Protestant leader jailed for refusing to agree to keep the peace.

In three nights of disorders outside Belfast Prison, where the rabidly anti-Catholic Mr. Paisley and two other clergymen of the Free Presbyterian Church are being held, police used high-pressure water hoses and clubs to disperse demonstrators demanding the release of the ministers.

All three were convicted of holding an unlawful assembly by leading a procession that led to bloody clashes with Belfast's Roman Catholics June 6.

A senior official said the cabinet of Prime Minister Terence O'Neill would look at the whole question of freedom of assembly following what is regarded as outrageous abuse of that freedom and possibly ban meetings and processions thought likely to cause further outbreaks of violence.

As the city of Belfast counted the cost of the weekend riots in broken windows and looted stores, the government was worried over the incalculable cost of bad publicity for the country in world press coverage of the disorders.

Officials were afraid the disturbances may harm the current drive to induce industrial investment to remedy chronic unemployment, which in itself is a probable factor in making Northern Ireland riot - prone.

Charter Planes to Bring English Secretaries Here

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — The shortage of secretaries for part-time summer work is so acute that they are being brought over from England on charter flights, says R. G. Scott, Office Overload's division manager.

"We have always encouraged English secretaries to come on their own . . . but this time the need is so desperate that we've chartered flights to bring some 280 girls."

Mr. Scott said the girls had arranged to stay three months in Canada and to pay back part of their tickets. Many would stay on "after they get a taste of Canadian life" and this was good for Canadian executives.

"The English secretary seems to enjoy accepting more administrative responsibility than some of her Canadian counterparts. Her mechanical skills are no better, but her attitude towards accepting full responsibility seems to be better.

"The English girl is work-oriented. Some Canadian girls feel their secretarial job is simply something to fill in time until they get married".

Mr. Scott said the ability to assume responsibility and make decisions is becoming more and more necessary in today's secretary.

MAKE DECISIONS

"The business executive now has so much to attend to that eventually we'll have to make secretaries - administrative assistants who make decisions and take things into the boss only after action has been taken.

"This is what they should be doing now, but most girls who call themselves secretaries are only typists. There are lots of competent typists available, but a secretary should assume more administrative work to support a manager effectively."

He said secretaries in the next 20 years would probably be out of jobs unless they made the transition into "administrative thinking work" which could not be performed by machines.

The work of the future administrative assistant would probably not involve much typing, he said, mentioning a $14,000 typing-transcribing machine that turns out copy as the executive speaks into a telephone.

"The job of 'secretary' is becoming more complex and sophisticated and eventually women will take over more business management positions."

He said a recent United States survey of a sample group of male college graduates had shown that only nine per cent wished to go into business.

"Business management people are going to come from women and so secretaries have a wonderful business opportunity if they will adapt to these changing concepts in business."

Mr. Scott said if more Canadian women would come out of their homes and work two or three days a week, the current labor shortage would be alleviated.

MATCH JOB TO HOME

His firm tries to encourage married women to work part-time, Mr. Scott said, by offering free practice sessions to keep up their typing speeds.

"The tremendous advantage of part-time work is that it allows the woman to get out and keep in tune with the times. She feels more vital and independent and then enjoys her household duties more.

"And part-time jobs from nine to four are available for women who want to be home when the children go to school and when they come home."

Mr. Scott said part-time workers can earn almost as much as full time workers and that they also get yearly increases.

But his company now must continue to look abroad for women to fill the positions. It has just completed a survey of the Australian market.

"It's far away, but the idea that they can earn money while they travel across Canada is an appealing one. And that's what they would be able to do because we can place them in our offices in cities across Canada during their stay."

But he said there was no proposed solution to Quebec's need for bilingual secretaries as immigration laws made importing secretaries from France much more difficult than from Commonwealth countries.

"The demand for bilingual secretaries has gone up fantastically since 1963 and there are almost no truly bilingual secretaries for part-time employment left in the Quebec market, unless more can be encouraged to come out of the home," said Mr. Scott.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND C. DICKENS

Dickens – Gibson

Rev. R. Vessey officiated at the wedding ceremony in Roslin United Church, on Saturday July 16, 1966, when Mary Elaine Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gibson, Plainfield, was united in marriage to Raymond Charles Dickens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dickens, also of Plainfield.

Mrs. Gerald Clancy presided at the organ and played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mr. Monte Moorcroft.

The bride, was given in marriage by her father wore a white floor - length satin gown highlihted with panels of imported French lace ertending over the shoulders in cape-like effect to hemline of the dress. The waistline at front was accented with a self - bow and a flowing train of French lace enhanced the back. A waistline veil of silk illusion was caught to a headdress of nylon leaves and tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses with stepanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Carolyn Gibson, cousin of the bride as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids Mrs. Monte Moorcroft and Mrs. Gerald Hill and the junior bridesmaid Miss Wendy Gibson, sister of the bride were identically attired in powder blue street - length gowns of chiffon over taffeta with wedding - ring headpieces. All attendants carried cascade bouquets of blue and white pom pom 'mums. Little Sylvia Moorcroft, cousin of the bride wore an eyelet lace over blue taffeta dress with matching headdress and carried a tiny basket of blue and white pom poms.

Mr. Robert Jenkins attended his cousin, while Mr. Perry Gibson, brother of the bride and Mr. Jim Dickens, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Harry Davidson, cousin of the bride were ushers.

For the reception in Club Canara, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a turquoise chiffon over lace sheath dress, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias and stephanotis. The bridegroom's mother who assisted wore a pink crepe A-line dress with matching pink accessories and a corsage of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Leaving on a wedding trip to points of interest in Ontario, the bride wire a white crepe sheath dress with lace coat, white and navy accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Ann Landers

Camp Follower Defends Ill-Advise Practice

ANN LANDERS: I am not addressing you as "dear" because you are not Dear to me. When you agreed with that miserable, overprotective mother, I could have wrung your neck. There is no reason a 17-year-old girl should not rent an apartment for a month to be near her boy friend who is in the army. Some 17-year-olds are very mature and they know exactly what they want out of life.

ANN LANDERS

I am 17, also, and if my boy friend gets drafted I have every intention of going wherever he is stationed, even if it means dropping out of school to do it. After all, there's a war on, in case you haven't heard, and every day is precious to young people in love. I can always go back to school but if Jerry gets shipped overseas I may never see him again.

Dried up old prunes like you ought to mind your own business. If a boy is old enough to fight, and maybe die, for his country he is old enough to do whatever his heart dictates and it's rotten of you to spoil things for him. — FED UP ON YOUR CRUMMY ADVICE.

DEAR FED: I'm sure there is nothing this dried up old prune could say that would make a dent — so I won't try. I do hope you will read the next letter, however, it was written by another 17-year-old girl.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with interest the letter from the mother who was upset because she had not heard from her teen-age soldier son for three weeks. When the mother called his girl to find out if she had received a letter, she learned that his girl had rented an apartment near the base for a month so she could be near her boy friend. I liked your advice, but I'll bet you'll get a lot of letters from girls who didn't.

I've been brought up around the military all my life. My father is a colonel and my older brother is a captain. My boy friend is stationed at Great Lakes and, of course, I am dying to see him, but I wouldn't dream of going out there, even for a weekend, let alone renting an apartment for a month.

Service men do get leaves and any girl who can't wait until her boy friend comes home had better "readjust her speedometer" to borrow a phrase from Ann Landers. — ABLE TO WAIT.

DEAR ABLE: You are also able to express yourself in crisp, forthright language. Thank you very much.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are in our 70's but we still enjoy life as much as we did 40 years ago. Maybe even more.

Orville and I like to dance. Of course, we do the old style dances, the same ones we have done for a good many years.

Last Saturday we attended a wedding reception and the music was wonderful. Orville and I did enjoy the dancing so much. At the buffet table I overheard some folks talking — they didn't realize I was standing behind them. Both women were criticizing us. They said we were old fools, that we looked ridiculous out there on the dance floor, trying to act like a spring chicken and a young rooster.

I was very hurt and have been thinking about it ever since. What are your ideas? — BAY CITY HEARTACHE.

DEAR HEART: Ignore the petty remarks. I'll bet those women are green with envy because you and your husband have more pep than they have. I know of few things as heartwarming as the sight of older folks getting a big charge out of life.

Susanna's Family Fare

THERE'S NOTHING TO DO

Summertime and the living is easy . . . for everyone but mom, unless she can think of 1,001 answers to that one eternal question "What'll we do now?"

If this is your dilemma, and you have come to the end of your (projects for little people) rope — read on quickly — there may be enough ideas here to tide you over 'til tomorrow.

OLD STRAW HAT COLLAGE

Let each one be responsible for decorating an old summer hat, using only flottsam and jetsam from the beach. Offer a prize for the most original and unusual design. Besides shells, moss, wood chips, fish scales, bird feathers and seaweed, you will be startled to see what other items they'll turn up with, to glue onto their particular masterpiece.

You'll encounter one problem. Fathers usually latch onto these hats and sneak them away from the kids, to wear fishing.

MINIATURE SAIL BOAT

Shape one end of a colored kitchen sponge into a point. Stick a mast up through from the bottom of the sponge. Tie or glue or tack a cloth or constuction paper sail in place — red and white stripes are most effective.

FEEDING STATION

After breakfast, don't dispose of those grapefruit skins. Start a bird-watching club instead. Thread cord across the bottom and up through four places on the sides of the used grapefruit halves. Add seeds and suet, hang them in varous trees. Give each youngster instructions to report any rare exotic species feeding at his station to the club president — not to you!

STONE and DRIFTWOOD ART

A great search can be organized to collect odd-shaped, smooth surfaced stones on which to paint faces, flowers, scenes or people — whatever the stone suggests to the indvidual.

Clean and roughen the surface slightly with cleansing powder and etch on the design first, with a pen or brush, using india ink if you can locate some. When the ink is dry, complete the picture with colorful oil paint. Gouge out a spot on a clean piece of wood on which to mount the stone. Give it all a protective coat of varnish, you may have to take a hand here. Advise the group that anyone who comes up with something special can present his work to teacher next fall to be used as a paper weight, book ends, or even door stops.

MARACAS

The rest of the Latin American band won't be necessary if you have some of these to go around.

Insert a long, round, smooth stick or piece of dowelling through the centre of the bottom of a plastic take-out coffee cup and on up through the middle of the lid. Partly fill the cup with seeds, grains, rice, tapioca or what-have-you. Secure the lid in place with good glue so that it won't fly off in the middle of the shaking.

Let each youngster make his own, then give them all a spot in the Conga line, and point them off down the road never to be heard from again. You Dreamer! — SUSANNA

Duplicate Bridge Session

LEADS OUT OF TURN

Any lead out-of-turn may be treated as a correct lead. It becomes a correct lead if declarer or either defender, as the case may be, plays a card to it before attention is drawn to the irregularity. A card so played by declarer from either hand may not be withdrawn, unless its play constituted a revoke.

When a declarer makes the opening lead out of turn, several options apply. (a) If declarer accepts the lead, dummy's hand is spread, and the second card to the trick is played from declarer's hand. If declarer first plays to the trick from dummy's hand, dummy's card may not be withdrawn except to correct a revoke. (b) Declarer must accept the lead if he has seen any of dummy's cards. (c) If declarer begins to spread his hand as though he were the dummy, and in so doing exposes one or more cards, the lead must be accepted, declarer must spread his entire hand, and dummy becomes declarer. (d) If declarer requires the defender to retract his opening lead, declarer may treat the card led out of turn as a penalty card, or he may allow the card to be picked up, and request the offender's partner to lead that suit or to refrain from leading that suit so long as he retains the lead.

When the declarer leads out of turn either defender may require him to retract his lead, and there is no penalty. If declarer leads from the wrong hand when it is his turn to lead, he may be required to lead from the correct hand, if possible, he must lead the same suit.

The next duplicate bridge session is Tuesday night, July 26th, at 7:30 at the Golf Club. Everyone welcome.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY G. DAVIS

Davis – Lockhart

Linda Lee Lockhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lockhart, Belleville was united in marriage to LAC Harry Gerard Davis, Trenton, son of Mrs. Joan Davis, Campbellford, Ontario. Father Savoie officiated at the ceremony in No. 6 Repair Depot, Roman Catholic Chapel, Canadian Armed Forces Base, Trenton. Miss Margaret St. Hilaire played traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length Empire styled gown of white French crepe featuring a lace bodice and a sweeping cathedral train extending from the shoulders of the dress. Her three-tier scalloped edged veil flowed from a floral headdress and she carried a cascade bouquet of white glamelias and stephanotis.

The matron of honor Mrs. Ann Whittle and bridesmaid Miss Joyce Miller were dressed alike in floor-length sleeveless gowns of pastel yellow nylon sheer over matching taffeta. They wore matching flowered headpieces and carried bouquets of white and yellow Shasta 'mums. The junior bridesmaids, the Misses Kim and Karen Lockhart wore similar dresses but in turquoise and carried bouquets of white and turquoise tinted Shasta 'mums and matching flowered headpieces.

Mr. Serge Scuccato of Peterborough was groomsman, while Mr. Richard Fralick, Mr. Robert Blair and Mr. Bryne Davis were the ushers.

At the reception held at 6 R.D. Social Centre, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a champagne beige sheath dress of crepe with matching lace top with a corsage of shrimp colored Sweetheart roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother, who wore a winter white linen sheath style dress, turquoise accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For the honeymoon trip to New York State the bride chose a two-piece salmon pink suit, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon return the couple will reside at 291 Bridge Street East until August 25, at which time they will move to France where LAC Davis will be stationed with the RCAF.

A SWEET 'N SOUR RECIPE

The sweet 'n Sour flavor used so effectively by the Chinese has stirred the taste buds of conservative Canadians. We are receiving increasing numbers of requests for sweet 'n sour recipes.

I modified this idea and added spices sparingly to a brisket point and came up with a result I am proud of.

The primary object was to have some cold meat on hand to slice from. It is at its best this way but naturally it is delicious hot too. As meat prices go these days it is an economical beef dish worthy of a French chef.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

MILD SWEET 'N SOUR SPICED BRISKET POINT

Note: I asked the butcher to cut me a brisket point from red brand beef weighing at least 3 pounds. He did my bidding. It had ¼" layer of fat on top and was perfect. It was 79 cents per pound.

3-pound flat (not rolled) brisket point
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons sugar
1 bay leaf
½ teasoon dill seeds
½ lemon sliced
¼" thick slice from medium - sized onion
2 cups hot water

Mix together the salt, pepper and sugar in a cup and rub them well into all surfaces of brisket point with your fingertips.

Into a large shallow pan that has a lid and in which the brisket point will not be crowded, put the bay leaf, dill seeds, lemon and onion slices. Put seasoned brisket on top of them, pour hot water around edges, bring to boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer 4 hours, carefully turning meat over 3 times during this simmering period. Cool meat, with lid on, in liquid in which it was cooked. Lift from liquid and drain to dry off then sprinkle top fat surface evenly with paprika.

With razor - sharp knife cut in ⅛" perfectly even slices and serve overlapping uniformly on cold platter. Garnish attractively with a border of scored, diagonally sliced unpared cucumbers, and radish roses.

The beautiful appearance and excellent flavor of this sweet 'n sour spiced brisket is unforgettable and I hope every cook in the audience prepares it for her family at least once this summer.

Garfield Weston's Son Weds Klondyke Style

By CAROL KENNEDY

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP) It was a wedding to remember when Galen Weston, son of Canadian bakery millionaire Garfield Weston, married Dublin's top model, Hilary Frayne, by the Green banks of the Thames in this English town Saturday.

The romance of Klondyke days was evoked by the 1890s-style dress of the bridal pair and their attendants.

England turned on her best summer weather for the occasion, which reached its climax as an ancient steamboat with a band playing ragtime music carried guests up the river, fringed with weeping willows and gardens thick with flowers.

Two high - spirited guests added a touch of unexpected drama by jumping into the river as the 80-year-old Majestic, last of her kind on the Thames, cruised up the Henley regatta course. The adventurous guests, a girl in a purple mini-skirt and an Irish store executive, were quickly resuced, dried out and plied with champagne as the band played on.

Galen, strapping 25-year-old youngest of the nine Weston children—seventh to be married—chose the Klondyke theme after studying the family photograph album. His grandfather was married in the same kind of long-jacketed, high-buttoned suit with string tie and grey ten-gallon hat that Galen, best man David Nichol of Vancouver and the ushers wore for the ceremony in the picturesque village church of Remenham, near Henley.

BRIDE FRILLY

Blonde, blue-eyed Hilary, 23, wore a romantic draped and frilled white silk organza gown and her two Irish bridesmaids were dressed in Victorian-style white lace gowns embroidered with yellow flowers.

Galen's six sisters—Miriam, Barbara, Nancy, Wendy, Gretchen and Camilla—flew from Canada and the United States for the wedding, but elder brothers Grainger, 42, and Gary, 39, were unable to make the trip from Texas and Australia.

Barbara's seven-year-old son, Garfield Mitchell, was a page.

Other Canadians among the 180 guests included Peter Dalgleish, Camilla's husband, and Conrad Black, a Toronto neighbor of the Westons. Rev. John Nichol of Flint, Ont., brother of the best man, assisted the rector of Remenham, Rev. A. G. L. Pettit.

A strong Irish contingent from Hilary's hometown of Dun Laoghaire, near Dublin, included Mrs. Noel Frayne, mother of the bride; Hilary's two sisters and young brother and Dr. Stanley Boland, a family friend who gave the bride away.

In a touching gesture that broke with tradition, Hilary tossed her bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley to her widowed mother.

WESTON HAPPY

"It gives me great happiness that Galen has joined Canada with Ireland," said Garfield Weston at the champange reception on the riverside lawns of the Weston home near Henley. His wife, Reta, whose ancestors came from Fermanagh, Northern Ireland, added: "it's good to have more Irish blood rejuvenating the stock."

Gelan met his bride two years ago in Dublin, where he runs a Weston supermarket chain. Hilary was formerly a top model with Ireland's celebrated designer, Sybil Connolly. They announced their engagement 11 weeks ago at the Vancouver wedding of David and Diane Nichol.

The three - tiered wedding cake, naturally, came from a Weston bakery.

Garfield Weston, at 67 reputed to be one of the six richest men in Britain, was in breezy, jovial mood as he led guests to the steamboat moored at a nearby lock, preceded by three street musicians he had spotted playing outside his posh Fortnum and Mason store in Piccadilly.

"Galen always wanted to be married on the Thames," said Weston, reminiscing as the steamer puffed downriver. 'He was born at our old place at Marlow, on a night of bad bombing (by the Germans). Later he rowed for St. Paul's school before going to the University of Western Ontario."

The bridal couple, who danced on board in their wedding clothes, disembarked at Henley and were whisked to London Airport to start a European motoring honeymoon.

They will live in Dublin.

CHINESE CHEWS

2 eggs
1 cup fine fruit sugar
3 tbsp. melted butter
1 cup chopped dates
½ cup chopped nuts
¼ cup chopped cherries (Marashino or glaze)
¼ cup chopped pineapple
¾ cup sifted pastry flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt

METHOD: Pre-heat oven to 350 F. Grease well an 8" cake pan. Beat eggs well and then beat in sugar gradually. Add melted butter, mix in the prepared fruit and nuts and lastly the sifted dry ingredients. Blend well. Spread mixture in prepared tin and bake in moderate oven for about 45 min. Cut in finger lengths when cold. If desired, these chews can be cut into squares while hot, rolled into balls between the palms of the hand and then coated with fine fruit sugar.

Most of these patients were from Quebec's Lower Town and all were accustomed to drinking large quantities of beer.

In Omaha, Dr. Sullivan and physician colleagues at the Veterans Administration Hospital began to see patients with symptoms of a similar disease in late 1964. New cases reached a peak in the summer of 1965, dropped during fall and winter and began to rise again in the spring.

Dr. Sullivan, chief of medicine at the VA hospital and a professor of medicine at Creighton University school of medicine, said he has not had a confirmed new case since early June.

Last spring, after seeing the first 26 Omaha patients and before the Omaha and Quebec City outbreaks had been linked, Dr. Sullivan and his co-workers said nutritional deficiencies associated with excessive alcohol consumption may have been a primary factor.

The survivors show evidence of nutritional liver disease and thiamine deficiency has been demonstrated in both Quebec City and Omaha patients.

Dr. Yves Morin of Sillery, Que., one of the original investigators of the Quebec cases, found three Minneapolis patients with symptoms suggestive of the disease, after examining a large group of alcoholic heart disease cases.

Dr. Morin, director of heart research at Quebec City's Hotel Dieu Hospital and director of heart research at Laval University's medical school, was shown the Minneapolis patients by Dr. Carl S. Alexander, a cardiologist at the VA hospital.

Dr. Alexander told the AMA Journal he is not convinced the Minneapolis patients have a disease distinct from previously-described alcoholic heart disease. His opinion is shared by several pathologists who have examined material from the Quebec investigation.

While acknowledging that a final answer is not yet possible, the Quebec and Omaha investigators maintain that the combination of clinical, laboratory and pathological features seen in the patients appears to be unique.

Ameliasburg Building Double That of Last Year's Record

AMELIASBURG — In the six - month period ending July 15 Ameliasburg township construction history was made in school, residential and associate catergories.

Records kept by township building inspector Harry Bisdee show that 50 permits issued since January 14 represent $625,607 in new building. The sum is almost double the 1965 total, considered a record.

The figures covering the current period include the expenditure of $355,000 for construction of the 11 - roomed central public school, now well on the way to completion. The remainder, at this point $70,000 ahead of last year's figure, continues to grow as applications for new building permits are processed on the average of two a week.

Planning board chairman William Tatham said he could think of no reason for the improvement other than that urban dwellers were learning Ameliasburg was a nice place for people to live in and bring up children. He stated the zoning by-law when adopted would create even more development along orderly lines.

Within two weeks, he disclosed, each township resident will be receiving a copy of the zoning by-law as amended and approved by council. If acceptable to the community planning board and the municipal body, a hearing by the OMB locally will follow, he pointed out.

"When zoning in the township becomes a reality depends on the Board's decision," he said.

While residential expansion has outpaced summer home development in recent years there are signs this situation will be altered and summer home building will be revived to make an even more important contribution to the economy of the municipality bounded on three sides by water. The latest interest in summer home development is shared by local and outside developers.

A week ago summer home developers increased activity in the Massassaga Point area, south of Belleville. Participation in earnest followed final approval of a registered subdivision on part of Carmen Coon's 280 acres formerly the Wallbridge farm. The exclusive agent for this project is the Harry Morrison real estate firm of Belleville.

The Coon sub-division comprises 20 lots of 15,000 square feet each, as called for in the proposed zoning regulations. Frontages on the water range from 80 to 120 feet. They are serviced by a private road extending from the county road linked to the old Picton highway.

Fresh water supply is available to lot owners from a central source approved by the County Medical Officer of Health. In accordance with the Department of Municipal Affairs regulations governing subdivision development, five per cent of the area has been set aside as a playground.

Already the sub-division, embracing a location named Sunrise Point with a view to the north of the south shore of Hastings County has attracted a number of enquiries. Already four of the lots have been sold and summer homes built on them. The residences will have a minimum floor plan of 850 feet, called for in regulations.

Since the walkout started the company has been using helicopters to airlift supervisory personnel and provisions into its plants and mines.

In addition to the 16,000 on strike in this area, 1,800 Inco employees in Port Colborne, Ont., have been on strike since Thursday.

In a letter to Inco employees made public in Toronto and Sudbury Saturday, the company said the dispute leading to the walkout had been preceded by sabotage and a deliberate slowdown.

The letter said there had been more than 150 incidents of deliberate property damage and sabotage at the Levack mine beginning with the day shift June 30.

Union spokesmen said earlier the walkout started when two men were ordered to the surface from the 3,000-foot level after a shift boss refused them permission to eat a sandwich while waiting for work orders. The rest of the day shift walked out and others followed suit.

"We could not use acetylene cutting equipment because gasoline or diesel oil had spilled all over inside the bus—over the passengers and everywhere. We just had to do our best with our hands.

"The children were of very mixed ages—some about 12 or 13 and others looked a good bit older, maybe 18 or so."

West German army units joined in the rescue operation.

The driver of the bus was among the dead.

The crash was believed to be the worst bus disaster in Western Europe since August, 1961, when a bus carrying 35 American tourists plunged into Lake Lucerne, Switzerland, killing all passengers.

Earlier this year, 11 Belgian children aged 10 to 12, were killed during a road safety lesson when a truck mounted a pavement and struck them.

Poland Remains Enthusiastic Advocate of Disarming Plans

By JOHN BEST

WARSAW (CP)—The world will probably soon be hearing a lot about various plans for defusing the heart of Europe.

The Soviet Union has begun talking about European security and there has been renewed mention of the possibility of an East-West conference.

Most of the discussion has been on the Communist side, however, and there has been no hard response in the West.

In the past, Western governments tended to view such proposals with skepticism, feeling they were vague and apparently manufactured for propaganda purposes.

Even-now, Western officials are inclined to see nothing essentially new or promising in the attitude of the Soviet bloc.

But that doesn't dampen the enthusiasm in Poland. This country, perhaps more than any other, has been intimately involved with the different proposals to wet down the explosive potential of central Europe.

Its two most notable proposals are the Rapacki plan for nuclear disarmament and a thinning out of forces in the area, and the more modest Gomulka plan to freeze nuclear arms in the region.

"We still think the three projects are of enormous importance," said a high official of the Polish foreign ministry, referring to the two plans and the proposed East-West security meeting.

WOULD BE START

"Either could be put forward as something constructive leading to a European security arrangement, creating a better climate for bringing about East-West co-operation," he said.

In Western eyes, the Polish plans suffer from a fundamental flaw. They would prevent the West from building up their modern weaponry there while allowing the Soviet Union to go on building hers just a short distance away.

The areas covered by the Polish proposals are West and East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

"The objections forthcoming from the West allege that the denuclearation of central Europe would disturb the existing balance of power," Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki has said. "We did not, and do not, see grounds for this sort of objection."

The Rapacki Plan, put before the United Nations in 1957, calls for a ban on production of nuclear weapons in the area. The four states concerned would undertake not to provide nuclear weapons for armies in the zone not possessing them.

A second stage envisages reduction of conventional arms and complete removal of nuclear weapons from the zone. And the nuclear powers would agree not to use nuclear weapons against targets in the defused area.

WANTS FREEZE

The Gomulka Plan, named after Wladyslaw Gomulka, Polish Communist party chief, was proposed in 1964. It would freeze nuclear stocks in central Europe under the principle of not producing them there or importing them.

An element in both Polish proposals that has attracted attention in the West is the provision for inspection and control.

This is a problem that has kept the Western powers and U.S.S.R. at odds for years. Russia will not accept the degree of verification that the West deems vital.

Rapacki has said Poland favors "the most effective control of the fulfilment and observation of the undertaken obligations."

Supervision would cover plants that might be used for producing nuclear arms, frontier railway, road and waterways junctions, seaports and airports.

Poland has never specified how many inspection teams it might be prepared to admit to Polish soil. Nevertheless, the willingness to accept inspection goes far beyond anything the Russians have ever conceded.

Even with effective inspection, however, the West has its doubts about the whole idea. Strategists fear that the military vacuum in Europe would fundamentally undermine the Western position.

Their view is that the plan would mean more if it stretched from Britain to the Urals, thereby including Soviet Europe.

"The great powers are already having talks on nuclear disarmament," a foreign ministry official said. "We wanted to organize a pilot plan."

On the question of a security conference, Poland and Russia may not be in exact agreement. In a Rome press conference, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko reiterated the Russian view that such a conference should be for Europeans only, without the United States. The Polish view has always been that both the U.S.S.R. and U.S. should be represented.

And as for the security system itself, whatever form it takes, Poland agrees that the U.S. should be a party to it, another official said.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

There was a gaggle of near-midget soccer-playing North Koreans gallivanting around over 'ome who had Albion's 'Arry and 'Arriet addicts sputtering over their mild-and-bitters.

These Lilliputian exponents of the game that has swept the world the last two decades were regarded by the soccer wiseneheimers in Britain as pushovers for the Brobdignagians from Argentina, Brazil, Portugal et al.

True the Portuguese platoon, now favored with England to play in the World Cup final next Saturday gave the Koreans their come-uppance Saturday by a 5-3 score but the little guys will take home the scalps of a couple of capitilistic giants.

They sunk a verbal shaft deep under the hide of soccer-mad Britain when they openly boasted that Korea invented the game — and they would take the cup back to Asia for the first time.

The second boast has been knocked into a cocked hat but British buffs were still choking over their arf-and-arfs from the Korean invention gag when a west German publication hit them below the belt again.

This claimed that Chinese soldiers 3,000 years ago played "tsu-chu" or kick-the-ball. It didn't say that during furloughs, the Chinese men-at-arms went out and invented the first laundry and restaurant.

And for the information of expatriate British soccer fans the records say the game undeniably originated in England in about the 11th century. Where the game might have been played earlier is left to the erratic guesswork of historians.

Some of these gentlemen claim the Spartans, Romans and Greeks played some form of soccer, but it seems passing strange, that if it existed, the game never found its way into the Olympic games played by this fraternity for centuries.

But the fever, frenzy and fantastic exhibitions of passion that has swept the fans of 16 nations during the first week of World Cup soccer, vintage 1966, opens a new colorful page in the archives of the sport.

Fan-wise, a country's darlings have become derelicts overnight. National champions, idols of populace, have suddenly become "chumps." Cheers changed to jeers. The hands supposed to toss flowers hurled tomatoes and bottles. Individual fans have resorted to idiotic exhibitions.

Brazil, proud world champions since 1954 went home under the ignominy of defeat. There were no national expressions of sympathy. Instead there were threats of riots and uprisings against the team.

Italy, defeated by the Koreans 1-0, almost staged a revolution. The national honor had been insulted. The soccer heroes of a week ago were greeted with jeers ,tomatoes and other hand-thrown missiles. Argentina, defeated Saturday by England, won't give their heroes a welcome befitting that name.

Top world observers in England for the tournament are agreed that the 1966 World Cup "series" is the dirtiest ever played. "Fouls" often resulting in injury have predominated the matches. "Pele", Brazil's brilliant forward worth $750,000, was injured to the extent where he may not play international soccer again.

An expatriate British soccer fan living here told me that not until international soccer came into being did roughness affect the games. "Previously," he said, "any incidents that occurred were mainly the fault of partisan fans — and generally, these were fights among themselves. The game was cleanly played. The players played for the sport alone."

Perhaps the urge to play it rough has lain dormant for 1,000 years. History has it that after the Danes evacuated England which they occupied from about 1016 to 1042 workmen digging in an old battlefield uncovered a skull that was undeniably Dane.

The Britons still smarting from Danish rule kicked at the skull to show their feelings. Soon the others took to kicking the skull back and forth and work was stopped while the boot was being applied to the defunct Dane's noggin.

Mets Back In Form; Drop 3 In Row

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nobody ever thought they would have to halt a game in the Houston Astrodome while it was raining, but it happened Sunday.

The delay came in the eighth inning of the game between Houston Astros and Pittsburgh Pirats as rain splattered the outside of the dome. However, that's as far as the rain got.

The Pirates didn't have a power failure. They continued their torrid hitting, whipping the Astros 11-6 and maintaining a one-game lead in the National League pennant race.

BROKE DEADLOCK

The light failure came shortly after the Pirates broke a 5-5 deadlock with a four-run rally in the seventh.

The Astros were batting when 100 of the 1,650 lights that illuminate the stadium went out to the right of home plate. The Astrodome's lighting engineer explained that an intense buildup of heat caused circuit breakers on the roof to kick off.

In other NL games, San Francisco Giants defeated Philadelphia Phillies 4-1, Los Angeles Dodgers swept New York Mets 5-0 and 6-0, St. Louis Cardinals trimmed Chicago Cubs 7-4 in 10 innings after losing 10-7 and Cincinnati Reds edged Atlanta 4-3 in 10 innings before bowing 5-4, also in 10.

Saturday Los Angeles beat the Mets 6-2, Philadelphia shut out the Giants 8-0, St. Louis beat Chicago 4-0, Pittsburgh nipped Houston 4-3 and Atlanta at Cincinnati was postponed by rain.

The Pirates' hitting was almost as hot as the lights. Down 4-1, they scored three runs in the fourth inning, the last two on Bob Bailey's homer.

HITS 24TH HOMER

Then with the game tied 5-5 in the seventh, Matty Alou doubled, Manny Mota singled and Willie Stargell hit his 24th home run. Don Clendenon doubled and Jose Pagan singled for another run. Jim Pagliaroni and Robert Clemente homered earlier for the Pirates.

Willie Mays hit his 22nd homer of the season and 527th of his career in the Giants' victory over Philadelphia. Tito Fuentes, whose single triggered a two-run first inning, also singled before Mays connected.

Don Drysdale pitched a six-hitter and hit his 29th career homer in Los Angeles' opening-game victory. John Kennedy and John Roseboro also homered for the Dodgers.

In the nightcap, Joe Moeller and Phil Regan combined to blank the Mets on five hits.

George Altman of Chicago collected three hits in the first game, including a fifth-inning home run that snapped a 4-4 tie and ignited a four-run rally.

St. Louis came back for the second-place triumph on Lou Brock's three-run homer in the 10th.

The Braves won the 10-inning nightcap on Joe Torre's second homer of the game. Hank Aaron drove in two with his 29th homer and a single.

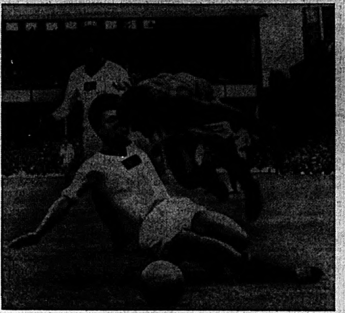
England, Portugal Clash In Semi-Final



Portugal's Eusebio, the "Black Panther," flies through the air as he is fouled by North Korea's Rim Sun during Saturday's World Cup quarter final play in Liverpool. Eusebio drew a penalty shot from the incident and scored his fourth goal, record. Portugal won. (AP Wirephoto)

LONDON (AP) — West Germany and Russia step out in the first semi-final of the World Cup soccer championship at Liverpool today knowing that any misbehavior on the field will mean serious punishment.

England and Portugal meet Tuesday night at London's Wembley Stadium with the same threat over their heads.

Reason: The heavy punishments handed out to the Argentine team after captain Antonio Rattin was sent off in the match against England Saturday.

The disciplinary committee of the International Federation of Football Associations (FIFA) fined the Argentine Football Federation 1,000 Swiss francs. FIFA also told Argentina its entry for the 1970 World Cup tournament in Mexico may be refused unless certain promises are made.

FIFA decided that Rattin should be suspended for the next four international matches. Two other Argentine players — Roberto Ferreiro and Ermindo Onega — were suspended for the next three.

In the match against West Germany a week ago, the Argentines had Jorge Albrecht sent off. The whole team was warned about future conduct. So was Argentine coach Juan Carlos Lorenzo.

Portugal — with the new king of soccer, Eusebio, centre forward Jose Torres and Carmelo Simeone the danger men — could upset England despite the pull of the home crowd.

Eusebio proved his genius Saturday by scoring four goals against North Korea — at a time when goals were desperately needed.

North Korea led 3-0 after 24 minutes and an upset looked in the making. Then Eusebio came through. And he's likely to do just the same thing against England.

West Germany has no injury problems for its match against Russia. But the Russians said that defender Albert Shesternev has a shoulder injury and is a doubtful participant.

Uruguay defeated 4-0 by West Germany in the quarter-finals, and Argentina, defeated 1-0 by England, were the last surviving South American teams.

Defending champions Brazil, and Chile and Mexico were knocked out before the quarter-finals.

The final will be played Saturday. The game to decide the third and fourth places will be staged Thursday.

Leafs Drop To Fourth, Jets Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two hits, both of them home runs, are the difference between second and fourth place in the International League baseball standings as far as Toronto Maple Leafs are concerned.

The Leafs, riding along in second place, lost 4-3 Saturday and 4-3 again Sunday to Richmond Braves and dropped to fourth behind the leading Columbus Jets, second - place Rochester Red Wings and third-place Toledo Mud Hens.

The Jets increased their lead to 3½ games Sunday by sweeping a pair from Syracuse Chiefs, 4-2 and 6-5. Toledo climbed into third place by dumping Rochester 10-1 Sunday after losing 8-2 to the Wings Saturday. Buffalo Bisons split with Jacksonville Suns Saturday, winning the opener 3-0 and losing the nightcap 3-2 and the teams were rained out of their game in Jacksonville Sunday. Columbus edged Syracuse 7-6 in the other Saturday game.

Oshawa Wins Tourney "A" Belleville "B"

Oshawa won the "A" title by blanking Trenton 3-0. G. Cranston hurled four-hit ball on the champions' hilltop. The losing pitcher was Paul Wannamaker, with a five-hitter.

Belleville Ellis' took the "B" crown, for first-round losers, by whipping Marmora 10-3. Don Fuller pitched five-hit ball for the winners and Terry Murphy gave up 12 hits in defeat. Don Fuller helped his own cause at the plate with three hits. Ron Fuller also had three hits, while Scott Scrimshaw and Craig Rump hit home runs. Don Donaldson had three Marmora hits.

In the tourney's opening round, Trenton topped Belleville 8-4, Port Perry edged Marmora 8-7 and Oshawa whipped Stirling 9-2.

The Belleville Kinsmen Club donated trophies to both championship clubs. The tournament was termed a success and plans call for it to be an annual affair.

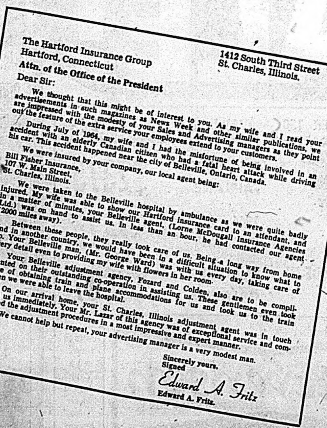
Insurance Service

An Example of the Efficient and Friendly Service Given
BY
LORNE McDOUGALL INSURANCE AGENCIES LTD.

The following copy of a letter was received by the Lorne McDougall Insurance Agencies Ltd. who are the local agents for the Hartford Insurance Group. Mr. George Ward was also presented with a plaque in appreciation of the service rendered and the personal interest he took in looking after the victims of an accident who were far away from their own home and their own insurance agent.



The Hartford Insurance Group
Hartford, Connecticut
Attn. of the Office of the President

1412 South Third Street
St. Charles, Illinois.

Dear Sir:

We thought that this might be of interest to you. As my wife and I read your advertisements in such magazines as News Week and other similar publications, we are impressed with the modesty of your Sales and Advertising managers as they point out the feature of the extra service your employees extend to your customers.

During July of 1964, my wife and I had the misfortune of being involved in an accident with an elderly Canadian citizen who had a fatal heart attack while driving his car. This accident happened near the city of Belleville, Ontario, Canada.

We were insured by your company, our local agent being:
Bill Fisher Insurance,
107 W. Main Street,
St. Charles, Illinois.

We were taken to the Belleville hospital by ambulance as we were quite badly injured. My wife was able to show our Hartford insurance card to an attendant, and in a matter of minutes, your Belleville agent, (Lorne McDougall Insurance Agencies Ltd.) was on hand to assist us. In less than an hour, he had contacted our agent (2000 miles away).

Between these people, they really took care of us. Being a long way from home and in another country, we would have been in a difficult situation to know what to do. Your Belleville man, (Mr. George Ward) was with us every day, taking care of every detail even to providing my wife with flowers in her room.

Your Belleville adjustment agency, Fozard and Colden, also are to be complimented on their outstanding co-operation in assisting us. These gentlemen even took care of obtaining train and plane accommodations for us and took us to the train when we were able to leave the hospital.

On our arrival home, your St. Charles, Illinois adjustment agent was in touch with us immediately. Your Mr. Lazar of this agency was of exceptional service and completed the adjustment procedures in a most impressive and expert manner.

We cannot help but repeat, your advertising manager is a very modest man.

Sincerely yours,
Signed
Edward A. Fritz

Madoc made its farewell to the Belleville and District Softball League, at least for this season, a winning one Saturday night.

The young Madoc squad upended Ellis Juniors 7-4 at Alemite Park. The setback prevents the Juniors from finishing any higher than a tie for third as the scheduled games come to a close this week.

Picton visits Trudeaus here Tuesday and Trudeaus clash with the Juniors on Thursday. Currently, Bobcats have 20 points, Trudeaus and Picton 16 each and the Juniors 14.

Madoc won with a three-run boom in the top of the ninth, snapping a 4-4 deadlock. Winning pitcher Larry Griffin ignited his own rally with a double. Masters singled him home and Kramp also singled. Binch's bunt hit loaded the bases. A high throw from centre on LeSage's short fly plated one and an error on Atkinson's shot to left made it 7-4.

LeSage's triple, an error on Atkinson's sacrifice, a walk and Reid's base hit shoved Madoc in front 4-2 in the sixth but the losers tied in on a walk and Wellsley's solid home run in the seventh.

Griffin's double and Masters' base knock netted one for Madoc in the third. The Juniors moved ahead in their half of the frame on a throwing error, Boombower's triple and Barberstock's fly ball, scoring two. Griffin and Kramp hit safely to tie it 2-2 in the fifth.

Larry Griffin deactivated the Juniors on five hits. He struck out seven, walked four, hit two and sparked his own attack with two doubles and a single.

Bill Arthur started for the Juniors, replaced by loser Bob Ethier in the sixth. Arthur, in his first start, gave up nine of the 18 hits, fanning two and walking three. Ethier struck out five and walked none.

Darryl Kramp aided Griffin in the Madoc hit department with three singles. Len Masters, Elton Reid and Murray Binch each singled twice and Ray LeSage tripled.

Terry Wellsley was tops in defeat with a home run and double. Carl Boombower and Wayne Woods hit triples and Jerry St. Denis singled.

The Juniors' Don Gardiner was ejected from the game in the third frame after some Madoc bench jockeying. He repeatedly attempted to get at the Madoc players and was physically held back by teammates several times. Carl Boombower was also thrown out in the ninth after directing words at base umpire Austin Watkin.

Gomez Given Suspension

FORE ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Avelino Gomez, leading jockey at Fort Erie, Greenwood and Woodbine race tracks this season, has been suspended for 10 days following an infraction at Fort Erie race track.

The suspension, which started Sunday, was imposed for allowing Blue Forest to interfere with inside horses on the back stretch in the third race Friday. Blue Forest finished second but was disqualified and placed last.

Gomez will miss two stakes events because of the suspension. He was to ride Titled Hero in the Heresy Stakes Aug. 1 and also ride in the Play Fair Stakes.

Gangling Geiberger New PGA Champ

Nicklaus, Palmer In Ruck

AKRON, Ohio AP — Al Geiberger, the new PGA champion, doesn't have the colorful peronality traits of golfing heroes Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player.

But they may have to make room for the gangling beanpole who has to munch on peanut butter and jelly sandwiches to keep his game going.

Geiberger, 128, left everyone in his wake Sunday when he mastered the gigantic Firestone course and won the PGA's golden anniversary tournament by four strokes over Dudley Wysong.

The victory, Geiberger's first major championship, was no fluke. He shot an identical 280 for 72 holes last year to beat nearly the same field and win the American Golf Classic at the same 7,180-yard course with a demanding par 70.

"Anytime you win a major championship it has to be a longshot," said Geiberger who always seems to be smiling.

He was presented with a three-pound jar of peanut butter and a loaf of bread when he took his seat in the press tent.

Geiberger, who appears to be loose and unassuming on the golf course, says he is highly nervous-so much so that he burns energy so fast that he must get something in his stomach.

'Actually it started at the PGA last year," Geiberger said.

"I was playing with Arnold Palmer and the galleries were so big that I couldn't get to the refreshment stand to get a sandwich.

"So I started carrying peanut butter and jelly sandwiches in my bag."

Why peanut butter?

"Did you ever carry a tuna sandwich in your bag and then forget to eat it."

Geiberger took a four-shot lead into the final round over Wysong. Althouh he went over par on three of the first four holes, the six-foot 2½, 160-pounder was whistling as he went to the fifth tee.

He nailed a birdie two on the fifth and never was in danger again.

Probably the best description of Geiberger was given by Palmer, who finished with 287 and in a tie for sixth place when he shot a final round of 68.

"Geiberger has the right temperment for this type of course," said Palmer. "It is long, demanding and you need big shots all the time. It can wear you down. Al rambles along like a rolling stone."

Geiberger's victory was worth $5,000. It also gave him a berth in the World Series of Golf next month which carries a top prize of $50,000. It will be playyed at Firestone Sept. 11-12. Geiberer's foes will be Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Gene Littler.

Nicklaus was tied for 22nd in the PGA with a 292, Casper tied for third with Littler and Player, all finishing with 286.

Sam Snead, who led the tournament after 36 holes, had a final round of 73 and tied for sixth along with Palmer, Doug Sanders, Julius Boros and Jacky Cupit.

Teen-Ager Defeats Champion

Barbara Fay, 26, had her bid for a third successive crown spoiled by the steady sub-par shooting of Miss Conley, 19, an art student at the University of Washington in Spokane.

For the 36-hole distance over the Barrington Hills Country Club course, which carries a 38-38—76 par, Miss Conley was seven under.

Quebec Open Third For Norman

MONTREAL (CP)—Moe Norman, 35, hitting his tee shots with automatic precision, won his third provincial open title this season Saturday by firing a 12-under-par 204 to win the 54-hole Quebec Open by one stroke.

The chunky professional at Golf Haven near Barrie, Ont., was two strokes behind Jack Bissegger of Montreal with nine holes remaining.

He said it was at this point he "changed strategy" and with machine - like precision, he placed his approach shots within close range of the hole.

"I guess it worked because I birdied te 10th, 13th, 14th, 15th and 18th greens," he said, describing his game over the par 36-36-72, 6,500 - yard Pinegrove course south of Montreal, "It's the toughest one I have played this year. It's not narrow, but those sand traps seem to add to its length."

WON $800

Bissegger finished with a 205 for the $800 second prize. He blew his chances for the $1,200 first prize when he took a two over par six on the fourth hole in the second round.

Wild Homenuik of Winnipeg, who won $600 third prize for his 209, said he was more than pleased with his game.

"I thought I was playing super golf but Norman and Bisseger were tremendous. I watched them at several holes and they would have beaten anybody out there.

"When I saw Moe almost drop three long approach shots and that's great golf."

Bob Panasiuk, 24, of Windsor, Ont., won $500 for is five-under-par 211.

Frank Kay Jr. of Sorel, Que., led the amateur contingent with a two-over-par 218. One stroke back was Gordon LeRiche of Montreal.

George Sharman of Granby, Que., and Arnold Baker of Sherbrooke, Que., were tied for third low amateur with 221s. Glen Sealey of Ottawa was sixth low amateur with a 224.

Norman, who has won the Alberta and Manitoba Opens, placed second at the British Columbia Open and third last week at the Ontario Open, has won a total of $8,400 in six weeks on the Canadian circuit. after losing the tournament as he earned a starting time in the $200,000 world golf tournament starting Aug. 31 in Southport, England. Norman had previously won a spot in the world tournament with his second-place finish in British Columbia.

Bob Dean of Cornwall picked up $75 with a 54-hole score of 218, tying two others in ninth place. He fired a 73 Saturday to go with earlier rounds of 73 and 72.

Wife, Two Others Die

Tony Lema Dies In Crash

LANSING, Ill. (AP) — The death of Tony Lema, the delightful Champagne Kid whose quick wit and flashing smile charmed golfing fans of two continents, brought a stunned, incredulous response from his fellow pros.

"Oh, my god! What a terrible, terrible thing," said Jack Nicklaus, the Masters and British Open champion.

"I can hardly speak," said Ken Venturi. "He was like a brother to me."

Lema, 32, his wife, Betty, and two others were killed Sunday night when their light plane plunged into the manicured turf of the seventh green of the Lansing Sportsman's Club. Lema was scheduled to play in the one day $12,000 Lincolnshire Tourney at Crete, Ill., today.

The other victims were Doris Mullen of Joliet, Ill., the pilot, and Dr. George Bard of Kankakee, Ill., the co-pilot.

PLANE BURNED

The plane was en route to Joliet from Akron, Ohio, where Lema had played in the Professional Golfers Association championship Sunday. It crashed and burst into flames on the Lansing Sportsman's Club course.

A witness, Bud Dorton, said the low - flying plane swerved to avoid a group of people standing near the clubhouse, the engines died, then started and died again and plunged to the ground, digging up a furrow near the seventh green before bursting into flames.

Lema, a slender, handsome man with an impish grin, flashing blue eyes and thinning hair, was one of the world's leading professionals.

"He was one of the greatest golfers I've ever seen," said his business manager, Fred Corcoran. "I'm all broken up. He was exciting to watch."

He disclosed that the original plane Lema had chartered to take him and his wife, to Joliet "didn't show up and Tony told me he had chartered another."

"A shock to all of us—a real loss to the game," said Max Elbin, president of the PGA.

'WORLD OF COLOR'

"Tony had a world of color and he added tremendously to the appeal of golf. He was a great inspiration to the younger players."

Lema was born in Oakland, Calif., and played on the municipal courses in and around the San Francisco area until he joined the Marines in 1952.

He spent 13 months as an assistant pro in the San Francisco area after leaving service, took a job as head pro in Elko, Nev., then joined the professional tour in 1957.

The first five years were tough ones and his earnings didn't surpass $12,000 a year. But in 1962 his game began to jell and he acquired the nickname that was to become his personal trademark Champagne Tony.

It was at the Orange County Open in California that year when he saw some reporters drinking beer in the press room.

"Fellows," he said, "if I win this tournament, it's going to be champagne for everyone."

AND HE WON

He won and the champagne flowed. He followed it up with a champagne party after every other victory, which became more frequent.

He was fourth on the money winning list in 1963 and skyrocketed to golf's upper echelon in 1964, winning the Bing Crosby, The Thunderbird and Buick Opens and the hearts of the British.

He flew to Scotland for the British Open, played that year at craggy old St. Andrews. He had never before played the course, nor had he ever used the smaller British ball, nor did he even practice.

Loose and relaxed, he took a 73 on the opening round, then set his jaw, barged into the lead and held off a closing challenge by Nicklaus to win the tournament, one of the most prestigious in the world.

He also won the $50,000 World Series of Golf in 1964 and his earnings soared to $101,816.62 in 1965 when he won the Carling World and his second straight Buick Open.

This year, he had won the Oklahoma City Open and had earnings of more than $50,000.

Five In Fifth Gives Latta 6-1 Victory

Latta erupted for five runs in the fifth inning to back Bob Smith's two-hit hurling in South Hastings Baseball Saturday night.

Each team scored once in the first. Latta exploded for five runs on two walks, four singles, a double and a fielder's choice to win it before darkness halted action after six frames.

Smith gave up a second-frame double and a single in the third after Shannonville plated an unearned marker in the first. He struck out eight and walked three.

Bill Barberstock started, gave way to Dave Lewis for five batters during the Latta rally, then went back to finish up on the losers' rubber. They gave up six hits, struck out four and walked three.

Larry Mavety sparked Latta's attack, clouting a first-frame home run and adding a key double in the fifth. The other base hits went to Gary Ray, Lorne Cronkright, Howard Meeks and Rose Parks.

Shannonville	100 000	1-2-1

CASEY STENGEL

Casey, "Sliver" In Hall

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) Casey Stengel and Ted Williams were formally induced into baseball's Hall of Fame today.

Baseball commissioner William D. Eckert presided at the ceremonies marking the admission of Stengel, one of the game's most successful managers, and Williams, the last of the .400 hitters.

Stengel, who won 10 American League pennants, and seven World Series in 12 years as manager of New York Yankees, was named to the Hall in a special election held in March after the normal five-year, post-retirement waiting period had been waived. Casey retired last August as manager of New York Mets.

Williams, number four on the all-time home run list, was voted in with 93.3 per cent of the ballots case by 10-year veterans of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Ted finished his 19-year career in 1960 with a lifetime batting average of .344 and 521 homers. He won six American League batting titles. In 1941 he hit .406.

EOBA Minors Win, Lose On Weekend

Bowmanville shaded Ellis' Bantams 7-6 and Belleville Booth's outlasted Peterborough 11-9 in bantam and tyke EOBA action on the weekend. In an exhibition game, Cobourg defeated Belleville Holy Rosary 8-5.

BOWMANVILLE 7, ELLIS BANTAMS 6

Jim Wood and Wayne Farrel took the loss for Belleville. They gave up 9 hits and fanned 10.

White hurled for the winners, giving up 11 hits.

Ron Jury and Paul Hall slammed a homer and single for the losers. Mike Healey hit a triple, double and single, while Steve Moore, Jim Potts, Terry Meagher and Butch Curtin had base hits.

Donoghue, Rogers, White and Rhyorshuk led the winners at the plate.

BELLEVILLE BOOTH T.V. 11, PETERBOROUGH 9

Tim Whelan, with relief from Ron McTaggart in the second, pitched for Belleville. They gave up nine hits and struck out eight.

Hynes gave up 13 hits in defeat.

Murray Dales smashed a triple and two singles, and Jed Forster a triple and single, to lead Belleville's attack. Tom Coughlan, John Venutti, and Tim Whelan had two hits each and Ron McTaggart and Terry Ray singletons.

OTTAWA (CP) — Although plagued by fumbles and interceptions, Ottawa Rough Riders still managed a 16-10 win over British Columbia Lions Saturday night in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

The Eastern Conference team fumbled four times and had three passes intercepted in winning their third straight pre-season game, all against Western Conference clubs.

Lions, without first and second-string quarterbacks Joe Kapp and Steve Shafer, now have lost their only two exhibition games. They fumbled twice and had two passes intercepted.

Russ Jackson, veteran Ottawa quarterback, tossed a 35-yard end zone pass to flanker Whit Tucker for the winning margin midway through the final quarter.

KICK FIELD GOALS

Riders got their other points on two field goals and two singles by Moe Racine and a safety touch Lions conceded.

Willie Fleming got Lions and the game off to a rousing start with a 75-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage in the opening quarter. Bill Mitchell converted and later added a field goal for the other B.C. points.

Ernie Allen went all the way for Lions at quarterback and was repeatedly thrown for losses by a tough Ottawa defence. He completed seven of 12 passes for 59 yards while the B.C. backfield gained 112 yards rushing.

Jackson, Bill Cline and Doyle Hill all saw service running the Ottawa attack, completing 18 of 34 passes for 304 yards.

The Ottawa ground attack was less than impressive, netting 49 yards on 22 carries.

EDMONTON (CP)—Tommy-Joe Coffey kicked a 32-yard field goal with eight seconds remaining Saturday to give Edmonton Eskimos a 9-7 victory over Toronto Argonauts in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

A fumble recovery at the Edmonton 20 started Eskimos on the road to the field goal, which salvaged the club's first exhibition victory after defeats by Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The march took less than two minutes.

PUNTS SINGLE

A second-quarter single on Dave Mann's 57-yard punt provided Argos with a lead that looked capable of standing up.

Both clubs missed scoring opportunities in the early stages. Coffey missed a field-goal in the first quarter and had a second-quarter attempt blocked.

John Volunas attempted a field goal for Toronto from the Edmonton 13 midway through the second quarter but it was blocked.

Edmonton totalled 14 first downs on a total offence of 283 yards, compared with Argos' 12 first downs on 238 yards gained. Redell and Kerbow teamed for 175 yards through the air on 14 completions in 23 attempts and Gabler combined with Bill Van Burkleo for 11 successes in 19 attempts.

Shannonville Late Rally Nips Read 8-7

Shannonville rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to pull out a 8-7 victory over Read in South Hastings league play on Sunday.

Read notched four runs in the first frame but couldn't maintain their lead, as Shannonville rebounded for five runs in the fourth inning. Read snared one run in each of the fifth, sixth and seventh frames, only to see their two-run lead disappear in the eighth.

Larry Lewis hurled the win for Shannonville. He was rocked for 11 hits, struck out 10 and walked five.

Ted Abrams, with help from Frank Farrel in the eighth, pitch for Read. They allowed seven hits, fanned 10 and walked six.

Larry Lewis and Bud Hill slammed two base hits each to head Shannonville at the plate. Jack Hughes, Carl Boomhower and Bill Barberstock had singles.

Ted Abrams exploded for a double and 2 singles for Read. Percy Milligan banged out two doubles, Jerry Brennan had a single, and Carm Milligan, Ken Abrams, Wayne Pascoe and Peter Enright safetied.

Shannonville:	000 500 030	8-7-0
Read:	400 011 100	7-11-3

Cannifton Turns Back Acme 11-1

Cannifton's Plane's fattened their South Hastings Baseball League point total at the expense of Belleville's tail - end squad Saturday night. Cannifton defeated Belleville Acme 11-1, at Cannifton.

The winners pounded out a 15 - hit tattoo off the offerings of two Belleville chuckers, scoring five times in the second frame and putting the wraps on with four in the seventh.

Terry Thompson spun five-hit ball to register the pitching victory. He struck out six Acme batters and issued four free tickets.

Claude Carr started for Belleville with Keith Dicket coming on in the fourth. They fanned six and walked one.

The Cannifton hits were well distributed. Eric Emerson, Don Forsythe, Larry Adams, Jerry Hill and Court Bralley each collected one double and one single. Rou Urch and Hugh Petrie had a pair of singles each and Pat O'Connor clouted a triple.

Despite the free - swinging game, only three errors were charged, two of them to the losers.

Howard The Hero

Chisox Snap Orioles' Win String At 7

By RON RAPOPORT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bruce Howard, once best known as Denny McLain's ex-roommate, is suddenly Chicago White Sox's ex-mistake.

Back in 1963, the Sox had to decide whether to keep Howard — who beat Baltimore Orioles 4-0 — Sunday — or option him in favor of McLain, who also was on the club.

They chose Howard and McLean was snapped up by Detroit Tigers where he won 16 games last season and 13 during the first half of this. Howard struggled to a 9-8 record in 1965 and blisters on his fingers kept him from effectiveness the first months of the current season.

But McLain, who threw three perfect innings in the All-Star game, has fallen on evil times of late — he lost his third game in a row Sunday—and the hottest pitcher now in the league is Bruce Howard.

BEATEN BY INDIANS

McLain, meantime, was being shelled in the Tigers' first-game loss to Cleveland Indians 3-0. Detroit came back to take the nightcap 2-1 in 10 innings.

Other American League action saw Washington Senators sweep two from Kansas City Athletics 6-2 and 7-4 and Minnesota Twins beat Boston Red Sox 4-2.

Saturday Baltimore nipped Chicago 5-4, Cleveland edged Detroit 6-5, Washington drubbed Kansas City 8-1, Minnesota whipped Boston 10-4 and California defeated New York 7-6.

In snapping the league-leading Orioles' win streak at seven Sunday, Howard raised record to 5-1 and lowered his ERA to 2.48. He has allowed five earned runs and 15 hits in his last four starts, two of which he won on four-hitters.

Joe Azcue drove in two runs with a homer and a single and Steve Hargon scattered nine Detroit hits in pacing Cleveland to its wrist-game win.

HITS TWO HOMERS

Tom Tresh hit a grand-slam homer in the first game and a solo blast in the second in the Yankees' double win. In the first game, Mickey Mantle hit his 20th homer of the season and the 493rd of his career, tying him with Lou Gehrig for sixth on the all-time home run list.

Washington escaped the league's cellar with its two victories over the Athletics. Roger Repoz hit a homer in the first game and Ken Harrelson and Paul Casanova each hit one in the nightcap.

A two-run home run by Ceaser Tovar sent the Twins to their victory over Boston. Tony Oliva, batting champ the last two years, got two hits to edge within one point of the Orioles' Russ Synder, who leads the league at .330.

Blasts Argentine Team

British Press Sizzles

By JIM ANDERSON

LONDON CP — "Latin lunatics plunge soccer into chaos." "Can this really be football?" "Go home, thugs."

Those headlines and others like them were splashed across the British press Sunday and today in outraged reaction to what the papers called "The Battle of Wembley," the World Cup quarter-final Saturday in which Argentine players held up the game for 10 minutes, threatened to walk off the field and roughed up the West German referee after the game.

The Times called it "a travesty of football." The paper's anonymous soccer correspondent wrote that "as a match, it was like a crumpled, unmade bed."

And, while England took its share of fouls in the rough match ,a considerable note of self-congratulation appeared in the British comments after England, defeating short-handed Argentina 1-0, made it into their first World Cup semi-final.

The papers gave play to England's manager Alf Ramsey, who said: "We still have to produce our best football. It will come against the right type of opposition, the team who come out to play football, not act as animals."

LOST TEMPERS

Sam Leitch wrote in The Sunday Mirror that "England won because they were men. Argentina's spoiled soccer aristocrats lost their tempers, their heads and their captain, Antonio Rattin."

Rattin was sent off, with the score tied, by German referee Rudolph Kreitlin when he protested a penalty to another player.

His refusal to go launched the incident which threatened to end the game in the first half.

Police whisked Kreitlin off the field at the end of the game before anything but national pride was damaged.

KOREANS PUSH HARD

The so-called battle largely obscured the exciting Portugal-North Korea match, in which the North Koreans looked for a while as though they might pull off an incredible upset.

They led Portugal by 3-0, only to lose 5-3 after a spectacular four-goal effort by Eusebio Ferreira.

That made the Black Panther from Mozambique a clear favorite for honors as the outstanding player of the series and successor to Pele, injured star of defeated Brazil, as the world's master of the game.

Edgar Turner, writing in The Sunday Mirror, called it "the greatest World Cup match of them all."

"The Koreans never collapsed. Every goal Portugal got had to be won — and they did it in a manner which establishes them more than ever as a team which could win this World Cup."

T. and S. Softball

A short - handed Foxboro team defeated Halloway 7-5 Saturday night to climb into a first - place deadlock with the losers in the Thurlow and Sidney Softball League standing.

Headin into the final week, four of the eight - team league's clubs are battling for first place. Halloway and Foxboro have 24 points each, Crookston 23 and Johnstown 22.

Barry Dafoe, with three hits, Ross Walmsley, with a triple and double, paced the winners while Dennis Ray singled twice. For Halloway, it was Doug Irvin with three safeties, Gale Allen and John Emerson with two each.

APPROVES FIGHT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The Nevada Boxing Commission granted approval Saturday for a 15-round light - heavyweight championship fight Aug. 15 between world champion Jose Torres and Eddie Cotten.

Steve McQueen Exhausted By Five Months of Work

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Steven McQueen's hooded eyes seemed more drooped than usual.

"I don't mind telling you, I'm beat," he said. "The thing I'd like most to do right now is go to sleep for 20 hours."

Instead, he was faced with an afternoon's strenuous work on The Sand Pebbles, a film now in its third month of overtime. While that means added salary for him, he claims he will see little or none of it.

"I'm just working for the government now," he said. "Not that I mind paying taxes. This is a great country and I'm proud to be part of it. But does Uncle Sam really need all that money?"

McQueen's fatigue was more than that of the usual weariness of a star at the tag end of a long film. He spent five months in Formosa and Hong Kong, working a seven-day week. His time off consisted of one Sunday.

CAUGHT THE BUG

Upon his return to the Fox lot, he was stricken by the bug that afflicted most of the company members. He hasn't recovered yet. If he can hold on for another fortnight, he'll be finished with The Sand Pebbles and then?

"Then I am going to load my wife and two kids into the camper, fill up the gas tanks and head North. I'm not going to stop until I get to Alaska. And I won't come back until the money runs out.'

McQueen disputes what he terms the common notion "that the work of a movie star consists of putting on some powder and making faces in front of a camera." His present assignment disproves that.

"Ive done pretty well, considering I'm not the movie-star pretty by any means, and I'm pretty by any means, and Im not that much of an actor. I should have been a character actor, but somehow it didn't turn out that way.

Buckpasser Wins Rich Handicap

NEW YORK (CP) — Buckpasser, a solid choice to win the three-year-old horse-racing title for 1966, moved up a notch into the handicap division Saturday and won the $107,100 Brooklyn Handicap by a nose at Aqueduct.

Pluck trailed by five lengths in third place.

Los Angeles Meet

Two World Records Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two world records were broken and three American marks fell, but a pair of weary decathlon men gasping through the shadows of evening climaxed the drama.

Track and field stars in the two-day International Games were plentiful Saturday and Sunday.

John Pennel set a world pole vault mark of 17 feet, 6¼ inches; Australian distance star Ron Clark was a double winner at 5,000 and 10,000 metres; Jim Ryun won the half-mile; and the U.S. 1,600-metre relay team clipped a second off the world record.

But as the sun set on the rim of Memorial Coliseum, 25,000 of the 34,150 attending remained. Russ Hodge and Bill Toomey, after consecutive afternoons of exertion in 90-degree heat, faced the concluding 1,500 metres with a possible world decathlon mark in sight.

Toomey holds the pending mark of 8,234 points, set in Salina, Kan., earlier this month. He broke fast and set the pace.

As the track announcer called the lap times, the crowd stood to cheer the struggling runners to the tape. Toomey crossed the finish line and collapsed into the arms of team-mates. Hodge followed.

Both fell short of the needed times, but Hodge, who missed by only .8 seconds, was the winner with 8,230 points, and was voted the meet's outstanding performer. Toomey trailed with 8,219.

The only world mark to be broken Sunday was the 1,600-metre relay standard. The U.S. team of Bob Frey, Lee Evans, Tommie Smith and Theron Lewis clocked a 2:59.6, eclipsing the 3:00.7 run by the American team in the Olyympics.

Crothers, Leps Win Events

TORONTO (CP) — Eyebrows were raised a week ago when Dave Bailey, 21-year-old Toronto runner who became Canada's first man to run the mile in less than four minutes, was overlooked in favor of miler Ergas Leps of Toronto on Canada's team going to the British Empire Games next month in Jamaica.

But Leps, a 26-year-old native of Estonia, justified his selection Saturday by defeating Bailey in the mile run of the 84th annual Metropolitan Toronto Police Games.

BRITONS TAKE TITLE

HORTEN, Norway AP — Yachtsmen John Oakley and David Hunt of Britain won the European Flying Dutchman championship Sunday with one more race to go. They are leading with such a comfortable margin that none of the 15 other yachts from 15 countries can overtake them in the final race, scheduled for today.

Records Go At Age Track Meet

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—Canadian track and field record keepers will have a busy time compiling the Canadian and provincial marks established at the two-day Eastern Canadian age-class meet which ended here Saturday.

More than 500 athletes in the midget, juvenile and junior classes were on hand for the event.

Craig Blackman of Toronto's Don Mills Club, competing in the 16-year-and-under midget category, wound up with the top aggregate score and two records, including a 22 feet 1½-inch distance in the long jump for a Canadian native record.

Rick Storrey of Windsor, Ont., competing in the 18-and-under juvenile man's 880-yard run, set a Canadian open and native record with this time of 1:53.0. Second and third place finishers were Gerry Hinton of St. Catharines and Jack Smallden of Welland. The previous mark for the event was 153.2.

In the junior men's 440-yard hurdles, Mark Arnold of Montreal's Notre dame Aces shaved one-fifth of a second off the previous record when he won the event in 55.2. The feat was duplicated by Gordon Molnar of Toronto Striders, who finished second in the same time.

Another Don Mills youngster, Roberta Ricco, came home 50 yards ahead of the field in the juvenile women's 880. Miss Picco set a Canadian open and native record with a time of 2:13.7, two seconds better than the former mark.

Zenon Andrsychyn of Oakville, who will represent Canada at next month's British Empire Games in Jamaica, set a Canadian native mark in the men's junior javelin with a throw of 227 feet ½ inch.

In the men's juvenile pole vault, Bruce Simpson of Scarborough Lions club went over the bar at 13 feet six inches for a Canadian open native mark.

Briefs From Britain

Has to Take Bath Before Testifying

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (CP) — A divorce hearing was held up because a witness insisted on taking a bath before the oath. He is a Moslem, forbidden to touch the Koran when unclean. The judge allowed him 10 minutes in a washroom before proceeding.

Teachers Turn Table

EAST GRINSTEAD, England (CP)—Tradition was reversed when teachers at an east Sussex school distributed apples to children as part of a county dental health campaign.

Takes On All Comers

LONDON (CP)—A south London firm claims to have a safe to break any safebreaker's heart. In two years it has been tackled 11 times by burglars with nitroglycerine and oxy-acetylene torches. All failed.

Seek High Dog Fees

LONDON (CP) — The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is campaigning to increase dog-licence fees six-fold to £2 ($6). It hopes the larger fee will discourage irresponsible dog - owners and reduce the 250,000 unwanted strays destroyed each year.

Boy Teaches Elders

COTGRAVE, England (CP)—Sighted parents of an 11-year-old blind boy are being taught Braille by him so that they can correspond when he leaves his Nottinghamshire home to go to a special school next year.

Show And Tell

HASTINGS, England (CP)—A telephone engineer urged the British post office to follow a Russian lead and introduce TV-Telephones. Stanley Rosser, speaking at an engineers' convention, said under-used television land-lines could add pictures to telephones for as little as $2 to $3 a call.

Antiques Breed Crime

KEIGHLEY, England (CP)—Yorkshire municipal authorities are worried by a spate of gas-lamppost thefts. "We just find a gaping hole and severed gas pipes leaking dangerously," said an engineer. One theory is that the ancient lights are being stolen by a gang to sell to collectors.

No Takers For Slogan

LONDON (CP)—There is a steady market in Britain for unusual car licence plates but nobody answered High Maclean's advertisement for "UD 1." "I had hoped that somebody taking a car to Rhodesia might buy the plate," he said. The asking price was £1,000.

Strike All Flags

POOLE, England (CP)—Even the Union Jack could not be flown at a Dorset regatta without diplomatic problems. East Germany insisted its flag fly alongside those of the other seven countries taking part, but Britain does not recognize East Germany. The problem was solved by flying no national flags at all.

Wants A Bright Eye

SOUTHSEA, England (CP)—A 70-year-old municipal councillor criticized organizers of the beauty contest at this Hampshire resort for picking judges too old for their job. Charles Clarke said young men are much better suited to the pleasant task.

Shirts Turned Off

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP)—A novelty-store operator burned more than 1,000 T-shirts with the slogan: "I'm a junky," across the chest when a psychiatrist said they would encourage drug - taking. Ralph Best said, "They were the best-selling line I have had in years," but said he'd sooner destroy them than corrupt young people.

Bobby Allowed Specs

LONDON (CP) — Britain's first bespectacled policeman will be pounding the London streets, after a decision by Scotland Yard. Norman Rouse, 36, had to resign last year when his eyesight deteriorated after 14 years on the force but soon will be back on the beat.

Beat Club Returns

LIVERPOOL, England (CP) Prime Minister Wilson, member of Parliament for a Liverpool suburb, will perform the reopening ceremony at the Cavern beat club. The Cavern, birthplace of many Liverpool pop groups including the Beatles, was closed several months ago despite protests from local teen-agers, but will be reopened by a new owner.

Find Few Rembrandts

LONDON (CP) — Plans to stage the world's most valuable art exhibition, a $60,000,000 showing of Rembrandt paintings and drawings, at the Royal Academy have been dropped because of lack of support. The exhibition was cancelled after foreign galleries asked to lend 80 exhibits could promise only 32.

Man Trains Women

BURGHFIELD, England (CP) Able Seaman Alan Rhodes is giving up one of the most sought-after jobs in the Royal Navy — being the only man among 250 girls at a Berkshire training camp. Rhodes, married with one son, is leaving the navy, and his place is to be taken by another married man. "We prefer that the job be taken by a married man," said a spokesman.

Vicar Seeks Coupons

KINGSCLERE, England (CP) The vicar of a Hampshire church, Rev. David Shearlock, asked his congregation to put cigaret gift coupons in collections to bolster church funds.

Cries Were Not Wolf

WALMER, England (CP)—Lifeboats and a helicopter went into action off the Kent coast when a lightship reported cries of help through the thick, early morning mist. They discovered the shouts were not of distress but of help, from a boat accompanying a Channel-swimmer.

Meg Fingerprinted

WINCHESTER, England (CP) Princess Margaret had her fingerprints taken at Hampshire police headquarters — at her own request. She opened the new building and then asked if she could have her "dabs" taken. The prints, framed, will be kept as a memento.

Queen Gives Rummage

PURLEIGH, England (CP)—An Essex vicar wrote the Queen Mother requesting cast-offs for a church sale. He received an overnight bag and an umbrella. Rev. G. B. Archer said: "I have written several times before and she has always sent something."

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Valleau of Wainwright, Alberta were guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. James Hanna and Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoekstra of California arrived this week to spend some time with their daughter, Mrs. John Huizenga, Mr. Huizenga and family.

Successful Living

Dad Calls Career Choice Silly Idea

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I have decided on a career. After an aptitude test at school and reading information, I have felt my choice is interior design. The problem is my parents — they don't like the idea; they'd rather I went to university near home. But the course is not offered here. I feel I can do well in interior decorating — I have always enjoyed viewing pictures of home interiors and thinking what fun it would be to decorate a whole home by myself.

How can I convince my parents that I believe this is the career for me? I have asked my parents why they are against it. They have several reasons: too hard; too far to go; too costly . They've even said it's silly. Dad has definitely said he will not give me any money to go away to college. He can afford it, though.

I don't usually want to go against my parents, but this concerns my future! Perhaps I could convince them somehow! I was also thinking I might try to get a summer job in a firm of interior designers. I would find out about that career, gain some experience and show my parents I was serious. — DECORATOR AT HEART.

DEAR DECORATOR: It isn't silly. If you have the aptitude and the interest, I'd be all for having you pursue the idea further. A summer with a firm of interior designers would tell a lot.

Parents may think they know best, but there are still those who are allowing themselves to be influenced by a great lot of false clues.

I'm sending you my leaflet "On Choosing A Career," which will show you what I mean. Any parents who want to understand this business of career choosing better and who want the best self-expression for their young people, may have this leaflet by sending in ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR DORIS: I enjoy your column very much and I have so many problems, but I read your pages and think well, mine are minor to some; but some day I am going to write you about something which has bothered me for a good many years.

It just seems I don't know how to put it down on paper but some day when I am feeling blue I will just sit me down and write you. — WORDLESS.

DEAR WORDLESS: To quote my friend Willie Shakespeare:

> "Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
> The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
> Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
> And by opposing end them."

Has it occurred to you that you might take arms against your minor type troubled waters — and maybe stop being blue at all?

Confidential to COUNTING ON YOU: A pretty face may catch a boy, but it's personality that keeps 'em coming. If you are friendly and lots of fun, they'll start coming your way soon. Don't be too sure they "all dislike you." They are shy too.

DEAR DORIS: About this business of keeping tab on shut-ins: Whatever has happened to the neighborly concern that communities once knew? There is really no superior method to that of the personal visit from a genuine concerned and friendly neighbor — not "nosey," but concerned.

Visiting, whether personal or by telephone, is one of the best services we can offer. Aside from the fear of being ill and not found in time, visits provide many happy experiences for both visitor and patient.

They get to reading together, enjoy a walk in the park, or simply thrive on conversation. It can be a two-way street. The precious thing is the human contact. — DOROTHY HARDY, Age and Opportunity Bureau, Winnipeg.

DEAR MISS HARDY: Your Bureau does a job which inspires social workers and volunteers right across the country. Thanks for writing in.

DEAR DORIS: My neighbor, a very dear Christian lady, started coming over once a day for a cup of tea. Then her daughter started coming over to walk home with her. Now this neighbor doesn't come over until 4 p.m. and expects me to serve them each two cups of tea plus all the cookies they can eat (at least a package of cookies almost every day.) She says she doesn't eat any dinner and eats over here; if not cookies, at least one heaping cereal bowl of ice cream. Daughter would expect same plus perhaps an apple each. She says she's on a reducing diet!

Personally we can't afford this. Everyone seems to take advantage of us and our hospitality. No matter when she comes over she expects to get a good feed.

Would I be cruel and unfriendly not to serve tea after such a time? M yhusband gets home around 5:30 p.m. She has her supper cooked and stays until 5:20. I enjoy her company but I do feel she is imposing on me a bit. — TOO MUCH.

DEAR TOO MUCH: On a diet? You mean a diet of your cookies!

I question the "dear Christian" attitude of a person who can impose so boldly — unless, of course, you have twisted her arm.

Put an end to this false situation: Explain you need this precious hour to prepare dinner. Would she please excuse you? And when you do serve the tea, put two cookies on the saucer.

Confidential to JO-ANNE: Hate you? I think he likes you. Remember, at 20, your beginning teacher has a "teacher problem" himself. It isn't easy to step right out of teachers' college and into a classroom packed with energetic and questioning teen-agers.

Has it occurred to you that when he seems to be staring at you, he may really be staring right through you, trying to figure out how to put across an idea? After more practice he'll doubtless have more poise. Help him; don't suspect him.

Trade Keeps Red Satellites In Their Orbits Around Kremlin

The nations of Communist Eastern Europe have begun to assert their independence in recent years but trade remains the tie that binds them to Moscow. Their interest in Western markets is discussed in this story by John Best, Canadian Press Moscow corre- the Communist bloc. spondent, who has toured

By JOHN BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

What is it that, more than anything else, keeps Eastern Europe tied to the Soviet Union despite all the nationalistic tides that have loosened Moscow's control in recent years?

Trade.

In what field do Eastern European countries most want to develop ties with the West?

Trade.

For most countries in the Soviet bloc, trade relations with Russia are a matter of economic survival. The Russian market is huge, insatiable, steady and not very demanding in terms of quality.

So what if it doesn't earn you Western convertible currency? It pays off, in a way, in that Russian rubles have become a common medium of exchange — the East bloc counterpart to the American dollar or pound sterling. You West with rubles but in the can't bury things in the East they represent hard currency.

Western markets, in contrast to the Russian, are demanding and somewhat inaccessible. Some Eastern European countries complain bitterly about the trade "discrimination" practised against them in the West, principally quotas and high tariffs.

CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

Even Romania, currently the most assertive of East European countries in matters of national autonomy, still does 60 per cent of its trading with the East bloc, and a good chunk of this is with the Soviet Union.

"The reason is to be looked for in the discrimination maintained by some Western countries," says an official of the Romanian chamber of commerce.

Some capitalist countries are "more flexible" than others, he says, mentioning specifically Germany, France and Italy.

Canada, the United States and Britain were among those that discriminated against Romanian goods.

Russia, on the other hand, takes what the East European countries have to offer and comes back for more. Generally, it is of superior quality to what the Russians produce or could produce.

Presence of this dependable market gives considerable comfort to East Europeans, and is a big psychological factor tending to obviate resentment over political domination from Moscow.

'MAKES US LAZY'

It creates a euphoria well summed up by a Hungarian economist who said: "It is too advantageous to Hungary. It makes us too lazy."

A somewhat similar sentiment was expressed by an official in Yugoslavia, which is outside the bloc and conducts most of its trade with the West, but which has noted with alarm that its trade with the East has been creeping up in recent years.

"Inertia is driving our enterprises toward these markets," he remarked.

This is one of the major obstacles that liberal economists and other far-seeing people in Eastern Europe encounter in trying to prod their governments into taking drastic measures to reform and revitalize industry.

A leading Czech economist, Prof. Otakar Sik, author of that country's wide-ranging economic reform, put the proposition thus:

"The idea that things could be left as they are, that the present development of production, the conditions for consumption and the living standards are good enough, that we should not compare ourselves with the most advanced industrial countries, etc., are harmful and the greatest danger to socialist development, not only in our country."

NEED FOREIGN TRADE

This could only lead to internal discrepancies that one day would be "beyond solution."

"Whether we like it or not, there is a constant comparison of our production with world conditions through the intermediary of foreign trade, without which a country like ours cannot get along."

Other economists, men such as Prof. Imre Vajda of the University of Budapest, see a need for closer relations between Comecon—the Moscow-dominated Council for Economic Assistance—on the one hand and the Common Market and European Free Trade Association on the other hand.

They see such relations not only as a means to gain better access to the lucrative markets of Western Europe but as a way to stop what they consider a dangerous drift to regional self - sufficiency on both sides.

Cohesion of trading groups, carried to the point of autarchy, would only serve to sharpen the divisions between East and West, Vajda says.

"It is a barrier against progress and coexistence."

EXPORTS RAW MATERIAL

Russia has reversed the traditional relationships between an economically dominant power and its dependency.

Instead of importing raw materials and exporting finished products, it exports its own raw materials for processing in Eastern Europe, importing the finished product.

This is probably a recognition that, at least in many lines, East European industry is more efficient than Russia's.

The old grumblings that Western nations often hear—about paying low prices for raw materials and charging dear for manufactured goods sold to underdeveloped countries — are now sometimes heard by Russia in reverse.

The complaint is that she sells her raw materials dear and buys back the finished goods at low prices.

Generally speaking, however, East European countries tend to overlook—or fail to recognize — the economic subservience which dependence on the Russian market imposes on them.

Tomorrow: Soviet culture is not imported.

100 Farmers Driving Tractors to Queen's Park

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The way has been cleared for tractor - driving farmers protesting farm produce prices to enter Toronto Wednesday afternoon in an attempt to meet Premier Robarts at Queen's Park.

An Ontario Farmers Union spokesman at Woodstock said today Deputy Police Chief John Murray of Toronto has approved a route into the city and agreed to permit the tractors to enter.

George Richer, an OFU organizer from London, Ont., said in an interview as 100 tractors left Woodstock that they are restricted to travel on Highway 27 directly to Lakeshore Highway, then across the York Street junction to University Avenue. They can proceed north on University to Queen's Park.

At the speed they were travelling as they left Woodstock at 10:30 a.m., they can expect to reach Toronto about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, enabling them to arrive at Queen's Park before the late afternoon traffic rush.

The farmers leaving Woodstock at a speed of about seven miles an hour were to meet a delegation from the Hamilton Labor Council at Peter's Corners for lunch.

TO STOP AT WATERDOWN

They were to stop for the night at Waterdown, where they were expected to arrive about 3:30 p.m. today.

The cavalcade was under provincial police escort.

Farmer spokesmen said they expect a few more tractors to join the parade to Toronto along the way. The number of tractors assembled at Woodstock was only half the 200 OFU leaders had predicted.

The tractors were parked overnight at Woodstock while the owners drove by car back to their farms for the daily chores.

The farmers are protesting farm produce prices in general and the price paid for milk sold to processors in particular, and what they say is government failure to act on grievances outlined in earlier briefs.

Mr. Stewart has met on three previous occasions with the farmers. It is expected he will stick to his earlier stand that farm commodity subsidies are a federal responsibility.

UPSETS NATIONAL PLAN

He said it is "bad business" for any province to get involved with such subsidization because it will upset any national plan along these lines.

The farmers are knocking on the wrong door, he said. They should be marching on Ottawa, not Toronto.

A spokesman for the Ontario Farmers' Union, organizers of the demonstrations, said other

Discuss Plans For RCAF

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

PARIS (CP) — Defence Minister Paul Hellyer held informal talks regarding the future of Canada's air division in Europe during the two-day NATO ministerial meeting which closed today.

Hellyer discussed with Robert McNamara, U.S. defence secretary, and Kai-Uwe von Hassel, West German defence minister, the location of a Canadian transport squadron.

The squadron now is based at Marville, France, and through the years Canada has built up there supply facilities for its NATO contingents and also for its United Nations contingents in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Now, because of an ultimatum by President de Gaulle, all United States and Canadian forces are being moved from France, making necessary the finding of terminous facilities in West Germany.

Canada's nuclear - strike squadrons now in France will be moved to existing Canadian bases in Germany but different arrangements will have to be made for the transport side of the operation.

A spokesman said discussions will continue through diplomatic channels. The terminal facilities may eventually be located at one of the German bases in Germany — such as Frankfurt—or at a German military or civilian airport.

Four Railway Union Groups Considering Labor Day Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—A joint deadline for a national railway strike probably for the week before Labor Day or maybe on Labor Day itself is being discussed among four railway union grops.

Union sources here say the discussions still are in the preliminary stages but support is solid for a joint date.

Earlier this month two groupe of non-operating railway unions rejected a federal conciliation board report that recommended wage increases of between 40 and 43 cents an hocr spread over two years. The unions involve 83,000 workers.

Conciliation boards are expected to report early next week on railway wage disputes involving the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CLC) and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC).

The operating and non-operating groups all are eyeing the 30-per-cent wage boosts won earlier this year by Quebec longshoremen and St. Lawrence Seaway workers.

The non-operating group, including the CBRT, involves several different unions. Most are in the process of taking a mailed strike vote which will not be completed until the middle of August.

The CBRT has already taken a strike vote of its membership that was overwhelmingly in favor of a strike.

Quebec to Use Injunctions To Halt Hospital Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — The strike against 119 Quebec hospitals, now in its second week, was expected to take a new turn today with applications planned by the Quebec government for back-to-work injunctions against strikers at 15 of the hospitals.

As negotiators paused in their bargaining in Montreal, Premier Danial Johnson announced in Quebec City that the government planned to seek the injunctions in view of the "critical state" into which the strike had plunged the health situation of the province.

Some 32,500 non-medical employees began their strike July 15. All were reported out by July 23.

Mr. Johnson announced the move after an emergency cabinet meeting.

The premier also said that members of the Quebec legislature were being asked to be ready for a possible emergency sitting to deal with strike-generated problems.

Negotiations in the dispute came to a virtual standstill while government - appointed mediator Yves Pratles attended the cabinet meeting.

The premier said a commission is being established for an immediate inquiry of the hospital situation. It would recommend injunctions against strikers at other hospitals, where such action seemed necessary.

The first 15 hospitals involved in injunctions are institutions for the chronically-ill and the mentally-ill.

There, said the premier, the situation is particularly serious.

The provincial labor code allows the government to end for 80 days any strike of a public service which endangers the general health of the population.

Railwaymen Happy With Black Beetle

Runs from Butler, Ind., to Bryan apparently were a success.

The railway, when it's ready to talk about the Black Beetle, as onlookers dubbed it, may have an announcement of major significance.

"We're smiling," said one railway official in answer to questions about how the tests had gone.

Observers estimated the vehicle's speed on its final run at from 140 to 225 miles an hour.

"Megtrans" is short for megalopolis transportation—a megalopolis being a heavily populated stretch in which one metropolitan cluster of city and suburbs virtually adjoins another.

If the jet railway car can move at such high speed, safely and smoothly, it could herald a new era in railway commuting.

The twin jet engines on the roof of the sleek experimental car with scoop nose and eyelike windows emitted an "almost deafening, whining sound," witnesses said. The ground trembled and clouds of smoke and dust were blasted into the air.

The car was towed backward to Butler four times—twice Saturday, twice Sunday — then loosed like a missile toward Bryan, 17 miles distant.

As the jet - car screamed across the landscape, police and railway guards blocked off crossings and bridges in its path.

The vehicle made its runs on what was described as standard railroad track with gravel added to keep the rails and ties in place.

5 NATO Lands Seek Atom Pact

PARIS (Reuters) — Another France — NATO split lomed today over a move by five key members of the alliance to set up a permanent nuclear planning body which could pave the way for an East-West non-proliferation treaty.

Ministers of the five—the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy and Turkey—were to meet in special committee to study the question of nuclear planning and sharing in the 15-nation alliance.

They will consider ways of giving West Germany and other non-nuclear members a greater share in control of the weapons without further proliferation and call for establishment of a permanent planning body to work as an integral part of NATO.

But France, which withdrew its troops from NATO's military command July 1, is opposed to nuclear integration within the alliance.

Though France will not attend the meeting it may oppose the move to turn the special committee into a permanent body.

The French government originally agreed to its formation only as a temporary working group of the McNamara committee, named after U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara and set up in Paris last year to study the nuclear program.

'Indecent' To Charge Man So Ill

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's handling of the George Victor Spencer spy case is fully upheld in an inquiry commission report made public today.

Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells says in his report that Spencer was guilty of the "grossest misduct" in supplying requested information to Soviet embassy officials, and the government would have been lax if it had not fired him from his Vancouver postal job.

However, he found that Spencer was treated with "forebearance and kindness" by the government and with "great kindness and consideration" by the RCMP.

The Ontario Appeal Court judge thus rejected the allegations made last year by opposition leaders in Parliament that the government had erred in its handling of the case.

The 15,000-word report issued with a 3,300 - word summary, contained a lengthy review of the Spencer case history which began in 1960 with the postal clerk's first meeting with Soviet agents.

SINISTER ASPECTS

Mr. Justice Wells said that although the bulk of the information supplied during seven meetings with the Russians was of apparently innocent nature it had sinister aspects.

"I think it might be fairly said that all of the information asked for from Spencer laid the foundation for the establishment of an intelligence 'net' in British Columbia."

Certain information on farms located close to the United States border in B.C. suggestid the operation of espionage agents in both the U.S. and Canada.

The judge found nothing wrong with the government's decision to withdraw Spencer's civil service pension rights, a major complaint by parliamentary critics.

He said Spencer received all he was fairly entitled to when his own contributions to the pension fund were returned.

DIED IN APRIL

The report also upheld the government's contention that Spencer, who died in his Vancouver home of natural causes April 9, could not have been prosecuted successfully for giving the information to Soviet agents.

"Quite frankly, I would have the greatest doubts myself whether Spencer could have been successfully prosecuted for these offences," the judge said.

"What he did, however, was very close to the line, and quite a strong argument could have been made against him." But it would be straining the language

Thant Meets Kosygin

MOSCOW (AP) — UN Secretary-General U Thant opened talks with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin in the Kremlin today. The talks were expected to revolve around the war in Viet Nam.

A Soviet announcement said the talks were held in a warm and friendly atmosphere. The announcement said questions of United Nations activity and some problems of the international situation were discussed. It did not elaborate.

Thant, who arrived Monday, also was expected to sound out Soviet leaders on whether they think he should serve a second term as secretary general.

Thant's first five-year term expires Nov. 3. He has promised to decide by September whether he will seek a second term. If he decides to continue in office, he will need the support of all five permanent members of the Security Council, including the Soviet Union.

That's three - point program for Viet Nam calls for an end to U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam, reduction of military operations on all sides and talks by all parties concerned.

The Russians favor the first point but have not endorsed the second two.

British House Approves Bill To Nationalize Steel Industry

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons voted approval Monday night of the Labor government's bill to nationalize Britain's steel industry as the Conservatives mounted an attack on Prime Minister Wilson's handling of the national economy.

The measure, given second reading by a vote of 328 to 247, would nationalize the 14 big companies which supply 90 per cent of the country's steel.

Third and final reading is expected late this year, although the Conservatives may try to delay it by pressing for a procedure that would permit each company involved to present lengthy testimony against the bill.

Anthony Barber, Conservative spokesman on steel, repeated the bill is irrelevant to Britain's economic problems. Barber said the Conservatives would return steel to private ownership if they regain power.

Barber said that Britain's steel industry needs more competition, not less. Power Minister Richard Marsh countered that steel exports and productivity have been on the decline while imports of raw materials have been going up. The only way to reverse this trend is for the government to take over and reorganize industry.

The Commons begins a two-day debate today on Britain's economic crisis based on a Conservative no confidence motion. There was no likelihood that the Labor party's disgruntled left wing would desert the government to vote with the Conservatives and put Wilson out of office.

LONDON Reuters — Forty left-wing legislators of the ruling Labor party Monday night revolted against the government's austerity program and proposed alternative plans for solving the country's economic ills.

They demanded withdrawal of British troops from Asia, an end to spending on Polaris submarines and other nuclear defence arms and substantial demobilization to release manpower for industry.

Johnson Receives Assurance No Trial of Airmen in Offing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has received word through diplomatic channels that there are no immediate North Vietnamese Communist plans to try captured American airmen as war criminals, it was reported here Monday.

Bill D. Moyers, Johnson's press secretary, told reporters that the information from North Viet Nam reached Johnson while the president was on a speaking tour of the U.S. mid-West Saturday.

The press secretary did not go into details, but said the intelligence conveyed to Johnson through diplomatic sources "is consistent with what the Columbia Broadcasting System was told yesterday."

Ho's message was in reply to a CBS inquiry last Thursday asking whether he had decided to place the captured Americans on trial.

Moyers said the cable to CBS "confirms information we had" Saturday.

The no-trial-soon report which followed a series of public warnings in the U.S. against subjecting American prisoners to trial on charges of being war criminals, received further support from Czechoslovakia.

The official Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported Ho gave a new hint of leniency toward the American captives in a talk to international journalists in Hanoi.

The agency quoted Ho as saying North Viet Nam has behaved in a humane manner and will continue to do so in connection with the America airmen.

CTK quoted Ho as saying the main criminals are not the American pilots but the persons who sent them there—Johnson, State Secretary Dean Rusk and Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

The defence department lists 45 Americans as captives in North Viet Nam, and the U.S. position is that they should be treated as prisoners-of-war. In addition, several score other American flyers are listed as missing over North Viet Nam.

Wesleyan Methodist Church Holds Annual Conference

The Wesleyan Methodist Church of America in Canada met for its Sixty-ninth Annual Conference at the beautiful Silver Lake Camp Ground, Maberley, Ontario, July 19-24. Pastors and lay delegates were present from both the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

One of the three General Superintendents, Dr. Harold K. Sheets, attended the annual session and conducted the daily business proceedings. On Thursday night Dr. Sheets, in his evening address representing the denomination, presented some of the highlights of the recent General Conference of the Church held at Houghton College, New York. He stated that one of the outstanding features of the General Conference was the strong vote in favor of merger with the Pilgrim Holiness Church and the Reformed Baptist Alliance. This, he said, would greatly strengthen the Wesleyan witness in North America and throughout the world.

Other distinguished visitors to the annual conference included the Rev. and Mrs. James Ridgway of Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Ridgway has served for several years as President of the Wesleyan Methodist Bible College there. The Ridgways were in charge of both the Friday night and Sunday afternoon missionary rallies. In addition, Mr. Ridgway addressed the youth of the Conference in the Saturday night rally.

Dr. Stephen W. Paine and Rev. Philip Birchall, in the Wednesday night educational service, presented the interests of Houghton College and Houghton Academy.

Fraternal delegates were present from other denominations including the Free Methodist and Pilgrim Holiness Churches. Fraternal greetings were also given by the President of the Champlain conference, Rev. Charles Dayton and The Rev. G. A. DeLong of the Reformed Baptist Alliance.

Conference officers were re-elected with strong majorities. Rev. James S. A. Spearman, Trenton, Ontario, Conference President for the ninth consecutive term, Rev. M. E. Summers, Ottawa, Ontario, Vice-president; Rev. J. H. Weaver, Inkerman, Ontario, Treasurer; Rev. F. S. Irish, Arnprior, Ontario, Secretary. Mr. Spearman, in his report to Conference, spoke of the continued interest in Church Extension and of the immediate plans to begin a new church in the city of Oshawa.

The Woman's Missionary Society also conducted business sessions throughout the week. Reports given revealed numerical and financial increases over the past year. Officers elected included Mrs. James S. A. Spearman, Trenton, Ontario, president; Mrs. Fred Irish, Arnprior, Ont., vice-president; Mrs. Murray McKnight, Newington, Ont., secretary; Mrs. Bert Locklin, Belleville, Ont., ton, secretary; Mr. Allan Carswell, treasurer; both of Ottawa, Shawville, Quebec, Y.M.W.B. superintendent.

The Wesleyan Youth of the Canada Conference met for their conference on Saturday, July 23. Officers re-elected were: the Rev. Murray McKnight, Newington, Ontario, president; the Rev. Eldon LeRoy, Belleville, Ontario, vice-president; Mrs. Bert McCorriston, secretary, Mr. Allan Carswell, treasurer; both of Ottawa, Ontario.

Capacity crowds attended the services on Sunday the opening day of the annual camp. Dr. H. K. Sheets will be speaking each day and evening. The Rev. James Ridgway is conducting Bible study sessions each morning for the youth and adults. In charge of the music, throughout both the Conference and Camp, are the Rev. and Mrs. John Lamos of Springfield, Massachuttes.

The camp concludes Sunday, July 31.

Motorcyclist Airman Dies Of Injuries

L.A.C. Brian Wesley Mitchell of Canadian Forces Base, Trenton died yesterday at 4:30 p.m. at Canadian Forces Hospital, Kingston. The 25 - year - old airman was injured Friday afternoon, July 22, after he apparently lost control of a motorcycle he was operating on Highway 33, just south of Frankford.

L.A.C. Mitchell lived on the bas eat Trenton. He was single and a native of Comox, British Columbia. His father, A. W. Mitchell, resides at R. R. 1, Comox, British Columbia. Saturday, a service will be held at Canadian Forces Base, Comox, then to the Charles Sutton Funeral Home, Courtenay, B.C.

Strange Bait Combination Hooks Muskie

Lots of people did.

Lots of people did.

Phil Isaacs used a minnow.

Lots of people did.

But Phil Isaacs added the minnow to the jitterbug.

Few people did that. Adding anything to a jitterbug reduces the jitter and that is supposed to make the bug less appetizing to fish.

But one fish found Mr. Isaac's combination salad to its liking. It was a 28-pound muskie which formerly inhabited the Moira River above Foxboro, but is now gracing Mr. Isaacs' trophy room.

Minnows and jitterbugs will probably be going steady when this news gets around.

BAN SIESTA-HOUR NOISE

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—New anti-noise regulations went into force Sunday with fines up to $660 or six-month jail terms for anyone disturbing the afternoon siesta hours or the night hours from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. Banned noises include singing, dancing, recorded music, loud radios, rattling of dustbins and carpet-beating.

Jury Hears Speck Case Evidence

CHICAGO (AP) — The Cook County state's attorney expects a decision today by the grand jury on the evidence submitted against Richard Speck, 24, in the mass murder of eight nurses.

State's Attorney Daniel Ward said Monday: "I have presented the case to the grand jury and I cannot say what the grand jury is going to do."

Ward has said he would seek a murder indictment against Speck for each slaying. Speck now is charged with murdering Gloria Jean Davy, 22, of Dyer, Ind., who police believe was the first nurse slain in the methodical July 14 massacre.

A murder indictment on each slaying would permit the state to try Speck eight times, if necessary, to get a conviction.

Corazon Amurao, 23, a Filipino exchange student who escaped death by hiding under a bed, was reported by two physicians to be suffering from extreme exhaustion and did not appear before the grand jury.

"Due to legal ethical reasons," Ward said, "I cannot comment on the South Chicago Community Hospital statement that the nurse is suffering from extreme exhaustion and for that reason could not testify before the grand jury."

Josephine Chan, director of nursing at the hospital where Miss Amurao is confined and where the victims trained, was the jury's first witness.

Two pathologists from the coroner's office, Dr. Eugene Tapai and Dr. James Henry, also entered the grand jury room.

Speck's counsel, Gerald Getty, head of the Public Defender's Office, met with Speck Monday and said Speck was co - operative and able to answer questions. He did not elaborate.

Speck has been in Cook County Hospital since his arrest July 17.

He is being treated for slash wounds inflicted in a suicide attempt and for an inflammation of the sac surrounding the heart that developed July 19 when it was first believed he suffered a heart attack.

U.K. Austerity Unlikely to Cut Our Exports

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Government economists will be surprised if Canada's exports to the United Kingdom suffer from last week's austerity measures there.

One expert said 1965 sales of $1,174,000,000 should at least be sustained in 1966.

Sweeping as the austerity program is, with controls on wages and prices, dividends, building and instalment buying, it lacks the import restrictions that would directly hit Canadian products.

To the extent the program succeeds in reallocating resources for higher production, it should strengthen the processing industries that are the biggest buyers of Canadian materials, economists say.

Thus pulp, ores and concentrates, lumber, oilseeds and chemicals should continue to enjoy ready access to Britain.

KENYATTA AILING

NAIROBI (AP) — President Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya has been advised to rest at home following a week-long illness, Dr. Njoroge Mungai, his physician, reported Monday night. Mungai, who has been treating the 75-year-old president, gave no indication of the nature of Kenyatta's illness but recently Kenyatta was noticed to be limping slightly.

Son of Lord Mayor of London Visits Cold Storage Plant

TRENTON — A distinguished visitor of Trenton yesterday was the son of the Lord Mayor of London, Anthony Denny.

Mr. Denny was one of a three man team of English manufacturers, interested in the food processing industry to visit Trenton Cold Storage. Others in the party were Stanley Craven and Peter Stretton. Mr. Denny is a partner in the J. L. P. Denny brokerage firm.

The men were interested in the local firm's method of processing and packing peas. They were shown around the plant by local owners, Eben and Fraser James.

Also on hand for the demonstration was William Stokley, III, the son of the president of the Stokley food processing firm.

Ask Peddling By Mutes Be Outlawed

TORONTO (CP) — William McGovern, president of the Ontario Association for the Deaf, says an anti-peddling brief was being submitted to the federal government, urging that door-to-door peddling of pencils, alphabet cards and the like by real or pseudo-mutes be made a criminal offence.

He told an association convention that most of the peddlers are phonies.

And even those that aren't phonies reflect discredit on Canada's 100,000 deaf or hard-of-hearing citizens, said Mr. McGovern, a Toronto postal worker.

"The greatest cross a deaf person has to bear is communication," said Norm Rickaby of the Belleville School for the Deaf. "A deaf person has it a lot tougher than a blind man. But strangely the public tends to sympathize with the blind.

"But more doors are closed to the deaf man. Radio and vision and oratory experisome aspects of films and teleences he will never know."

Would Welcome Atheist as Religion Prof

LONDON (AP)—A new British university is looking for a professor of religion and atheists are welcome to apply.

Said Michael Forster, deputy secretary of two-year-old Lancaster University:

"We are prepared to consider an unbeliever for the position because it is not the business of the chair to propagate the Christian faith or any other religion. It is not especially a chair of theology or Christianity."

He said the university wants to stimulate scholarly discussion of the influence of religion on civilization and to provide the opportunity for students to undertake a serious examination of the problem of faith and morals.

The university has been advertising in British newspapers.

"It is very difficult to say what will emerge from the advertisements," said Forster. "It sometimes takes a year or more to find the right man for the job."

IN MEMORIAM

ARCHER — In loving memory of our dear son who passed away 5 years ago, July 22, 1961, (Rudy) Dwaine Shepperd Archer at the age of 7 years.

It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.

COOK — In loving memory of our dear dad who passed away 8 years ago, July, 1958, Clarence Bolter Cook at the age of 56 years.

Everyday in some small way, dad,
Memories of you come our way,
Happy memories fond and true,
From ones who loved and thought the world of you.

—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Marge and family.

MARACLE — In loving memory of a dear sister, Betty Maracle, who passed away July 26, 1959.

There is an ache in our hearts,
That years won't take away,
A place in our hearts no one can fill,
We miss you dear sister, and always will.

—Always remembered by sister Aletha and brother-in-law Fletcher and family.

Fined $100 For Impaired Driving

Harry James Badgley, 60, of R. R. 5 Belleville, was fined $100 and $16 costs after he pleaded guilty in court today to a charge of impaired driving.

Police said they were called to investigate an accident June 15 at 11:27 p.m. on Station St.

Police said Badgley was unsteady on his feet, smelled strongly of an alcoholic beverage and his eyes were blurred.

Two passengers in the car were taken to Belleville General Hospital, treated for minor injuries and released.

Badgley had no previous record.

King Family To Appear at O'Keefe Centre

Sisters, brothers and cousins by the dozens will fill O'Keefe Centre's stage when the celebrated King Family brings its show to Toronto for one week commencing August 1. In all, 35 big Kings, little Kings and medium sized Kings will be on hand for an evening of entertainment that is designed primarily for the family trade. The Royal Family of Television, as they have been called, will fly into Toronto via chartered plane immediately following dates in Utah, Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

The eight daughters and sons of William King Driggs and his wife, Pearl Mortenson, plus assorted in-laws and grandchildren, form one of the unique institutions in show business. Vaudevillians from away back, the most famous members of the troupe have always been, of course, the singing King Sisters. Starting out as a trio, consisting of Maxine, Luise and Alyce, the threesome became a foursome when Maxine retired and Donna and Yvonne joined their sisters. Later, Donna withdrew from the act and was replaced by the youngest, Marilyn. Thus every one of the Driggs girls at one time or another sang as a member of the King Sisters.

The Sisters first hit the big-time when they teamed up with the orchestra of Alvino Rey (who is now married to Luise, and is a leading member of the troupe). With Rey, they did a local television show in Los Angeles which became the forerunner of the King Family Show on the ABC network, inasmuch as they were occasionally joined by other members of the clan. Following this they began to make recordings again and were booked into clubs in Lake Tahoe and Las Vegas, as well as the Copacabana in New York. When they went on tour in Europe, they took their families along.

But it was a benefit that really led directly to the organization of "The King Family" program. Luise, wanting to raise money for her church in Orinda, Calif., got the idea of using the entire family in a show, although several members of the clan were skeptical about the undertaking. The result was such a success that the girls' father, William Driggs Sr., later arranged to have the family do another fund-raising show for Brigham Young University in Utah, where he had been president of the first graduating class. Yvonne obtained a video tape of that performance which, when shown to network officials, led first to an appearance on Hollywood Palace and then to a weekly "King Family" show.

Although the act is now missing William Driggs, who died last year, and his wife, who has retired, there are still enough Kings to fill the stage at O'Keefe Centre — six sisters and their husbands, two brothers and their wives, plus a couple of dozen children ranging in age from six to 25.

Communists Held After Three Bombings

RECIFE, Brazil (Reuters)—Police have arrested 126 known Communists in connection with a trio of bomb attacks here which killed three persons and injured several others.

Gen. Damasceno Portugal, commander of the Fourth Army based here, ordered the rounding up of all known local Communists for questioning.

The airport bomb went off exactly when Marshal Arthur da Costa e Silva, the pro-government party's candidate in the Oct. 3 presidential election, was due to fly in on a campaign tour.

A retired admiral, the state secretary of education and a policeman died in the explosion —but the marshal was not there. He arrived by car because his plane had engine trouble.

Parks Board Inspection Tour Visits Four Major Projects

The Belleville Parks' Board has been allotting funds and planning development all year for various pieces of city property. Yesterday morning, five members of the board and three city parks' officials got on a small bus and took a first-hand look at some of the projects they have been engineering.

Alderman D. G. Joss, K. J. Soden, and D. G. Williams, and Richard Ellis and R. W. Phillips of the Parks' Board, along with City Parks' Superintendent Lloyd Syer, Director of Parks and Recreation Lloyd Doran, and City Planning Director John Beavis went on the tour, the second annual one of a similar nature. It is felt that such tours will familiarize city parks' officials with some of the areas under their jurisdiction.

Besides stopping at a number of city playgrounds and recreation areas to see how the public was putting them to use, the group also visited four major current Parks' Board projects.

Corby's Park, which it is planned to open next year, is being developed as the site of a rose garden which will display in the neighborhood of 1,200 roses.

Corby's Distillery donated $5000 toward development expenses. The park will contain a lighted fountain, planted evergreens, asphalt walkways, and four light standards. It is located between William and Ann Streets, north of East Bridge St.

A 2¼ acre piece of land on the west side of the Cannifton Road to the north of the city, known as the "Fry property," is at present being developed as a picnic area. Its location with respect to the nearby 401 highway is expected to make it "a natural" for tourists visiting the area. The site is now being graded to assure proper drainage, and this fall will be grass-seeded. The fall will also see the installation of parking facilities and picnic tables. Eventually, it is hoped that a small stream will flow through the centre of this park, which has a scenic location on the east bank of the Moira River.

AIDED BY CLUBS

This property was sold to the Parks' Board by the Belleville Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, who then turned over the $7,000 received for the land for use by the Parks Board in developing the property further.

The touring officials took great pride in the finished Alemite Field, a Parks' Board project undertaken in 1965, completed with the installation of lighting standards, a canteen, change rooms, and bleachers this spring.

Also on yesterday morning's list of stopovers was the city centennial project at Zwick's Island, the development of which has also been taken under the supervision of the city Parks' Board. Of particular interest to the members were the concrete wading pool and the hilltop pavilion already constructed on the site.

Memory Is Fireplace of Heart

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Pity the young.

Memory is the fireplace of the heart, and what kind of memories will they have to warm themselves by, later on in the twilight of this driven century?

In any case, few will still be alive then who can look back and remember a more leisurely past when —

A big league baseball player was lucky to make $5,000 a year.

"Bet-a-million" Gates, the big - time speculator, would wager $1,000 on which raindrop would be first to run to the bottom of a window pane.

When a child scratched himself he was afraid he'd come down with the seven-year-itch.

When a passenger went for an airplane ride, he wore goggles and a leather helmet —just like the pilot.

To be a real tycoon it was more important to own your own private railway car than to have a yacht.

It was a scandal how many people died from punctured innards caused by swallowing toothpicks.

Only daredevils ordered in a Chinese restaurant anything except egg rolls, chow mein or chop suey.

Conservative folk thought anybody who bought anything on the instalment plan was headed for the poorhouse.

Old people got their exercise in the summer sitting on the front porch swatting house flies. Twenty - five wasn't a bad day's total.

Parents worried less about a daughter's grades in school than about the quality of her penmanship. The more elegant it looked, the more they were pleased.

This was a popular wisecrack: "Everybody makes mistakes—that's why they put rubber mats under cuspidors." (If you make this remark to anyone under 21 today, he is likely to look puzzled and ask, "What's a cuspidor?")

Ella Seen Storm Threat To Island

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Tropical storm Ella, with winds up to 50 miles an hour near the centre, threatened the Leeward and Virgin Islands with high seas and thundershowers today.

Forecasters said Ella probably will pass 150 miles north of the Leeward Islands. Small craft were warned to stay in port.

Ella was situated about 425 miles east of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The San Juan weather bureau said she was moving toward the west northwest at 12 miles an hour.

Claim Earhart On Spy Mission, Caught by Japs

NAPA, Calif., (AP) — The Napa Register says famed flyer Amelia Earhart was on a spy mission for the U.S. government when she vanished in July, 1937, and died as a Japanese captive on the Pacific island of Saipan.

In a copyright story summing up a long investigation of the mystery of her disappearance, the newspaper says Miss Earhart succumbed to dysentery and Frederick Noonan, her navigator, was beheaded by the Japanese a few days later.

In Washington, a spokesman for the state department said its files show no evidence that Miss Earhart was on a spy mission or that she was captured by the Japanese.

The Register declares that the remains of the two flyers, who disappeared near the end of a flight around the world, were recovered from a grave on Saipan in 1944 and returned secretly to the United States.

The Register says its conclusion that Miss Earhart and Noonan were engaged in espionage was based on a search of "classified files in the department of the navy and department of state."

Rotarians Told Of Problems At Hospitals

Both the population explosion and the broadening of scientific knowledge and techniques are posing problems for hospitals, according to Stanley J. Johnston, administrator of Belleville General Hospital.

Both phenomena affect hospital operation because it has to supply services to an ever-growing community, and because the treatment of the sick and injured is intimately connected with scientific developments in many fields from pharmacology to electronics.

"We are under unrelenting pressures on the one hand to increase the availability of our service, and on the other to upgrade the service by utilizing every latest development that can be applied to the cure or treatment of the sick and injured," he said.

The problem, Mr. Johnston told Rotarians yesterday, thus becomes not merely one of increasing staff to take care of the increased volume of service, but to increase staff by the correct proportion of properly-trained persons, while at the same time conducting retraining programs to extend the education up to modern requirements, even of persons who graduated fewer than ten years ago.

TELLS OF SCHOOLS

Outlining the hospital's medical facilities, Mr. Johnston referred to its school of nursing, two schools of technology, laboratory and X-ray departments, and radio-isotope equipment. In the various teaching schools there is a total enrolment of about 160 students and a faculty of 14 instructors.

Of the daily routine of the hospital, the administrator likened it to a hotel providing linen for 320 beds, a restaurant and food service offering nearly 1,500 meals, a laundry serving both Belleville and Napanee hospitals, and a nursery feeding an average of 30 bottles of formula every four hours and providing a continual diaper service.

Last year the hospital poured more than $2,000,000 in payrolls alone into the economy of the region.

"It is all these things," said Mr. Johnston. "But above all it is people that make a hospital. There is little love in glass and steel and often the one thing an ill person needs is simply kindness, sympathy and understanding."

He said the modern hospital today is an organization of professional people, with more than 30 medical and managerial occupations represented.

Rotary President J. F. McCorquodale presided.

Fire Destroys Barn, Calves Near Sulphide

A barn on the farm of Frank Trudeau, located about two miles east of Sulphide, was razed by a fire of undetermined origin late yesterday afternoon.

Four calves, a hay wagon, and a hay fork were lost in the blaze, but no loss estimate has yet been made.

The alarm was answered by the Tweed Volunteer Fire Department, which was on the scene until after six o'clock. The fire is believed to have started around 4.30.

BUT HER HEART IS HIGHLAND—The bagpipes' stirring strain is not for the Scot alone and the kilt has a wide appeal. Two Tots Burn to Death While Mother Drives Car

PRINCETON, W.Va. (AP)—Two young sisters burned to death Monday in the back seat of their mother's car as she drove along the West Virginia Turnpike, unaware of the fire, police said.

Police said their 30-year-old father, Eugene Meadows, was following in another car and blew the horn repeatedly in an effort to get his wife to stop the car, burning from the rear.

Once stopped, 29 - year - old Betty Meadows pulled another seven-month-old daughter from the front seat. Then the parents tried to reach the two girls in the back seat, but they couldn't be reached from inside and the rear doors were locked.

No explanation was given for the cause of the fire.

Exchange Students

Their names proclaim their origin . . . names like Lisette Perreault, Gisele Deschene and Louis Champoux. There are eight of them, in all, from the Province of Quebec, from Quebec City itself and smaller communities with ringing names like Ste. Anne de la Procatiere and Notre Dame du Portage.

We welcome these young visitors from French Canada. They are in Belleville to stay at the homes of local students under the exchange program held each year for secondary school students throughout the country. The Belleville students have already been to Quebec.

An interesting program has been prepared for the visitors, including a formal welcome at City Hall by Mayor Jack Ellis.

The exchanges are now in full swing right across Canada and just how valuable they are in filling in gaps in the youngsters' knowledge is afforded by the experience of three 16-year-old's from northern British Columbia visiting Toronto.

One must have thought he would encounter a different breed in the Queen City, for he said: "What surprises me is that you people are not any different from us. I expected that everyone here would speak with a real English accent and I didn't think Toronto would be as friendly as it is."

Another seemed disappointed he could not buy popcorn in the Royal Alex., and the third was struck by the "darkness and bigness" of the buildings on King Street . . . "and everything made out of brick, that's what really got me."

So life is full of surprises for teenagers throughout Canada. Yet, were it not for the exchange programs, with the aid of grants from the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, and from the Centennial Commission, they might still be carrying around false impressions of the other regions of this vast land.

Mental Health

Mental Health Week is long since over . . . until next year, that is. But the subject is one of pressing concern today, as ever.

The economic and cultural health of any community depends to a considerable extent on the degree of harmony, well-being or just plain happiness, that it enjoys.

With the pace of life today, its impersonality, its pressures and accent on materialism it is not surprising that human values tend to suffer, or at least are pushed into the background. "Dog eat dog" is the vulgar, yet expressive, way of putting it. Nor is it surprising that the mental health of many people deteriorates now and again. Some recover quickly enough, with rest or psychiatric counselling or drugs, perhaps a combination of all three. For people of otherwise sound mind a change of scene, a week or two away from it all, may be all that is needed to restore them to health and strength. For others the breakdown may be more serious, and their treatment, consequently, more intensive and prolonged.

Focusing renewed attention on the subject is a remarkable booklet published by the Blue Cross Plan for hospital care. One of its Blue Print for Health series, it contains more than a dozen articles by leading psychiatrists and other authorities on human relationships and the problems of modern society.

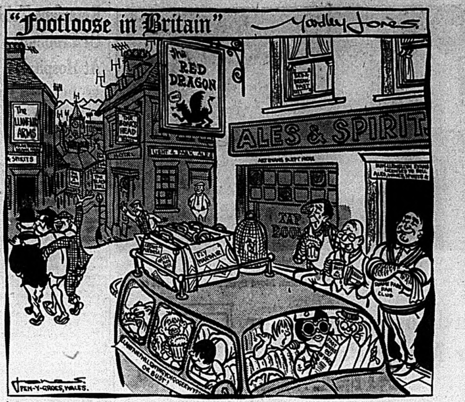
Written in laymen's language the articles throw light on such universal human problems as tension and anxiety, their causes and cure. Dr. Karl Menninger, chief of staff of The Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kansas, writes on the theme "How You Walk the Tension Tightrope," in which he observes in part: "An individual tries to survive, with minimal pain and maximum pleasure, including the pleasures of achievement, pride, and loyalty to principle.

"All this requires an infinitude of doing, of trying and failing, of trying and succeeding, of trying and partially succeeding and having to compromise. It involves going ahead, stepping aside, stepping back, perhaps even running away. It involves fights and embraces, bargains and donations, gestures and conversations, working and playing, reproaches, rewards and retrenchments."

He describes the foregoing as the "uncomplicated" process of living, with all major contingencies, including those of growing older and feebler, temporarily left out of consideration.

But contingencies there are. The unexpected is always happening. Emergencies are always arising. The "misbehavior" of other individuals, as he puts it, the occurence of disruptive events, change in certain situations — like deaths, births, accidents, all sorts of things happen which may strain the individual's capacity for easy accommodation to daily events.

Enough has been said here to indicate the value of this booklet which Sheldon Garber, its editor, says is designed to illustrate "how rapid has been the expansion of public recognition for the ravages that a man's inner torment can bring."



"Why have we stopped THIS time? Is it Dylan Thomas Day, St. David's Day, or just a bunch of Dad's old cronies again?"

July 26, 1966 . . .

Fidel Castro and a small band of Cuban rebels attacked the Encada barracks at Santiago de Cuba 13 years ago today—in 1953—but were defeated and captured. Castro served a prison term and launched a new invasion in 1956 from Mexico. From a handful of men he built up an underground network which destroyed the morale of the supporters of Cuban dictator —F%—CIO Batista, who fled the country late in 1958. After relations with the United States were severed, Castro set about rebuilding Cuba on Communist lines.

1891—France annexed Tahiti.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916 — British troops won control of Pozieres on the Albert-Bapaume road; Russia broke German resistance on the River Sloniovka but was counter-attacked in the north.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941 — Japan occupied French naval and air bases in Indochina by agreement with Vichy; the Philippines military forces were incorporated into the U.S. command; Axis torpedo boats raided Valletta, Malta, but were beaten off and 17 destroyed.

CPA Is Out In the Cold

Hamilton Spectator

The absurdity of limiting Canadian Pacific Airlines to one transcontinental flight each way each day has been highlighted anew by the strike of major U.S. carriers.

With important American transcontinental flights grounded, travellers from the south have put heavy pressure on Canada's east-west links. From Friday to Monday, Air Canada put on a total of 21 extra flights, coining money in the process.

CPA didn't add an extra flight. It can't. Federal government regulation limits it to one flight each way a day from Montreal to Vancouver, landing in Toronto and Winnipeg on the way. This is manifestly unfair, as was demonstrated only a few weeks ago when an Air Canada strike appeared imminent.

Had the state owned airline been grounded, Canadian Pacific would have been powerless to fry to cope with the emergency situation that was created, a negation of commercial practice and common sense.

The same senselessness exists today. There is an extra bonanza of business but only one carrier is allowed to profit thereby. Even worse, a lot of travellers, including plenty of Canadians displaced by the stranded Americans, are having great difficulty going where they want when they want.

It is high time for re-examination of CPA's every day role in competitive trans-Canada traffic with a view to expanding it, but in special situations like this the lid should be pulled off.

Psychiatric Help Can Generally Be Obtained

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: How and where should I inquire about psychiatric help? I am not poverty stricken but I am far from being able to afford private help which I desperately need. I have two minor children and cannot carry out my duties as a mother in my present state of mind. — C. D.

There's no quick off-the-cuff answer to this question, but, neither is the solution impossibly difficult.

Perhaps the biggest stumbling block is the idea, too generally held, that psychiatric help implies months of weekly or more frequent costly interviews.

Clearly that is impossible for anyone without substantial money to spend.

Here, though, is the fact: rather brief periods of sympathetic understanding, and the ability to put a patient's problems into clear perspective, and occasional subsequent treatment often are all that is needed.

Granted that there aren't sufficient psychiatric services for all who need them, there are increasing services for those who seek them, and not at prohibitive cost.

How to find such services? Here are ways:

1. More general hospitals than people seem to realize now have psychiatric services. This is true in many small cities, not just the big ones.

2. Clergymen (not all, but some) are aware of available services in a community, and can tell you how to get them.

3 There are mental health societies all over the country. They know where to refer you.

4 Not all physicians are familiar with psychiatric services, but many are. Ask your doctor. If he can't help, you still have these other avenues to explore.

5 Public health departments are very much aware of such requests and can tell you how best to proceed. Some clinics are available, although often overloaded.

6 This fall a pilot program will be sponsored by the United Auto Workers Union to provide psychiatric services, both in-patient and out-patient care, with some of the cost covered by Blue-Cross Blue Shield or other insurance programs. These Services may provide some new parts for the massive jigsaw puzzle of how to supply psychiatric help for all who need it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 20 and expecting my baby in a little more than two months. I have an appointment to see the dentist but have been told by several people that I shouldn't go until after the baby is born because it may cause some birth defect — also that watching TV will mark the baby. — Mrs. R. M.

Pay no attention to either of these superstitions.

The Price of Maturity

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What I Wish I Had Known At Eighteen:

— That a "free offer" is usually the most expensive kind.

— That a man isn't judged by what he knows, but by how he wears it.

— That it's useless to get into a spraying contest with a skunk.

— That when a man's position in life depends upon his having a certain opinion, that's the opinion he will have.

— That friends who break fast at the wire often fade in the stretch.

— That the best person to borrow from is one who doesn't have much.

— That women who seem the most "feminine" turn into the most feline and most feral.

— That the cynic is goodhearted beneath his facade, whereas the sentimentalist is flint-hearted beneath his.

— That the worst sins are commited by indifference, not by vice.

— That the people who are suspicious of certain things are the very ones who are the most capable of doing that of which they are suspicious.

— That nobody can misunderstand a child as much as his own parents.

— That the more neurotic partner in a marriage is the one who is not seeing a psychiatrist.

— That ends never justify means, but, quite the contrary, means tend to corrupt ends.

— That being able to do exactly as one pleases is the surest way to remain perpetually unpleased.

— That human nature doesn't need to change; it just needs to ask itself continually what is meant by "human," and to give itself an honest answer.

— That the way in which we say something is often more important than what we say.

— That the "liberal" who gets power can be violently illiberal, just as the "conservative" who gets power can be greedily unconserving.

— That it can take less courage to face death than to face life.

— That the atheist who believes in man and scorns God can be closer to holiness than the religionist who believes in God and scorns man.

— That nobody has the power to hurt us or help us as much as we fancy; and mortal hurts are almost always self-inflicted.

— That it is impossible to have a good opinion of one's self and a low opinion of others; the down-grader is projecting his self-contempt.

— That "pleasure" and "joy" are not synonyms, but may be as profoundly different as Heaven and Hell.

Ottawa Where the Girls Are Yet Secretaries Are Scarce

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — They're having trouble, in your plant or office, hiring stenographers?

Your boss complaining he can't find a competent secretary for love or money?

Don't let it bother you — you're in country-wide company.

Even Ottawa's Mayor Don Reid can't find secretaries and has asked members of city council to serve as talent scouts.

What makes the competition for secretaries so nearly impossibly brisk is the Federal Civil Service.

Out of the available stenographic market it takes a giant dip — 10,000 girls, some 6,000 of them here in the Capital. The federal payroll, like a magnet, draws them in by their eager hundreds, from all across the land.

The demand so outruns the supply, says G. A. Blackburn, Director General of Federal Civil Service staffing, that the intake usually runs some 600 short of the annual 1,800-girl quota.

What they call the "wastage" — the number leaving their government desks and typewriters for other jobs, most of them as housewives — runs somewhere between 12 and 18 percent a year.

So the Civil Service Commission, like any other employer, waits anxiously through the Spring months for the annual graduation of girls from the business and commercial schools and for the autumn dropouts from collegiate and college.

The starting civil service grade one stenographic minimum of $2,590 — better than $200 monthly — brings in a June and post-holiday July rush running into the hundreds.

More, better qualified, join as grade two, and get a starting minimum $3,401.

Still more with high school diplomas and maybe a year or two of business office experience come in at higher rates.

The National Capital, perhaps ahead of any other centre, is the nation's "Girls' Town," with the ratio, in the romantic-age bracket of the late teens and early twenties running more than 10 to every lucky young man.

This is where the feminine action is, career-wise, for a girl with the qualifications and the driving ambition can find room at the top, in the executive suites of the deputy ministers, at a premium annual $27,000.

Quite a few have, perhaps a couple of dozen talented misses with their names on the door and a rug on the floor, a ranking of deputy or its well-paid equivalent and a salary in the $20,000 and up bracket.

Even the juniors among them, the new recruits at their better-than-$200-a-month, clubbing two or three together, can afford to live in style in almost any of a score or more of swanky new high-rise apartments.

All have their fur coat - - it's no longer a status symbol, but very nearly a uniform - - and a great many their little car.

And in winter, some of the country's best skiing, certainly the nation's largest ski club, just across the Ottawa River, not 30 minutes away from Parliament Hill and the new hives of civil service offices clustered in the midtown aviary of spanking new business buildings.

It's a vastly different life than it was maybe only 10 or 15 years ago when Civil Service still lived in a sort of government-style YWCA-type dormitories, each with a "House Mother," and routinely lunched on "a smoke and a coke." There were curfews, too.

These dorms were the gift of former Trade Minister C. D. Howe who built them in the war years to house the army of girls marching in to staff the stenographic desks in the earlier stages of what has become Big Government.

Still they come, thousands every year from the four corners of Canada.

But there are never enough.

For the problem, as the Civil Service has found it, is that they don't all see the Federal Government, especially its 10,000-girl stenographic staff, as a life-time career.

Some 1,800 of them every year seem to take the job to get a wardrobe, assemble a hope chest, build up a honeymoon bank account, stick for two or three years, and then - - oddly in a town where eligible men are almost collector's items - - exit humming Lohengrin.

Britain's Economic Plight

Christian Science Monitor

Since the end of World War II, the economic pattern in Britain under both Labor and Conservative governments has been a fugue on the theme of stop-go. In a word, no postwar government has been able to find anything more than palliative for Britain's chronic economic sickness And every time a palliative is administered, it seems that the consevuent "go" is inevitably followed by an increasingly thudding "stop". Britain is apparently on the verge of such another stop.

If there were no other ties between Britain and the United States that gave the latter a deep and vested interest in Britain's economic plight, the United States would have to be concerned because of the pound sterling's tandem role with the dollar — albeit a modest one — as an international and reserve currency. The dollar is stronger than the pound, but not strong enough to remain unaffected by a radical change in the pound's health. We trust that there will be again this time, as in the past, sympathy and help for the British Government from Washington.

A question that must be asked, however, is whether palliatives are any longer enough. In the past, of course, the application of palliatives was always accompanied by an assurance that this was expected to be the last emergency aid, pending recovery of the pound. Unhappily lasting recovery has still not come. And if something more than a palliative is not rolled out this time, it will be difficult to avoid the clusion that what is being poured into the bucket merely makes the hole in the bottom bigger.

Last month, the Bank for International Settlements accompanied a further round of help for the pound with a cautious critique of Britain's financial situation. At the time of the Budget in May, the bank said, demand pressure on Britain's resources had not been lightened. It added: "This result may be attributed to two forces which continued to augment total demand over the past year — public-sector expenditure and rising wages." The government's decision Thursday to raise the bank rate is clearly a crisis move aimed at expenditure. And Mr. Wilson's stand over the recent seamen's strike, together with subsequent government declarations on prices and incomes, bespeaks at least an intent to be resolute on wages.

Yet Britons and their friends can have been only chastened by the stark assertion made by The Economist a couple of weeks ago: "In the first five months of this year more people in Britain pushed up their earnings more steeply for less work than at any time since 1960 . . . The plain fact is that since Labor took office in October, 1964, hourly earnings have risen two and a quarter times faster than that of output per manhour." For this, it seems to us, both Britain's main parties must shoulder a measure of responsibility. After all, it was a Conservative Prime Minister who won an election with the lulling assurance that "You've never had it so good."

Britons would be the first, on reflection, to say that their problems should be solved by their own efforts. Yet Americans, shouldering a heavy burden almost alone in Vietnam, will not forget that Britain's plight today stems largely from a yesterday when Britain herself stood alone and did not count the cost of defending almost singlehandedly the liberty of free men everywhere.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange was sluggish today in morning trading as only 503,000 shares changed hands by 11 a.m. compared with 631,000 at the same time Monday.

low of 55¾, Imperial-Commerce ¼ to 60½ after reaching a low of 60¼ and Royal ¼ to 70½.

Denison, which has been pacing the recent uranium advance, was down ¾ to 66½. Roman Corp., which holds a large block of Denison shares, declined ½ to 16¼ and Rio Algom ¼ to 27.

On index, industrials were off .16 to 158.38, golds .14 to 185.85, base metals .56 to 98.83, western oils .36 to 101.45 and the TSE .20 to 151.27.

The industrial index fell Monday to its lowest level since July 28, 1965.

THE industrial . .para 2–F205

The industrial index dropped 1.11 to 158.54 after being as low as 157.64 in morning activity.

Banks lost considerable ground as four issues fell to 1966 lows. Nova Scotia was down 1 to 66¾, Montreal ⅞ to 56 and Imperial-Commerce ¼ to 60¼. Royal, which slipped ¼ to 70¾, was as low as 70½.

In other industrial activity, Alcan Aluminium slid 1⅛ to 33⅞ on 12,947 shares and Great Lakes Power ⅛ to 25¼ after falling to a low of 25.

Golds slumped 5.55 on the gold index to 185.99 as profit takers took advantage of Friday's rocketing prices when the index climbed 11.61 on news that the U.S. government approved a bill for increased subsidies to U.S. gold producers.

Dome and Giant Yellowknife each lost 1 to 54 and 13 and Kerr-Addison ⅛ to 10⅛.

On index, base metals were off .35 to 99.39, western oils .87 to 101.81 and the TSE 1.09 to 151.47.

AFTER 10-MILE SWIM — Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tze-Tung waves from the deck of a motorboat to swimmers in the Yangtze River near Wuhan in central China, according to the caption with this photo released by China Photo Service. The official New China News Agency said he dispelled rumors he was ailing by swimming downstream nearly 10 miles then boarding a boat "showing no signs of fatigue." The feat is reported to have taken place July 16. (AP Wirephoto from Eastfoto radiophoto from Peking)

Wall Street Mixed After Fall Monday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prices on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges were lower in early tradng today, following Monday's pattern. The New York market, which Monday took its heaviest beating in 2½ years, was mixed.

In Toronto, industrial losses were fractional with Union Carbide and Royal Bank down 25 cents each at 24.75 and 70.50. The Toronto industrial index, a measurement of the group's over-all health, closed at a 12-month low Monday and appeared headed even lower today.

In Montreal, losers included such key issues as Bell Telephone, Massey - Ferguson and Canadian Breweries.

Trading was active on Wall Street with big blocks of Xerox, American Telephone and Sears, Roebuck changing hands.

Losers included Anaconda and Douglas Aircraft. General Motors and Boeing were ahead.

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York stock market tumbled to its lowest level of the year Monday, registering the sharpest decline in 32 months.

After 11 weeks of trading in a narrow range, the Dow Jones 30-stock industrial average fell 16.32 points to a 1966 low of 852.83.

This was the sharpest one-day loss since President John F. Kennedy was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963. On that day the Dow Jones industrials fell 21.16 points, or 2.9 per cent.

The drop Monday was roughly 1.88 per cent, or about $1.30 a share.

Declines outnumbered advances by more than six to one as moderately active trading increased the day's volume to 7,050,000 shares on the big board, where the common stock of all companies listed totals more than 10,339,000,000 shares.

Traders saw no specific news behind the break but cited the continuing pressures of the war in Viet Nam, tight money and the prolonged U.S. airline strike.

SHIPS COLLIDE

TOKYO (Reuters)—Two Panamanian - registered ships, a tanker and a freighter, collided in thick fog off the coast of central Japan, the Japanese maritime safety agency said Monday. The crew members of both ships were reported safe.

Is Suing GM for Million Because Impala Too Fast

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A $1,000,000 damage suit against General Motors was filed in U.S. district court Monday, alleging the company distributed a car too high-powered for public safety.

The suit was filed by William J. Marshall, a lawyer for Philip Michael Schemel, 21, of Springfield, Ohio. Schemel, temporarily paralysed from the neck down, seeks $500,000 punitive damages and $500,000 compensatory damages for injuries he says he suffered in an April 2, 1964, traffic accident in which a 1960 Chevrolet Impala going 115 miles an hour was involved.

The suit alleges that General Motors should have known that "some irresponsible" persons might obtain the Impala and drive it so fast that unreasonable risk would be created.

Schemel's suit said he was a passenger in a car driven by Glen E. Dixon, also of Springfield, which was traveling 55 miles an hour when it was struck by one driven by Michael N. Bigham of Oakland City, Ind., which was going 115 m.p.h. The suit said the two cars collided after Bigham's car struck one he was attempting to pass.

BB IS BACK

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Brigitte Bardot and her new husband, West German industrialist Gunther Sachs, arrived in this resort city Monday from Tahiti. The French actress married Sachs July 14 in Las Vegas, Nev. They spent the first nine days of their honeymoon in the South Sea islands.

Wins Two Cars So Cracks Down On Gambling

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—The St. Clair County sheriff, who won two cars in a raffle during the weekend, ordered a crackdown on gambling activities in the county Monday.

Sheriff Maurice Joseph said he will not tolerate any more bingo, raffles or lotteries even though he is "mindful that the purpose or objective of the activity is exclusively religious, civic or charitable."

At the same time, Joseph said he will sell the two new cars he won.

Joseph won two of the five new cars raffled Friday at a Knights of Columbus picnic.

Asks Canadians To Show Spirit Of Prospectors

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters)—Canadians should return to the "spirit of the prospectors" and grow as a nation apart from U.S. influence, Judy LaMarsh, Canada's secretary of state, said Mday.

Miss LaMarsh, touring Australia to promote Canada's centennial celebrations next year, said Canada remains proud of its "differences" despite n "overshadowing U.S. influence."

Speaking at a National Press Cub luncheon, she said:

"Imagine a nation that knows more about the American electoral system than it does of its own and that follows events in America more closely than it does those of its own country.

"Our companies are largely owned by Americans. We do not believe that any company in the country should act as other than a good Canadian company.

"But we have a large number of companies where this does appear to be the case."

She said Canadians are "not risk-takers; there doesn't seem to be any of the spirit of the prospectors in them; they are savers and do not want to risk their money in anything that is too ephemeral."

Expand Search For Missing U.S. Brigadier

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific air-sea search for a missing C-47 aircraft with Brig.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell Jr. aboard has expanded to cover an area of 105,000 square miles.

Stilwell, 54, commander of the U.S. Army's green beret troop training centre, was co-pilot of the plane, en route to Thailand for use by that country's air force. It was last heard from early Sunday about 500 miles out in the Pacific.

Stilwell intended to fly as far as Hawaii from San Francisco to increase his instrument rating as a flyer.

The plane's pilot was Hal Grimes, 45, a personal friend of the general and president of Air Ferry International of Pacific Palisades, Calif.

Grimes radioed Sunday that one engine had failed and the plane was returning to San Francisco. A U.S. Coast Guard plane sent to accompany the crippled aircraft arrived two hours later but found no trace of the plane.

Two coast guard cutters, 20 land - based planes, three destroyers and the aircraft carrier Yorktown participated in the search Monday. A 70,000-square-mile area was checked visually and with radar.

The search was enlarged north and south of the 700-mile-long, 100-mile-wide search area at nightfall.

Expect Pensioners to File Tax Returns to Get Bonus

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — To qualify for any or all of the proposed $30-a-month supplement to the old age pension, pensioners probably will have to file income tax returns regardless of their taxable income.

Health Minister MacEachen hints that this will be the approach adopted by the government to decide who will qualify for income support under the government's plan for a guaranteed annual income of $105 a month.

Writing in Liberal Action, a publication of the Ontario Liberal party, Mr. MacEachen says the guaranteed minimum-income approach has the advantage that "it can be adopted without subjecting beneficiaries to the various tests which, rightly or wrongly have assumed odious connotations to persons receiving assistance."

"This degrading process can be avoided quite simply by having persons fill out income tax forms, whether they have taxable income or not.

"Then if the person's gross income from all sources were less than the guaranteed minimum, he would automatically be entitled to supplementary payments."

Mr. MacEachen also supports the idea that the guaranteed minimum - income approach could be tested on old age pensioners as a forerunner to a guaranteed minimum income for all Canadians.

The minister's statements are included in a review by him of a new book, The Guaranteed Income, by Robert Theobald. He calls the book the first exhaustive and organized attempt to reassess and redefine the social security system and to argue the extent to which the guaranteed - income technique can be used to meet basic income maintenance needs.

Mr. MacEachen announced earlier this month that the government intends to apply this technique to all recipients of the $75-a-month old age pension. He estimated the cost at $225,000,000 a year at the start.

The $30-a-month supplement would be reduced by the amount of monthly income available to pensioners over and above their $75 pension.

Women's Institutes

MOUNTAIN VIEW W. I.

Mrs. Klass Weekhoven opened her home for the July meeting of Mountain View Womens' Institute. Mrs. Peter Koekman assisted as co - hostess. There were 24 women in attendance.

The convenors of their meetings were the 4-H girls' leader who took charge of the meeting. Nineteen club members were present and Mrs. M. Burkholder gave the topic "Accent on Accessions." The girls showed their hats and dyed scarves which they made.

Mrs. Wilfred Motley announced that the girls from this club had been chosen to hold a demonstration at Peterborough fair August 10, the only group in the county to be chosen.

The girls completing the course received their spoons from the Institute presented by Mrs. W. Burkitt. A gift to the leader was presented by Mrs. K. Motley.

Training school in the autumn for club leaders will be held in the fall and the leaders are Mrs. W. Motley, Mrs. A. Wallbridge, Mrs. M. Burkholder and Mrs. Lottie Green.

Mrs. David Farmer thanked the hostesss for her hospitality.

The meeting was closed and lunch prepared by the club members was served by several of the girls and a social time enjoyed.

QUINTE W.I.

2nd THURLOW — The Quinte W.I. held its July meeting at the W.I hall with the president Mrs. Jack Parrott presiding.

The secretary treasurer Mrs. Robert Atkins read minutes and thank you notes, also a letter regarding the 4-H training school to be held in Belleville later based on "Meat in the Menu."

Arrangements were made for a display at the Bellevile Fair of articles from a foreign country with Mrs. Robert Atkins to take five or six articles from Jamaica. The district director, Mrs. Chas Wood reported on a recent meeting which was held to arrange for the area convention in Peterborough September 29-30. A bus will be chartered and arrangements for accommodations were made.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. W J. Tufts, Agriculture convener who arranged a most interesting program. Mrs. F. Doxtator gave a paper on the motto. Mrs Insley favored with two solos accompanied by Mrs. Parrott at the piano.

Mrs. Charles Wood gave a talk on gladiolo, the care and different varieties. She has 28,000 gladioli planted this year. Mrs. Tufts gave a paper on the farming by the Indian on Tyendinaga Reserve. She told of their landing on the shores at Deseronto in 1874 in a canoe and of many more most interesting happenings.

CRIME FIGHTER DIES

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) Dr. James Firth, 78, one of Britain's leading scientists in fighting crimes, died Monday in a local nursing home. Cause of death was not disclosed. Firth, who retired in 1958 after 20 years in the home office forensic laboratory at Preston, Lancashire, helped in the investigation of more than 200 murder cases. He was an expert on drugs and poison. He also investigated the blaze that destroyed the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada at Liverpool in 1953.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT A. FAULKNER

Faulkner – Morrow

St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, was the scene of a lovely summer wedding on Saturday, July 16, 1966, when Gail Sharon Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Morrow, Stirling R. R. 4, was united in marriage to Robert Andrew Faulkner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Faulkner, Stirling, R.R.1.

Rev. F. F. Downing assisted by Rev. B. Small officiated at the ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Harry Morrow, aunt of the bride who presided at the organ and played accompaniment for the soloist Mrs. Glen Floud, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire styled gown of white satin peau de soie highlighted with an overblouse of imported Alencon lace. A chapel train flowed from the waistline which was accented with two bows at the centre back. A headdress tiara of crystals and seed pearls held in place a four-tier silk illusion veil. She carried a Bible crested with a solitaire orchid encircled with stephanotis and ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Barbara Morrow, sister of the bride was dressed in a full length aqua mist pure silk over taffeta gown fashioned with Empire waist. The bodice of Brussels lace featured a scoop neckline and cap sleeves. She wore a matching headdress with small veil and carried a medley cascade of Shasta daisies. The bridesmaids Miss Susan Faulkner and Miss Jacqueline Whiting were dressed identically to the maid of honor. Miss Dawn McMaster in white full length gown of pure silk chiffon over taffeta accented at the waist with an aqua bow was the flower girl. She carried a petite basket of white Shasta daisies.

Mr. Larry McMaster was groomsman and Mr. Robert Morrow and Mr. Lyle Faulkner were the ushers. Ring - bearer was Master W. Faulkner.

For the reception in St. John's Parish Hall, Stirling, the bride's mother wearing a petal pink silk crepe sheath dress with chantilly lace bodice, matching lace hat with white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and white baby 'mums, greeted the guests. Also receiving was the bridegroom's mother who wore a blue silk linen sheath with matching jacket, Milan straw hat, bone colored accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and white 'mums.

On return the couple will live at Stirling, R. R. 4.

SNEEZE-PROOF TICKING EXCHANGE

Girls: In answer to the many requests for a feather-proof method of switching ticking (exchanging old pillow casings for new) this letter from Miss Buechler tells the story beautifully:

Dear Susanna: Here is how I replace pillow ticking without spilling a feather.

Rip one end of worn pillow ticking, and baste firmly to the new feather-proof ticking.

After feathers have all been emptied into the new casing, stitch firmly closed. Care must be taken to support ticking when necessary, so that it is always kept upright.

Result, no split feathers and years of use from them.

The new ticking can be kept fresh much longer if a discarded pillow case or factory cotton cover is used as an extra protector.

Stitch it on with a long, loose stitch, and of course, launder when necessary. — Miss Buechler

Not a ruffled feather or even a sneeze in the whole operation. — SUSANNA

FLOWER-FLY-SWATTER

Dear Suzy: I always say, "If you can't fight it, let it join you!"

That's what I did with our fly swatter at our lodge in the woods.

Since we need it right in sight at all times to combat the wee beasties, I fashioned a large, felt, petalled flower (it looked quite like a daisy) and fastened it to the back of the wire netting.

Now our flower swatter seems more like an ornament than a deadly weapon. I keep it hanging under the mantle against the stone firepllace.

Everyone but the insects is crazy about my new idea. — Pattie Nowland

So, you can't win them all! — SUSANNA

U.C.W. Meetings

MARSH HILL U.C.W.

MARSH HILL — The July meeting of Marsh Hill United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. Norman Parks with 17 ladies present.

The president, Mrs. Ivan Clare, opened the meeting and Mrs. Albert Clare conducted the worship service. During the meditation, she stated, "Canada is known as a Christian country and let us keep it that way. We need the message of God to keep us in the ways that make for understanding and peace." Mrs. Harold Detlor conducted the Bible Study on the chapter, "God's Man — Jesus Christ." A question and answer period followed.

The members reported sending 18 cards and two letters and making five hospital visits and eight house calls.

Mrs. Bartindale reported that two bales had been sent and reminded the members to hand in clothing for a bale in the fall.

The members were reminded that the bazaar and tea will be held October 12.

Mrs. Parks was celebrating her birthday and during lunch a birthday cake was presented to her.

Mrs. Parks and Miss Alma Parks served refreshments.

SCOTT'S U.C.W.

The president, Mrs. Cameron Sine, gave the call to worship.

Mrs. Earl Dafoe read a provocative article from a current magazine, "Why I got out of church work." This created a general discussion. Some points made included: "the church is the bulwark of the community; before going into all the world to preach the gospel start on your own doorstep; in cases of mental confusion, do all you can, then stand, which solves many mental problems; the kingdom of God is within you — in your subconscious; it is worry that causes most ills, read your Bible, it is timeless.

Thank you letters were read from the overseas department in Toronto ,also the Fred Victor Mission, Mrs. Pollard and Mrs. Rose. No more nylons will be needed for Korea at the present time.

The hostess served lunch.

Miss Betty Sine has been holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sine in Windsor.

Mr. Art Lakeman is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Successful Living

Worried Traveller Having Packing Woes

DEAR DORIS: Could you kindly inform me just what to take with me when I go to Europe in September for three weeks? I am finding it very hard to decide just what a person does take, for I have never travelled before, and I feel I need some expert advice on this.

I realize there are many do's and don'ts. Perhaps you may have booklets on packing for a trip, etc. I am only allowed 44 pounds, and I am visiting Austria, Germany, Paris, Italy. — FLYING HIGH.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR FLYING HIGH: I practically lived in a comfortable woollen suit, when I went; that and no-iron blouses and flat-heeled, rubber-soled shoes.

If you plan to do some hiking take slim jims or the latest thing in slacks. Lingerie should be easy-to-launder type; also a raincoat you can fold up into nothing.

Air Canada has published "When You Travel" — a dandy booklet of 24 pages. It deals with wardrobes, documents, tipping, currency, customs, languages, photography, and countless other helpful travel tips. Be sure to get one from your local sales office, or by writing to Air Canada, 130 Bloor Street West, Toronto, Ontario.

DEAR DORIS: No sooner do we get one thing thrashed out than my wife gives me the silent treatment about something else — or so it seems to me. Life is horrible until I finally capitulate and ask what's eating her. Then we fight and feel better. — ON TACKS.

DEAR ON TACKS: Sounds familiar. Why not start recognizing what's happening here and setting up a system?

One psychiatrist recommends that a time be set aside each day for clearing the air. The people who have been counselled by him know what that time is for; and gradually the air-clearing involves less thunder and lightning, more of the gentle-rain-from-heaven type treatment.

Prince Philip was recently quoted as saying that we spend an immense amount of scientific time studying friction in bearings, but nothing like enough time on the scientific study of friction in community and personal life.

DEAR DORIS: I am 17. I have a high-strung nature. Lately I get so nervous about even little things such as saying "hello" to a boy, that I shake from head to foot. Often I get slight headaches which disappear when I can relax a little.

In the future I dream of working with and meeting people in the occupation I have chosen. However, now I feel unsure as to whether I would be suitable. — UNRELAXED.

DEAR UNRELAXED: Little you know the butterflies which flutter around in the stomachs of your relaxed-looking pals —and of the boys you say "hello" to! But most people simmer down and enjoy socializing after a while.

I'm sending you my ten-cent leaflet "Don't Be Shy." If what it tells you doesn't help, I'd suggest a talk with your doctor. He can help you relax.

Don't give up that people-meeting dream without a struggle.

DEAR DORIS: I am 14. My friend is the most unpopular girl in our school. She constantly invites me over to her house. They have a dog and cat which I cannot stand.

I like animals but these two take the cake. They let the dog lick off their plates at dinner. My friend often lets him lick her face and mouth. Her mother is aware of this and doesn't do anything about it.

When he tries this on me, I slap him but my friend gets mad at me when I do this. What do you think? — TRAPPED.

DEAR TRAPPED: I'd guess your unpopular friend gets great joy out of the affectionate dog baths; at least here is one creature whose love for her knows no bounds!

Many grown-ups would share your aversion to such all-out indulgence of a dog; and the thoughtful hostess controls a pet in favor of keeping a visitor happy.

You can learn to excuse yourself from her invitation, but if you could explain to her a little of what troubles you, you might just help her to learn consideration for others.

DEAR DORIS: I am separated for several years and raising a son who is now 16. I feel like a forgotten senior citizen (I am 46) — no place to go and nobody to go with.

In the newspapers now I see they want to teach sex education in the schools. Do you know what they mean? My son hasn't got to thinking (I hope) about girls yet but what can I possibly tell him when I have the same problem myself?

DEAR SOLITAIRE: If I can read between the lines and find a warped approach to sex, your son is quite aware that you wouldn't take kindly to his interest in girls. Yet if he's normal he has some.

Far better to help him meet life head on than to try to keep him cosy under your wing. There are books and people who can do more for him than you can. Find a male counsellor for him: a Y. man, or a Scoutmaster, a Big Brother. Or an uncle. Talk to his teacher and find out what he is being taught. There's help somewhere. Give your boy a chance.

(There are Canadian resources to help solve your problem. Write to Doris for direction, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

First of Paris Fashion Shows Are Far Apart in Their Ideas

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Paris fashions floundered between two opposite schools of thought Monday: circus clothes and "far out" fashions shown by Louis Feraud and Jacques Esterel, and the super-classic, sedate high fashion approach of pre-war designer Madeleine de Rauch.

The important trend - setting French houses tend to show later each season and the opening day is a notoriously slow start to fashion week, which will carry over until Aug. 4, when Yves St. Laurent's influential collection terminates the showings.

Feraud and Esterel, who were once in business together and who both claim credit for dressing Brigitte Bardot, each endorsed the "miniskirt" in unshaped sheaths and tunics sheared off at mid-thigh.

Esterel showed A-line coats and dresses with contrasting colored hembands that unsnapped to reveal more leg than is usually seen anywhere except on the beach.

Louis Feraud showed tubular, skin - tight tunics that ended abruptly at the top of the thighs, paired with matching, bright-colored tights.

Madelaine de Rauch showed another of the quiet, private-client type of collections that she has been turning out since her house was founded in 1932. Hemlines were cut just under the kneecap, and none of her clients would dream of wearing them any shorter.

CAPES ARE BACK

She revived the cape coat, with waist-length flared cape over slim double-breasted ulsters. Suit jackets were hip-length and sometimes flared like a riding jacket, or had loose backs vented from the hem up to the squared-off yoke.

Ponchos also made a timid appearance as a cinnamon-colored model that was pulled on over the head and worn with a matching dress.

Fancy stockings kept legs in the limelight in all collections viewed Monday. Esterel showed heavy wool lace hosiery in pastel colors contrasting with the ensembles.

Feraud went in for striped tights, often featured in op-art effects with a different pattern on each leg.

Ann Landers

Mother-in-law Makes Strange Proclamation

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are expecting our first child in a few months.

When I told my mother-in-law she said, "Wonderful, but I want to tell you in advance, so there won't be any hurt feelings later, that it is impossible for a mother to feel as close to her son's children as to her daughter's. You may not be able to understand this now, but you will understand it when you are a grandmother."

What do you make of my mother-in-law's remark? — BAFFLED P. G. LADY.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR LADY: Not a bloomin' thing, Honey. Your mother-in-law is speaking strictly for herself. If you don't believe me, read Willie Snow Ethridge's hilarious book, "I Just Happen To Have Some Pictures."

I've seen grannies who are indifferent to their daughter's children and are nutty over their son's little ones. And then I've seen it work, just the other way too. It was adorable of your mother-in-law to put you on notice, however. Wait and see, I'll bet she'll be goofy over your wee one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There are three daughters and two sons in our family. Sister Sally has taken advantage of our widowed mother all of her life. We are all married with children, except this lazy, selfish Sally who is divorced.

When Sally married Jim 20 years ago, she borrowed a small fortune from mother for a down payment on a new home and expensive furnishings. She then invited mother to live with her and Jim. Sally and Jim both worked and mother was the cook, maid, and laundress. When mom went away for a weekend to visit a sister she'd return to find every dish and pot in the kitchen sink and all the housework waiting.

Sally and Jim were divorced five years ago but Sally continued to live in the fancy house and mom continued to be her maid. Last week Sally announced she has "taken care of" mom long enough and now she wants one of us to take her in. The truth is that mom has been taking care of Sally all these years — and without a dime in wages.

What can we say to this miserable daughter to put her in her place? — DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Save your pipes. You'll never get through to her. Sally sees the picture in an entirely different light.

How sad that none of you foresaw what would happen to your mother. Now, of course, one of you must take her and my guess is it'll be you.

Remember, please, while you are raking Sally over the coals that your mother is not completely blameless. People who allow themselves to be abused and imposed on are always partners in crime.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few years ago I was the maid of honor for a friend who was in her 50's. I will call her Nola.

I married several months ago and asked my dearest friend to be my maid of honor. I sent a wedding invitation to Nola and her husband. The invitation was ignored.

A few weeks ago I ran into Nola and she said, "I want to tell you to your face that you hurt me deeply by not asking me to be your maid of honor. It was your duty since I honored you when I was married."

Is she right? — S.S.

DEAR S.S.: She is wrong. Although friends often exchange the "honor" you were under no obligation to do so. Inviting her as a guest was sufficient.

CRANBERRY BREAD

1 cup seedless raisins
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup sugar
1½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup shortening
¾ cup orange juice
1 egg
1 tbsp. grated orange rind
1 15 oz can whole cranberry sauce.

METHOD: Cover raisins with boiling water and let stand 5 min. Drain and dry well on paper towelling. Heat oven to 350 F Grease a 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt into mixing bowl. Add shortening and cut in finely. Beat orange juice and egg together lightly with a fork add to dry ingredients along with orange rind, cranberry sauce and raisins. Stir just to blend. Spoon into prepared pan and bake 60-70 min. or until a toothpick stuck in centre comes out clean. Turn out on rack to cool.

Mrs. Doreen Walsh,

NO-COOK CHERRY-O-CREAM CHEESE PIE

1 9" baked pastry shell cooled
1 8" oz. pkg. cream cheese (plain)
1 can Eagle brand condensed sweetened milk
1-3 cup fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 lb. 6 oz. can cherries

METHOD: Let cheese stand at room temperature until softened. Beat until fluffy. Gradualloy add sweetened condensed milk (condensed milk must be used) stir until thoroughly mixed, add lemon juice and vanilla extract. Stir and mix well, turn into prepared crust. Chill 2 hours in refrigerator but do not freeze.

CHERRY GLAZE

1 cup (½ of 1 lb can) drained red tart pitted cherries
2 tbsps. sugar
2 tsps. cornstarch
½ cup cherry juice.

METHOD: Blend sugar and cornstarch. Stir in cherry juice, cook till thickened and clear, stirring constantly. Stir in a few drops of red colouring if desired. Add cherries. Cool thoroughly and garnish top of pie.

POPCORN BALLS

1 cup sugar
1-3 cup corn syrup
1-3 cup water
¼ cup butter
¾ tsp. salt
¾ tsp. vanilla
3 qts. popped corn

METHOD: Place sugar, corn syrup, water, butter and salt in a saucepan. Heat, stirring constantly until the sugar is dissolved. Bring to a boil and keep boiling, without stirring until the syrup will form a brittle ball when dropped into cold water (that is until it reaches 270 degrees F. if you have a candy thermometer.) Add the vanilla and stir only enough to mix it through the hot syrup.

Now place the popped corn in a large bowl that has been well greased and pour the cooked syrup slowly over the popped corn, mixing well. Wet the hands slightly and shape the corn into balls, pressing only enough to make popped corn stick together. If you like, you could add raisins or nuts to the popped corn just before adding the syrup.

Garden Patch Salad Easy To Make

A salad with garden-fresh flavor and easy to make is "Garden Patch Salad." This bright salad is highly recommended for serving to large groups for club or church supper. It's inexpensive and eye-catching — important considerations for food committees. It can be served with cold cuts, cheeses and breads.

GARDEN PATCH SALAD

2 packages unflavored gelatin, ¾ cup cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon horseradish, 2 (8-ounce) cans tomato sauce. Add grated cheese to taste, 1 (1-pound) can mixed vegetables, drained, and 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped.

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. Heat tomato sauce with cheese, add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Gently fold in vegetables and egg. Pour into 1-½ quart mold and chill until set. Unmold on lettuce. Makes six servings.

CURD CAKES WITH FILLING

You help and inspire me so constantly that I often wonder just how I would manage without you.

Now along comes a recipe for lovely morsels called Curd Cakes from Janice P. who says she makes them when she has pastry left over from larger pies.

The old-fashioned name caught my fancy so I settled down after I had bought the groceries on Saturday morning to make a batch.

TUESDAY

CURD CAKES (Adapted by Emem from Janice P's recipe)

NOTE: The amounts of pastry and filling in this recipe make exactly fifteen 2½" tarts.

PASTRY:

1 cup stirred but not sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1/3 cup shortening
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons cold water

FILLING:

1 tablespoon butter (room temperature)
3 tablespoons sugar
3 oz. (¾ four-ounce package) white cream cheese (room temperature) (or well drained cottage cheese)
1 egg yolk
¼ teaspoon single-acting baking powder
2 tablespoons currants or chopped Sultana raisins

Make pastry by cutting shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas then drizzle in cold water as you toss with a fork. Pack into a ball between your palms and roll out on lightly floured board very thin — not thicker than ⅛ inch. Cut out with 2⅞-inch cutter (metal top of jelly glass!) and line 2½-inch tart tins. When I rerolled the scraps of dough I was able to line fifteen of them.

Make filling by beating together until smoothly blended the butter, sugar, cream cheese (or cottage cheese), egg yolk and baking powder. Stir in currants or chopped raisins. Neatly half fill tart shells. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 19-20 minutes or until well puffed and pale gold, turning and switching pans in oven at halftime. Do not burn one of these delectable morsels.

Thank you Janice for passing on this favorite for our enjoyment too.

Landymore Hopes Testimony Before Committee Revealed

HALIFAX (CP)—Rear - Admiral William Landymore said Monday he hopes evidence he gave to a secret meeting of the parliamentary defence committee eventually will be made public.

Admiral Landymore, dismissed as sea operations chief July 18 for opposing the government's proposed unification of the armed forces, said in an interview that testimony he gave to the June 23 meeting was edited in advance because Defence Minister Hellyer "wanted me to take a positive approach to the hearings and mine was too negative."

The admiral said he could not now say what his original testimony was, but described it as "the actual state of affairs in my command." This had been "thoroughly rewritten and censored" after being heard by Mr. Hellyer and his associate minister.

Mr. Hellyer, interviewed Monday in Paris about a Toronto Star story in which Admiral Landymore alleged the censorship, said:

"The personnel information included in his draft briefing was not within his responsibility as commander of Maritime Command.

'Personal information including statistics is strictly a headquarters responsibility coming under the jurisdiction of the chief of personnel."

OFFICERS OPPOSED

Admiral Landymore said he had decided to submit his testimony to the secret defence committee meeting after most officers in the Maritime Command said they were opposed to the unification of the three forces.

He said he had found 364 of the 367 officers of the rank of lieutenant-commander or higher in his command were opposed "to the navy losing its identity" and felt it his duty to warn the defence department of their dissatisfaction.

But although he had encouraged his officers to speak out on the question, he found he knew little more than they concerning unification and "that only the vaguest hints were coming from the defence minister's well-oiled public relations machine and officers in Ottawa were as much in the dark as I was."

Admiral Landymore said the plan to completely integrate the services "will indeed split the navy down the middle and cause an exodus of many of our best people. . . . The overhead to replace them would far exceed any of the potential benefits of integration and would, in the final analysis, be wasteful in the extreme."

The admiral said when his testimony to the secret defence committee meeting was censored, he suspected he would never be able to see "truthful statements" placed before the committee.

"Perhaps it was at this time that I also lost my last vestige of confidence in my superiors," he said.

'Indecent'

of the Criminal Code or the Official Secrets Act to launch such a prosecution.

Mr. Justice Wells, who was appointed in March to conduct a full investigation into the government's handling of the case, also found nothing wrong with the decision to place Spencer under RCMP surveillance.

"He had not been charged with any offence, and they (the RCMP) had in fact no right to watch and beset him if he objected to it, but in point of fact his getting in touch with them was, for him, not a watching and besetting but a refuge in time of trouble, and by their acts they proved to be friends to a poor broken - down sick man, of much greater value and worth than apparently any of his relations or friends were."

TREATED WITH KINDNESS

Spencer had been treated with great kindness and consideration by the RCMP and on one or two occasions was rescued by them from "great pressure."

The judge's review of Spencer's work for the Russians revealed for the first time that the clerk, who was 62 when he died, supplied to an agent all he knew about security arrangements in the Vancouver post office.

Other information that was supplied to the Russians involved the operation of ethnic organizations, detailed photos of Vancouver, pipeline maps, the names of reliable ex-members of the Communist party, biographical data from cemetery headstones and similar easily-available facts.

The information on dead persons whose background records had been destroyed could be used by the Russians to obtain false documents. The RCMP had pointed out during the inquiry that this had been done in the case of the famous Russian spy in Britain who held a Canadian passport as Gordon Lonsdale. The original Lonsdale's birth records were lost in a Northern Ontario forest fire in the early 1920s.

The report said Spencer received somewhere between $3,200 and $6,800 from the Russians, mainly to cover expenses ontrips to Ottawa for meetings with agents.

DIPLOMATS EXPELLED

When the spy case first broke May 8, 1965, the external affairs department announced that two Russian embassy officials, A. E. Bytchkov and V. N. Poluchkin, had been expelled from Canada for their part in it.

Mr. Justice Wells said Spencer, who was a member of the Communist party in the 1930s but was tossed out in 1946, appeared to be obsessed with the idea of getting a free trip to Russia. This had led to his original contact with the Soviet embassy.

Dealing with the government's decision not to prosecute Spencer, the judge also pointed out that Spencer at the time of his exposure by the RCMP was in critical condition with lung cancer.

"To prosecute a man in this condition would have been almost indecent and in my opinion Spencer was treated by the government of Canada with forebearance and fairness."

5 NATO

without possessing any nuclear arms — would allay Russian fears of German access, even indirectly, to the weapons.

Monday NATO ministers, including France, agreed on a new five-year North Atlantic defence force plan based on available resources. Well-informed sources said this would involve about 21 allied divisions currently assigned to NATO in Central Europe.

The decision, at the first session of the two-day conference, followed pressure from Britain and the U.S. and on their 13 allies to share more of the costs and tasks invloved in Western European defence.

Canada offered to double its contribution to the defence of the flank regions of NATO.

BATTALION PLEDGED

Defence Minister Hellyer promised to earmark a new battalion, making a total of two, for the allied command's mobile force in Europe.

The two battalions will be in addition to the 1st Canadian Brigade already based in West Germany and the air division which makes up the balance of Canada's military contribution to NATO.

The battalions will remain in Canada but be ready for immediate transfer across the Atlantic on assigned aircraft.

Each battalion group will have about 1,200 men. It was understood that the second battalion will be earmarked for the eastern area—Greece and Turkey.

An informant said that to speed troops from Canada to Europe, the Canadian government is considering purchase of the American Lockheed C-5, a 1,000 - passenger troop transport that would cost about $20,000,000 each.

farmers are expected to continue parades in their own areas again today.

Provincial police escorted most demonstrating farmers Monday. Warnings that charges may be laid and vehicles impounded—later denied by police officials—never materialized.

About 100 farmers, heading for the Woodstock marshalling ground from as far away as Sarnia, were escorted around the outskirts of London.

PRAISES POLICE

A. E. Ayers, London district provincial police superintendent, told his officers at Lobo, near London, they had done a fine job in guiding the tractors and asked farmers to keep about 800 feet apart to prevent traffic blockage.

Meanwhile, in other demonstrations, about 150 farmers turned out in the Windsor area, another 150 around Ottawa and smaller parades in Chatham, Orillia, Peterborough and in the Belleville and Kingston area.

OFU officials had predicted more than 1,000 farmers would hit the roads but still seemed pleased with Monday's demonstrations.

The OFU began organizing the demonstrations last month after dairy farmers initiated their own protests to back demands for a $4 a hundredweight floor price for milk sold to processors. They now receive $3.25 plus a 75-cent federal subsidy but they claim transportation costs reduce the subsidy by 25 cents.

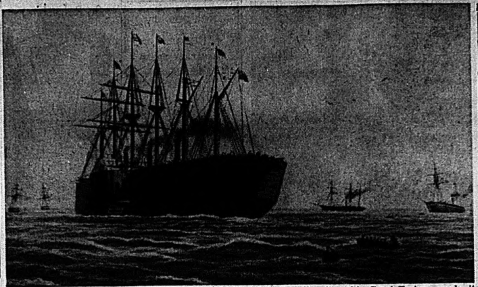
The union also is seeking grants for dairy equipment, rebates of school taxes and provincial payment of part of the interest on Farm Credit Corp. loans. The requests were sent to the provincial government in a brief April 15.

DOLMER PLEASED

John Dolmer, OFU president, told farmers at Woodstock that the turnout was most encouraging and said he hoped more would join in the march on Toronto from other areas.

"They are going to have to give us what we want now. There is no stopping us. This was the key day and we made it," he said.

George Richter of London, an OFU organizer, said Mr. Robarts and Mr. Stewart have been invited to attend a mass meeting of farmers scheduled for Woodstock in about two weeks.



SHRINKING THE WORLD — The largest ship of its day, the steamship Great Eastern, works its way across the Atlantic from Valentia, Ireland, to Heart's Content, Nfld., laying the first successful transatlantic cable. The Great Eastern arrived at Heart's Content July 27, 1866, and the station there grew until 250 people worked there. It now stands deserted. (CP Photo)

Heart's Content Must Now Be Satisfied With Memories of Days of Prominence

By DON McLEOD

HEART'S CONTENT, Nfld. (CP)—A century ago this tiny coastal village on Trinity Bay swam into prominence as the terminal point of the first successful transatlantic cable.

Now Heart's Content's days of glory as a key communications point between Europe and North America have faded. Only a caretaker remains at the once-busy cable office and he is due to leave in a few months.

A stone marker here commemorates two major events in the life of the picturesque little community. One was the laying to nearby Bay Bulls Arm of the 1858 cable—the first although it functioned for less than a month. The other was the more renowned arrival July 27, 1866, of the steamship Great Eastern with a cable strung from Valentia, Ireland. That date truly heralded the dawn of submarine telegraphy across the Atlantic.

Today the Western Union cable office contains rooms filled only with silent, antiquated transmission equipment as reminders of the time before 1930 when up to 250 people worked here. Nearby, a crumbling stone wall is all that remains of their company-owned apartment dwelling, known as The Terrace.

By 1900 six cables were in operation here and the centre was vital to First World War communications. Better and faster lines to other points in Newfoundland and directly to the United States from Europe reduced its importance by the 1930s and the population of the community has fallen from 1,500 to about one-third of that.

The office was officially closed in September, 1965. For the last decade only 14 men had worked there. A dozen left last year followed this summer by superintendent R. Mackey, leaving only the caretaker.

The story of the cable really began with efforts to set up a telegraph system across Newfoundland, tied in with mainland systems through the Maritime provinces to the eastern United States.

Frederick Newton Gisborne set up the Newfoundland Electric Co. in 1851 to build a 350-mile line west from the island capital, St. John's, to Cape Ray. By March, 1852, he had built 47 miles and had laid the first submarine cable in North America—a 10-mile line under Northumberland Strait from Prince Edward Island to New Brunswick. Then his financial support in New York fell through.

RELAYS SPEEDED

On a subsequent trip to New York, Gisborne met financier Cyrus Field and formed the Newfoundland, New York and London Telegram Co., which finished the line in 1856 to Cape Ray and linked Newfoundland to the mainland with a submarine cable from Port aux Basques to Aspe Bay, Cape Breton.

The system cut two days off the time needed for messages to travel between New York and London and was heavily used by news agencies. Steamships with dispatches from Europe would toss them overboard in canisters off Cape Race, Nfld., to a lighthouse keeper who took them to the telegraph office for relay. Traffic from New York could intercept ships which had left for Europe two days earlier.

But Field and Gisborne had bigger ideas.

Field went to London in 1856 and acquired British ships to lay a transatlantic cable and an annual subsidy for transmission of messages. The first cable laying was started in 1857 but it broke after 325 miles had been laid.

The USS Niagara and HMS Agamemnon each loaded 1,000 miles of cable June 25, 1858, spliced ends together in mid-ocean and headed in opposite directions. The Niagara arrived at Bay Bulls Arm Aug. 2, the Agamemnon at Valentia Aug. 5 and the first linkup was completed.

CIRCUIT FAILS

"The public went wild about it," Field wrote later. Queen Victoria and President Buchanan of the U.S. exchanged greetings. But within a month the cable ceased to function, for unknown reasons. The U.S. Civil War prevented further joint efforts with Britain until 1865.

Then the Great Eastern, one of the biggest ships of her day, was chartered. Leaving Valentia July 15, 1865, the Great Eastern paid out 1,200 miles of cable before it broke and went to the bottom in two miles of water.

Then Field suffered another crushing blow. The attorney-general of England announced Field's company had no right to issue the necessary 12 - per - cent shares or raise additional capital for the next try.

"The works were at once stopped and the money which had been paid in was returned to subscribers," Field said.

He formed a new company, the Anglo - American Telegraph Co.

"It was only the first day of March, 1866, that the new company was formed. . . . Yet . . . in five months from that day the cable had been manufactured, shipped on the Great Eastern, stretched across the Atlantic and was sending messages literally as swift as lightning from continent to continent."

RECOVER LOST CABLE

After reassurances that another disappointment like 1858 appeared unlikely, celebrations were held on both sides of the Atlantic, including fireworks displays in St. John's, Nfld.

The Great Eastern returned to the Atlantic to grapple for the 1865 cable. After losing it once "at the very bow of the ship," she finally spliced into it and landed the second connection here Sept. 7, 1866.

Other cables were laid in 1870, 1874, 1880 and 1894 and three of the six continued to operate until 1965.

One cable operator who worked here early in this century said "Sometimes we had such a volume of traffic it was three weeks behind." A morse code employing a flashing light was the first system used, with one man dictating the message as it came in and another beside him copying it.

Western Union assumed control of the cable about 1900 and formed an international company to handle the transatlantic side of its operations in 1963.

Superintendent Mackey says he believes Western Union International now finds it more economical to "rent a side of a cable from someone else," because of the cost involved.

Chew Way Through Jungle Marines Kill 736 Enemy

CAN LO, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — U.S. marines continued today to chew their way slowly through a mountainous jungle in which they already have killed at least 736 North Vietnamese troops in 19 days.

The massive Operation Hastings, by 8,000 U.S. marines and more than 2,000 South Vietnamese, is being conducted in jungle country a few miles from the border between North and South Viet Nam.

Prior to the operation the area was believed to conceal two North Vietnamese regiments as well as a vital jungle crossroads of highways used to infiltrate men and materials into the country from North Viet Nam.

The Communist death toll rose to 736 when marines found another 38 enemy bodies Monday the day after a bitter 12-hour battle in which a marine company also suffered heavy losses.

Over-all marine losses, however, were officially described as light.

With most of the Hanoi regulars apparently back across the border or in flight toward Laos, B-52s flew over Typhoon Ora early today to bomb suspected Viet Cong jungle hideouts in the D Zone stronghold 80 miles northeast of Saigon.

Flying through low clouds and occasional thunderstorms, air force, navy and marine pilots racked up 71 missions Monday over the north. They hit nine fuel dumps and assorted bridge, rail and supply targets that took them within 20 miles of Hanoi.

Pilots reported half a dozen surface - to - air missiles were sent against them around Hanoi, but no American losses were reported.

Marine pilots hit a suspected ammunition dump just north of the 17th parallel on a supply route to the south. They reported 50 secondary explosions.

A North Viet Nam news agency report from Hanoi, monitored in Tokyo today, said North Viet Nam had shot down two more U.S. aircraft, bringing the number of downed U.S. aircraft to 1,252.

Two Tenders for High School Addition Selected by Board

NAPANEE — Five tenders for the $2 million addition to the Napanee and District Secondary School were opened by the Board July 14, and the two lowest were selected for consideration. However, even these were so much higher than the amount for which the Board had budgeted, that both firms were asked to reconsider and to submit new tenders. These will be opened at a special meeting tonight, Tuesday.

The day after the tenders were opened a delegation from Napanee waited on officials of the Department of Education in Toronto to ask for advice on how to come within the grant structure. The delegation consisted of Charles Froud, principal of the school, Gordon MacGregor, the secretary-treasurer of the board, W. S. Esdon, chairman of the property committee, and H. H. Roberts of Westport, the architect. Some consideration is being given to changes in the interior finishing and the furnishings.

The addition will consist of 32 classrooms, a circular library, an addition to the cafeteria, a double gymnasium, and more administrative offices. These will be on two floors instead of all on the ground floor, as at present.

The present structure was built to accommodate 1,080 pupils. At the end of the school year, 1,221 pupils were registered. When the new wing is completed, there will be room for 1,680.

Provision has been made for four temporary classrooms within the present building, by such means as dividing the old cafeteria, and using store rooms. It is hoped that at least two classrooms in the addition will be ready for the opening of school in September.

Napanee enrolment has been swelled by the closing of the continuation schools in Tamworth and in Amherst Island.

Around Town

MOVES FAMILY

NAPANEE — Sgt. G. L. Langton who came from Waterdown February 1 to head the Napanee Detachment of the OPP now has most of the members of his family with him. They remained in Waterdown until the completion of the school year. Jim, who is in Grade 12, is in Northern Ontario with the Department of Lands and Forests. Elizabeth and John are in high school, and Stephen and Marilyn are still in public school. They have taken up residence at 20 Bridge St. West, in the home vacated by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Davy when they moved to Deseronto.

SELECTED FOR TRIP

Linda Lennox, secretary of the Junior Farmers' Club of Lennox and Addington County, has been selected to represent the county to make the 4-H Club Centennial trip to Manitoba. The trips are being financed by a grant received from the National Centennial Commission through the Canadian Council on 4-H Club work, to be used for 4-H Club travel and exchange in 1966.

Linda will leave Ottawa by air for Winnipeg July 28, and will return August 5. While in Manitoba she will stay with a family active in 4-H Club work.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lennox of the Little Creek area, R. R. 1 Napanee.

TAKES COURSE

Gordon Offord of Ann St., Napanee, has almost completed a course in cafeteria management with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in Toronto. Mr. Offord, who has been blind since childhood, has always been self-supporting.

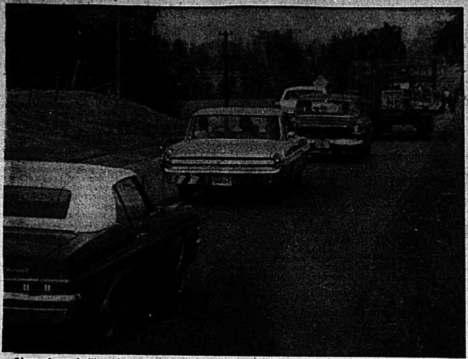
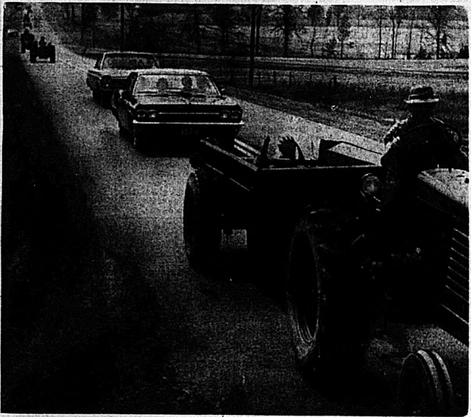
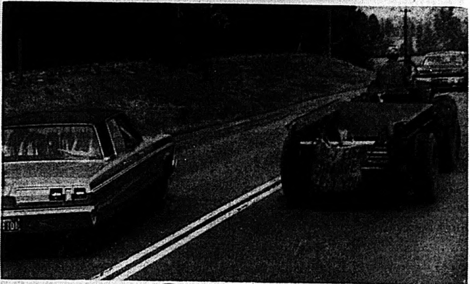
'How Else Can We Tell You?' Tractor-Borne Sign Inquires In Marysville Demonstration



Lines of cars built up behind tractors during the protest on Highway 502 at Marysville yesterda fternoon . . .



But farmers kept plenty of room between their vehicles.



However, this U.S. motorist lost patience and crossed a double solid line to pass.

The sign on the back of the tractor read, "How else can we tell you?"

And it looks as if farmers in the province will keep on telling the public of their plight until somebody listens.

Fourteen farmers, all driving tractors, assembled on the Marysville Sideroad yesterday afternoon and paraded down Highway 502 to the county border, then back again and along Highway 2 to the Drummey Sideroad.

The parade was part of a province - wide protest by farmers against prices paid them to produce their products. Main product in the dispute is manufactured milk, i.e. milk produced for such things as cheese and powdered milk.

One Marysville area farmer in the parade said he was paid five cents a quart for his milk.

"I figure, counting my time and feed and everything, it's costing me 10 cents a quart to produce the milk. "I can't produce it for any less, I have to go out and work on construction when I can to make enough money to live on."

CAUGHT IN SQUEEZE

Harold Murphy, R. R. 1, Deseronto, county director, Local 181 of the Farmers' Union, said farmers are caught in the cost - price squeeze. He said the farmers need $5 a hundred - weight and are only getting about $3 now.

He said a lot of farmers were scared off by press reports of O.P.P. threats to prosecute farmers who block provincial highways.

Mr. Murphy said the parades are going to continue for the next two weeks. "I won't say we'll parade every day, we've got to do some farming you know, but we'll be here as often as we can."

He said the small farmers are being squeezed out of business.

"Everybody thinks we're trying to block traffic. We're not. They've got the wrong idea. We don't want to break any laws, we're just trying to focus attention on our problem."

The tractors paraded down the highway at about three to five miles an hour, staying between 50 and 75 feet apart to allow traffic to go in and out smoothly.

POLICE WATCH

An O.P.P. officer observed the parade from his cruiser. "We just have to observe and make sure there are no violations of the Highway Traffic Act," he said. "As long as they kep to the side as much as possible and don't impede other traffic by bunching up, there's not very much we can do."

All farmers in the parade were unanimous in the view that the police warning frightened many farmers off. One said, "To my way of thinking, when the police issued the warning they did, that was more reason than ever to get out here.

"They can't put us all in jail."

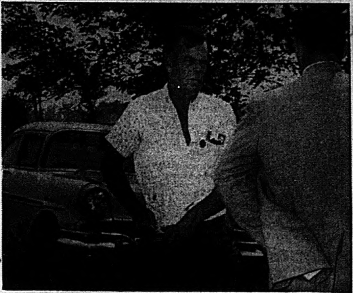
Another farmer commented, "Some of the boys don't have too much backbone. When w're out here we're not growing anything for them (meaning the general population) to eat."

Mr. Murphy said there is talk of a mass province-wide tractor parade to Queen's Park in Toronto. He said O.P.P. officials have told him there would be no trouble as long as no laws were broken.

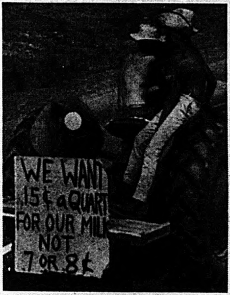
Some of the signs on the tractors in the parade yesterday were, "Don't Ask Us, Ask the Government": "They Shot the Bull, Now They Want the Cow"; "Please Take It Easy, We Are Trying — We Want to Survive Too. Signed, Family Farmer."

One lady, a passenger in a car caught behind a tractor on a long hill, commented, "How far does this go?"

"That"s a good question," a nearby farmer replied.



Harold Murphy (left), R. R. 1, Deseronto, County Director, Local 181 of the Ontario Farmers' Union, explains the farmers' grievances to Intelligencer reporter Claire Hoy before the parade began at Marysville yesterday afternoon.



Signs advertising the farmers' plight were attached to all tractors in the parade. The basic grievance is the low price paid to the farmer for milk used in manufacturing such products as powdered milk and cheese.

CPA Rescues Stranded Ballet Group

VANCOUVER (CP) — Russia's stranded Bolshoi Ballet finally got a plane Monday night and headed east to board two waiting Aeroflot planes in Montreal for the trip back to Moscow.

The 118-member company had been stranded here following a North American tour. A strike that has tied up major American airlines resulted in heavy American bookings on Canadian airlines, leaving no aircraft to get the Russians to Montreal.

Canadian Pacific Airlines juggled its schedule and produced a DC-8 jet charter to take the troupe to Montreal, where the two Russian airliners were waiting.

New York Times Says Russia Is Busily Wooing Canadians

NEW YORK (CP) — The Times says recent signs of warmth in Soviet - Canadian relations deserve more attention in the United States than they have received.

The article, by Harry Schwartz, Soviet specialist on the Times editorial board, says that while President Johnson's idea of forging closer links with Eastern Europe has been set back by the Viet Nam war, "Moscow has been forging new links with Ottawa, a capital Washington has tended too long to take for granted."

Schwartz cites an agreement for regular air service between Moscow and Montreal; the start of a regular Russian passenger liner service between Leningrad and Quebec - Montreal; Soviet plans to be a major exhibitor at Expo 67 in Montreal and the huge new Soviet wheat agreement with Canada.

Schwartz says two views can be taken of "the Soviet drive to make friends and influence people" in Canada. The optimistic view is that Canada's potential usefulness in bringing Moscow and Washington closer together has been enhanced. The pessimistic view is that Moscow is interested primarily in weakening the close Ottawa ties with the United States.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, Schwartz notes, gave great attention in its summation of the recent Canadian visit of Dmitri Polyansky, Soviet first deputy premier, to "Canadian irritation at the massive American economic position" in Canada.

The Times writer believes "it can hardly be doubted" that Canadian - U.S. economic tensions play a big role in Moscow's thinking. He says Moscow also probably has taken into account French-Canadian nationalism and the possibilities of Canadian fragmentation through intensified nationalism and provincialism.

"The makers of Soviet foreign policy," writes Schwartz, "are not so naive as to believe they can make quick and major gains at United States expense in Canada, but they have established a political and economic beachhead that they intend to widen. That fact deserves to be borne in mind by the leaders of United States government and business leaders who have not always in the past paid adequate attention to Canadian sensibilities or Canadian aspirations."

De Gaulle Cartoonists' Top Target

President Charles de Gaulle again this year is the favorite target among the 210 cartoons from 37 countries submitted in the Third International Salon of Cartoons, officially opened Monday.

The most widely represented country is the United States with 67 cartoons from 58 cities. Canada is next with 39 cartoons from 23 cities. Some 150 cities are represented.

Other countries include Yugoslavia, Australia, Israel, Britain, France, Uruguay, Cuba and Czechoslovakia.

The war in Viet Nam is the subject of 17 and President Johnson 14. Some 100 are English, 31 French and 17 bilingual. Several others have no caption.

This year's salon has 34 prizes—a grand prize of $5,000 and 34 others totalling $14,000 and ranging from $1,000 to $100 in three categories — humor, editorial and caricature.

A three-man jury will select the winners which will be named Aug. 10.

The salon is organized by the City of Montreal and the Montreal Star.

Officers Promoted

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointments and promotions involving six senior air force officers were announced Monday by the defence department. They include:

Group Capt. D. W. Goss, 44, of Binbrook, Ont., senior aircraft and missiles officers at Materiel Command, has been promoted to air commodore and will become deputy chief of staff at Materiel Command.

Group Capt. R. P. St. John, 40, of Ottawa senior avionics officer at Material Command, will be promoted to air commodore and appointed NORAD sector commander at North Bay.

Ontario Farmers' Union Head Asks Government Drought Aid

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario farmers are seeking drought relief from both the federal and provincial governments, Ontario Farmers' Union President John Dolmer said Monday.

In a statement, Mr. Dolmer said the union has sent telegrams to both federal Agriculture Minister J. J. Greene and Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart, outlining the seriousness of the drought and asking for financial assistance where needed.

The telegrams also seek government action to stabilize beef prices "as farmers will be forced to market their animals early because pastures are burned up."

Milk production is reported "badly off" in some areas.

The Toronto weather office reports that rains could bring some relief for drought-stricken farmers in southern Ontario by the end of the month.

A five-day outlook, valid until July 30, calls for three-tenths to one inch of rain toward the end of this week.

Normal July precipitation is from 2¼ to 3 inches. This July only .16 of an inch has fallen in Toronto. The previous low rainfall for July was in 1954 when .32 of an inch fell.

A spokesman for the agriculture department said pastures and feed crops have been the hardest hit.

"Pastures, corn, barley and oats appear to be in the worst shape," he said. "The winter wheat should be fairly good."

The tobacco crops in southern Ontario are in fairly good condition due to irrigation.

Freak Storm Hits Camp Site

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A freak storm, that packed winds estimated at up to 70 miles an hour, Monday night toppled about 30 trees on a camp site about 60 miles north of here. About 300 campers in the area escaped without injury.

Heavy rain sank boats tied up at nearby docks.

SHOWDON HAS CHECKUP

LONDON (AP)—The Earl of Snowdon Monday left hospital where he spent the weekend undergoing a medical checkup. A spokesman at St. Bartholomew's Hospital said the Earl is "quite well."

Aliens Given 3 More Weeks To Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Aliens who entered Canada irregularly by posing as visitors have been given another three weeks to apply with the immigration department for resident status.

The deadline, originally set for Monday night, was extended to Aug. 15 by Immigration Minister Marchand in the hope that more immigrants will come forward.

From July 8, when Mr. Marchand announced the special policy in the Commons, until July 19, a total of 1,935 applications were received—far fewer than had been expected. More recent figures will not be available until today.

Immigration officials estimate the remaining back-door immigrants at anywhere between 10,000 and 20,000.

CONVERT. DROWNS

VEREENIGING, South Africa (Reuters)—Dumile Arnold Ralarala, a 35 - year - old Negro preacher, was sentenced Monday to a fine equivalent to $150 or to serve 100 days in jail for drowning Chrstina Sibeko, 65, when he baptized her in the Vaal River June 11. The court was told she was dipped in the water several times as the preacher prayed.

SPORTS SLICES

Call him "Machine-Gun Moe", Moe the Magician", "The Court Jester of the Fairways", the Clown Prince of the Links" if you will, but many consider him the hottest thing on Canadian golf courses today. The last name is Norman.

MOE NORMAN

There are those who say that the Norman conqueror belongs beside George Knudson on the U.S. tour — but no one will take the risk of sponsoring him.

Those who have seen him play have been awestruck by his ability on a golf course. Even his colleagues, many of them sponsored, flatly admit Moe's superiority, and envy him his talent.

But Moe is Moe and thereby hangs the tale. This leopard of the links cannot change his spots. Perhaps he wouldn't if he could.

He admits it. "I had a couple of sponsor offers but they wanted me to change. I can't change. I have to play this way. If I changed I would ruin my game."

Moe, you see, has some funny habits. His swing is unique and almost laughable. He hits the ball 260 yards down a pipeline but it's the way he does it. He knocks a wedge shot stiff to the flag but he hits the ball almost on the run. He sinks long putts — but while the other fellow is reaching in the hole for his ball.

He carries his own bag in practice, jabbers constantly to anybody and changes clothes in his Cadillac to avoid tipping the locker man.

"He's a marvellous golfer" says Al Johnson who has played the PGA circuit. "He could win down there but he would need a manager. There are dozens of details to worry about on the tour and Moe, I don't think, could handle them."

Bob Panasiuk, an off-and-on tour player simply says "He's great." Wilf Homenuik, another touring pro says, "Look for yourself. He's just beaten me in five straight tournaments."

Norman owns two Cadillacs, a 1963 and a '65 for special days. This fall he'll trade in the older one for a new model. This is the only luxury he allows himself. He doesn't drink, nor smoke and has $40,000 in the bank. And aside to the golf gals — he's a bachelor, too.

Norman, a native of Kitchener lives in a Toronto rooming house during the golfing season and teaches at the Golf Haven a pay-as-you-play course near Barrie.

And he doesn't preach what he practices. "I find out what they are best suited for — and I teach them that" he says.

He makes a good living and has saved for the future. Right now he has security but he would like to take a shot at the tour.

"After the way I've played this year if I don't get a sponsor, I never will," he says.

Moe won a trip to the Carling World Golf Tournament with a second-place finish in the B.C. Open, won the Manitoba and Alberta Open and was third last week in the Ontario championship after blowing the lead with a closing 75. He won the Quebec Open over the weekend.

He has won the amazing total of $8,400 in six weeks playing golf in Canada. "It's been my chipping and putting all the way" he says.

Norman has been something like 31 under par in five provincial opens, has captured a few pro-ams and is favored in this weekend's Millar at Toronto. He says he is playing the best golf of his life.

Bay of Quinte Country Club members and others will get a glimpse of Moe in action next Sunday in the pro tournament of the club's Festival of Golf.

Norman assured club pro George Balazs he will be here. Some 49 professionals have indicated they will enter the Festival pro tournament.

City Clinches Departmental First Place

City thumped the Utilities 9-1 and have completed their 12 games with an 18 - point total. The Intelligencer is second with 14 points but has only one game remaining. Utilities, with one game left, are four points out of fourth.

Gary Reid threw seven - hit ball with 11 strikeouts for the winners. Ralph Sine gave up 12 hits and fanned three in defeat. The winners jumped ahead 3-0 in the first and scored in all but one inning.

Reid also led his own attack with four singles while Keith Hanson ot three, Bill Ferguson and Dick Kraft two each. Ron Morgan and Laurie Perry collected two safeties each to pace the Utilities.

The league has a meeting scheduled for Thursday to make plans for the playoffs.

Chiefs Nip Mud Hens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs edged Toledo Mud Hens 3-2 with a ninth-inning run in the International League Monday night.

Tony Przybycien yielded hits to Manny Jimenez and Corky Withrow in relief of starter Jack Cullen in the ninth inning.

Jim Horsford replaced him and when Jim's throw to get pinch - runner Jack Tracy at third on Jackie Moore's sacrifice bunt was too late, the bases were loaded. Bill Tuttle's grounder to first-baseman Mike Hegan ended the game, Tracy scoring the winning run.

Bill Bethea homered for the Hens in the third inning.

TAKES 11 OF 11

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier, 1964 Olympic heavyweight champion, scored a technical knockout Monday night over Billy Daniels of New York for his 11th knockout in 11 professional fights. Frazier of Philadelphia, weighing 202, won the bout when referee Zach Claytor stopped the fight at the end of the sixth round.

Marichal Stops Bucs With 6-Hitter

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Some suggest that Juan Marichal could be elected president of his native Dominican Republic.

Marichal, however, wouldn't win any popularity contest in the National League, especially with Pittsburgh Pirates.

But then, neither would Herman Franks.

Franks and Marichal teamed up Monday and sparked San Francisco Giants to a 2-1 victory over the first - place Pirates and the Giants to within two percentage points of the lead.

SHUFFLED ROTATION

Marichal, the ace righthander of the league, originally was scheduled to pitch against Philadelphia Phillies Sunday. But Giant manager Franks decided to save him for the opener of the crucial three - game series with Pittsburgh.

Thus, the 28-year-old Dominican rested four days instead of three. The change didn't hurt him.

He stopped the Pirates on six-hits, halted Roberto Clemente's hitting streak at 17 games, didn't walk anyone and scored the eventual winning run after an elert bit of base running.

Taken together that gave Marichal his 16th victory against four defeats, his 16th complete game in 23 starts and an earned average of 1.95.

Marichal has not walked a batter in the 22 innings and now is averaging only one walk a game.

A guy can't become very popular with that kind of record.

In the only other NL games, Los Angeles Dodgers downed Philadelphia 6-3 and New York Mets trimmed Houston Astros 6-4.

FRYMAN LOST FIFTH

The Giants handed rookie Woody Fryman his fifth defeat against eight victories. They did it by scoring two runs in the third.

Ollie Brown singled and beat Fryman's throw to second on Marichal's sacrifice bunt.

Tito Fuentes followed with a single, driving in Brown, and when Fryman, backing up the plate, tried to get Fuentes coming back to first, Marichal darted for third and made it. He scored as Hal Lanier grounded into a double play.

The Dodgers moved to within 1½ games of the top by breaking a 3-3 with a three-run rally in the eighth. Al Ferrara singled in the first run, Dick Stuart the second and the third came across on Jim Gilliam's grounder.

Pitcher Dennis Ribant hit a two-run single that climaxed a four-run outburst in the eighth and gave New York enough runs for its fifth straight victory over Houston.

The Astros rallied for two runs in the bottom of the eighth and one in the ninth but that's as close as they could come.

Lightfoots Shade City Hotel

A brace of seventh - inning doubles scored one run and gave Lightfoots a 7-6 Commercial Softball victory over City Hotel, at Prince Charles School last night.

The victory boosted Lightfoots into a fourth - place tie with City, each two points behind Black Diamond and four behind Stewart Warner.

Lightfoots plated five in the second to grab a 6-1 lead but the Hotelmen battled back to tie by scoring three in the sixth. Smith and Hall stroked the seventh - frame doubles to plate the winner.

George Young was the winning hurler with one and one-third innings of perfect relief work. He took over from starter Don Smith who allowed the nine City hits and walked four. Neither fanned a man.

Dave Feeney was the loser, replacing starter Gerry Genereaux in the second frame. They gave up nine hits, struck out three and walked two.

Sharp, errorless infield work by the Lightfoots plus two fine outfield catches by Wood helped the winning cause greatly.

Les Hall was the lone winner with two hits, one of them a double, while Rusty Garvin hit a two - run homer, Don Smith and Doug Rose a double each. Don Wood, Clark, Frank Murray and Jack Whiting added singles.

Doug Moreau hit a City double and Billy McGuire singled twice. Bob Brooks, Tom Coolen, Bucky Ethier, Doug Murray, Gerry Genereaux and Dave Feeney also hit safely.

Cheesemen Shake Off Belvedere

Black Diamond Cheese hung tight to third place in the Commercial Softball race last night by tripping the cellar - dwelling Belvedere Hotel 6-3 at Alemite Park.

The Cheesemen trail Stewart Warner by two points and lead City and Lightfoots by the same margin.

Don Holoway was the Black Diamond hero.

He pitched a six - hit victory and sparked the club's attack by slamming two home runs and a single. Holoway hit his first homer for a 2-0 lead in the third and belted a solo shot to make it 6-1 in the fifth. He struck out four and walked three in hurling the victory.

Belvedere scored a pair in the seventh but the rally was too late and too little for any benefit.

J. Nicholls, and Larry Masters in the sixth, toiled for the losers. They gave up six hits, struck out seven, six by Nicholls, and walked six, five of the passes charged to the starter.

While Holoway accounted for half the Cheesemen hits, Bob Benn added a double and J. Francis singled twice.

B. Nicholls hit three Belvedere singles, Cliff Hineman had two and George Perry got a triple. The losers played errorless ball afield.

Batteries: D. Holoway and B. Benn; J. Nicholls, L. McMaster (6) and C. Hineman.

Minor Softball Results

In an East Hill squirt battle to decide first place, the Redskins scalped the Kiddies Korner Astros 7-5 in an exciting contest. Bruce MacDonald hurled the win for the 'Skins.

In a peewee playoff game, Cosy Grill Phillies walloped Barrett's Yankees 12-3, with Al Travis pitching the Cosy victory. In tyke East Hill playoff games, IGA Redsox whipped the Hawks 13-4 and the Canadians struck down the Bowl-O-Drome Bruins 8-9. In another contest, the Kinsmen Bobcats annihilated the Rangers 54-10 !

Indians Trim Nats 6-3

Whitfield's 2 Homers Pave Way

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fred Whitfield's philosophy of hitting is simple.

"I just go up there and swing at anything that's moving," says the Cleveland Indians first baseman.

Whitfield caught a pair of moving objects Monday night and walloped his 17th and 18th home runs in leading the Indians to a 6-3 victory over Washington Senators in the only American League game on tap.

His uncomplicated approach to batting leaves team-mates dazzled.

"He was born to hit," says outfielder Jim Landis. I don't know anybody like him. There isn't a pitcher he can't hit."

Leon Wagner, no slouch with the bat himself, adds: "He has no style. He just hits."

His style was contagious against the Senators. After he broke a 3-3 tie with a seventh-inning homer off Mike McCormick, Joe Azcue tagged the next pitch for another homer.

Whitfield's second homer, leading off the ninth inning, wrapped up Cleveland's scoring.

Whitfield and Azcue had three hits apiece as the Indians moved into third place, one game back of Detroit Tigers. Idle California Angels slipped to fourth, one half game back of the Indians.

Cementmen Win 5-4, Up Lead

The Point Anne Cementmen blew a 4-1 lead and then took ten innings to shade Stewart Warner 5-4 in a Commercial Softball League match at the Point last night.

Point Anne's victory widened the club's lead over Warner to ten points and left the runners-up just ahead of several other teams in the tight race for playoff spots.

Mike Cook walked, stole two bases and raced home on an overthrow for the Cementmen's deciding run. Stewart Warner had scored three in the fifth to tie it 4-4 after the loop-leaders got ahead 4-1 in the first three frames.

Ron Maracle let the losers down on five hits over the distance. He struck out 11 batters but walked nine and pitched out of several jams.

Junior Day started and gave way to Doug Ellis, the loser, in the fifth. They gave up 14 hits, fanned six, five by Ellis, and passed four.

Eric Maher slammed a home run for a lone Pointer run in the third. The losers' Claude Carr was ejected from the game this inning.

Jim Horwood and Eric Maher collected three hits each to spark the pennant-bound Cementmen. David Akey had two safeties, Glen Maracle, Vern Whalen, Gerry Maher, Rick Rosebush, Ron Maracle and Mike Cook one each as every man in the lineup hit safely.

Rod Turner led the Stewart Warner band with two hits, one each going to Chuck Rowbotham, Doug Ellis and Junior Day.

Griffith To Fight Dick Tiger

LONDON (AP)—Emile Griffith of New York will defend his world middleweight boxing title against Nigeria's Dick Tiger in London Nov. 22, promoter Jack Solomons said today.

He did not disclose terms of the fight.

Worst In Career

Koufax Defying Great Pain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sandy Koufax is suffering the worst pain of his career in his arthritic elbow, his physician says, but bolstered by pain-reducing medication the Los Angeles Dodgers' great left - hander keeps pitching.

With more victories this season than any other pitcher in baseball's majors, Koufax will go after No. 18 against Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night, arm permitting.

The pain has become so intense that his medicine has been increased from two to three pills a day and he recently had his first elbow injection of the season, Dr. Robert Kerlan said Monday.

Medicine can reduce pain and swelling to some extent, Dr. Kerlan said, but Koufax still feels the pain "with every pitch" and the condition is apparently permanent.

Koufax struggled obviously in going the full nine innings to defeat New York's Mets in his last outing Saturday. He threw 168 pitches. Normally he averages about 120.

His effectiveness appears to have been decreasing gradually for about a month. Koufax was 6-1 for the month of June, but has won but half of his six July starts. For June his earned run average was 1.45. For July it is 2.11. It now stands at 1.70 for the season, tops in the majors.

Koufax's arthritis definitely was caused by pitching, the doctor said.

Koufax has suffered from the ailment since 1962. Nonetheless, he won the Cy Young Award last year and this year is shooting to become the first 30-game winner in three decades.

Fred Foot Resigns Position

TORONTO (CP)—Fred Foot of Toronto has resigned as chairman of the Central Ontario track and field committee because the job involves too much work.

Foot, coach of the Toronto East York Track Club, has held the position for less than a year.

The registration committee of the Central Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, of which Foot was also a member, took disciplinary action recently against four athletes and the suburban Don Mills club for allegedly using drugs as stimulants.

"My resignation stems not from any one factor," said Foot. "The job was just taking too much time."

Rose Beats Balding In Millar 200

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Rose of Toronto shot a three-under-par 68 Monday to beat host-professional Al Balding by one shot in the Millar 200 at Markland Woods golf course.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor and Bruce Murray of St. Catharines tied for third spot, each with a one-under-par 70.

Five pros were tied at even-par 71. They were Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., Bill Mawhinney and Leon DeCaire, both of Toronto, Frank Whibley of Kitchener and Dick Borthwick of Hamilton.

Hank Goldup, former Toronto Maple Leaf hockey star, combined with Whibley of an 11-under-par 60 in the pro-am best ball section of the event.

'Think We'll Be All Right'

Stamps Doubt Replacements Fill Bill

CALGARY (CP)—Doubt exists in Calgary Stampeders training camp that the Western Football Conference club has successfully replaced players traded or retired since last season.

As one veteran suggested: "I don't know, I guess you can't say we've filled all the places. It's tough to replace them. But I think we'll be all right."

Jerry Williams, head coach, virtually echoed this. But some relief came Monday night with late news that Frank Budd had agreed to terms and would use his speed in the flanker slot.

Williams still had to replace Bobby Taylor, Pete Manning, Roger Kramer, Pat Holmes and Tony Pajaczkowski.

LIKES ROOKIES

The coach speaks highly of some rookies and such trade acquisitions as Terry Evanshen from Montreal Alouettes and Pete Liske from Toronto Argonauts.

Evanshen, Eastern Conference 1965 Rookie of the Year, is slated to take an end post. The speedster joined Calgary in a trade that sent Pajaczkowski to Montreal.

Liske, who came to Calgary in the Manning-Taylor trade, will support veteran quarterback Eagle Day, freeing Jerry Keeling for work as defensive safety.

Williams has said no WFC club will win more than 11 games this year and says that a four-way tie atop the conference (with Edmonton Eskimos the doubtful finisher) is possible.

Stampeders meet British Columbia Lions here Aug. 3 in their first regular - season encounter.

ROOKIES FAVORED

Sophomore Gerry Shaw received first crack at Taylor's flanker position, but speedier rookie Joe Chapman could win the spot.

A touted rookie is Bill Gaskins, a 185-pound track star from Washington State University. He is considered a likely replacement for Manning in the defensive backfield.

Don Luzzi, former All-Star defensive tackle, will move to offensive guard replacing Pajaczkowski and starting an extensive shuffle of line positions.

Gus Kasapis, acquired from Lions, takes over as defensive tackle from Holmes and sophomore Jerry McClurg probably will move from defensive end, to the other tackle vacancy.

Veteran George Hansen is slated to move to tight end from a tackle with former end Danny Boleski joining Ron Allbright at tackle.

Impressive rookies include George Carr, a 218-pound linebacker from Oregon State, and Jerry Campbell, a versatile 208-pound lineman from University of Idaho.

Blind Golfers Meet In Final

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Defending-champion Phil Lederhouse of Prince Albert, Sask., and Claude Pattimore of Hamilton will meet today in an 18-hole match for the Canadian blind golfers championship.

Lederhouse defeated Bob Smith of St. Catharines and Pattimore beat Ron Hewlett of Victoria in Monday rounds. The four were the only entries in the Canadian championship, decided on match-play basis.

West Germany In World Cup Final

Defeats Russia 2-1

LONDON (AP) — Goal-hunting Eusebio of Portugal today faced Nobby Stiles, the iron tackler of England, in a soccer duel that could decide the World Cup.

Critics saw the clash between the two men as the key to the semi-final at London's Wembley Stadium. And Eusebio himself, top scorer in the tournament with seven goals, said French referee Pierre Schwinte must watch Stiles' tackles.

"Stiles is a hard man," said Eusebio, known as the Black Panther of Mozambique.

"But he has been allowed to get away with two many things in the World Cup. I have watched England's games on television and have been Stiles going in a bit hard."

The winner of today's game will meet West Germany in the final Saturday. The Germans downed Russia 2-1 at Liverpool Monday in a game that saw Russia's Igor Chislenko sent off the field.

That makes five players sent off since the tournament started two weeks ago. The other four have been suspended for varying periods by the disciplinary committee of the World Soccer Federation.

CONCEDES NOTHING

Stiles, who has been cautioned once during the tournament, is a key figure in an England defence that has not conceded a single goal in four games so far.

No other team in the tournament has such a record.

The England-Portugal match came just as ill feeling in the World Cup rose to fever pitch.

The disciplinary committee also handed out more punishments: Three - match suspensions against Uruguayans Horacio Troche and Hecot Silva and a six - match sentence against another Uruguayan, Julio Cortes.

The four eliminated South American countries—Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina and Chile—were meeting today to discuss refereeing. Some South Americans have accused the referees of discriminating against Latin teams.

SCORE FOR GERMANY

Midfield link men Helmut Haller and Franz Beckenbauer scored the goals for West Germany in the ragged game against Russia. Each now has scored four goals in the tournament.

Germany looked faster and more certain than their Russian opponents.

Even when their left - wing star Lothar Emmerich was kicked out of the attack in the first half hour, they always looked likely to get goals.

The decisive German goal was the product of a burst out of the defence by Karl - Heinz Schnellinger. A simple pass to Haller on the right and the ball was in the Russian net. For the first time in this series the Russians found themselves behind and from that moment they never looked like winning.

British bookmakers made West Germany favorites to win the cup.

One leading bookie, Ladbroke's, made the Germans 11-to-8 favorites.

England and Portugal were quoted at odds of 9 to 4.

W. Germans Quoted Cup Favorites

LONDON (Reuters) — West Germany displaced Portugal Monday night as World Cup soccer favorite after its 2-1 semi-final victory over the Soviet Union in Liverpool.

Two London bookmakers quoted West Germany at 11 to 8 and 6 to 5. Portugal is the second favorite at 2 to 1 and England is 9 to 4.

Soccer Game Cancelled

TORONTO (CP) — United States immigration laws caused the cancellation of a game here Monday night between the National Soccer League All-Stars and Vojvvodina, the Yugoslav national champions.

Bill Boytchuk, president of the National League, said Monday the Yugoslavs, now touring North America, "wouldn't come to Canada because apparently there is an American law which would make them stay here at least 48 hours before returning."

"They have a game in the U.S. tonight and if they had come over here they wouldn't have been able to get back for it."

Riders Cut Eight

Als Buy Kaye Vaughan

OTTAWA (CP)—Coach Frank Clair sliced eight players from the roster of Ottawa Rough Riders Monday. Among the victims were Kaye Vaughan, Lineman of the Year in 1956 and 1957, and veteran guard Sam Scoccia.

Vaughan, 35, was sold to Montreal Alouettes for an undisclosed amount of cash. He was trying a comeback after a year away from professional football. He had played 12 years for Riders.

Scoccia, 35, who also had played 12 seasons for Riders, came to the Eastern Conference club from Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Four American rookies were among Monday's cuts. They were quarterback Doyle Hill, end Bob Viney guard and linebacker Jerry Conroy, and Leroy Lewis, a tackle.

Canadian hopefuls cut loose were Stew O'Brien of St. Mary's University, Halifax, and halfback Dave Fleet of Sarnia.

Vaughan had been working hard at practices and had expressed determination to play this year.

"Age was against Kaye," Clair said. "We had some younger talent and felt we had to go with the future prospects."

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference Monday placed linebacker Garland Boyette on waivers and cut five other players including George Narcisse, an import quarterback from San Francisco Junior College.

Boyette played four seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League before coming to Montreal in 1964.

Also cut were four Canadians: Tackle Jim Greenwood, flanker Allan Schreiber, centre Charlie Baillie and fullback Joe Arcaro.

Brazilian Team Gets Brush-off

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) Brazil's humbled soccer team came home silently Monday, ignored by 80,000,000 compatriots mourning the death of Brazilian soccer supremacy.

Special police guards, mounted at Rio and Sao Paulo airports to protect the team from the fury of disappointed fans, stood by and watched the World Cup players disperse homewards, greeted only by their families.

Local authorities, who had feared a repetition of the tomato-and-egg pelting which Italy's beaten team received in Genoa, heaved a sigh of relief.

Brazil was eliminated without even reaching the quarter-finals in the current World Cup competition in England.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Explosive running and pass catching by Dave Raimey propelled Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a 20-14 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a Canadian Football League exhibition game before 14,495 fans Monday night.

Raimey beat Ticat defender Bob Krause to turn Bombers' first play from scrimmage into a 42-yard touchdown romp, contributed a 23-yard run and a 32-yard reception in an 84-yard drive to Bombers' second touchdown and galloped 75 yards for the deciding points in the first minute of the fourth quarter.

Kenny Ploen ran eight yards for the other touchdown as Winnipeg completed its pre-season campaign with a 2-1 won-lost record. Norm Winton and Ken Danchuk each booted a convert.

Bobby Kuntz plunged one yard for Hamilton's lone touchdown. Don Sutherin kicked two field goals, a single and a convert. For Ticats, 22-16 victors over Bombers in last November's Grey Cup final, it was the second defeat in three exhibition outings.

LED BOMBERS

Raimey, who led Bombers in rushing last season from the halfback slot, collected 72 yards on eight rushes and grabbed the three passes for 147 yards.

Showing most of their strength in the second half after trailing 11-7, Bombers compiled 16 first downs on 214 yards passing and 157 rushing. Ploen and Dick Thornton shared quarterback chores and completed 10 of 18 pass attempts. Thornton threw the touchdown aerial to Raimey.

Kuntz was the sparkplug in a Hamilton offence that drove for 17 first downs on 154 yards rushing and 157 passing. Kuntz got 61 yards on 10 thrusts.

Backs Dave Fleming and Tommy Grant were the favorite targets for Hamilton signal-callers Joe Zuger and Frank Cosentino, who completed 11 of 28 pass tries. Fleming snared two for 52 yards, Grant three for 37.

DAVIS RESIGNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Al Davis has resigned as commissioner of the American Football League and has been succeeded by Milt Woodard, a former assistant commissioner, the AFL announced Monday. The resignation had been rumored since the recent merger of the National and American League. One of the terms of the peace agreement was that NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle would rule both leagues.

Minor Baseball Results

Sine Shell whipped I.B.E.W. 8-5 and the Jets streamed past the Rockets 5-2 in peewee and tadpole games played last night.

In the peewee contest, Sine Shell managed only three hits but took advantage of 13 walks to grab the victory.

Dave Wood and Rick Meagher hurled steady ball for the winners. They fanned 10 while walking five and allowing five hits.

I.B.E.W.'s pitching threesome, Art Wellesley, Steve McDowell and Al Wood, gave up the three hits and struck out five.

David Wood was the lone Sine hitter, going three-for-three with a home run and two singles.

Stephen Burke slammed a double, and Bill Coughlin, Brian Gariepy, Mike Burley and Steve McDowell had singles for the losers.

John Templeman and Greg MacInnis pitched for the Jets in the tadpole tilt. They gave up four hits and struck out 14.

Scott Bowes and Pete Hall took the loss, allowing eight hits and fanning 12.

Mike Burke smashed a pair of triples, and Gilbert Grant had a triple and base hit, to lead the Jets attack. With singles were Steve Coates, Brian Coughlin, Randy DeGenova and James McKenna.

Tony Simard stroked two base hits, Scott Bowes had a double, and Mark Porter fired a single for the Rockets.

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—St. Catharines Athletics have dropped out of the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A series for financial reasons.

Huntsville Hawks withdrew from the league earlier in the season for the same reason.

The league ruled that any remaining games against St. Catharines will go to the opposition by 1-0 victories.

Other teams in the league are Peterborough, Toronto, Brooklin and Brampton.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

Exclusive Healing Substance Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids.

If you want satisfactory relief from 'Itching Piles'—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance that promptly relieves the burning itch and pain—actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In case after case "very striking improvement" was noted, even among cases of long standing. And this improvement was maintained over a period of months!

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulate growth of new tissue. Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation "H". Ask for it at all drug stores—satisfaction or money refunded.

Goalby Takes Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bob Goalby, 35-year-old pro from Belleville, Ill., carded a four-under-par 67 Monday and captured the Columbus invitational pro-am championship at the Scioto Country Club.

Most of the pro tour's leading money-winners, who had just completed play in the Professional Golfers Association championship in Akron, Ohio, participated in the $15,000 tourney, with the proceeds going to charity.

The American flag at the club was placed at half-staff during the event in tribute to golfer Tony Lema killed in a plane crash Sunday night.

Cornelius Ryan Writing Play for 'The Last Battle'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "There's no reason history should be dull," says Cornelius Ryan, who has done as much as anyone to enliven the history of the Second World War.

Ryan is a ruddy-faced, voluble Irishman whose account of the invasion of Normandy, The Longest Day, was an enormous success as a book and movie. Now he is hard at work converting his latest best-seller, The Last Battle, into a screen play. The saga concerns the fall of Berlin and the end of the war.

"This is an enormous job," the author said as he surveyed the charts, photos and outlines that fill tables and walls of three MGM offices. "Right now I'm working with the producer, George Englund, to narrow down the story to a reasonable number of characters.

"A few stand out—the generals, Hitler, the milkman who continued his route as the city was falling, the zookeeper who tried to save the animals, etc. But how do you decide about the others?"

Ryan and his researchers got in touch with 3,000 persons during the eight-year preparation of The Last Battle. The nature of the events makes the film a much more complicated story than The Longest Day, for which Ryan also wrote the script.

"There you had an immense operation," said Ryan, "but it was centralized on one military manoeuvre. In The Last Battle you have the whole arena of human tragedy and even insanity, as in the case of Hitler, who was dispatching orders to phantom armies that didn't exist.

"You have vast forces in the story—the Russians advancing from the east and the Allies from the west, plus the remnants of the German army. You also have the civilian population of a great city that was being crushed to the ground, plus the political aspects of the heads of state. It is an enormous panorama."

Ryan's technique of telling recent history in human terms has been widely copied but seldom with equal success. His skill comes from 25 years as a journalist, plus the fact that he is Irish.

"The Irish are story tellers," he said. "When I was a young writer in Dublin, I used to turn out radio scripts and even wrote some plays. That was good experience for these books, I think.

"The greatest satisfaction I get is in making World War II come alive for those who hadn't been born when it was going on. I'm tickled pink when I get letters from kids who have read my books and say, 'so that's how it was!'"

There's No Magic Formula In Creating Video Shows

Paul Henning, producer, creator and sometimes script writer, of three hit television shows — Beverly Hillbillies, Petticoat Junction and Green Acres—reveals in the following story the receipt for success.

By PAUL HENNING
(For Cynthia Lowry)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Apparently I'm reputed to have some sort of sure fire formula for creating TV shows. Believe me, in 15 years I've found that in TV shows nothing is sure fire!

A TV series always is a calculated gamble with the everlooming possibility that the most promising production can turn into the flop when it hits the reality of a time period.

The producer of a series is up against some pretty frightening odds. Each season upwards of 200 new pilot films are made at an aggregate cost of some $50,000,000. Out of these, less than one-fourth find their way on the air and less than half of those stay on! That kind of mortality rate makes producing TV pilots about as risky as defusing bombs!

"We're pleased that our three entries are currently enjoying audience popularity, but I'm certainly not claiming to have discovered any magic formula.

True, these three shows utilize a rural - city theme and there's a reason for that. The country scene, with its pleasant tempo, its peaceful and simple ways of life is rapidly disappearing and people naturally feel a nostalgia for the serenity of the small community country life.

MORE IS NEEDED

But a premise, no matter how interesting or appealing it is, is never enough to ensure the success of a show.

Anybody can have an idea but executing that idea — creating good characters, providing interesting scripts for those characters, casting them is the most vital aspect of the television job. It's the day-to-day, week-to-week, month-to-month execution of a series that finally tells the story.

You've got to create characters that the audience will care enough about to want to see every week. They've got to or they won't invite them back.

Once you've developed the characters, you've got to cast them properly. You've got to bring them to life before the camera the way you've visualized them in your imagination.

SET TWO RECORDS

BEZIERS, France (AP) — Karen Muir of South Africa bettered the world record for the women's 200-metre backstroke Monday with a time of 2:27.1. This was the second world record in three days for a South African girl. Ann Fairlie eclipsed the world record for the 100-metre backstroke Saturday with 1:07.4. The listed records for both the 100 and 200 metre backstrokes were set by Kathy Ferguson of the United States at 1:07.7 and 2:27.4.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 26

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Now is time to correspond, travel, make efforts to correct mistakes. Excellent opportunity to express views. This is no day to be petty. Be grand, big in best sense.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Take care where secrets are concerned. If you break a confidence . . . it could be costly. Much action indicated under surface. Member of opposite sex could play significant role.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Accent communications — especially in public matters. If you make known your view . . . then you get honest response. Feature golden rule. . .be frank, forthright.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): If you are persistent . . . doors open. Basic chores can be accomplished. Know this . . . move ahead. Determination now a necessity. Otherwwise, house of cards falls down.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Know difference between genuine feelings and wishful thinking. Day to be perceptive. Unwise to fall for sob stories. Be practical. Realize love is not pity. Master your emotions!

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Practical affairs dominate. Do not make statements you cannot back up. Set fine example for family members. Build on solid basis. Otherwise there be bitter disillusionment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Travel accented. You are not could be bitter disillusionment. you gain knowledge which adds to your confidence. This could be followed by definite plan to move on and up!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Leave no loose ends. Come to satisfied with status quo. Now socials. Emphasize clarity. If not, some will misquote you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Best course may be one which sees you in neutral role. Cycle is high. What you require comes to you . . . but avoid trying to force issues. Highlight live-and-let-live approach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You may not obtain information in direct fashion . . . but nuances are evident. Means perceive subtle indications. Obtain degree of privacy. Analyze and study.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20. — Feb. 18): Your special talents, abilities are appreciated. Be charming. Express hopes, wishes. Many can now be fulfilled. Member of opposite sex gives events new dimensions.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): You gain what you require. Means this is day for practical application of abilities. One in authority pays attention. Speak up — but be sure to have facts at hand.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY. . . you would make fine teacher, nurse, personnel director. You have knack of helping others find their niche.

Patty Berg To Play In Open

By PAUL SUFRIN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—It has been almost 30 years, but Patty Berg, the 49-year-old Chicago golf professional, is appearing competitively again in Canada.

Mrs. Berg, a member of St. Andrews Golf Club, is one of 70 participants in the Ladies Open July 28-30, the first tournament on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour held outside the United States.

For the stocky, freckled competitor, it is the first time in Canada as a professional and the first time since 1937 when she appeared in an amateur competition in Winnipeg.

But time has changed things for the first president of the LPGA and winner of 41 tournaments from 1948 to 1965.

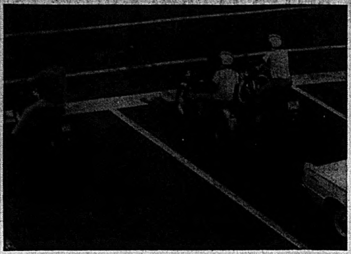
NOT A WINNER

"My days of winning are over," she said during a practice round at Sunningdale Country Club.

"But I still have the will to win."

Two last-minute entries brought the total number of competitors in the 54-hole, $15,000 tournament to 70, including 46 professionals and 24 amateurs.

The 6,456-yard course, showing the results of heavy watering and fertilization during a seven-week rainless spell in the area, should be a good test of golf for the players, said Jim Windsor, club professional.



ONE IN TEN — Last year in Ontario, one out of every ten motorcycles like those pictured above at a Belleville intersection was involved in a traffic mishap. It is estimated that some 30,000 of these vehicles will be registered in the province in 1966.

Motorcycle Accidents Occur In Ratio of One to 10 Bikes

As if traffic safety problems were not already enough for police to cope with, the recent motorbike craze has led to the appearance on public highways of many inexperienced operators of rather tricky-to-handle vehicles.

Any 16-year-old can walk to the nearest Department of Transport licensing bureau, pass a simple 20-question multiple-choice test and a routine vision examination, pay $2 for a 90-day beginner's driving permit and legally drive away onto the highway on a motorcycle of any size, shape or horsepower.

And, unlike the beginner learning how to handle an automobile, the novice motorbike rider is permitted to learn to drive his vehicle by himself the best way he knows how. Only after he is fully licensed can a motorbike rider carry another passenger with him.

The resulting 2,390 Ontario accidents involving motorbikes in 1965 should not, then, come as a complete surprise. The statistic takes on more weight, however, when one realizes that only about 22,000 motorbikes were registered in the province last year.

Thus in this province, which recorded less than one accident for every 100 registered motor vehicles during 1965, there was an accident involving motorbikes for every 10 of these vehicles registered. To make matters worse, 90 per cent of all motorbike riders involved in traffic mishaps suffered personal injury.

RATE LOWER HERE

Inspector Ralph Blatchford of the Belleville Police Department told the Intelligencer that from May to August in 1964 there were 8 motorbike accidents in the city, with 7 injuries resulting. The same period last year saw 16 accidents, with 11 persons sustaining injuries, while from May to date this year, 11 accidents and 9 injuries involving motorbike riders have occurred in Belleville. All persons involved in these mishaps were under the age of 24. With 525 motorbikes registered in the city this year, the ratio of accidents to vehicles is lower than the provincial level, but still high enough to warrant some concern.

Few policemen believe the appropriate solution is to prohibit the 30,000 persons who will this year registed as Ontario motorbike owners from driving their vehicles on the grounds that they are, per se, unsafe.

As in all traffic mishaps, the prime causes of motorbike accidents are either improper driver conduct, insufficient driver training, or a combination of the two. Whereas traffic statutes have been keeping pace in dealing with wayward drivers, there has not been enough provision made for nipping the problem at the bud — that is, for ensuring that unqualified drivers are not allowed on the highways to start with.

OFFER INSTRUCTION

Such organizations as the Ontario Motor League have taken the initiative, offering motorbike instruction courses since June in the Toronto area. These courses are similar to those offered in many communities for teen-aged automobile operators. Two manufacturers of motorbikes have sponsored the Toronto courses to the tune of $4,000.

Officials of the driver examination branch of the Department of Transport have recently expressed concern over the motorcycle problem, but until some concrete step is taken towards making driving tests suit the various types of motor vehicles, the irony of the most inexperienced drivers often being qualified for operating some of the trickiest vehicles will continue.

Barricades Are Removed At 14 Entrances to Inco

SUDBURY (CP) — Barricades at the entrances of 14 area properties of the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. were down today to allow white-collar workers to file through picket lines set up by the United Steelworkers of America (CLC).

Negotiations on a new contract to replace the one which expired July 10 were scheduled to resume in Toronto at 10:30 a.m. today, a spokesman for the 16,000-member union local said.

The union had agreed in talks last week that office staff would be allowed to cross picket lines as a condition of resuming bargaining. In turn, the company said it would not attempt to produce or ship any products.

A company spokesman said office staff and supervisors reporting for duty Monday were cleared through all picket lines without incident. Police were on duty at all mine and plant gates.

Some company supervisory personnel who had been taken inside company properties by helicopter came out Monday when their relief arrived through the picket lines.

The strike, which has paralyzed Inco's district operations, began July 14, following an incident at the Levack mine, 35 miles northwest of here.

Five Mafia Suspects Held

TRAPANI, Sicily (AP)—Five Sicilians suspected of membership in the Mafia were arrested today and four others were ordered into supervised exile in other parts of Italy.

The Italian government is campaigning to wipe out the secret crime society in its breeding ground, western Sicily.

Authorities said the five arrested were believed to be key figures in the Trapani branch of the Mafia.

Russia's Position in Eastern Europe Based on Power Rather Than Culture

Nations of Communist Eastern Europe respect the Soviet Union's military and political might but few cultural ties have developed over the years. John Best, Canadian Press correspondent in Moscow, describes the relationship as seen in a tour of the region.

By JOHN BEST

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Russia's position in Eastern Europe is based on power—military, political and economic.

If cultural leanings were the criterion, most of the countries would long since have slipped away from Moscow domination and tied their destinies to the West.

On a journey through Eastern Europe one is continuously struck by the lack of any deep-rooted popular attachment to Russia or the Russians as a people.

The Russian image is not so much sinister — although various countries have had cause down through the ages to fear its military might—as opaque. To the peoples of Eastern Europe, Russia represents almost as much of an enigma as to the people of the West.

Their attitude was well summed up by a Pole who told me: "We and the Russians have completely different outlooks."

The feeling, or lack of feeling, is equally pronounced among Slavic peoples such as the Poles, Czechs and Yugoslavs as among non-Slav Hungarians and Romanians.

FEEL SUPERIOR

All have a peculiar tendency — often rather rude —to look down their noses at the great colossus to the East, whose culture they consider inferior to their own.

The one exception is the Bulgarians, who consider themselves the purest of all Slavs and apparently feel a genuinely warm kinship to the Russians. This is based at least in large measure on still-felt gratitude to Russia for liberating Bulgaria from centuries of Turkish rule in the 1870s.

Also, having been the most backward of all the Soviet-bloc countries, Bulgaria takes great pride in its latter-day industrial development, which has been powerfully assisted and to a large degree masterminded by the Soviet Union.

The other peoples look primarily westward. The cultural influences to which they are exposed come primarily from the West. If they think of travelling abroad it's to the West that they dream of going.

The young people hanker after Western clothes, Western pop records and Western pocket books. Italian movies are all the rage for grownups as well as youth.

INFLUENCED BY WEST

Writers and intellectuals make it a point to keep abreast of literary developments in the West, and not a few are influenced by Western writers in their own work.

In conversations with prominent writers both in Belgrade and Prague, I heard the names of a long list of contemporary Western writers and playrights reeled off as being outstanding — Anouilh, Ionescu, Marquand, Miller, Salinger, Steinbeck, Osborne.

By contrast they were decidedly unenthusiastic about the contemporary literary output from Russia—and were positively disdainful of the Soviet literary school known as socialist realism.

The most popular foreign languages among school children in Eastern Europe are English and French, with German running third. Russian trails behind in popularity but this may be at least in part because it is compulsory.

But the greatest influence of all serving to inculcate Western ideas is tourism. Hundreds of thousands of tourists stream into the Eastern states every year.

Competition for tourist business is very real and very stiff, as can be seen from the expensive display ads East European countries sponsor in travel sections of big Western newspapers.

Such chasing after foreign currencies is an ironic commentary on a system which, until recently, always gave the impression of being repelled by the notion of economic competition in any form.

FEW RUSSIAN TOURISTS

Incredible as it may seem, one seldom encounters a Russian tourist in a part of the world supposedly tied to Russia by the closest of fraternal bonds.

Those Russians who do travel go in groups, usually on highly-organized bus or train tours, but only the most fortunate can hope to get a booking in one of these.

The idea of a single couple going in a car is virtually unknown, although there have been reports in Moscow that this will soon become possible.

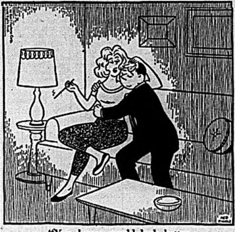
What is possible is group tours by members of automobile clubs. But all have to be cleared with the Russian police first, and strict itineraries are filed, under which the caravan must stay in specified places on specified nights.

Westerners tend to assume that the reason Russians are not permitted to travel abroad is that the authorities don't want them to become exposed to alien influences and compare conditions in other countries with those at home.

But it's also a matter of money. Russian authorities evidently feel the country can't afford the loss of foreign currency which mass travel abroad would entail. In Eastern Europe, they can presumably make limited arrangements for Russians to travel on soft currency.

But Eastern Europe is not investing huge sums of money in tourist facilities in order to earn soft currency.

Tomorrow: Would they give up communism if they could?



"You know, you'd look better if you had more hair."

Will Produce Cars Which Can 'Burn Rubber'

TORONTO (CP) — R. R. Evans, chairman of American Motors Ltd., said Monday that if young people want to be able to burn rubber off tires with high-performance cars, his company will provide them with what they want.

Introducing prototypes of possible new models for the company, he said at a press conference that American Motors has suffered recently because it has been a follower, not a leader, in the car business.

Mr. Evans, who recently moved into American Motors with large stock purchases, said the company-associated since the late 1950s primarily with economy and compactness—intends to introduce bigger and more powerful engines and to produce cars that people will be proud to get into.

Asked whether this new approach ties in with auto safety, Mr. Evans said many features now are designed to protect drivers against themselves.

"If a man would put the safety belt on and a shoulder strap, he wouldn't need all the pads and collapsible steering wheel."

MENTIONS PRICES

Earl K. Brownridge, president of American Motors (Canada) Ltd., said he does not expect any closing of the price gap between U.S.- and Canadian-made cars when the 1967 models are introduced.

Expect TUC Will Accept Pay Freeze

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

LONDON (AP)—The future of the Labor government's austerity wage freeze lay in the hands of Britain's union leaders today and they appeared ready to knuckle under at least part way.

The general council of the Trades Union Congress, which represents 170 unions, met to consider a compromise, worked out with Prime Minister Wilson Tuesday night.

The TUC general council spent nearly three hours debating the wage freeze this morning, then adjourned for lunch to meet again at 2 p.m. This indicated a hard tussle. Even a decision to accept Wilson's proposals was expected to be accompanied with demands for more talks with government ministers.

The prime minister announced a pay - price - dividend freeze last week in introducing his package of tax increases and spending cuts to save the pound. The six - month pay freeze, to be followed by a similar period of "severe restraint," was the showpiece of the package, designed to impress international financial opinion that the British would right their unbalanced economy.

Tuesday night the TUC's economic committee met with Wilson and offered him an eight-page memorandum outlining organized labor's conditions. They boiled down to exemptions for two categories: Lower - paid workers and workers whose pay rises with productivity.

George Woodcock, TUC secretary - general, said Wilson told him: "I think we might manage something along these lines."

NEED SELLING JOB

Endorsement by the general council would mean the TUC would have to sell the policy to individual unions. As if to illustrate the difficulties, wage claims on behalf of more than 1,000,000 white - collar workers were lodged Tuesday despite the pay freeze.

The government is drafting a bill to give legal solidity to the freeze and plans to push it through Parliament next week. It also is considering heavy taxes — perhaps as high as 80 per cent — on dividends held

Support Hellyer Concept

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

PARIS (CP)—The perennial problem of how to link NATO's nuclear planning with non-nuclear countries came to the fore Tuesday in the final day of a two - day ministerial meeting which heard candid reports on the state of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Defence ministers discussed methods of increasing Allied participation in planning nuclear strategy—in the selection, deployment and targeting of weapons.

Informants said the main problem now is to see whether NATO's non-nuclear members, especially West Germany, are willing to accept the view that a share in the planning of nuclear weapons is preferable to independent possession of them.

Perhaps the main achievement of Canada's defence minister, Paul Hellyer, was recognition by his 14 ministerial colleagues of the importance of the Allied Command Europe mobile force in defending NATO's flanks.

Conference sources said Hellyer was virtually alone when a few years ago he began a campaign for strengthening the so-called "ACE mobile force" by earmarking of contingents for it.

All ministers now supported the concept and said in their main communique:

"They devoted special attention to the part which the . . . force can plan in contributing to deterrence and demonstrating that spirit of solidarity and unity of purpose upon which the North Atlantic Alliance is based. They gave directions for the development of new financial arrangements for this force."

Hellyer, who returns to Ottawa today, offered a second Canadian battalion group — a battalion from the Canadian Black Watch Regiment already

Pearson Predicts Busy Fall

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday ticked off a long list of conferences, royal commission reports and legislation adding up to a busy fall in the capital.

In a newly - decorated room for press conferences, the prime minister said he expects eight royal commission reports to be turned in before the end of the year and announced the important federal-provincial conference on tax-sharing will be held in late October or November.

He also said there are about 20 pieces of legislation, with medical care insurance and amendments to the Bank Act near the top of the list, that will go before the Commons in the 51 days between resumption of the session on Oct. 5 and the proposed Dec. 16 start of the Christmas vacation.

The fall federal - provincial meeting of the prime minister and the premiers is an enlarged version of the postponed session that had been scheduled for June in Victoria.

TAB AS MAJOR TOPIC

Federal aid to education—the only item on the Victoria agenda—will be major discussion topic, Mr. Pearson said.

The prime minister declined to say whether a new tax-sharing agreement with the provinces, to replace the five-year agreement signed in 1962, will be worked out before the expiry date March 31, 1967.

But he said Finance Minister Sharp is to meet in September with his provincial counterparts to discuss a new agreement.

Mr. Pearson said changes in tax-sharing did not necessarily have to await the report of the Carter royal commission on taxation, one of the eight he said will probably be turned in before the end of the year.

The report by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada into the Gerda Munsinger affair is expected in the government's hands sometime in August, he said.

Other reports expected before the end of 1966 are those on bilingualism and biculturalism, pilotage, the cost of farm machinery, marketing of freshwater fish, post office working conditions and the case of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville.

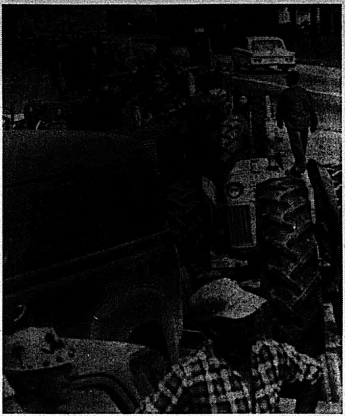
79 Tractor-Driving Farmers Heading for Toronto Parley



TRACTOR PROTEST — Tractors are demonstrating on provincial highways in Ontario protesting low farm prices, especially for milk. A cavalcade of about 80 tractors from Southwestern Ontario is expected to reach Toronto Wednesday. These farmers near Lobo, Ont., wait for another group to join them before pulling out onto the highway. (CP Wirephoto)

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rain today temporarily stalled the tractor procession of 79 farmers heading for Toronto to meet with provincial government representatives.

The delay may mean that the farmers will arrive late for a meeting with Premier John Robarts, scheduled for 2 p.m.

They finally began the 30-mile trek to the provincial legislature after 10 this morning, after a hurried conference to decide what to do. They delayed the start until the rain had eased.

The tractor - driving farmers stayed the night in Waterdown, near Hamilton.

One machine broke down this morning and had to be left behind. The owner of the abandoned tractor started up the machine of a driver who was late and took off on that.

Several carloads of supporting farmers are accompanying the procession and the organizing Ontario Farmers' Union hopes that more farmers will join enroute.

The farmers, fewer than half of about 200 who gathered at Woodstock Monday night, have been promised a clear route to Queen's Park by Metropolitan Toronto police officials.

But they're likely to run into a brick wall from Mr. Stewart, who said Tuesday night that while he sympathizes with the farmers' demand for higher milk prices there is little the provincial government can do.

The agriculture minister remained firm in his earlier stand that any increases in subsidy

Marysville Tractors Go to Toronto

Three tractors, one driven by a woman left the Marysville Sideroad this morning at nine o'clock for Queen's Park. Another tractor left later this morning to join the trio.

Driver of the lead tractor is Harold Murphy, county director, Local 181 of the Ontario Farmers' Union. He left Marysville along with Mrs. Carmel Bell and Arthur Austin. Peter Sdzgas left later.

The OFU Local 181 tractors are following Highway 2 all the way to Toronto, but are not expected to arrive at Queen's Park today.

Mrs. Harold Murphy says whether or not the Marysville tractors continue to Toronto tomorrow, or how long they remain in Toronto will depend on the outcome of today's meeting between OFU officials and Ontario Agriculture Minister W. A. Stewart.

Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Austin are following behind the tractors in a car, carrying food and drink for the drivers. They say they will return home tonight and pick up the trail again tomorrow.

Yesterday, nine tractors continued the protest parades in the Marysville area.

One of the two O.P.P. officers on the scene said that yesterday's demonstration was "quite orderly", with tractors spaced "a good 200 feet apart."

Another parade is slated to get underway this afternoon at 2.30, assembling at the Marysville Sideroad north of Highway 401, and following a route down Highway 502 to the County border, back again up 502, and along number 2 to the Drummey Sideroad.

Clear Way For Tariff Cutting

BRUSSELS, Belgium (Reuters) — The European Common Market's council of ministers early today cleared the way for worldwide bargaining in the Kennedy round of tariff cuts by agreeing on a joint farm policy for the negotiations.

The policy covers a wide variety of products—from butter and beef to fish and fruit, wine and whisky.

Delegates said French objections resulted in scaling down the original proposal by no more than seven per cent.

"We can only hope that our partners in the Kennedy round will make equivalent offers," a French spokesman said.

As a result of the agreement, an estimated $1,400,000,000 worth of agricultural goods from Canada, the United States and other countries stand to gain easier access to the six Common Market nations—Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, France, Italy and West Germany.

It also means that, as of July, 1968, industrial products and most agricultural products will be able to move freely among the six nations.

Quebec's Hospital Workers Reject $3 a Year Pay Boost

MONTREAL (CP)—The Confederation of National Trade Unions' confederal office is scheduled to hold a strategy meeting Friday following Tuesday's rejection by 32,500 striking non-medical hospital workers of the latest contract proposals of the Quebec Hospital association.

The association, on behalf of 119 hospitals affected by the strike—now in its 12th day—had offered a salary increase of $3 a week in both years of a two-year contract for workers averaging less than $69 a week.

Nurses and other employees who now ear between $70 and $89 a week were offered an increase of $4 a week in each year.

Employees said they will hold out for a one-year contract providing for an $8 weekly increase for all workers.

The rejection followed a two-hour meeting of 100 regional union representatives. The offer, the second to be rejected by the strikers, was intended to apply to all the province's 58,000 non-medical workers.

Money is the major point in the dispute, but several other points such as working hours, vacations, methods of settling grievances and methods of promotions still are at issue.

Meanwhile, in Quebec City, Quebec Superior Court issued an interim injunction Tuesday night ordering striking workers to return to work at 18 hospitals for the mentally and chronically ill.

The injunction, valid until Aug. 20, was issued by Mr. Justice Georges Pelletier at the request of the Quebec justice department.

Mr. Justice Pelletier said the strike was "endangering the public health" and that it was essential to "put an end to the distressing and tragic situation it has brought on."

A hearing of a government request for an interlocutory injunction was set for Aug. 18.

The provincial labor code allows the government to delay for 80 days any strike of a public service which endangers the health of the population.

Premier Daniel Johnson also announced the appointment of District Judge Marc Fortin of Quebec City as head of a commission of inquiry to study the dispute. One job of the commission will be to recommend injunctions against strikers at other hospitals when such action is deemed necessary.

Russia Backs Thant

MOSCOW (AP)—U Thant has been assured the support of the Soviet Union for another term as secretary - general of the United Nations, but says he has not made up his mind yet, informed sources reported today.

The sources said Premier Kosygin told Thant during a long talk Tuesday the Soviet government wants him to accept re-election when his current five-year term expires Nov. 3.

Thant is to announce by early September whether he will seek re-election.

Vice - President Hubert Humphrey announced U.S. support of a second term for Thant last month and Britain and France also have endorsed a second term publicly. With this support there is no doubt Thant can remain if he wants to.

The secretary-general is chosen by the General Assembly on recommendaton of the Security Council. The assembly's annual session begins Sept. 20.

Thant has urged UN members to try to find another candidate because he wants to spend more time with his family and to return to his home in Burma.

SAIGON (AP)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky gave the United States a choice today of aiding South Viet Nam another five or 10 years or invading North Viet Nam to finish the war.

Citing repeated North Vietnamese declarations to fight on as long as 20 years, Ky told a press conference:

"We have the patience but can we say the same thing of our allies? Are they ready to help us for five to 10 years? . . . If not, we must destroy the Communists in their lair."

Reacting to the Johnson administration's repudiation of his suggestions for a military confrontation with China and a possible invasion of the North, Ky said: "There is no desire on our part to invade North Viet Nam. Our struggle is for our self-defence."

If South Viet Nam becomes strong and a democratic and economically sound example, he continued, "the people of North Viet Nam will turn their faces to the South and will overthrow the Communist regime. This second concept requires patience and time. This is the work of five, 10 or 15 years."

Public Affairs Group Fears Individual Freedom in Danger

EDMONTON (CP)—The National Public Affairs Research Foundation, backed by some top Canadian businessmen, fears "that the freedom of the individual is in jeopardy" in this country.

Existence of the foundation, whose apparent function is to provide political thought free of political motives, was revealed Saturday in a Calgary news report.

David R. Wilson of Toronto, 44, executive director of the foundation, said in an interview Tuesday that individual freedom is endangered "because of a policy of expediency that seems to be in vogue in the political arena at this time."

To counter-balance such a trend the foundation, incorporated in March and based in Toronto, is seeking out the views of businessmen, university professors and others, Mr. Wilson said.

On its board of directors are: A. M. Shoults, Toronto, president of James Lovick Advertising Ltd.; Renault St. Laurent, Quebec, son of former Liberal prime minister Louis St. Laurent; R. A. Brown, Calgary, president of Home Oil Ltd.; Cyrus McLean, Vancouver industrialist and businessman; R. J. Burns, a Calgary lawyer; and Ron Clarke, Edmonton, an architect with Diamond, Clarke and Associates.

47 Motorists Are Charged, Another 69 Get Warnings

Well, for one thing they investigate accidents. Last week alone there were 11 motor vehicle accidents investigated by the Belleville Detachment. In those mishaps seven people were injured. The most serious was a motorcycle accident July 22 on Highway 33. Brian Wesley Mitchell, 25, RCAF Trenton, died as the result of injuries he received in that accident.

During the same week, the Belleville O.P.P. patrolled 10,402 miles of highways. One hundred and seventy-two vehicles received safety checks and there were 47 charges issued under the Highway Traffic Act and 69 warnings, plus one warning for careless operation of a boat.

Crime is another thing that takes up a lot of the policeman's time. Last week the Belleville Detachment investigated four minor thefts, three breaking and entering cases and one car reported stolen was recovered and one person was arrested. Also, a car stolen from Ottawa was recovered near Belleville and two persons were arrested for the Ottawa Police Department. Two juveniles were apprehended for shoplifting and several complaints of prowlers were investigated and several premises were found insecure during the night.

AID MOTORISTS

The police also spend many hours acting as good Samaritans. Last week alone, Belleville O.P.P. assisted eight motorists who had run into difficulty.

One of the main considerations of the police is safety.

The weekly press release of the Belleville O.P.P. said: "At this time of year, with so many people on holidays and another holiday weekend coming up, the traffic will be very heavy and again we request the co-operation of all drivers to assist us in our effort to reduce the number of accidents on our highways.

"Every available officer in the Belleville detachment will be on duty.

"In the interest of safety — control yourself and control your vehicle."

Hastings Man Dies of Injuries After Fight

TORONTO (CP) — Raymond Duff, 36, of Hastings, Ont., died Tuesday in hospital of injuries suffered in a Saturday night fight over a card game in the Legion Hall at Hastings, 20 miles east of Peterborough.

Kiwanis Hear Address on Life Saving

What to do and what not to do while attempting to save a person in trouble in the water was explained yesterday to members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club. The Kiwanians heard an address on life saving by James Cleland, supervisor of the Kinsmen Swimming Pool here. After his talk, Mr. Cleland invited club members to the pool where staff instructors demonstrated life saving techniques, drown proofing and rescue breathing.

Describing life saving as a valuable asset, the pool supervisor reminded his listeners that each year, more extensive use is made of the waters in Canada and as a result, there are more accidents. He warned of unexpected difficulties that arise during life saving operations and he stressed the importance of knowing how to carry out successful water rescues.

The speaker was introduced by D. D. Hickson and thanked, on behalf of the club, by L. A. Kells who had words of praise for the young people who took part in the demonstrations at the pool.

Y's Activities

Friday, July 22, ended the first week for the second Y.M.C.A. Day Camp. Monday entailed a get - acquainted day, with the campers making diaries and name - tags, as well as being tested for swimming ability. On Tuesday, there was a bus-trip to the Sandbanks and the Outlet, where the campers enjoyed a full day of swimming and hiking under counsellor supervision. Wednesday was spent at the "Y", where a day of films, outdoor games, crafts, gym activity and swimming was enjoyed by all. On Thursday morning the campers visited the Foxboro Cheese Factory, where they saw how cheese and curds are made. After lunch at Colonel Vanderwater Park, they spent the afternoon with the cows, horses, pigs, ducks, and chickens at a nearby farm and returned to the Y for a supervised swim. On Friday, the 26 campers spent the whole day at Vanderwater Park. There they enjoyed a program of crafts, hiking along the nature trail and swimming.

QUEBEC GUESTS SIGN IN — Giselle Deschenes (centre), of Rimouski, and Louis Champoux, Quebec City, sign the city's guest book for Mayor Jack Ellis in an informal ceremony yesterday at city hall. The Quebec visitors are two of a group of eight French-speaking high school students visiting in the Belleville area, participating in the annual student exchange sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

Five Students From Quebec Given Welcome by Mayor

Five exchange students from "La Belle Province" were given a formal welcome to the Belleville area yesterday by city mayor Jack Ellis.

The five Quebec secondary school students were each asked to sign the city's guest book in a rather informal ceremony in the mayor's city hall chambers.

Altogether, eight Quebec students are in the Belleville area staying at homes of students who have already paid a visit to the homes of their Quebec guests. The visits last about two weeks, during which time some progress is made in the learning of colloquial French and English.

The exchange program is operated with the aid of grants from the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, with the prerequisite for the English-speaking students being at least two years of secondary school French experience. Students wanting to take part in the program make application to their respective schools.

Aside from visiting local places of interest, like the Belleville Research Institute of the Department of Agriculture, the Quebec visitors have been treated to swimming, camping, and all the other summer activities that are popular among teenagers.

LIKE EACH OTHER

The Quebec students were unanimous in expressing their approval of the exchange program as indeed were their Belleville-area hosts. Seventeen-year-old Jocilyn Martet of Matane, said that she finds Ontario people more outgoing than they are in her home province, but a local student said that she found her Quebec hosts less reticent than most Ontario young people.

When asked what she thought about the controversial "Quiet Revolution" in her province, Jocilyn Martet expressed concern that it was "not a good thing". She felt that the men who formed Canada at Confederation did not want a "two-country" nation, a sentiment with which she was in accord.

Traffic Cop Succumbs To Girl, 4

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Not even a tough traffic constable is immune to the charm of a little girl, a London driver learned.

The man was stopped by a provincial police officer as he drove along the Queen Elizabeth Way with his wife and two children, a boy aged 2 and a girl, 4.

As the policeman approached the car he pulled out a note pad and pencil.

"Two hamburgs with mustard, please, mister," the girl called as he put his head in the window.

The officer grinned:

"OK friend, on your way."

The major tournament staged by the women's section of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club was staged on Tuesday at the local greens and two Belleville rinks emerged as top winners of the event. The tourney was held under perfect weather conditions with 15 trebles rinks competing from Brighton, Campbellford, Kingston, Cobourg, Peterborough and Belleville.

The greens were lightning fast and some excellent bowling resulted, which was viewed by a large gallery. The women broke off competitions at the end of the second game to enjoy a pot luck supper and an hour of fellowship. Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon conducted the draw and W. B. "Skit" Vandervoort was the official umpire.

Mrs. Flossie Coleman, Mrs. Millie Wright with Mrs. Myrtle Smith won the trophy with accompanying pirzes, while another Belleville rink, Mrs. Maggie Edgar, Mrs. Edna Jackman with Mrs. Grace Clapp as skip was a close second. Mrs. Smith had a score of 44 plus 2 while Mrs. Clapp had a count of 41 plus 2.

The second game high was won by a Trenton rink of Mrs. Mary Aziz, Mrs. Louella Chouinard with Mrs. Helen Coutts as skip. Mrs. Verna Erskine of Cobourg won the one-game high count while Mrs. Laura McMullen of Campbellford was winner of the no-game high.

In a recent Thursday's league game for the women's section, a rink of Mrs. Edna Jackman, Mrs. Betty Vince with Mrs. Lila Hermon as skip won the high count for the day. Mrs. Hermon with Mrs. Irene Trudeau were the tea hostesses for the day when the social hour was held.

The general committee under William VanTassel for the Corbin Gold Cup Tourney to be held on Civic Holiday next Monday has been very active during the past few days. A work party last evening prepared the reception centre in a building on the fair grounds close by the bowling club.

At the present time there are 32 entries booked and ready to face the firing line and it is possible this count may be increased to 36 rinks. The reception by the Calvert Company at the Hotel Quinte on Sunday night is all lined up by Pete Webber, representative of the company. "Jerry" Hyde will be issuing the draw later this week and all that is required to make the 24th annual competition a success is the weatherman. Jack Smith, caretaker of the greens, and the chairman, Gordon Vince have the lawns in excellent condition.

Playground Report

Next week is annual Playground Week on the city's 21 playgrounds. Every day of next week, beginning on Tuesday, Aug. 2, the playrounds will offer special events for both parents and children.

On Tuesday, Neighborhood Night will be held on all the city's playgrounds. This will involve craft displays and a talent show with the climax of the evening being the choosing of the local playground entry for "Miss Penny Carnival" to be chosen Thursday.

In the afternoon on Wednesday a mothers' tea will be held on all the city's playgrounds. A program will be presented as well, as a light lunch for all mothers.

The climax of the week will be Thursday night when the annual Penny Carnival will be held at East Hill playground, starting at 6:30 p.m. The highlight of the evening will come at 7:30 p.m. when "Miss Penny Carnival" will be selected. There will be a contestant from each playground.

SOUTH GEORGE PLAYGROUND

Last week South George leaders Pat Lee and Linda Stenson held a dog show. There were seven entries plus four judges and an audience of about 36. Winners were: best looking dog, Wilma Scrimshaw, age 9; funniest dog, Peter Thompson, age 12; best performing dog, Richard Downes, age 6.

Other dogs to enter the show were owned by Larry Markwell, Dorothy Noyes and Leonard Asseltine.

Judges were: Judy Condon, Carol Boyd, Cheryl Sommerville and Harry Semark.

A Penny Carnival was also held at South George Playground. The refreshment booth, run by Cheryl Hannah, Carol Boyd, Mary Poole and Judy Condon proved to be the most popular. Remaining booths were bean count, Peter Thompson; clothes pin drop, Mike Hunt and Stephen Archer; penny drop, Mike Callaghan; cork bobbing, Tom Callaghan and Harry Semark; fortune telling, Jackie Holland and Joe Semark; ring toss, Cheryl Sommerville, Dawn Lott and Cheryl Sommerville.

The ticket for the cake draw was held by Mrs. G. Semark and drawn by Teddy Hannah.

RETARDED CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUND

Last week boys and girls from the Retarded Children's Playground, (leaders Mrs. Audrey Parkhurst and Mrs. Pat Gervis), visited the Selis and Gray Circus held here. The 15 children accompanied by five adults were thrilled by the daring trapeze artists, wild animals and funny clowns. Special thanks goes to the Fire-Fighters Association for the tickets and assistance.

CHURCHILL HEIGHTS PLAYGROUND

Last week Churchill Heights Playground, leader Jan Worrell held a doll and carriage show. Prizes were given for dolls and carriages of various types and sizes. Those who won were: Esther Schad, Jennie Kelly, Kim Graham, Ronda Archer, Kim Garuin, Jennie Kelly, Janice Tailor, John Heidstra and Suzanne Seguin. Judges were Dorothy Rice, Ken Hayes and Jan Worrell. Special assistance was given by Duffy Sprague.

Bike and trike rodeo was also held. Winners were: Sandra Murray, Bonnie Gray, Cheryl Chambers, Anne Pearson, Linda Garrett, Ricky Garrett, David Brinkert, Lora Lee Tailor, Randy Farrar Sherry Lusk and Ruth Pearson. Judges were Dorothy Rice and Champ Eaton. The rodeo was completed by a parade around the block with trikes on the sidewalk and bikes on the road.

STANLEY PARK PLAYGROUND

Animal Day was held at Stanley Park, (leader Lynne Neill) last week. The morning activities consisted of active and quiet animal games.

The highlight of the day was a pet show with both real and stuffed animals. Prizes and ribbons were awarded in many categories. Winners were: Terry Riley, David Petican, Valerie Watson, Karen Moric, June McKenzie, Ellen Pugh, Linda Mason, Gail Palmer, Jane Hoey, David Joyce, Denise Petican, Cheryl Moric, Pat McKenzie, Pat Harrington, Brenda Fraser and Mary Anne Hoey.

Despite the frequent showers, approximately 40 children participated in the show. Judges were Mr. Ken Mason and Judie Neill.

QUEEN ELIZABETH PLAYGROUND

A costume parade was held on the Queen Elizabeth Playground (leader Carolyn Kelly) last week. Prizes were awarded to several children: funniest, John Cunningham; prettiest, Mary Ann Lock; most original, Scott Travers; best lady, Mary Jane Hurley; best man, Grant Longstaff; scariest, Jane Acton; ugliest, Tommy Colson; most colorful, Robbie Ashley and Derek Hume; best costume, Karen Kindy. Other contestants were: David Reynolds, Sherry Twa, Heather Reynolds, Julie Bishop, Susan Twa, Linda Colson, Ann Garvin, Joanne Hurley, Anne McCreary, Leslie Twa, Carol Wiggins and Bobby Cunningham. Judges were Beth Watkin, Judith Hume and Wendy Ashley.

C.N.R. PLAYGROUND

C.N.R. Playground's ball team was victorious in the ball game at Wellington Crescent last week. Despite an overcast sky and a heavy downpour, the game continued to the bottom of the fourth inning. The score ran 58-14 for C.N.R. undefeated ball team. Top scorer was Hubert Hicks with ten home runs. Mark Lucas followed with nine homers. Wayne Farrell, John Romano and Ronnie Rodgers cleared with two homers each. Terry McCormack also made one home run for the winning team. CNR leader is Grace Hicks.

Ky Wonders

Viet Cong attack caused light casualties in the U.S. tent city.

U.S. air raids continued against the North and two more planes were lost, bringing the number of American planes reported downed over North Viet Nam to 310. Three planes were rescued.

Ky's statement was in reply to questions about his comment in an interview in U.S. News and World Report last week that "it is better to face (the Chinese) right now than in five or 10 years" and suggesting an allied invasion of North Viet Nam.

The pronouncements were in line with similar previous declarations by Ky and Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state, but they touched off a storm in the U.S. Senate Tuesday.

A state department spokesman commented: "Our position of not seeking any wider war has been repeatedly made clear and remains our position."

OPP Releases News Report On Activities

PICTON (Staff) — During the past week, the 13 Ontario Provincial Police Officers assigned to the County of Prince Edward, have patrolled approximately 2400 miles of highways and county roads in this county's four police vehicles.

This week has been very busy with 23 persons being charged with having liquor in a place other than the residence in which they reside. A further 17 persons under the age of 21 years were charged with possession and consuming liquor. There were two persons charged with driving while intoxicated and five persons charged with the careless operation of vehicles. Sixteen persons were charged with infractions of the Highway Traffic Act. Two persons have been charged with being intoxicated in a public place, with two persons being charged with the theft of approximately $300.00 worth of copper wire from contractors at the Lake Ontario Cement Company.

A total of 11 traffic warnings have been issued under the traffic act. The Picton detachment have investigated six motor vehicle accidents during last week, two of which were property damage accidents, two minor injury accidents and three under $100 damage accidents. Seven theft investigations have been conducted with one disturbance and with 11 other minor criminal investigations.

There were three compassionate messages delivered by this detachment. Eleven hours were spent by the officers in criminal and traffic court, in conjunction with four, criminal code convictions, 12 highway traffic act convictions and 17 liquor control convictions.

Construction Of Reservoir Is Approved

PICTON (Staff) — The Ontario Municipal Board has approved construction of a concrete water storage reservoir and clear well by Picton Utilities Commission to the amount of $300,000. Tenders for construction close at 4 p.m. today (Wed.) and the Commission is expected to meet Thursday. If tenders are in line with OMB approval it can be awarded and the work proceed.

The work consists of the construction of a 1,000,000 gallon underground concrete reservoir adjacent to the existing high level reservoir south of the town and the construction of a 500,000 gallon underground concrete clear water well at the Water plant site on Picton Bay.

Hillier Girl To Visit West

PICTON — A youth, travel grant received from the National Centennial Commission through the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, is making it possible for a number of Ontario 4-H Club members to travel to other parts of Canada this summer.

One outstanding 4-H member from each county and district in Southern and Northeastern Ontario has been selected to participate in a trip to Manitoba. Miss Kathy Alexander, R. R. 1, Hillier, will represent Prince Edward County. Delegates will fly to Winnipeg on July 28, and will visit and live with host 4-H families in Southern Manitoba for a week.

On their last evening in Manitoba the Ontario 4-H members will be guests of the Manitoba 4-H Club Council at a special jamboree being held at Carman, Manitoba. 4-H Club members in Southwestern Ontario had the privilege of playing hosts to a similar group of 4-H members from Manitoba last summer.

Reeve Henry Leavens of Bloomfield, Ont.; U.S. Scout leaders Herbert Willey and Robert Mancuso and Colin Cherry of Bloomfield, Ont., Boy Scout Troop Group Committee are shown at Bloomfield Town Hall. It was like Christmas when Scouts opened gifts received from Bloomfield, N.J., industries brought to Bloomfield, Ont., by U.S. Scouts from that city. Gifts from the Canadian boys and Reeve Leavens were presented to the American lads, who are on a tour of Ontario and Quebec.

Give Bloomfield, N.J., Scouts Warm Prince Edward Welcome

Stephen Thorley of Bloomfield, Ont., gives a Scouter's handshake to George Darling, U.S. Boy Scout from Bloomfield, New Jersey. Flags were presented to the Bloomfield, Ont., troop, one flag is a U.S. Boy Scouts' flag, the other the flag of the U.S.A.

PICTON (STAFF) — It was a royal welcome Bloomfield Boy Scouts received Tuesday afternoon from the Bloomfield Boy Scouts. Sounds confusing but that's exactly what happened when Scouts from Bloomfield New Jersey, visited their namesake village in Prince Edward County. Thirty-four of the American Scouts and the four leaders who accompanied them enjoyed the hospitality of the Bloomfield, Ontario, Scouts, and Cubs, at Bloomfield Town Hall. They were welcomed by Reeve Henry Leavens, members of his council and Scout Committee members.

The U.S. boys brought with them, as tokens of the friendships that exist in Scouting and also as reminders of good U.S.-Canadian relationships, many gifts from the various industries of Bloomfield, N.J. They also brought a scroll and a gift for the Reeve Henry Leavens and greetings from the Mayor of the U.S. city. Bloomfied N.J. a suburb of Newark and close to New York City, has a population of some 65,000 compared to the Bloomfield Ont. population of 800.

The boys' tour of Ontario and Quebec cities will take them some 1,875 miles and they have visited Montreal where they were shown the work being done on the Expo 67 site. In Ottawa they watched the Changing of the Guard at Canada's Parliament Buildings. They camped at two sites occupied by Canadian Boy Scouts in the Montreal area and had a wonderful time. Their Scout Leaders said that it was the highlight of the trip this far. The boys, travelling by bus (accompanied by another vehicle carrying camping equipment), crossed into Canada in Quebec and will leave by way of Niagara Falls. Scout leaders said that there have been no mishaps or illnesses during the tour but one of the boys did get homesick. The U.S. Scouts were treated in Bloomfield village to a lunch provided by Baxter Canning Co. The Canadian boys presented their U.S. guests with county-grown apples, and shoulder and arm patches. A Canadian flag was also presented to the Mayor of Bloomfield N.J. by Reeve Leavens, to be kept in trust by the Scouts. In his official greeting the Reeve told the boys they could fly the flag at their next camp, which will be Presqu'ile Park. The U.S. Scouts have had near perfect weather for their tour and have camped out every night.

Before leaving on the balance of their journey, the boys received official greetings from the Warden of Prince Edward County, Harold Bonter, and from County Scout leaders.

OPP Staff Is Increased

PICTON (Staff) — Newest addition to the O.P.P. detachment at Picton is Donald Watt, a native of Scarborough, Ont. Head of the local force Cpl. Charles Fletcher said Mr. Watts' arrival brings the detachment strength up to 11, this does not include the two special duty officers assigned during the summer months to patrol the Outlet Provincial Park area.

Five Drown At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Five persons were drowned Tuesday night after the small boat in which they were riding capsized in Riviere des Prairies north of Montreal Island.

Montreal police identified the victims as Alphonse Nogue, 46, of Montreal, his three daughters, Carole, 9, Sylvie, 6, and Michele, 4, and Cecil Giguere, 50, also of Montreal.

Legal Battle Looms Over Annexation

PICTON (Staff) — Town officials here have been advised that an Ontario Municipal Board hearing into Picton's annexation application will be held here on Sept. 21. The hearing may be one of the biggest legal battles in Picton for many years with stiff opposition to Picton's move from surrounding Hallowell Township. Both municipalities have retained professional planning consultants and highly experienced legal counsel for the forthcoming battle.

The town, which once thought in terms of over 3,000 acres as originally recommended by the Central Prince Edward Planning Board, is asking now for 772 acres on the advice of the Toronto consultant firm of Proctor, Bousfield, Redfern and Bacon.

has been committed — for the force. The unit has yet to be selected.

The meeting heard U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara state bluntly that some European members of NATO exercise a sort of double-think where forces are concerned. If the U.S. withdrew some troops, it was immediately taken as a sign that Washington was turning its back on Europe. But if Washington suggested that European countries fulfil their NATO commitments, they replied the Soviet threat and lessened and greater forces were not necessary.

The meetings also heard British Defence Secretary Denis Healey tell of his country's economic difficulties. Britain was likely to reduce its Rhine army by 20,000 men from the present figure of 51,000. This follows France's withdrawal of its 80,000-man army from the integrated NATO command.

Tuesday's nuclear meeting normally would have been limited to 10 countries. Significantly enough, however, Norwegian and Portuguese representatives attended.

Nuclear plans then were reviewed by the five-nation McNamara committee before being presented to the NATO ministerial council in December. Highlight of the plans is to make the McNamara committee, now comprising the U.S., Britain, West Germany, Italy and Turkey, a permanent body.

The committee is scheduled to meet again in Rome in September when it is likely to draw up a blueprint on the functions and membership of a permanent committee.

Council Critics, Wife Abuse Cause Police Chief to Resign

FRANKFORD — Because his wife and family had become targets for abuse hurled by some residents of this village, William Hockley, police chief here since March of this year, Monday night tendered his resignation.

Chief Hockley, with 21 years' experience in police work, in London, England and later with the RCAF in Canada, said:

"I could take the abuse of certain village council members but when my wife and family were subjected to cutting remarks and were the victims of acts committed by young hoodlums, I decided I'd had enough and must resign.

"In plainer words, someone is responsible for instigating the actions of three men who put sugar in the gas tank of my wife's car. The car's engine was ruined. My wife has left for England in a nervous state and may not return.

"When I was first hired by council, I was told to enforce the law. Councillors told me to crack down on speeders and the hoodlum element. Later, some councillors wanted special treatment for their friends. I am a fair man and could not go along with their requests, especially when teenagers who were obtaining alcoholic beverages from sources in the village were involved."

Some angry residents of the village say they will ask members of council for the answers to several questions concerning Chief Hockley's resignation, at a meeting next Monday night.

Reeve Ray Moran said this morning:

"I have asked Chief Hockley to reconsider. I am not proud of the way council members have treated the chief. We will have difficulty finding a man as capable as he is."

According to a long-time resident of the village, two councillors have been badgering Chief Hockley over his treatment of offenders.

"He favors no one," said the villager.

Air Commodore Is Promoted

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Commodore R. J. Lane, 46, of Victoria, chief of staff at 1 Air Division headquarters at Metz, France, will be promoted to air vice-marshal and appointed the division's air officer commanding. The defence department announced Tuesday that he succeeds Air Vice-Marshal D. A. R. Bradshaw, 54, of Ottawa and London who is retiring. A 1934 graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, Air Vice-Marshal Bradshaw was commandant at RMC 1954-1957.

U.S. Rejects Call to Invade North Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has refused to go along with South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's call for an invasion of North Viet Nam as the sure way to win the war.

"Our position of not seeking any wider war has been repeatedly made clear and remains our position," a U.S. state department spokesman said Tuesday. "We do not seek to threaten any regime."

NATO Meeting

For some years now the so-called cold war between east and west — between the Soviet Union and the United States and its allies — has gone into decline.

The Berlin wall is still there of course. So are the barbed wire and the mines and the watchtowers that guard the long frontier separating the communist world and the west all the way from the Baltic to the Black Sea. But there is nothing like the tension that there was between the two sides in the days of the Soviet blockade of West Berlin. As matters stand at the moment any kind of open conflict in Europe is unlikely.

That does not mean, however, that the western powers should drop their guard. Britain for one may have to withdraw troops from the NATO alliance, because of economic difficulties at home. Canada on the other hand has no such problems other than the fact that its military resources are fairly extended by peace-keeping duties in the Gaza Strip and in Cyprus. Thus Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's offer to make two battalion groups available — each of about 1,200 men — to NATO is commendable.

Canada's commitment is also significant in the light of U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara's criticism of a tendency among some NATO members toward what he called a double-standard view of the necessity for the alliance. He said this was a tendency to view communist aggression in Europe as unlikely, and so to play down any need for the contribution of more ground forces. Yet if the United States took such a view this was quickly seized upon as an indication that Washington was unwilling to meet its Atlantic obligations.

In any event, it is clear that the NATO alliance, as the symbol of the west's stake in Europe, and of its defence of the free world, must remain both strong and alert. The time has not yet come when the western powers and Russia have reached such an understanding that each can dispense with its present state of military preparedness.

Chairman Mao's Feat

While it may be excusable to gloss over the florid language Peking newspapers have been using to hail the return to the fold of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, it is indeed remarkable to learn that at 72 he apparently has recovered from an illness that has kept him in the background since last November.

Indeed, Chairman Mao was well enough to take part in the annual swim across the Yangtse. This inspired the Chinese news agency Hsinhua to observe that when the news of his feat spread around everyone was saying: "Our respected and beloved leader is in such wonderful health. This is the greatest happiness for the entire Chinese people and for revolutionary people throughout the world."

Hsinhua came out with other eloquent eulogies about Chairman Mao and said his crossing was the prelude to the Yangtse swim proper. On the same day, Hsinhua said, 5,000 swimmers, "following Chairman Mao's instruction that they should swim and train in the rivers and seas, participated enthusiastically in the contest along the course first chartered by their great leader."

The adulation the Chinese display toward their leaders seems to exceed even that of the Russians toward their space travellers, and perhaps to a lesser extent, toward their own leaders. Their mode of expressing it, whether in print or by turning out in thousands to cheer and chant slogans, would be alien to western observers, even embarrassing. Westerners just do not exult over their leaders in this fashion. However, we do have a democratic system that gives the party in power and its leader a chance to prove themselves without being tossed out summarily like Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Still, it was an invigorating occasion. We could all do with a summons now and again to down tools and "go jump in the river." It would open the pores, relieve the tension — in short, it would be a break in routine that would afford a new slant on life.

A Sprightly 74

Others of advancing years besides Mao Tse-tung are illustrating the validity of the saying, "You are as old as you feel."

Mrs. Marion Hart, 74, of Washington D.C., recently made a solo transatlantic flight in her single-engined Beechcraft.

Mrs. Hart was modest about her achievement. "I took the easy route by Iceland and Scotland," she said.

Here too is one who thinks and acts young, and proves once again that variety is the spice of life.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 27th, 1946

Traffic was held up for sometime on Highway No. 2 last night near the Point Anne entrance when two small blasts were exploded in a rock foundation adjacent to the highway. The blasts were used to facilitate excavation for the foundation of a proposed service station. Highway Traffic Officers Harry Caldwell and Sam Ervine guarded the entrance and held traffic back at a safe distance.

Harry Ketcheson of Holloway with a score of 93 points, has been adjudged the winner of the field-crop competition sponsored by the Belleville Agricultural Society, it has been announced by J. A. Carroll, superintendent of agricultural societies.

Sneezing Bothersome Every Time He Swims

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I swim at the Y.W.C.A. It is good exercise and seems to help a bad back.

My problem is that as soon as I leave the water I start sneezing. My nose runs, and it is difficult to swallow because it drags at my ears. I have tried nose clips and nose drops, but nothing helps. Have you any suggestion other than giving up swimming? — F. R.

I've had a touch of the same thing myself after swimming in pools, and some people with particularly sensitive nasal membranes even notice it after swimming in a lake.

The culprit in pools is most likely the chlorine used to disinfect the water. You didn't mention smarting eyes, but some folks notice that, too.

I won't recommend giving up swimming which is a wholesome exercise. The sneezing and irritation are a temporary nuisance but they won't hurt you.

My suggestion is this: Learn to be a good mouth breather! Inhale through the mouth, exhale through the nose. Expert swimmers habitually do this anyway.

Nose drops won't help much if at all. As to nose clips, a little water seems always to get into the nostrils despite them, so proper breathing should give you better results.

Dear Dr. Molner: While lying in bed ready to go to sleep, all at once I get heartburn, and hot water or acid comes in my throat. Usually I can turn over and the condition will stop. Could this be hiatal hernia? If this is not answered in your booklet on "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," please explain. I enclosed 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for the booklet. About eight years ago, I was told I had a duodenal ulcer. — V. F.

It certainly could be hiatal hernia, but saying that it "could be" is not the same as saying that it is. In many ways hiatal hernia and duodenal ulcer have similar symptoms (and in some respects treatment is the same.)

The best advice I can give you is to have your doctor investigate thoroughly (including X-rays) to see whether you have either, or both, or what is the trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain the meaning of "incisional hernia of the epigastrium." My husband has it but we can't find out anything about it.—L.D.

It's what we also call a "surgical rupture", or a weak spot at the site of a recent operation. It is usually due to some sharp sudden strain, such as sneezing or coughing, before the tissues have developed a firm scar. Epigastrium merely means that it is in the upper part of the abdomen. The method of correction is by surgery.

Dear Dr. Molner: Two years ago my doctor told me I had pernicious anemia. He gave me shots of liver extract six weeks in succession. Now the treatment is once in three weeks. Is there a cure? — W. B.

There is no cure, but injections of liver extract or Vitamin B12 keep the blood count up. In effect, this means that you can completely draw the fangs of what used to be a terrible disease.

The treatment must — and safely can — be continued for life. Usually frequent injections are needed at first until the blood count is raised to a normal level. After that injections at longer intervals are sufficient to keep it normal. For some patients one injection every six or eight weeks is satisfactory. The frequency depends on how the blood count holds up and how the patient feels.

The U.S. Secret Service abides by the rules and the rules say that its job is to protect not only the president, but also his immediate family. So Luci Baines Johnson and her fiance, Pat Nugent, can't plan on escaping to a hide-away-for-two after ther marriage Aug. 6. A secret service agent will tag along. The basic injustice of such an arrangement is saddening. But we can't quite decide whom to be sorriest for — Pat and Luci or the agent who draws the assignment as the world's most unwanted man.

Period Costumes for Tour

Centennial Ontario

The Ontario Centennial Planning Branch has a smash hit on its hands.

"Portraits from the Past," a fashion show of 40 old-time costumes, has been designed and organized by the Branch. The show is loaned to various women's groups around the province for presentation in local communities. Proceeds go to Centennial projects.

Bookings for the show can be made through the Ontario Centennial Planning Branch, Department of Tourism and Information, 185 Bloor Street East, Toronto 5.

Already, more than 50 bookings have been made up to December 1966 and a second set of costumes may be ordered to accommodate all the requests anticipated for 1967.

The costumes are modelled by members of the sponsoring group — or their friends — and local hairstylists and cosmeticians contribute their services in creating the hairdos and makeup of the past.

Two Centennial employees travel with the show and they arrive the day before the scheduled event. Mrs Thelma Morrow is the costume co-ordinator and Bruce Elder is stage manager. The costumes are fitted to the models chosen by the sponsoring group and a dress rehearsal is held to ensure a smooth performance.

Music cues and a prepared script help to make the show run smoothly.

There is no charge from the branch for the loan of the costumes, but profits must be applied to a Centennial project or event of the sponsor's choosing.

The show includes such historical figures as Laura Secord, Lady Tupper, Madame Champlain, Queen Victoria, Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, Pauline Johnson and Mrs. John Graves Simcoe.

Besides the show, the branch has produced two books of costumes which can be made for Centennial events. "A Century of Fashion," a booklet of women's fashions, is a great success and more than 8,000 copies have been distributed.

Now the branch has produced "Men's Attire for Centennial Celebrations." Both brochures were researched and written by Dorothy B Keen. The booklet on men's attire was written for those who desire authentic costumes for parades, pageants, plays, Old Home Weeks and other projects involving masculine attire as worn before Confederation to the Roaring Twenties.

Quiet Haven In Thailand

SAS News

Chiengmai, Thailand's second largest city, offers the visitor a quiet retreat from the hustle and bustle of modern Bangkok. Here, as tourists are fast discovering ,is found the sedate restfulness of days of yore.

Founded in 1296, Chiengmai nestles at the foot of Mount Doi Sutep, a thousand feet above sea level ,and 470 miles north of Thailand's capital city. It lies in the "Valley of Loveliness," so named because it produces some of the nation's finest tropical fruits and flowers.

The charm of Chiengmai, however, lies in the unusual mixture of the people, their culture ,and time which has left its mark on the city and the placid countryside. When Chiengmai was founded in the 13th century, it together with Lampang province and the Shan state of Kentung in Burma, was the Kingdom of Lanna Thai.

The Lanna Thai Kingdom maintained its independence for 250 years until 1558 when the Burmese sacked the city. Chiengmai remained a vassal state of Burma until 1775, when King Taksin of Siam marched on the city and placed it under the reign of the Thai monarchy.

Against this background, Chiengmai has grown to a city of 100,000 persons with the imprint of Thai, Burmese, and nomadic hill tribes embedded in its culture.

Today, visitors to Chiengmai can trace the city's history from remnants of the city wall which dates back seven centuries. In the many wats (temples) they can see the blending influence of Thai and Burmese architecture and religious cultures.

Many of the hill tribe people can be seen in the market places of Chiengmai wearing the costumes that distinguish them from rival clans and tribes. Equally colorful are the people of the valley. In Chiengmai and its surrounding villages there are many cottage crafts and home industries. Silver and lacquerware artisans, weavers hand looming rare silks, and whole families making the very popular and beautiful paper umbrellas can be viewed working in their homes.

How Long?

Montreal Star

President Johnson said that "we are on the way" to winning the war in Viet Nam. He supported his statement by saying that diplomatic reports indicate the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese "no longer really expect a military victory." Following this logic, the only remaining question should be: How long will it take to defeat the enemy? But it is not the only question. There are two others. First, is the United States really coming closer to triumph? Second, if so, what will it win?

London's Mile End Road

BBC London Letter

"The Mile End Road is the ugliest, liveliest and most complex boulevard in Britain, and a summary in itself of London's East End," said Barry Carman in a recent BBC World Service program in the 'Streets of London' series, when he talked with some of the people of the neighborhood which stretches eastward from the City of London beyond Aldgate — once the 'Old Gate' in the now vanished city wall. Country wagons once stopped at a haymarket one mile from Aldgate.

Probably, said Carman, the Roman centurion of two thousand years ago, or the medieval gatekeeper, had found life outside the city wall as well worth watching as the policeman of today, keeping an eye on the jostling crowd at the Petticoat Lane Sunday morning market close by Aldgate. Nowadays it is a well-dressed crowd, many from the new flats and housing estates which have replaced slums and war-bombed areas.

"It's the people who matter in the East End," said David Evans, an administrator with the Voluntary Services Organization who prefers to live in this unfashionable quarter. There are plenty of characters, but not in the sense that they were playing a part. "They are being themselves. You can walk through Bow, through Mile End, and meet Jewish Rabbis with long flowing beards, people in West African and Pakistani dress, people of almost every race and type. It has a vitality and variety which you don't meet with elsewhere."

The East End had always opened its arms to strangers, Carman pointed out. In the 17th century, to the French Protestant Huguenots, who had left their mark in the old weavers' houses with great attic windows and the occasional French street name; and the Sephardic Jews from Spain and Portugal. On the Sabbath, Sephardic music still echoed from the synagogue they had established. In the 19th century came thousands more Jews escaping from pogroms in Poland and Russia.

"Whitechapel is still their community with hundreds of small famine of the last century, and er butchers and restaurants — including one of the best restaurants in London. In the last decade some of our finest playwrights have come from the East End Jewish community — Arnold Wesker, Pinter, and Bernard Kops.

The Irish arrived in their thousands after the great potato famine of the last century, and Irish names abound, particularly around the docks. But despite its ready acceptance of strangers, the East End has always been overwhelmingly English and has many old English industries. At the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, started 400 years ago by a Robert Mott, Carman talked to Mr. William Hughes about their most famous bell, Big Ben, which has been sounding from the Houses of Parliament since 1859, and which since the BBC first broadcast its chimes on December 31, 1923, has become the best-known voice in broadcasting.

The foundry has also cast all the bells for Westminster Abbey since 1583. Founder Robert Mott himself cast the fifth and the seventh bells which still form part of the peal. The famous Bow Bells have been cast there since 1734. Besides bells for a great many other London churches they have made bells for Canada, the United States, South Africa, New Zealand, indeed practically every country in the world.

Off the Mile End Road, a signpost pointing to Toynbee Hall called up a whole world of 19th Century philanthropy, said Carman, when the fearsome slum of Victorian times shocked anyone with a social conscience. A young clergyman called Barnett founded Toynbee Hall to feed the minds and spirits of the poor as well as their bodies. It still works to meet needs not covered by the Welfare State. William Booth founded the Salvation Army in the Mile End Road, and Dr. Barnardo opened his home for destitute children.

Strictly Personal

Love and Happy Marriages

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A note arrived this week from a young man in New York, mentioning that he is getting married next month. This chap was clearly not in love when I saw him recently, nor did he pretend otherwise when he discussed the young lady he was engaged to.

And I wondered why so many sociologists devote themselves to inquiring into the causes of divorce, but so few attempt to investigate the causes of marriage. It seems to me impossible to understand why two persons get divorced unless we can comprehend why they got married in the first place.

I am not suggesting that only two persons who are deeply in love can have a successful marriage; but I am saying that if young people — and some older ones, too — marry for what we might call "negative" reasons, they can expect to have a negative end to their relationship.

Among the most common negative reasons, it has been my observation, are: social fatigue, rebellion against an unhappy home, a sense of competitiveness, an excessive dependence upon the opposite sex, and the fear of lonesomeness.

Now it seems plain to me that until young people are instructed in the needs and responses that are proper for a fruitful marriage, the divorce rate is going to mount dizzily, as divorces become easier in every state, no matter how vehemently the preachers inveigh against this evil. The old epigram, "The principal cause of divorce is marriage," has more sense than cynicism in it.

"Preventive marriage" courses ought to be as important for the social health of the community as preventive medicine is for our physical well-being. And all this nonsense that is talked about the need for "sex education" in the schools obscures the fact that young people today know a great deal more about sex—in its biological aspect—than they do about the emotions behind it.

It is not the factual, objective, biological facts about sex that young people (especially those of college age, who are close to marriage) need to be told about. It is rather, the emotional meaning that sex comes to have for them, in a deeply symbolic sense. They don't want to know about the processes and operations; they do want to know about the place and value of sex in a well-structured life, and the broader meaning of "morality" in the marriage relationship.

Sex education, of the birds-and-bees type, is a subject for the home, and at a relatively early age. But the preparation for marriage is a social rather than a private matter, and classes in psychology might profitably spend more time on the delicate emotional structure of the growing person, and less on the salivated reflexes of Pavlov's dogs.

As parents, most of us can do little when our children embark on tragic misadventures, except point out how heavily all of us have to pay for our mistakes. And at that age, who listens to parents?

Four more cables were laid in the 19th century and three of the six remained in service until last year.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Prices strengthened in light morning trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange after two days of losses.

By 11 a.m. 623,000 shares changed hands compared with 503,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Alcan paced the industrials higher, gaining ⅜ to 34⅝. Bank of Nova Scotia added ⅜ at 67¼ and Westcoast Transmission ¼ at 27½. Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce dropped ½ to a 1966 low of 60 and Dofasco ¼ to a low of 22½.

Uraniums continued to lose, with Denison, which slid 3¼ Tuesday, down ⅜ to 63⅛, Roman Corp. ⅜ to 15¼ and Rio Algom ¼ to 26½.

Silver Eureka highlighted speculatives, climbing 45 cents to 2.00. Siscoe was up 20 cents to 3.50 and Rayrock 9 to 1.29.

On index, industrials were up .42 to 158.43, golds 1.40 to 185.97, base metals .02 to 96.89 and the TSE .37 to 151.13. Western oils were down .14 to 100.94.

Denison, which recently hit a high of 68, slide 3¼ to 63½. The stock has been as low as 35 this year. Roman Corp., whose chief asset is Denison shares, fell 1⅞ to 15⅜ and Rio Algom ½ to 26¾.

Trading continued to be sluggish as most major groups were unable to sustain any advance. A total of 2,594,000 shares were traded compared with 2,469,000 Monday. Industrials fluctuated throughout the session, with the index closing off .53 to 158.01.

In the main list, Bathurst A was off 2 to 56, Peel-Elder 1⅛ to 14⅝ and Toronto-Dominion bank ½ to a 1966 low of 60.

Among base metals, Pine Point retreated 1½ to 60 and Noranda ⅞ to 53¾.

On index, golds were down 1.42 to 184.57, base metals 2.52 to 96.87, western oils .73 to 10108 and the TSE .71 to 150.76.

Smith Falls Patient Drowns In Rideau

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Officials today reported the fifth death in two years involving patients who have wandered from the Ontario Hospital here.

They said Felix Wayne Roberts, 22, drowned in the Rideau River after disappearing July 18. He was found July 20 half a mile east of this town 35 miles southwest of Ottawa.

The slightly retarded youth had run away several times before. Two other patients have drowned and two have did of exposure and exhaustion since 1964.

"Y" Plans Sports Skills Clinic Here

A sports skills clinic for boys to 14 years of age will be operated by the Belleville Family Y.M.C.A. during August.

Bert Messacar, Y.M.C.A. General Secretary, in making this announcement, said that boys of this age are anxious to improve their skills and not just casually "play games" during their school vacation. Summer hockey schools are very popular in many centres.

Richard Thornton will be the sports skills program co-ordinator. Richard is a Queen's University student who is giving outstanding leadership in the "Y" Day Camp program. Instruction in swimming, diving, gymnastics, trampoline, track and field, softball, soccer and golf, will be given by expert instructors in each sport. Courses to be given will be selected on the basis of registration. Sessions will be held in mornings. Competitions will be held when such are feasible.

Boys should register immediately at the Y.M.C.A. office 433 Victoria Ave. - phone 962-9245. Fees are being kept to the minimum necessary to cover direct expenses involved in this program.

79 Tractor

must come from the federal government.

An Ontario Farmers' Union spokesman said farmers in cars were expected to join the tractor parade during the last mile of the trip.

The farmers parked their tractors Tuesday night on a motel lot near Waterdown, about five miles north of Hamilton, after covering 55 miles from Woodstock. The majority returned to evening chores on their farms while a few stayed at the motel.

John Dolmer, president of the OFU, which has organized parades throughout the province, said Tuesday that if a meeting with government officials fails to bring farm improvements more drastic actions may be in the offing. He said withholding services has become an "accepted thing today in labor groups."

"It would be a last resort and would take some organizing."

George Richer, a London, Ont., OFU organizer, said farmers in Essex County are already talking about cutting off shipments of grain and milk to markets.

Mr. Richer, who is supervising the parade, said he was not disappointed by Tuesday's turnout. He said he expected the number would diminish because many farmers had work to do and some tractors would not stand up to the 100-mile drive to Toronto.

In most areas Tuesday farmers stayed off the road and tended their work. About 600 staged parades in various areas Monday.

Nine provincial police motorcycle officers escorted the demonstrators into Waterdown Tuesday, waving them to the shoulder when traffic backed up behind them.

At Peter's Corners, 10 miles west of Waterdown, they were guests at a luncheon sponsored by the Hamilton Steelworkers Area Council.

Stewart Cooke, president of the Hamilton and District Labor Council, said labor is proud the farmers are standing up to the government and urged the rest of the labor movement to lend support.

The OFU wants the provincial government to help subsidize the price of milk being processed into products such as ice cream and cheese to guarantee a net $4 a hundredweight. Farmers now receive $3.25 from producers plus a 75-cent subsidy from the federal government but claim up to 30 cents of this goes for transportation costs.

Ellard Powers of Beachburg, an OFU vice-president, said Monday many farmers favor dumping milk if the tractor parades fail to get action.

A spokesman for producers in the Verner - Warren area of Northern Ontario said Tuesday farmers in that area will parade their tractors along Highway 17 between North Bay and Sudbury before Aug. 10.

The tractor parades began in April when 20 Perth County farmers drove their vehicles over a 12-mile route between Rannoch and Uniondale, about 20 miles north of London, in support of an OFU brief submitted to Mr. Stewart.

Resort Waters Not Polluted

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Water Resources Commission is undertaking a widespread study of pollution in the province's major resort areas, it was announced Tuesday.

The commission began taking samples in June at 21 points throughout the Muskoka and Kawartha water systems and will continue through August. These will be supplemented by samplings every three months during the rest of the year.

W. A. Steggles, supervisor of the commission's water quality surveys branch, said the current series of tests has not shown serious pollution problems in the resort lakes.

"The water is in excellent condition throughout the areas," he said.

Reception Etiquette

'Everybody Come' Says Ladybird But Then Johnsons Can Afford It

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Prospective fathers of the bride, who traditionally feel as the wedding bills mount that they're not losing a daughter but gaining a mortgage, will probably be watching the approaching Luci Johnson nuptials with a special interest.

Will the first lady, through purely hospitable motives, set a trend that will lead to even more lean days ahead for dad?

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson wants everybody — all 700 — invited to the church for her daughter's wedding on Aug. 6 to come to a reception at the White House.

"It offends my sense of hospitality to invite friends to the church and not to the reception and vice versa," she has explained.

Comments Amy Vanderbilt, expert on etiquette: "That's awfully good if you have lots of money. The average American family can't include in the reception all those they've invited to the wedding. But if money is no object, lovely."

THINKS SHE'S RIGHT

Miss Vanderbilt thinks Mrs. Johnson is perfectly right, though, "because it's so obvious they can afford to have everybody. For the average family it would be hard."

"I say in my book," says Mss Vanderbilt, "which, by the way, they've had at the White House since the Truman administration, that a wedding can be as large as you want and the reception as large or small as you want."

Lack of space or money for entertaining a large group is good enough reason for sending fewer reception than church invitations she thinks.

For what it's worth to multidaughtered fathers who look with increasing approval on elopement as their offspring grow, Miss Vanderbilt recalls what a friend did:

"He gave his first girl an elaborate wedding and then summoned his other two and said, 'From now on what I'm investing in is a strong ladder.'"

PLAN ANOTHER

At another prominent wedding — one week after Luci Johnson's—all the many guests at the church again are invited to the home reception. That is Marguerite Slocum's wedding at Newport, R.I., one of the high spots of the summer season at the society resort.

The bride's mother, Mrs. John Slocum, says everybody invited to the noon wedding will come to a 1 p.m. brunch under a big tent set up on the lawn at the Slocum place.

"When guests come from so far away it's not fair to make them stand in a reception line for just a glass of champagne," she reasons. That's why the brunch. The tent will have a floor for dancing, and besides a society band, Scots bagpipers will skirl an occasional tune.

But two examples don't make a rule. Mrs. Gladstone Williams, who teaches the social graces to Washington's diplomats, government officials and protocol - minded capital newcomers, says it's still up to the bride and her mother to decide whether to send out a lot of wedding invitations without the reception cards inside.

Full Gospel Congregation Honors Couples

FRANKFORD — Members of Frankford Full Gospel congregation gathered at the recreational room of the parsonage on Saturday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Murray Steacy, (nee Gloria Reilly) and Mr. and Mrs. James Curry (nee Shirley Sarginson) on their recent marriages.

Assistant Pastor David Strome was master of ceremonies for the evening and welcomed everyone.

The room was decorated with pink and white streamers for the occasion.

Favoring with musical selections were The Joytones and included soloist Miss Kathleen Gunter; Mr. George McCumber and Mr. Clifford Sweetman of Belleville playing the Spanish and Hawaiian guitars.

Mrs. Glen Post conducted a number of games and contests. Winners were: John Dunlop, Mr. James Curry and Mrs. Murray Steacy.

The "Joytones" played another selection.

Mr. David Strome gave a vote of thanks to the Joytones' contribution of music and song.

On behalf of the congregation, Rev. James Dunlop, pastor, presented the honored couples with an electric frying pan, two china dinnerware settings, plus pillow slips.

Mrs. Mary Patrick presented Murray and Gloria Steacy (former choir members) with a lovely mirror on behalf of the choir. Both brides responded in appreciation.

Riviera Fashion Offer Wide Range of Styles

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Beachwear and resort fashions on the French Riviera this year span half a century, from the bloomer girls and Mack Sennett bathing beauties to the age of plastics and the Beatles.

They also range from trim nautical styles and one-piece romper suits to wide - legged yachting pyjamas and romantic Tahitian pareos or draped "mini" dress.

At St. Tropez, the cradle of smart French resort wear, the girls appear as short-haired youths in newsboy caps and bell-bottom trousers, or long-haired loreleis, in feminine pyjamas and ruffled shifts.

In this "pop" and "op" fashion era, summer vacation clothes symbolize fun and fantasy. Styles which would stop traffic in the winter look right under the blazing sun of southern France.

BLOOMER STYLE

Granddaughters of the Gibson girls turn out in bloomers, launched by Vachon and Choses, two of the famous style-setting boutiques at St. Tropez.

Thigh-length and baggy, these bloomers appear in geometric prints or abstract floral designs and are worn with matching halter tops or cotton ribbed T-shirts. Others are made in terry towelling, the season's favorite new fabric used for everything from bathing suits to slacks and dresses.

Terry towelling is used for two of the most popular fashion trends—the one-piece romper suit and the casquette. Romper suits made of stretch towelling adopt a prim, covered-up look in contrast to last year's see-through effects in fishnet and lacey crochet.

Terry is featured again in the epidemic of youthful caps and casquettes worn with all the hair tucked up inside, or perched jauntily at an angle over long straight flowing locks and Beatle hairstyles.

Many casquettes have visor brims made of transparent colored plastic. Anti-freckle sunshades and headbands, with deep plastic visors sloped down to the chin, shade the face and are most becoming.

GO NAUTICAL

Nautical fashions, inspired by Yves Saint Laurent's spring collection, turn many girls into counterparts of the St. Tropez sailors. The fashion regatta is based on inexpensive copies of the bell-bottom trousers with square yoke front, striped cotton jersey T-shirts, casquettes, and brass buttons.

Pseudo-male fashions turn up again at Mic - Mac, the St. Tropez boutique owned by Gunther Sachs. Mic - Mac shows brightly - colored cotton velvet dinner suits styled exactly on a man's evening clothes, and worn with flat-heeled patent-leather dancing shoes.

Two new bathing suit styles made their bow this season.

Pareo styles from Tahiti stress the feminine trend, in contrast to the shiny, lacquered nylon "frogwoman" suits which glisten even when dry. These pareos are in two pieces, with a side-slung skirt draped on one hip. They are made of traditional island pattern cottons in multi-toned leaf and verdant designs.

The "James Bond girls" wear sleek one-piece suits with covered shoulders and skin tight legs fitted to mid-thigh.

A new St. Tropes boutique revives the Mack Sennett bathing suits with striped trunks and long, solid - toned torso, with conventional top.

Ann Landers

Problem Boy Needed Discipline Long Ago

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 20. My girl friend is 18. The problem is my girl friend's 15-year-old brother. The kid is completely out of control, and nobody does anything about it.

When he sasses his mother she yells, "Dad, come and hit Clark." He yells back, "Hit him yourself. I'm busy." Then they get into an argument about who should hit Clark. Of course, nobody hits Clark and he wins again.

Last night, my girl and I were sitting on the porch and this kid came up from behind and cracked her over the head with the telephone book. I was afraid he had fractured her skull. I lost my temper and gave him a wallop across the back. He began to bawl and holler for his dad to come and whip me.

Both his dad and mother came running. They chewed me out for laying a hand on their son. My own parents said I shouldn't have hit him. Please tell me what to do in the future. Nothing but pain stops that kid. — PUSHED TOO FAR.

DEAR PUSHED: You should not have hit Clark, but strictly between us, I'm glad you did. Somebody should have hit him twelve years ago.

DEAR ANN: Three years ago my niece came to live with me after she lost her mother under tragic circumstances. The girl is an adorable, affectionate 12-year-old.

She is a good student but she dawdles and daydreams so much that it irritates me. I have to help her get her clothes in the morning or she'd never finish dressing. She pokes through breakfast and I almost have to spoon-feed her.

The child seems very happy with me. She has lovely friends and everything a young girl could wish for. I didn't have these problems with my own children. What am I doing wrong? Am I pushing her too hard? Please advise. — CLEVELAND.

DEAR CLEVELAND: The girl came to you when she was nine. Her patterns of behavior were pretty well set. Then, too, her mother's tragic death may have had a traumatic effect on her.

Something is off kilter. You should not be helping a 12-year-old get dressed. Obviously, the girl needs professional counsel. Call the Family Service Association for an appointment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm engaged to marry a captain in the Marine Corps. He is the most wonderful man in the world and I am very much in love with him.

Last week he told me some shattering news — he is still in love with the girl he went with before we became engaged. The girl broke up with him for a musician who later dropped her without notice and left town. My marine said his pride would not let him call the girl although he has wanted to many times.

What shall I do? He has not said he will not marry me but I get the idea he is getting cold feet. Please advise. — GIRL WITH A HEADACHE.

DEAR GIRL: If you think you have a headache now just marry a man who tells you he's in love with someone else. Give the Marine an honorable discharge. He wants out.

Salads Boast Color, Flavor, Nutrition

Although any time is salad time, the warm summer months have a closer affinity to salads. There's nothing like a cool, crisp salad for lunch on a hot summer day. It's light and flavorful and, more important, nutritious.

Fruit and vegetables sparkle with interesting flavors, colors, textures and shapes, making meals more attractive and appetizing. With the great variety available today the chef or homemaker has at hand all the ingredients for an artistic and nourishing creation. The simplest dish can be made glamorous and delicious — low in calories too.

Out of every 100 lbs. of food consumed by Canadians today, 20 lbs. is made up of fresh fruit and vegetables. Perhaps that is one reason Canadians are so healthy, for out of those fruits and vegetables they get 92 per cent of their Vitamin C; 44 per cent of their Vitamin A; 30 per cent of their iron; 19 per cent of their carbohydrates; 10 per cent of their protein; and appreciable amounts of several other nutrients.

CONSUMPTION INCREASING

Canadian consumption of fruit and vegetables is increasing each year. Several things contribute to this, such as greater public awareness of their nutritious value per dollar invested, compared to other foods. Improved growing and marketing techniques, modern storage facilities, and agricultural research undertaken to improve the quality of crops also play their part in providing the public with high quality, eye-appealing produce.

The eye-catching colors of cool, crisp fruit and vegetable salads sell them better than words, whether in a restaurant or at the family table.

Club Activities

TRIMETTES CLUB

FRANKFORD — The weekly meeting of Frankford Trimettes Club was held on Monday evening in Frankford Community Hall.

President Mrs. Fern Downs opened the meeting. Twenty-five members were present. Weigh-in showed a loss of 41 pounds. Miss Grace Couperus of Stockdale was the winner of the highest loss of weight, five pounds. Four members were penalized for gaining weight. Mrs. Ann Zylstra was the month winner losing a total weight of 20 lbs. She was awarded a certificate for a hairdo donated by a local beauty salon.

Miss Joan Hetherington, physical instructor with the use of a record player conducted physical demonstrations.

The meeting adjourned and it was announced that there will be no meeting next week due to holiday time.

Special wine label for guests who wouldn't be happy without it:

Imported
WINE
FROM NIAGARA FALLS ONTARIO, CANADA

It has taken us almost thirty years and an investment of well over a million dollars to produce wines that are the equal of those produced anywhere in the world. But some people don't taste wine at all; they judge wines by their labels.

When you have friends like those in, blindfold them before you serve any of these wines. After, if they insist on knowing what excellent wine they've enjoyed, show them this special "imported" label. They'll be happy. You'll be happy because you've saved a good deal of money. We'll be happy.

President Champagne—Canada's prize champagne. For any dinner, all gala occasions, especially weddings and anniversaries.

President Sauterne—A light white wine for the table. With fish, fowl, white meats, salads.

President Extra Dry—A delicate wine that inspires encomiums from all who try it. With fish, white meat, salads.

Pleasant gift idea! What could be more delightful, more acceptable than two or three of these famous wines, or a complete President Wine Cellar?

CHERRY LOAF

1 cup white sugar
¼ cup butter
1 egg
1 small bottle maraschino cherries
2 cups bread flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
½ cup walnuts

METHOD: Put liquid from cherries in a cup and fill with sweet milk to make 1 cup liquid. Combine ingredients. Bake in loaf pan at 350 F.

Mrs. Garfield Evans,
R R 5, Belleville, Ont.

MOLASSES COOKIES

¾ cup shortening (partially butter)
1 cup white sugar
¼ cup molasses
1 egg
Few drops maple flavoring
1¾ cups sifted pastry flour
1½ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. cloves
1½ tsp. ginger
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon.

METHOD: Cream shortening, butter and sugar. Add molasses and egg, add flavoring, mix well. Sift flour and measure, add baking soda, cloves, ginger, cinnamon, salt and mix well. Add to creamed mixture, refrigerate for easier handling. Form into balls between palms. Roll into granulated sugar (optional) Place on greased cookie sheets, bake at 325 F. for 12 to 15 min.

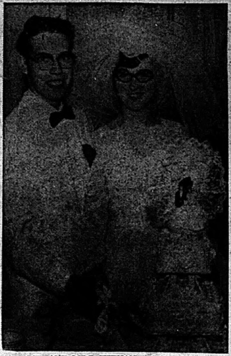
Rosemary McCullough,
R R 1, Shannonville, Ont.

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony so a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

Pictures may be submitted by your photographer up to three days after the wedding. We cannot publish wedding write-ups submitted later than six days after the date of the ceremony.

Accounts of showers and entertainments in honor of the bride do not belong with the wedding write-up, but should be sent in immediately after they are held, for publication separately.



MR. AND MRS. KIEVAN E. LONERGAN

Lonergan – Geen

Father Rufus Debono officiated at the wedding ceremony in Holy Rosary Catholic Church Belleville, when Joyce Margaret Geen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Johnston of Cannifton was united in marriage to Kievan Ernest Lonergan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lonergan, Peterborough.

Mr. Ernest Reed played traditional wedding music and accompanied his son Michael, the soloist, in appropriate selections.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a gown of pure silk organza featuring a fitted bodice of imported Chantilly lace with a Sweetheart neckline and long lily-point sleeves. The skirt at back was enhanced with four tiers of organza bordered with scalloped Chantilly lace and came to an apron effect at front caught up with a large lace rose. A six-tier silk illusion veil flowed from a headdress of roses and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red roses in the shape of a cross.

Miss Barbara Geen, sister of the bride was maid of honor and the bridesmaids Miss Theresa Johnston, cousin of the bride and Miss Margaret Lonergan, sister of the bridegroom were all dressed alike in turquoise silk organza sheath style dresses featuring fitted bodices having scoop necklines and cap sleeves. The overskirts were outlined with Chantilly lace. Each carried a bouquet of white and turquoise tinted 'mums. The little flower girl Miss Patricia Devlin wore a short white frock with full skirt. She carried a basket of turquoise and white 'mums.

Mr. Joseph Lonergan, brother of the bridegroom was best man and the ushers were Mr. Vincent Tuepah, cousin of the bride and Mr. Alfred Carrol.

The reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Belleville where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a blue lace over taffeta dress, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a light blue linen dress with matching short jacket, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Virginia and other points in the United States the bride chose a white lace over taffeta dress with pink embroidery, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses and yellow carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonergan will reside at Lancaster Road, Peterborough.

Successful Living

Improper for Miss To Visit in Hotel

DEAR DORIS: When my boy friend came back to town on a visit, he asked me to come to his hotel room and I went, and I'm not sorry I did. We wanted to be free to talk and kiss, and we always stop petting before things get out of control.

DORIS CLARK

My Mom says that I shouldn't do that again, because she says if any of my friends saw me going into a hotel with a man, they would get the wrong idea and my reputation would be lost.

She says she realizes we do not feel free in our place because everyone is always coming and going. But she thinks, and I agree, that my reputation is a thing I shouldn't mar. It is really a shame, I think, how people can see other people's acts in a bad light. — IMA LADY.

DEAR IMA: A shame, indeed! But that's Old Mrs. Grundy for you.

It just isn't proper for a young lady to go to a man's room in a hotel. Hotel rooms have been associated with love-making far too long — and this is entirely apart from your good intentions.

DEAR DORIS: I have a scar on my face that bothers me very much. I have approached a plastic surgeon in A Town and was told nothing could be done. He seemed to think that because I am middle-aged and married, it shouldn't bother me! — SCARFACE.

DEAR SCARFACE: On the basis that you have landed your man, are no longer young, and therefore no one looks at you anyway?

I resent that too! With today's longevity, you still have nearly half your life ahead of you. Your family will count on you as homemaker and gracious hostess for a long time yet; after that, grandchildren are going to want to be proud to show you off.

If the scar is not too deep or too discolored, certain disguising cosmetics can make it less noticeable; and I am sending you the names of several good ones on the market. The surgeon may know your particular case is hopeless, as far as a skin graft is concerned; but cosmetic surgery is coming to the fore, and it wouldn't hurt to get another opinion.

To BEDTIME DOSING: Rewards outrank scolding and forcing when it comes to medicines. I'm told that nineteenth century tactics included the use of a trick medicine spoon which spilled the contents when pushed against the gullet. How could the victim ever trust his mother again?

Appealing to a child's good sense works magic and can inspire a little fellow to join the conspiracy against disease rather than to feel he is being put upon. Give Johnny credit and it may surprise you just how well he comes up to bat.

Let's hear from some of the mothers and dads who have triumphed in the area of dose-giving.

* * *

Confidential to BRIDE'S MOTHER: Just because your long-time chum lives too far away to attend the nuptials is no reason to deny her an invitation. She won't think you are grabbing for gifts (which are not obligatory anyway, when an invitation is declined.)

It would be different if we were discussing more casual acquaintances residing in another province; they should just receive announcements when the knot is tied.

Canadian Wins Top Ballet Prize

TORONTO (CP) — Martine van Hamel, 20-year-old soloist with the National Ballet of Canada, has won first prize in the junior class of the international ballet competition at Varna, Bulgaria.

The young dancer was the best of 50 competitors. She earlier won a standing ovation for her performance in the semi-finals before 16 judges including Galina Ulanova, Russia's prima ballerina, and Arnold Haskell of England.

Her prize is a diploma and a purse of 300 leva ($276) nd she has already had offers to appear on Danish television and dance with prominent foreign ballet companies.

It was the first time Canada has entered the international competition.

The second Canadian competitor, Karen Bowes, 18, of St. Catharines, was complimented by Mr. Haskell for her "lyricism and good clean schooling."

Martine van Hamel, the daughter of the Dutch consul-general in Toronto, went to the National Ballet School. Karen Bowes graduated from the same school this year.

There's an important place in your summer life for one simple, superlative understated dress — and here it is! Printed Pattern 214 by the famed house of Pattullo-Jo Copeland is all flow and slenderness. Notice the new long dart and the bands at neck and hem. Note the slightly one-sided path the buttonholes follow — a subtle, smart detail. Consider shantung, linen, rayon, sheer wool or silk crepe.

Printed Pattern M214 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 10 requires 2⅞ yards 45-inch fabric.

Send ONE DOLLAR for Printed Pattern M214 to THE INTELLIGENCER, 60 FRONT ST. W., TORONTO 1, ONTARIO, Pattern Department. Please print plainly YOUR NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

SHE LOVED GETTING THE BIRD!!

Dear Susanna: "Mom, mom, I've been invited up to Brian's cottage for a week!"

Everyone was thrilled when Junior came winging home with this stupendous news.

After all the telephoning back and forth, there was the question of what we should send along to show our appreciation.

Stuffing and cooking a good fat turkey proved to be the best idea yet . . . Brian's mother couldn't have been more pleased.

Packing it was another thing, as cars going to the lake are always loaded to the hilt. So, instead of trying to place the cumbersome bird intact in a huge box, I made three medium-sized parcels — wings, legs, etc. in one bundle, the dressing and the rack in another, with the white meat mostly still intact on the rack in the third. It all tucked nicely into a neat packable carton.

This also made a tasty troubleless treat for their first meal when they arrived. — Mrs. J.B.

PINCH - HITTER

Dear Folks: A strip of wet newspaper doubles amazingly well for masking tape. Use it when you have a small paint spray repair job to do. — Susanna

Mother Hangs Self

HONOLULU (AP) — Mrs. Maggie Young, who drowned her five youngest children Nov. 22, was found dead in a chicken slaughterhouse on the grounds of the Hawaii State Hospital Monday. Police said she had hanged herself. Mrs. Young, 38, was committed to the hospital in January after telling police the children, aged 11 months to eight years, were continually sick and she could not care for them properly.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

What to do about jealousy in an older child when a new baby arrives? You have probably come up with any number of ingenious ideas. But here are a couple of green-eyed antidotes that may not have occurred to you:

- Why not ask the older child's advice from time to time. Like: "What colour sweater shall we put on baby today? What toy do you think he would like?"
- Suggest that grandmothers and others focus attention on the older child. Being the prime target of attention will give a feeling of self-importance to a toddler.

Refreshing story, with nutritious overtones. Gerber Strained Fruit Juices are ideal for giving that new baby his daily vitamin C (ascorbic acid). As you probably know, it's one of the factors in building sound gums and other body tissues. Gerber Orange Juice is an excellent source of this important vitamin. Gerber Apple Juice and Apple-Cherry juice have added vitamin C to equal that of the orange juice. These three juices are mildly sweet, never tart, and well accepted by wee ones. As baby gets a bit older, he will enjoy the three combination juice drinks—all with added vitamin C.

APPLE JUICE
Gerber

A doll of an idea. If you've a girl toddler who resents the new baby, why not encourage her to dress, bathe and feed her favourite doll while you perform these tasks for the little one. It will occupy her while you're busy with baby and give her a feeling of participation.

Start to finish. Don't forget that baby cereals provide special nutritional benefits right through the toddler stage. Gerber Cereals—Rice Cereal, Oatmeal, Barley, Mixed Cereal and Protein Cereal Food—have added iron in a form easily assimilated by babies, plus calcium and B-vitamins: thiamine (B_1), riboflavin (B_2) and niacin. STEAK COOKOUT MENU

Inexplicably I feel modest.

As I set out to tell you about our steak barbecue I feel incompetent to communicate — especially the grand aroma that wafted over the hedges and had neighbors on all sides wondering who Mary was entertaining.

It was Pete's birthday — that's who and what. It was also my rehearsal party for a steak cookout for Civic Holiday for you.

The steak measured one-and-one-half inches thick, weighed four-aand-one-third pounds and was hung three weeks and served seven.

STEAK COOKOUT MENU (to serve 7):

One 1½-inch thick
Sirloin Steak
Tossed Greens
Chilled Bean Salad
(see July 12)
Hot Sliced Buttered
French Stick
Berry Shortcake (see July 11)
Coffee and Tea

It being Pete's day the steak was prepared as he wanted it — sparingly sprinkled with garlic salt and Angostura bitters.

When the flames of his fire had died down and he had a nice bed of coals he cooked the steak on both sides in my stainless steel hinged barbecue basket which I have described to you. Half of our crowd want their steaks rare. So he transferred it to my big cutting board and sliced lovely thick slices right through the centre for the rare birds. He returned the remainder to the fire until well done. (I do not fancy the implication of age there but it is correct.)

In the house in the kitchen in the oven was the French stick. I had sliced it 1" thick nearly through to the bottom crust and pried the slices apart and spread them with soft butter. I wrapped it well in heavy duty foil and put it in the oven at 200 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour before we ate.

WEDNESDAY
Dinner Menu

by Mary
Moore

Oven - Barbecued Shoulder Lamb Chops; Corn Niblets; Creamed Cauliflower; Shredded Carrot and Raisin Salad with Boiled Dressing; Fresh Raspberries and Cream; Curd Cakes (see Tues.); Tea.

TOSSED GREENS:

Rub your wooden bowl with a cut clove of garlic. Wash Bibb lettuce well for it grows best in sandy soil and needs plenty of running water. It should be dried well too. It is worth all the trouble. Tear it using enough to feed your crowd. Add 4 or 5 sliced radishes and ½ green pepper sliced and about 1/3 or ½ of a cucumber, unpared, scored with a fork and sliced wafer thin. Just before serving toss sparingly with French dressing.

Our crowd loves flinging their used empty paper plates and cups into the fire after a cookout meal, but I wanted hot plates for that beautiful steak. You will nod your heads in agreement, I am sure, when I deplore the sight and taste of a beautiful steak cooled off by garden breezes and clinging to a paper plate. So I preheated them in the warming oven in the kitchen and we ate our steak from warm china plates and it remained warm.

Then on came the berry shortcake topped with 32 whole strawberries and two-and-one-half-year old Douglas and four-year old Jennifer led the singing of "Happy Birthday to Daddy."

with some 15 or 16 major areas, among them "the effects of automation on society, our trade and commerce, policies, our agriculture policies."

Although not connected with the Social Credit party, the foundation is vitally concerned with individual initiative and incentive and with the importance of free enterprise, said Mr. Wilson, a Toronto financial agent.

Preston Manning, 24, son of Alberta's Social Credit premier, Ernest Manning, is co-ordinating research information on different subjects.

Premier Manning said he sympathizes with the foundation's aims, for it would mean a "re-alignment of political ideas in Canada," but denied there is any attempt afoot to form a new federal party.

NOTES TREND

Mr. Wilson said: "We certainly think that Canadians as a group should recognize social responsibilities. But we also feel there is a pretty important trend toward submergence of the individual . . . in the let-the-government-do-it attitude."

"We feel that individual incentive and initiative cannot be cancelled out and we would like to present some counter-balancing thinking" to the usual theories of political expediency.

The foundation, "caught off base" by the Calgary report and subsequent stories, will forge specific plans at a directors' meeting, "probably in August or September and probably in Toronto."

Within the next few weeks, other board members—mainly Easterners—are expected to be added. Politicians might join later. About 30 persons had been approached at the University of Alberta to study various government programs.

The foundation, said Mr. Wilson, would "welcome anyone volunteering their information or experience."

In a telephone interview from White Sulfur Springs, B.C., Mr. McLean said he understands the basic aim of the NPARF is to "give business a chance to take an interest in government, doing so in a research and advisory capacity."

Doubt Large Tobacco Crop Fills Demand

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP)—Ontario tobacco officials predict the 1966 crop will be the largest in history but Canada's tobacco manufacturers doubt the supply will meet the soaring demand.

Harvest of the 1966 crop began Tuesday near this town 25 miles east of Oshawa. George A. Demeyere, chairman of the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Growers Marketing Board, estimates the yield will reach between 200,000,000 and 220,000,000 pounds.

But D. E. Kearney, vice-president of Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada Ltd., said in an interview in Montreal that the industry will need about 235,000,000 pounds this year.

Demand for tobacco products in Canada is moving ahead faster than anticipated by the manufacturing companies, he said. Cigarette sales in Canada in the first five months of this year rose 11 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

Overseas demand rose sharply this year as well. British companies, cut off from Rhodesian tobacco, have asked Canadian growers to supply 55,000,000 pounds this year, up 62 per cent from the average of 34,000,000 pounds in recent years.

With union support, the post-war Labor government held pay increases to five per cent for two years, the best record since the war, Since Wilson took office 21 months ago, wages have gone up 10 per cent.

The 1948 - 49 austerity program, organized by Sir Stafford Cripps, produced an increase of 25 per cent in Britain's exports and an annual increase in production of seven per cent.

VOTE TONIGHT

Tonight the house ends a two-day debate on Wilson's economic package and is expected to vote down a Conservative motion censuring Wilson's management of the economy.

The present package also involves a seven-per-cent interest rate, higher consumer taxes and promises to cut government spending.

Tuesday night Conservative Leader Edward Heath accused Wilson's team of failing to check "over - manning, restrictive practices, too little competition generally, low incentives, mass government spending and regional imbalance."

Word-Message Signs Giving Way to Symbols

OTTAWA (CP)—After almost 40 years of service, Canada's word-message traffic signs are giving way to symbols.

The Canadian Good Roads Association says it will take about three years to change all warning signs to symbols.

The association's convention last fall at Saskatoon approved revisions that will make "all warning signs in Canada symbols instead of word messages," it said in a statement.

The action followed recommendations by the Council on Uniform Traffic Control Devices for Canada. The council is sponsored by the association and the Canadian section of the Institute of Traffic Engineers.

The council was formed in 1956 to develop a set of standards for Canada. Nearly 100 traffic specialists were involved, representing all major traffic jurisdictions in Canada.

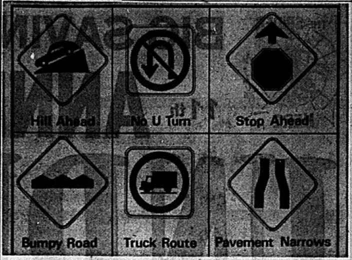
After four years' work the council produced a publication titled Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices for Canada. The recommended standards in this volume were accepted by all major traffic jurisdictions.

Despite country-wide agreement on the traffic symbols, three years is required for total implementation because no province or municipality will replace existing signs until they're in need of repair of replacement.

The council hasn't stopped with uniform signs. It is continuing research on traffic control devices and on development, approval and issuance of new or revised standards for traffic signs, signals and markings.

OFFER REWARD

TORONTO (CP)—Police have offered a $2,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person responsible for the slaying of Frank Desjarlais, 42, of Windsor. Desjarlais was beaten to death July 16 in the Walsingham Hotel here.



WORD SIGNS ARE OUT, SYMBOLS ARE IN — Canada's word-message traffic signs are being replaced by uniform symbols. The signs follow recommendations produced by the Council on Uniform Traffic Control Devices for Canada, a group sponsored by the Canadian Good Roads Association and the Canadian section of the Institute of Traffic Engineers. It will take three years to put up the symbol signs because provinces and municipalities won't replace existing signs until they're in need of repair or replacement. (CP Photo)

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Death, the Black Octopus always stands with tentacles poised, ready to strike suddenly, swiftly at targets totally unaware of its nearness.

It is no respector of persons. The mighty in the high places ;the rich in the castles and the poor in their ghettos and hovels are fair game for the Dark Destroyer.

But the suddenness of the striking is the most shocking of all. Impact sends the world in which the victim moved reeling by its very force.

Death holds no special favors for the realm of sport. It has struck suddenly, viciously, collectively and individually, taking its toll of lives from the world of athletics.

One comes to mind who tossed defiance in the face of the Destroyer. He is Ben Hogan, world-famous golfer who leaving the site of a tournament was critically injured in an automobile crash at the height of his career. He dared the odds and lived and more remarkably came back successfully to golf.

And Hogan's realm staggered when Tony Lema, the "Champagne Golfer" was killed suddenly in an aircraft crash the other day with his wife and two others.

Lema's death proved that the dangerous hazards for the touring golf professional are not the sand bunkers, but the heavy travelling en route to appointed rounds.

And of the travel media the Grim Reaper, it seems, has selected the aircraft as his Number One collector of toll.

One of the most shocking tragedies in the history of sport was the plane crash in Belgium, Feb. 15, 1961 in which 18 members of the U.S. figure-skating team perished while en route to the world championships in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Sixteen members of the California Poly football team at St. Luis Obispo were killed Oct. 29, 1960 in the crash of their chartered plane at Toledo, Ohio.

Knute Rockne, famed coach of Notre Dame was killed in a plane crash in a Kansas cornfield on March 31, 1931.

Marcel Cerdan, the former middleweight champion from France, and rated the best French fighter since Georges Carpentier, died October 28, 1949 in the crash of a transatlantic plane in the Azores.

In the same year the Italian championship soccer team Torino of Turin, was wiped out in the crash of a three-engine plane that fell in flames in the centre of Turin.

And soccer Britain was shocked to its innermost depths on February 7, 1958 when seven members of the Manchester United team regarded as one of the country's best, died in a plane crash near Munich, Germany, en route from the world championship at Belgrade.

The worst disaster in Canadian sport history came December 10, 1956 when five professional football players were among those lost in a Trans-Canada Airlines crash on Silver Tip Mountain near Hope, British Columbia.

Lost were Mario de Marco, Ray Syrnyk, Mel Becket, and Gordon Sturtridge of the Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calvin Jones of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. All had attended a Western Football Conference all-star game in Vancouver.

In another plane disaster, Bill Barilko of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League was lost when the private plane in which he was flying with a friend went down between Timmins and Moosonee in Northern Ontario while they were on a fishing trip August 28, 1951.

Other phases of sport, aided by their own hazards, have paid toll to the Grim Collector.

Bobby Hayward, rated one of the world's top speedboat drivers went to his death in a race crash on the Detroit River in 1962. Four other outstanding American drivers have been killed this year in racing catastrophies.

Death has pounced on the famous Indianapolis "500" on two or three occasions in search of its victims. International car racing overseas has paid its toll. Football pays an annual quota. Motorcycle racing is not behind in its payments.

And as long as they build automobiles and maintain highways, the traffic ribbons of the world will always be the best producer of fodder for Death's insatiable appetite.

Nats' Saverine Steals Hit Thunder

* * * * * Tribe Stops Orioles

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tony Oliva is leading the league in batting, Frank Robinson has hit seven homers in the last eight games and Willie Horton is breezing along at a .500 pace for the last week.

So who's the hottest hitter in the American League?

Would you believe Bob Saverine?

Oliva rapped two hits, Robinson tagged his 29th homer and Horton had four straight hits Tuesday night but Saverine continued to set the pace with three hits giving him 10 in his last 16 swings.

Horton's four straight hits drove in all of Detroit's runs as the Tigers downed Chicago White Sox 3-1. Oliva drove in two runs with his 19th homer and raised his average to .331 as Minnesota Twins defeated New York Yankees 6-3.

Robinson's 29th homer couldn't save Baltimore Orioles from a 7-4 defeat by Cleveland Indians.

Saverine helped Washington Senators dump California Angels 6-2 and Boston Red Sox rapped Kansas City Athletics 8-5.

Horton, with 11 hits in his last 22 swings, has raised his average 21 points from .252 to .273.

Willie doubled home Norm Cash with the tying run in the fourth and then drove in other Detroit runs with singles in the sixth and eighth.

Frank Howard and Ken McMullen drove in two runs apiece for the Senators and Saverine contributed three singles and scored twice.

Howard, batting for Willie Kirkland, delivered a two-run single in the third and McMullen tripled following hits by Ed Brinkman and Saverine in the sixth.

His 10-for-16 string has raised Saverine's average 30 points from .236 to .266.

Oliva, chasing a third straight hitting title, grabbed the batting lead with two hits against the Yankees. He ripped a two-run homer in the first and doubled in front of Don Mincher's run-scoring single in the seventh.

Win Was Big One

Picton Whips Trudeaus

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Six consecutive hits in the sixth inning carried Picton Kinsmen to a 5-2 Belleville and District Softball League triumph over Trudeau Motors here last night.

The win was a big one, boosting Picton into second place, clinching top spot for the Bobcats and leaving Trudeaus up in the air going into the loop's final game Thursday.

Trudeaus play the fourth place Juniors. A win will tie them with Picton for second; a loss will tie them with the Juniors for third. The Motormen will be involved in a tie-breaker regardless.

The Kinsmen were held hitless by Trudeau's big lefty, Howard Jeffs, until they got one to tie the ame 1-1 in the fifth.

Then came the explosion after two were out in the sixth, scoring four runs. Weese's infield bounder started it, Marve Stacey singled and a bad throw sent the lead run home. A disputed safe call at first on Ostrander's infield hit kept the rally moving and made it 3-1. Gray tripled for another and scored on Lockwood's hit. K. Stacey also singled.

Ostrander's double, Lockwood's fielder's choice, cutting down the lead man after a long run - down and interference at home, plus a error, plated Picton's first marker.

Trudeaus scored in the first and last frames. Plane doubled and rode home on Weston's base knock in the first. Baker walked, stole second and scored on Jeffs' single in the ninth.

Carl Stacey settled away after a slow start to hurl the eight - hit victory. He struck out 11 and walked but one, allowing half of Trudeaus' hits in the first two frames.

Jeffs gave up nine hits, all in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. He did not strike out a man, walked two and stole a few base hits from the Kinsmen with alert fielding.

Marve Stacey and Warren Ostrander stroked a double and single each on Picton's behalf. Eldon Gray's triple and base hits by Keith MacDonald, Ron Weese, Dave Lockwood and Keith Stacey completed the attack.

Trudeaus picked up two singles each from Pete Weston and Roger Drake. Ralph Plane doubled, Larry Mavety, John Baker and Howard Jeffs split the others. Shorthanded, Trudeaus used veteran pitcher Pat Maracle at second base.

Ferrara Key Hitter

Dodgers Surge; Giants Grab Lead

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Ferrara mastered Beethoven and Brahms when he was 16. Now, he's finally coming of age as a swinger.

Ferrara, who gave up a promising future as a concert pianist 10 years ago for baseball, but failed in two previous major league trials, stroked the key hit for the second straight game Tuesday night as Los Angeles Dodgers edged Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 and remained in the thick of the National League pennant scramble.

The husky outfielder's pinch single in the ninth inning drove in the winning run, capping a two-run rally that extended the third - place Dodgers' victory string to five and left them 1½ games off the pace.

San Francisco Giants regained the league lead from Pittsburgh Pirates with an 8-3 triumph over the Pirates as Gaylord Perry won his 15th in 17 decisions.

SENT TO MINORS

A year ago Ferrara may have regretted his decision to pass up the concert hall for the diamond. The six-foot-one, 203-pound muscleman was finishing out the season at Spokane after blowing his second chance to make the Dodger varsity.

But Walt Alston gave him another shot this spring and Ferrara hasn't disappointed the Dodger manager.

In Monday night's 6-3 victory over the Phillies he ignited a decisive three - run rally in the eighth inning with a tie-breaking single. Tuesday night's game - winning average to .290 and his RBI total to 20.

Elsewhere, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Atlanta Braves 4-3, Cincinnati Reds outslugged Chicago Cubs 9-6 and New York Mets shaded Houston Astros 5-4.

Jim Hart, hitless in his previous 18 trips to the plate, cracked a three - run homer in the first inning, sparking the Giants to their second straight victory over Pittsburgh.

Cheesemen Win String Clipped

City Hotel snapped Black Diamond's five - game winning streak in the Commercial Softball League last night by clipping the Cheesemen 10-4.

The winners moved into a third - place tie with Black Diamond, each with 22 points. Second - place Stewart Warner has 24, the fourth place Lightfoots 20, in the tight race for playoff spots.

City never trailed, moving ahead 4-0, faltering to allow Black Diamond a 4-4 tie after four frames, then putting the game away with four in the fifth and two in the seventh.

Larry Hull handled the victors' pitching chore. He gave up six hits, struck out five, walked three and received errorless support.

Ken Leveck gave up eight hits on the losing side. He struck out seven batters and walked half a dozen. The club erred four times.

Larry Potter and Gerry Genereaux sparked the City hit parade with a pair of base knocks each. Bob Brooks contributed a double, Bucky Ethier, Frank Donovan and Larry Hull a single each.

Doug Archer paced the Cheesemen with a triple and single. Other base hits went to Bob Cruickshank, Jack Francis, Gene Francis and Dale Archer. Four of the six hits came in the fourth inning.

City Hotel 103 040 2 10-8-0
Black Diamond 001 300 0 4-6-4

Batteries: L. Hull and L. Potter; K. Leveck and B. Jones, B. Benn (2).

Demands Ban Be Lifted

LONDON (AP) — The South American Football Confederation demanded Tuesday that a conditional ban on Argentina from the 1970 World Cup soccer tournament in Mexico be rescinded.

The executive committee of the confederation sent a protest to the World Soccer Federation, whose disciplinary committee decided Argentina should be banned from the next World Cup unless it gives an undertaking that its players and officials will behave better next time.

Juan Goni of Chile said the disciplinary committee had exceeded its powers.

"It is impossible to predict what players and officials Argentina will have in 1970," Goni said. "How then can Argentina give any undertakings about their behavior?"

He added that the confederation's meeting made no complaint about players who had been sent off and suspended. Two Argentines and three Uruguayans have been punished in this way.

The meeting also demanded that Alf Ramsey, manager of the England team, be called in front of the disciplinary committee.

After England defeated Argentina 1-0 last Saturday, Ramsey referred to the Argentines as behaving like animals.

Batting—Willie Horton, Detroit Tigers, lashed four straight hits and drove in all three runs as Detroit defeated Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Pitching—Rob Gardner, New York Mets, pitched four innings of hitless relief saving New York's 5-4 victory over Houston Astros.

BAN COACH

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Curotte, coach of Caughnawaga Indians of the Quebec Lacrosse League, was banned from the game for life Tuesday by Jean - Paul Massicotte, league president. He was alleged to have attacked referee Leo Theoret Sunday night after the Indians dropped a 16-13 decision to Ville St. Pierre Saints.

Terry McCabe Scores Ace
Woodcroft, Club Champion

John Woodcroft is the 1966 men's champion of the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

Woodcroft defeated Terry McCabe 7 and 5 on the 31st hole of the 36-hole championship final.

He scored a hole-in-one on the ninth (championship tee) hole.

The championship is the first for Mr. Woodcroft who has been playing at Quinte for the past three years.

"Actually" he said, "I have only been playing eight years altogether. I started 30 years ago and dropped out of the game for 25."

Mr. McCabe (the elder Terry) cuts the second notch on his hole-in-one gun.

He fired his first ace from the same tee on June 26th 1964 using a nine iron. The yardage at that time was 130.

He used a three-iron for yesterday's single over the new 170-yard distance.

He figures a pair of aces over 15 years of golf is not a bad hand to hold.

A hole-in-one and runner-up for the men's title gave him a thrill.

"I would liked to have won but John Woodcroft played extremely well and is a worthy champion."

The perpetual woman's club champion Betty Ingram sought her seventh title in eight years today.

She teed off this morning with Irene Belanger after defeating Alice Stuart, Annie Acton and Doris Hogle in her march to the final.

Mrs. Ingram has won the title every year but one since 1959. Her only defeat was at the hands of Doris McLean.

REJECT CHARGES

LONDON (AP)—Government officials Tuesday night rejected Peking charges that Britain is helping the American war effort in Viet Nam with a military airlift and with base facilities in Hong Kong. Defence ministry authorities said some medium-range RAF planes are using Saigon, South Viet Nam, as a staging point for flights between Singapore and Hong Kong, but they carry no military supplies for American forces in Viet Nam.

Wins Blind Golf Title

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Claude Pattimore of Hamilton came from behind Tuesday to win the Canadian Blind Golfers Association championship with a 36-hole score of 214.

A Football Classic

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—England and West Germany are high and dry in the final of the World Cup Saturday and soccer is holding its head up proudly again.

England edged Portugal 2-1 Tuesday in a thrilling semi-final at London's Wembley Stadium.

A crowd of 90,000 stood and cheered all 22 players off the field at the end. Between them, the two teams erased the unpleasant memories of much that had happened in the tournament previously — players sent off the field, suspended, injured by vicious tackles, feigning injury, wasting time.

These were some of the facts of the England-Portugal game:

Only 11 fouls were committed—eight by England, three by Portugal. None was dangerous.

Only one player was slightly hurt—Jose Torres of Portugal, who tripped over the press photographers squatting behind the touchline. He made light of it, limped back and played on.

There was not a single hold-up for injury. Nobody once argued with the referee. Nobody adopted delaying tactics.

SHOOK HANDS

At the end, the players of both teams rushed to shake hands and walked off with their arms round each other's shoulders.

Portugal has another game at Wembley Thursday —against Russia in a playoff for the third place. West Germany defeated the Russians 2-1 in the other semi-final.

The Portuguese, fired by their captain Mario Coluna, put on a magnificent display and capped it with a storming finish that almost saved the match.

But it was their sportsmanship that delighted the crowd most. They squashed the idea, promoted by many critics here, that Latin temperament has spoiled the World Cup.

Argentina and Uruguay have been at the centre of the ugliest scenes in World Cup history. Both had two players ordered off the field. Latin Americans have jumped to their defence and accused European referees of being biased.

Both Argentina and Uruguay used retreating defensive tactics. They were tagged as playing a brand of soccer that was killing the game as a spectacle.

But Tuesday night the Latin temperament produced open, attacking football and the highest level of sportsmanship seen in the whole tournament.

Portuguese television commentator Costa Pereira said "The game was clean and a great spectacle, a game like it has not been seen in this World Cup and probably never will be seen."

RUSSIANS PRAISE PLAY

Commentators from the Russian news agency Tass said the match came like "a spring of clear water breaking through the murky wave of dirty football which has covered recent matches in the championship."

Two players did most to win the game for England.

Bobby Charlton cracked home two fine goals—both first-time shots, one in the 30th minute and one in the 79th minute.

Nobby Stiles, previously warned by the World Soccer Federation (FIFA) for rough play, clipped the wings of Eusebio, the tournament's top marksman.

Stiles set out to shadow the Mozambique - born star. He stopped him without fouling him once.

Eusebio fired seven unsuccessful shots at the England goal. England, by clever defensive methods, forced him to shoot from long range—and even Eusebio couldn't get the ball past brilliant goalkeeper Gordon Banks.

Eventually Eusebio scored from a penalty for hands. It was his eighth goal of the tournament—and the first goal conceded by England since the competition began.

PLANS TO PREACH

LONDON (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay said Tuesday he expects to retire in two years and will become a Black Muslim preacher. He meets Brian London of Britain in a title defence Aug. 6.

CTV FILES WRIT

TORONTO (CP)—CTV television network filed a writ here Monday for an injunction to prohibit the NBC and CBC from televising Saturday's World Cup soccer championship final game in Canada. A spokesman for CTV said his network bought Canadian English language rights to the game and a contract was signed with the Federation of International Football Associations in the spring. HBC claims it has North American English language rights, but the CTV spokesman said the FIFA board of directors has stated that NBC does not have Canadian English language rights.

Match Was 'Classic Of Soccer Artistry'

By JIM ANDERSON

LONDON (CP)—In England today where the game was invented, despite what the North Koreans say, soccer is again in glory.

England moved into the finals for the World Cup against West Germany Saturday by defending Portugal 2-1 Tuesday. But the English fans have more than a victory in the pitch of which to be proud.

The match was a classic of soccer artistry by both teams. More than that, after days of bickering and matches punctuated by lost tempers and fouls, it was a return to sportsmanship in the best English tradition of "play up and play the game."

Some 90,000 fans in Wembley Stadium gave as loud an ovation to the valiant Portuguese as they did their victorious 11. And the British press today reflected that same sentiment.

"England the great" was the main headline on The Express. Says Desmond Hackett: "England played its way into soccer history with confidence, poise and moving courage. It was a performance that thrust down the throats of complaining nations from South America and Europe that England was not fit to play in the final."

The Times, restraining itself to a one-column headline on the front page, says:

"The match did much to restore the tarnished reputation of the competition and the game, for it was played throughout in a thoroughly sporting spirit."

GAME TRIUMPHS

Brian James wrote in The Mail: "Let there be no more argument. This is a good, if not great, England team. It was a victory for England and the game itself, for the match was as clean and sporting as it was filled with good football."

Peter Lorenzo said in The Sun: "The Wembley faithful had waited long and patiently for a match so rich in all the good things of soccer—90 minutes of superb sporting endeavor which will do much to obliterate the memories of the vigor and violent temper that preceded it."

Ken Jones said in The Mirror it was "a match that at least lived up to the true traditions of football. A match high in quality, packed with courage and sprinkled with the sportsmanship that has been so sadly missing from this competition."

After the furore, flaring tempers and international insults of the last few days, the British press has given a generally friendly reception to a Hungarian proposal to change the way the World Cup classic is played.

A Hungarian sports authority official has suggested eight finalists play a round-robin series, with no sudden-death playoffs and the cup go to the team with the best record.

The Guardian calls the proposal "bright" and Frank Taylor writes in The Sun: "I think the Hungarians are on the ball with this idea."

But The Telegraph disagrees.

"All that would happen is that those teams to whom defence is everything would settle for draws; tackling would be as fierce as ever. At least victory is important under the present system. We should be thankful for small mercies."

Larks Have New Halfback

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, preparing for their final pre-season exhibition game Thursday night against Ottawa Rough Riders, have a new halfback.

A. D. Whitfield, a 200-pound offensive halfback who was with Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League last season, will work with the Eastern Football Conference Als for the balance of the week, but is not likely to see much action against Ottawa.

Whitfield, 22, appeared in only two games for the Dallas club in 1965.

Nick Nixes World Golf

TORONTO (CP)—Nick Weslock, 1965 Ontario amateur golf champion, said Tuesday night he has decided not to play next month in the world golf tournament at Birkdale, England.

Named as one of Canada's representatives to the $200,000 tournament for the third consecutive year, Weslock said he plans to play instead in the United States Amateur at Philadelphia.

He said he will be replaced in the British event by Ed Ross of Riverside, Sask., top Canadian in the 1965 Canadian amateur qualifying round.

ANCIENTS APPLAUDED

The ancient Greeks and Romans applauded by hand-clapping as well as by snapping their fingers and waving the flaps of their garments.

Roberta Picco, 17

Fastest Woman In World

TORONTO (CP) — Roberta Picco is a blue-eyed, 17-year-old miss who makes her own clothes and is out to sew up every distance record in the world for women.

The 115-pound native of Italy, who set her first record when she was 12 years old, Tuesday night became the fastest woman in the world over the two-mile distance—10:26.8, accomplished in a central Ontario twilight meet.

The best previous time for a woman runner over the distance, says the Central Ontario Track and Field Association, was 10:52.8, set by June Bridgeland in Charlton, England, in 1958.

There are no official records kept for woman over distances of more than a half mile.

Miss Picco established an unofficial record of 4:55.3 for the mile at a Dominion Day track meet here. She also set a woman's record of 4:35.1 for 1,500 metres at the July 1 event.

The brown-haired, Grade 12 student came to Canada seven years ago. She established a Toronto public school record for the girls' 75-yard race at 12 and joined the Don Mills Track Club a short time later.

Miss Picco will not represent Canada at the British Empire Games in Jamaica next month. Abby Hoffman and Cecilia Carter of Hamilton were picked to represent Canada in the 440- and 880-yard events.

Suns Set On Leafs, Bisons Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs are hoping today that New York Mets had kept Danny Napoleon around a bit longer and the Mets are having second thoughts.

Napoleon has homered 11 times for Jacksonville Suns, reaching that total with an 11th inning homer Tuesday night that gave the Suns a 2-1 victory over Toronto. The Leafs also lost the opener 7-1.

Elsewhere, Buffalo Bisons defeated Richmond Braves 2-1 before losing the second game of a doubleheader 6-4, Toledo Mud Hens swept their doubleheader 3-0 and 6-1 from Syracuse Chiefs and Columbus Jets won their opener 3-0 before losing the nightcap 4-1 to Rochester Red Wings.

T. and S. Softball

Ron Denyes and Dave Martin combined to pitch Halloway to a 12-7 victory over Wallbridge last night, in Thurlow and Sidney League play.

Doug Irvin slammed a double and two singles to lead the winners' attack. Gayle Allen hit two singles, and John Emerson one.

WHOOPERS BREED

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Wildlife Service confirmed Monday that four young whooping cranes were hatched this summer in the rare birds' Northwest Territories nesting grounds in Wood Buffalo National Park. The population of adult whooping cranes last year was estimated at 51. A count for this year will be made by the end of July before the birds return to wintering grounds in Texas.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

CORRECT FOR CROSSWIND WHEN YOU AIM THE SHOT

I fully subscribe to the school of thought that advocates avoiding swing changes whenever possible. The case of playing in a crosswind provides a good example of what I mean.

On crosswind shots you can either aim to left or right and let the wind bring in the shot, or you can alter your swing to fade or draw the shot into the force of the wind. I much prefer the former option since it involves no swing changes.

Merely select an object to the side of the pin from which the wind is blowing and hit the shot towards this object, as in the illustration. Obviously, the force of the wind will determine how much you must alter your aim.

When playing in the wind, it is also wise to look at treetops to determine the force of the wind at that height. Often a slight breeze at ground level may be of much stronger force higher up where your ball will be traveling.

Fuel Lack Caused Lema Crash

LANSING, Ill. (AP)—A fuel shortage was suspected Tuesday by federal aviation experts in the plane crash which killed golfer Tony Lema, his wife and two crew members Sunday night.

Investigation has shown that neither engine of the twin-engine plane, carrying Lema and the others from the PGA tourney in Akron, Ohio, was operating when it crashed on a golf course near the Illinois-Indiana state line.

LONDON (AP)—The Variety Club of the British Golfing Society announced Tuesday it is awarding a perpetual trophy in the name of Tony Lema.

Lema played in an exhibition match for the society's fund for handicapped children at Kingswood, Surrey, July 12.

Weslock Shoots 68

TORONTO (CP)—Nick Weslock shot a three-under-par 68 Tuesday to lead 112 golfers seeking 64 positions in today's opening round of match play in the 54-hole Ontario amateur golf championship.

Weslock had four birdies and went over par once to finish one shot ahead of Gary Cowan of Kitchener and Bob Bradley of Oshawa.

Russ Hunter of Chatham and Peter Hutchinson of Hamilton also broke par with one-under 70s over the Toronto Summit course.

Weslock, six-time winner of the Ontario amateur, Cowan and Ontario Open champion Doug Mossop of Toronto were selected after Tuesday's play as members of the four-man Ontario Willingdon Cup team.

Fourth place on the team, which will compete against other provincial teams at Montreal Aug. 8 and 9, will be decided today with a playoff between Paul Williams of Burlington and Bradley.

Tuesday's round cut the field to 64 from 112 for today's opening round.

Departmental Softball

Public Utilities were forced to forfeit their final game of the Departmental Softball League schedule last night because of a shortage of players.

Public Works received the forfeited win, according to league president Al Rump, tying them for third place with the Fire Department. City Hall has clinched first place, the Utilities last place.

Tonight, The Intelligencer and Fire Department meet, at Hillcrest at 6:30, and in the only other game remaining, the Firemen and Public Works will play. A date for this game has yet to be set up but Rump said this morning that it must be played this week in order to get playoffs under way next week.

Currently, The Intelligencer holds second with 14 points while the Firemen and Works have 10 each.

All teams are asked to have representation at a league meeting slated for the Public Works Building Thursday night at 7:00 p.m.

WAS PARTY FOUNDER

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A. M. (Gus) Duffy, 61, who founded the United Newfoundland Party and was its only member elected to the Newfoundland house of assembly, died Tuesday after a lengthy illness. He entered provincial politics in 1951, winning the district of Ferryland for the Progressive Conservatives. In 1956 he was elected to represent St. John's Centre for the Conservatives but broke with the party in 1959 over Prime Minister Diefenbaker's handling of Term 29—the controversial financial term in the Confederation agreement.

Opposes New Factories On Farm Land

BOLTON, Ont. (CP)—Companies such as the Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., should not be allowed to build plants on choice farmland, Reeve Albert Campbell of the Toronto suburb of Scarborough said Tuesday.

Mr. Campbell told a seminar of the Central Ontario Regional Development Council that it would be better for communities to ask companies to build plants on land unsuitable for farming.

"I think it is a crying shame when we allow such things as the Ford Motor Co. to go into Talbotville, take up a large chunk of their agricultural land, take it out of production and then let the satellite homes grow around when there are thousands of acres of land not suitable for agriculture."

Moncton Area Accident Toll Rises to Six

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — A Montreal woman died in hospital early today, bringing to six the death toll of a four-car crash about eight miles west of here Tuesday afternoon.

The names of the woman and four of the others were not released. Two men and a teen-age girl, believed to be related to the woman who died, were from the Montreal area.

One victim was from Ontario and the other from New Brunswick, identified as Gordon Everett McNair, 46, of Minto.

Police said McNair's car apparently sideswiped a station wagon bearing Ontario licence plates, then collided with another Ontario car. A car bearing Quebec plates crashed into the wrecks.

Four persons in the station wagon escaped injury.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Firth of Scarborough, Ont., and their two daughters, Susan, 8, and Brenda, 9.

SELL PETROLEUM LEASES

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government received $13,370,462 Tuesday from the sale of petroleum and natural gas leases and reservations throughout the province. The sale, third largest of the year, increased provincial revenue from the sale of leases and reservations this year to $65,034,318.

Is Airline Strike Emergency Or Merely Costly Nuisance?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Congress starts considering today whether the 20-day airlines strike is a national emergency or just a multi-million dollar nuisance.

Witnesses for the five grounded airlines, the striking machinists' union and the defence, labor and post office department open a Senate hearing on special legislation to halt the strike.

"I think it does constitute an emergency," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who appeared ready to seek quick passage if the Senate labor committee votes out a strike - stopping bill.

But President P. L. (Roy) Siemiller of the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO) "the continued interference by the legislative branch of government is delaying the final time when agreement can be reached."

Chief airlines negotiator, William Curtin, is expected to tell the committee that the strike is "an urgent national problem" and that Congress should act to end it.

AFL-CIO President George Meany issued a statement supporting the machinists' stand that while the strike is inconveniencing the travelling public, it presents no threat to the country's welfare or to national defence. Meany, who urged defeat of any strike legislation, is not a witness.

The machinists seek a 53-cent hourly wage increase during a three-year period. The airlines last reported offer was 50 cents an hour for a 42-month contract. Top - rated mechanics now receive $3.52 an hour.

The committee has before it two strike - ending proposals—one by Senator Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore.), who wants the 35,000 striking machinists ordered back to work for six months while government mediators seek a solution, and another by Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, who has urged compulsory arbitration.

"There is no negotiating going on," said a spokesman for the five airlines — Eastern, United, National, Northwest and Trans World.

A sixth airline—American—could face a strike in a dispute with the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union any time after today, but no strike notice has been served and President Johnson could delay a walk-out for 60 days by appointing an emergency board as he did earlier with the five strikebound lines.

U.S. Too Good to Canada, Industry Research Suffers

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The United States has been too good to Canada, says Carl Pollock, chairman and president of Dominion Electrohome Industries Ltd.

It has been so generous in letting Canadian industry tap its fund of knowledge in research and development, he said in a recent interview, that this vital sector of manufacturing has suffered badly in Canada.

"The creative function and its application to living is the most-needed aspect of developing manufacturing in Canada," says the former president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

"Without it, Canadian workers can't develop any real pride in what they do—they can't thump their chests and say 'See what I've done.'

"If industry can't provide any more of a challenge for its young people than to copy what someone else has developed, it's no wonder many of the best people—the ones really needed—go to the U.S. where they can accomplish something."

Jurisdictional Dispute Halts Toronto Work

TORONTO (CP) — Work on the new Toronto Dominion Centre was interrupted Tuesday by a tangled jurisdictional dispute involving 70 sheet - metal workers and 1,000,000 square feet of metal ceiling.

The workers walked off the job after the Ontario jurisdictional disputes commission awarded 60 per cent of the ceiling work to carpenters.

A spokesman for the workers said it all began when Canadian Johns - Manville Co. Ltd., sub - contractor for the ceiling, decided to use carpenters, rated at $3.75 an hour, rather than the sheet - metal workers, working for $4.15 an hour.

The sheet - metal workers objected and took the case to the national joint board in Washington, which awarded the work to them.

The board, composed of union and management representatives, is responsible in the United States for settling jurisdictional disputes between building trades unions. Construction unions in Canada recognize the jurisdiction of the board in this country. Management does not.

Johns-Manville then asked the commission for a ruling. It awarded 60 per cent of the work to the carpenters, 40 per cent to the sheet-metal workers.

When the first carpenter started work on the ceiling, the spokesman said, all 70 sheet-metal workers in the downtown building left the job to find other work. Those who left included men working on air conditioning and heating equipment and ducts.

The sheet - metal contractor, Crump Sheet Metal Ltd., a subsidiary of Pigot Construction Co. Ltd., the general contractor, has asked the Ontario Labor Relations Board for a ruling that the workers are engaged in an illegal strike.

But the men say they are not striking. They said they have quit and gone to work for other firms.

Meanwhile, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (CLC), is charged with non-compliance in the joint board's decision.

One building union official said the situation "could be the showdown we've been waiting for on the question of handling jurisdictional disputes."

G.M. Reports Sharp Decrease In Profits

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors has reported sharply reduced second - quarter profits. The company said lower unit sales and higher costs are to blame.

Ford Motor Co.'s six-months earnings report was due today and Chrysler Corp. will announce its figures Thursday.

GM reported a drop of almost $100,000,000 Tuesday for the second quarter compared with the same period last year, but company officials continued to forecast "another good year."

The company's earnings for April, May and June were given as $546,035,382. In the second quarter of 1965 the firm reported a record $638,460,046 in earnings.

However, sales for the quarter went off only 2.7 per cent from previous second quarter, $5,501,000,000 this year compared with $5,657,000,000 in 1965.

GM Chairman Frederic Donner and President James Roche explained the drop by saying the early part of last year's production and sales increased abnormally as a reaction to strikes.

The officials also said second-quarter earnings were affected by lower unit sales, increased construction costs and higher costs for labor, materials, engineering and tooling.

EARNINGS DIP

Earnings a share for the second quarter were $1.90 compared with $2.23 a share a year ago.

The company reported net income for the first six months of $1,140,000,000 against $1,275,000,000 for the first six months of 1965. Sales were down $12,000,000 from the record last year of $11,215,000,000.

Total sales for cars and trucks during the first half of 1966 dropped four per cent to 3,873,787 from 4,056,000 in the 1965 period.

The GM report said first-half sales this year, although lower, were above the long-term trend.

"The economy continues strong, consumer income is rising and unemployment is at a very low level," the report said. "The current outlook is for another good year for the automobile industry."

Writers' Conference Planned at Madoc

The third annual Writers' Conference at the Madoc Art Centre will open on Friday evening, at a get-together coffee party. The Centre is located on Highway 7, five miles east of Madoc. Staff for the conference will include: Eve Titus of New York and Miami, author of the "Anatole" series published by McGraw - Hill; Garth Hopkins, assistant editor and publisher, Financial Times, Montreal; Wes Henderson, Network Producer CBC, Toronto; Alpha LaForce, free - lance writer and instructor, St. Petersburg, Florida; Clyde Bell, editor and publisher, Tweed News. Roy Cadwell, formerly of the Department of External Affairs, Ottawa and author of the book "Communism in the Modern World" is director of the conference.

The Madoc Art Centre will be host for the conference which runs from July 29th to August 1st. The conference is part of the creative writing course sponsored annually by the Centre. Anyone interested in writing is invited to attend.

Inco Seeks To Charge 35 Strikers

TORONTO (CP) — About 35 members of the striking United Steelworkers of America (CLC) in Sudbury, Ont., may be prosecuted for participating in an illegal walkout.

The International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. applied Tuesday to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for permission to lay charges against the men. A hearing on the application has been set for next Wednesday.

A union spokesman said about 35 strikers were involved.

The strike, which began July 14, halted operations at 14 Inco properties in the Sudbury area. About 16,000 members of Local 6500 walked out and set up picket lines.

Contract talks resumed Tuesday, but negotiators held little hope for an early settlement. The old contract expired July 10.

Two Michigan Men Deported

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Two Michigan men, ordered expelled from Canada as undesirables, were deported to the United States Tuesday night as Canadian immigration officials escorted them through the Windsor-Detroit tunnel.

Antony (Toni Jack) Giacalone, 47, and Dominic P. (Fats) Corrado, 36, were brought by special plane from Montreal to Windsor airport and turned over to U.S. authorities.

An inquiry carried out by the immigration department Tuesday found that the two men were undesirable visitors to Canada because Giacalone had a criminal record and Corrado "belonged to an organization not acceptable to the country." Immigration officials declined to identify the organization.

Giacalone and Corrado were picked up by the RCMP Monday on arrival at Montreal International Aiport.

Cementmen Trounce Belvedere

"The rich got richer and the poor got poorer" in a Commercial Softball League tilt played at Point Anne last night.

The Cementmen fattened their already insurmountable league lead by whipping the last-place Belvedere Hotel 13-4.

Point Anne snapped a 3-3 tie in the top of the fourth with a half a dozen runs, winding up the scoring with a trio in the seventh. It was Belvedere's home game, their 17th loss compared with seven victories.

Six bunt singles by the Cementmen and loose fielding by the losers played a major part in the scoring.

Mike Cook pitched Point Anne's victory, number 18 of the campaign. Cook gave up seven hits, struck out three and walked three.

Jim Nicholls was racked for 13 hits on the Belvedere rubber. He struck out five and dished out five free tickets.

Rick Rosebush had a big night with the stick for the Ox-pointers, rapping four singles, while Mike Cook and Jim Horwood collected a double and single each, Tom MacDonald also had two hits, Eric Maher, David Akey and Denny Maher getting the others.

Jim Muir and Jim Nicholls each picked up two of the Hotelmen's safeties. S. Vaughn hammered a home run, Jack Hughes a triple and Pug Kellar a base hit.

Minor Baseball Results

DeMilles clipped CN Firemen 11-6 in tyke, Park Dale topped Barriages 8-4 in bantam and Tip Tops defeated the Jaycees 7-1 in peewee in Minor Baseball action last night.

It was also announced that a meeting for the B.M.B.A. coaches and assistants, umpires and executive members will be held Thursday, at the Recreation Centre, at 8.30.

Tom Coughlan pitched three-hit ball for DeMilles' win, fanning six, while the Firemen's Ricky Sweet gave up eight hits and fanned 10.

John Venutti hit a homer and two singles and Andy Ricketts one of each for the winners. Tom Coughlan, Peter Crawford and Stephen Kirby also had hits. All three C.N. hits were home runs, by C. O'Hara, John Schwagar and Rick Bell.

Jim Wood pitched seven-hit ball for Park Dale's victory and Wayne Farrell gave up nine hits for Barriages. Each pitcher struck out eight.

Ian Rutherford had a double and single, Jim Wood and Terry Meagher a pair of singles each, Mario Venutti a triple, Dick Fobert and Robbie Rolston singles for Park Dale. Paul Hall and Larry Doran each singled twice, Bernie Howe tripled, Wayne Farrell doubled and Moe Thompson singled in defeat.

Dean Lang and Pete Wager combined for a four-hitter on the Tip Top mound, striking out four. Brian Shapee and Peter Fralick gave up six hits and fanned three for the Jaycees.

Thursday's bantam game between Mead Johnson and Farrell's has been cancelled. Frankford and Lions Club play an EOBA Peewee game, at Park Dale, at 6.00 Thursday; the Belleville Midgets play in the Leaside Midget tournament this weekend.

Debbie and Van Johnson Are Type-cast as Young

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "You and I have the same trouble—type-casting," said Debbie Reynolds to Van Johnson.

The setting was Miss Reynold's trailer outside the set of Marriage American Style, in which both are appearing. It was a pleasant reunion for the graduates of the Louis B. Mayer academy. Both starred at MGM, although they never made a film together there.

"That's true about type-casting," said Johnson. "This kisser of mine; it's like a baby's. Always has ben. So they could never see me in any kind of a mature role."

"Same here," said Debbie. "Would they let me grow up with this face of mine? Never."

"Not until I went off to London and did Music Man did I convince anyone I could do something beside the boy-next-door," said he.

"It was How the West Was Won and Molly Brown that did it for me," she said. "But I want to tell you something. It's not too bad to be type-cast young. Because after you've had all that experience, you can handle the challenging roles and still look young doing them."

"I still have trouble with this baby-face of mine," said Johnson, who will be 50 next month and looks 35. "You know I've never been able to play a villain? until now. I'm going to play a character called Minstrel on Batman."

Would Not Know What to Do If They Could Shed Communism

After two decades or more under Communist rule, the people of Eastern Europe accept the system with apathy or cynicism. John Best, Canadian Press correspondent in Moscow who toured the Communist bloc, describes how its inhabitants view their regimes.

By JOHN BEST

Canadian Press Staff Writer

If the peoples of Eastern Europe could freely decide tomorrow whether they wish to get rid of communism, what would be their verdict?

By and large, they would be so confused they wouldn't know how to react.

It's not easy to scuttle a system as all-prevading and all-embracing as communism. In our time, it has happened only in Guatemala, a country so tiny and so close to the United States that the CIA could handle the job quickly and quite handily.

In Eastern Europe, Communists have been in power for 20 years and more, and people have long since learned to afford the system a kind of fatal acceptance.

They've become used to the slogans, the exhortations, the dreary Communist-style May Day parades and the dreary repetitive projections of economic advance — projections that almost invariably outstrip performance.

"They're breeding a race of schizophreniacs," says a foreign woman who lives in an East European capital. It was an apt way of figuratively depicting the mental adjustments people have to make between what they are told exists and what they see existing with their own eyes.

FED UP

I asked a Czech woman a complicated question: What did the people of her country think of communism?

She replied with an uncomplicated but, I thought, telling answer: "After you've heard a thing often enough, you get sick of it."

Perhaps that is a large part of the truth; that East Europeans have been so riddled with Communist propaganda—which has a way of insulting the intelligence while supposedly inculcating Marxist ideas—that they are sick of communism.

"They've had it — up to here," said a foreign observer, placing his index finger in the vicinity of his ears.

"People need something for the soul," said the Czech woman.

This was a reference to the campaign against religion that most Communist regimes pursue, overtly or covertly. It was an affirmation that, whatever goodies Marxism may have to offer people, spiritual solace is not one of them.

VIEWED CYNICALLY

This is as keenly felt in Orthodox countries like Bulgaria as in Roman Catholic countries like Poland.

To say that people are disillusioned would not be correct for disillusionmen implies an original faith that was not necessarily present when communism was imposed on Eastern Europe under the umbrella of Soviet military might.

It would be correct to say that many are apathetic, and many others downright cynical. You try to get as much as you can out of the system, while giving as little as you can in return. You learn to play along with the game.

And communism does have some decided benefits to confer, including low rents, low public transportation fares, a comprehensive system of social security and health protection, and job security.

Against these are the still-continuing restraints on freedom of expression, especially in the printed form. However, most of the regimes have taken at least limited steps to loosen the tight controls over the populace. As a result they wear a more liberal look.

One of the most delicate problems facing East European governments is to balance popular pressure for greater freedom with the need to maintain their own position of power. Hungary showed that such pressure, if not kept in check, can quckly get beyond control.

DEFIANCE POPULAR

A regime that seems genuinely popular with its people is that of Romania—for a special reason. The Romanian regime's forceful assertion of national independence and its defiance of Russian hegemony has stirred a warm popular response.

This appeal to patriotic fervor transcends personal interests, since the people are being asked to work—and are working—harder than ever to justify the country's claim to be able to stand on its own feet economically.

Ironically, the Romanian regime is still the most authoritarian in East Europe, with the possible exception of Bulgaria.

Paradoxically, in Poland, which is far more liberal than Romania, the people are showing a certain contempt for the regime by rallying behind the Catholic church in its struggle against the Communist authorities.

Generally speaking, East Europeans seem disinclined to attempt to organize any massive, outward resistance to communism. They are content to let time and history exert their influence.

Under the impact of these two factors communism itself is changing, becoming less sinister and less oppressive—moving ever so slowly to the right.

Tomorrow: De Gaulle wields powerful influence in Eastern Europe.

Rednersville

REDNERSVILLE — Miss Jill Redner infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Redner is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sopha are spending a holiday in Quebec.

Mrs. Mable Onderdonk is convalescing at home following surgery in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Elvin Higgins spent a few days holidaying in Toronto.

Guests of Mrs. Uldine Post were her two sisters, Mrs. Irma Leitzau of Royal Oak, Michigan, U.S.A. and Mrs. Gertrude Basmemore of Bellflower, California, U.S.A.

Ida May Beck was hostess with Mrs. June Reid as co-hostess at a kitchen shower for Miss Diane Barrick.

No Inquest Will Be Held Into Drowning

NAPANEE — Linda Parks, 14, drowned Monday just before noon in the Salmon River near Richmond's sand and gravel pit near Tamworth. She and her nine-year-old brother Donald had left their Tamworth home to spend the hot day with their farm friends, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Hunt, and had helped them drive some cattle to a field near the river. Linda, a strong swimmer, sought relief from the heat by going for a swim, and for some unexplained reason, sank and did not come up.

She was in the water for about three - quarters of an hour. The child's body was found by Mr. Hunt and when the doctor arrived he was still applying artificial respiration "doing as good a job as I could have done myself", the doctor remarked. He pronounced the child dead.

Linda was the oldest of the seven children of Gerald and Ina Parks of Tamworth. She was a bright child, with a winning personality, and there is general sorrow because of the tragedy.

The funeral service will be held in the Hanna Funeral Home in Tamworth Wednesday at 2.00 p.m.

The Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police received the report at 12.50 p.m. Corporal A. F. Cockburn and Constable William Exley investigated. Coroner Brant E. Bergstrome says that no inquest will be held.

Will Select Dairy Princess

NAPANEE — Along with his bottle of milk Tuesday morning, every householder in this area received an invitation to attend a party where free ice cream and milk would be served.

The invitation was given by the Lennox and Addington Dairy Princess committee, and the occasion for the party is to see the selection and crowning of the Dairy Princess of the county. The party is at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday evening on the farm of Clarence Baker, just three miles south east of town.

Here Donna Hogle, R.R. 6, Odessa; Linda Marshall, R.R. 1, Marysville; Mrs. Lyall Rankin, R.R. 3, Napanee; and Miss Betty Mulders, Stella, will demonstrate the method of obtaining clean milk and will give a talk about the milk industry and the "goodness of milk."

The winner of the competition will be declared Dairy Princess of Lennox and Addington County, and will have the opportunity of competing in the Dairy Queen Competition at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Weekly Reports To Be Issued By Police

NAPANEE — Beginning Tuesday, July 26, the Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police put into operation a new policy of issuing weekly reports to the press. Constable J. E. Elliott has been named public information officer, and the report is issued under his name.

The opening report covers one week, beginning July 16. During the period reported the Napanee detachment compiled a total of 960 man hours and patrolled a total of 7,870 miles of highways, county roads and township roads, Constable Elliott reports.

In this period the traffic detail reported investigating 12 property damage accidents, with personal injury accidents in which 11 persons were injured, seven in one case and four in the other. The detail laid a total of 17 charges and gave out 39 warnings.

"Most of our accidents in this detachment occur between the hours of 7:00 p.m. and 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights," the report says. "It is during this period when people are rushing to their cottages or when they are just starting their holidays."

Throwing Lye On Car Brings Fine of $25

NAPANEE — Earl Hutchison of R. R. 1, Wilton, will spend the next five days in jail in Napanee, and five more days unless he pays a fine of $50 and court costs. He pleaded guilty Tuesday before Magistrate R. C. Jackson to driving while his licence was under suspension.

Lyman Grant Murray of R. R. 1, Odessa denied having damaged a car belonging to Wayne Littlefield by throwing lye on it, but was found uilty. He must pay a fine of $25, the costs of court, and $46 to Littlefield for the damage.

Two youths from Ottawa, Robert McNaught and Robert Alexander were found guilty of breaking into a tent trailer at Bon Echo Provincial Park. The trailer belonged to Paul Seymour. They were remanded until Friday.

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 28

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Get on solid footing. Don't take chances where correspondence, legal affairs, journeys enter picture. Now you must be positive of facts, directions. Play waiting game.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Check for genuine bargain. Do not attempt to find substitutes for quality. You can depend upon those who proved reliable in past. Chance for success enhanced if you investigate.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Protect property . . . don't trust to chance. Individual who is somewhat of a schemer may make appearance. Maintain sense of humor. Don't be "taken in."

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Chance of self-deception exists unless you are frank about emotions. Don't attempt to twist facts. Face situation as it actually is. Check diet — guard health.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Be aware of promises, responsibility. You tend now to romanticize persons, situations. Obtain hint from Cancer message. Get sufficient rest in evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): There could be a shakeup around you. Persons in one position move to another area. End of cycle indicated. Be ready to finish, complete projects. Don't hang on to past!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Stress ability to be self-starter. Don't wait to be told. Originate your own methods . . . avoid being carbon copy. Express honest opinions and you get honest answers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Money and friends may be like oil and water now. Don't attempt to mix them! Realize you could lose those close to you by being too lenient. Word to wise should be sufficient!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Cycle remains high . . . but be prepared for surprising actions on part of associates. Study Virgo message. Highlight versatility. Don't be trapped by outmoded methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You may not be able to put finger on exact answer. But realize you are close. Knowing this, don't brood. What you seek will become available. . . very soon!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Day features change, possible travel — plenty of variety. This is welcome relief to recent days, events. Friends prove stimulating. You are able to laugh more now.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Stick to familiar ground. Your training pays dividends. Some member may be necessary. Take change in stride. Stand tall!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you have the gift of expressing yourself in original manner. Would make fine teacher, lecturer, entertainer.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius. Special word to Cancer: Avoid scattering your forces. Concentrate on project at hand.

Will Ask Ottawa To Aid Farmers

Wilson Will Request U.S. Back Pound

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson flies to Washington today and high political authorities said he would seek ironclad American support for the wobbling pound sterling during the next six to nine months.

Wilson was reported confident such a breathing space would provide the time his Labor government needs for its crash program of deflation to pull Britain out of the red.

The economic crisis, its implications on Britain's role in the world and the Viet Nam war will dominate Wilson's one-day conference with President Johnson.

Wilson leaves at 4:30 p.m. (11:30 a.m. EDT) and Friday night will stop over for a few hours in Ottawa for talks with Prime Minister Pearson before returning Saturday in time for the England-West Germany soccer World Cup final.

Wilson will tell President Johnson and Pearson how the British government plans to save at least $300,000,000 on overseas spending, mainly through defence cuts "east of Suez" and in West Germany, informed sources said.

With the Canadian leader, Wilson also will discuss the Rhodesian independence crisis and the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London in September.

They last met in Lagos, Nigeria, last January at the special Commonwealth conference on Rhodesia.

A variety of other issues, ranging from the Rhodesian problem to Chinese intentions, also will be examined.

Informants said Wilson hopes to convince the president, if he needs convincing, that Britain's battle for the pound also is partly a battle for the dollar.

The prime minister said as much Wednesday when he told the House of Commons that sterling in recent weeks has taken a beating which basically had been directed at the dollar.

Wilson did not identify those

Airline Strike Costly

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. airline strike, now in its 21st day, is making a deepening cut into the U.S. economy, bringing daily losses in the millions to tourism, industry and many small businesses.

An Associated Press survey found that hotels, food and fuel suppliers, flower dealers and the other service personnel who depend on planes for their livelihood have been severely hurt.

A spokesman for New York City's convention and visitors bureau estimated its tourist industry losses are running at $750,000 a day while the president of Miami's chamber of commerce said the strike toll there is reaching "catastrophic proportions."

Suppliers of food and fuel to the five strikebound lines were reported losing $1,000,000 a day and a spokesman for the lines—Eastern, Trans World, United, Northwest and National—said their total daily revenue loss was $7,000,000.

The cost of the walkout so far to striking Machinist Union workers and laid off employees has been set at $30,000,000. Union members are receiving $25 weekly benefit cheques and laid off workers can collect unemployment insurance up to $50 a week.

Talks toward ending the strike resume in Washington today while a Senate committee studied proposed legislation to halt the walkout.

With the big losers, are many small businessmen. In Minneapolis an importer of Hawaiian orchids was forced to close. A Wilmington, Del., supplier of mice to laboratories doubled his normal operating costs to char-

Strikers Draft Proposal

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiators for 32,500 striking non-medical hospital workers in Quebec, who have rejected three contract proposals by the government, were drafting a compromise counter - proposal early today.

The announcement of the first break in the National Federation of Service's stand for a one-year contract came after Premier Daniel Johnson said in Quebec that an emergency session of the Quebec legislature might be called if the 18-day-old strike was not settled soon.

The counter-proposal includes provision for a 24-month contract with a $7 a week raise the first year and a $6 a week raise the second year. The non-medical employees, who include kitchen and housekeeping help and ward orderlies, now average less than $69 a week.

The latest proposal by the government, presented early Wednesday, provided for a $10 a week raise, spread across 30 months. Premier Johnson said the proposal would have cost an

Sukarno Says He Is Boss, Malaysia Is Still His Foe

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno angrily said today that he still is prime minister of Indonesia, has not ceded power to army strongman Gen. Suharto and the confrontation against Malaysia will go on.

In an hour-long speech after installing Indonesia's new cabinet, Sukarno said that under the constitution the president also holds the office of prime minister.

Monday, Gen. Suharto in announcing the 29-ministry cabinet said the post of prime minister had been abolished.

Troops with machine - guns and fixed bayonets blocked roads leading to Sukarno's palace as criticism mounted against the new cabinet.

Sukarno said confrontation will go on but that Indonesia intends to settle the Malaysia issue peacefully.

As the security ring closed around the palace, Sukarno promoted all the chiefs of Indonesia's armed forces. Lt.-Gen. Suharto became a full general. The only other officer in Indonesia with this rank is Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, chairman of the people's consultative congress.

CITES REASON

Sukarno declared: "We are opposed to Malaysia because it is a neo-colonialist project."

As long as it remained so, Indonesia's aim would be to dissolve it, he said.

Sukarno said that if the people of North Borneo, Sarawak and Sabah really wanted to remain in the Malaysian federation, "as I have said, I will be the first to recognize Malaysia."

He denied there had been a transfer of authority to Suharto, who leads the five-man presidium which dominates the military - oriented cabinet. He repeated he would like general elections to learn the true feelings of the people.

"I tell foreign correspondents that I am still the prime minister because I am the president and in accordance with the 1945 constitution, the president is the prime minister."

Oldest Russian, 161, Credits Allah and Reds

MOSCOW (AP) — Shirali Mislimov, who says he is 161 years old, Wednesday credited both Allah and the atheistic Soviet system for helping him to reach his great age.

He is described officially as the Soviet Union's oldest citizen.

Mislimov lives in a village in the mountains of Azerbaijan, a Soviet republic north of Iran. Most of the population there is Mohammedan. He came down to the republic's capital of Baku for a medical examination.

The official news agency Tass said the doctors found him in perfect health.

Mislimov told reports that his longevity was due to "Allah and the Soviet system, my work and my good temper."

AID CUT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate cut $100,000,000 from President Johnson's $892,000,000 military foreign aid program Wednesday and then passed it. Before wrapping up its work on the measure the Senate defeated efforts to make a deeper slash in the program —$250,000,000 — and to require President Johnson to dip into the defence appropriation in order to pay for the military aid spending.

Big Union Head Hits Pay Freeze

LONDON (Reuters)—Former cabinet minister Frank Cousins, leader of Britain's biggest labor union, declared war today on the Labor government's wage freeze, key plank in Britain's toughest austerity squeeze in 25 years.

Cousins, left-wing chief of the 1,500,000 - member Transport and General Workers Union, defied the government and the powerful Trades Union Congress and said at Bristol he intended to submit pay claims for his members.

If they support him to the point of a strike, they could cripple Britain's limping economy once again.

The government Wednesday won qualified backing from the congress—the national union organization—and a parliamentary vote of confidence for its controversial wages standstill.

Businessmen braced for their turn to taste austerity medicine as the cabinet today considered plans to clamp statutory price controls on some goods.

Farm Union Gets Pledge By Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — About 250 Ontario farmers stormed Queen's Park Wednesday and obtained a promise from Premier Robarts to discuss farm produce prices with federal agriculture officials as soon as possible.

While a committee of seven representatives of the Ontario Farmers' Union met behind closed doors with Mr. Robarts and Agriculture Minister William Stewart, a large group of demonstrating farmers burst past police guards at the legislative building's main door and milled through corridors in search of the meeting room.

They didn't find it, but a few interrupted a meeting presided over by Kelso Roberts, lands and forests minister, and attended by two other cabinet ministers—works Minister Ray Connell and Resources Minister J. R. Simonett.

The farmers included 60 who drove tractors almost 100 miles from Woodstock. The others arrived in cars Wednesday.

The meeting with Mr. Robarts and Mr. Stewart was the culmination of province-wide demonstrations by tractor - driving farmers. About 600 farmers took to the highways Monday and 200 rallied at Woodstock to start the trek to Toronto.

Only 60 completed the drive, which ended in front of the legislature building in a warm drizzle shortly before 4 p.m.

TO ARRANGE MEETING

Following the meeting Mr. Robarts announced that OFU representatives had agreed to attend a meeting with federal Agriculture Minister Greene when it can be arranged. Officials of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture will also attend.

The premier said much of the discussion during the 90-minute meeting revolved around OFU claims that vegetables from the United States are being dumped on the Canadian market.

"That is a matter of tariffs over which this provincial government has no control," he said. The same approach applies to farm-product subsidies which must be applied on a national basis by the federal government.

"Otherwise we'd be subsidizing food here to make it cheaper for people to buy in Alberta—or wherever it ends up," he added.

In most tractor demonstrations so far, farmers have spotlighted their demand for a basic $4-a-hundredweight price for

Resume Talks At Inco

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. met Wednesday for the first time since contract talks were suspended July 14 by a wildcat strike.

Some 15,000 workers walked out of Inco's Sudbury plants then, to be followed a few days later by 2,800 employes at Port Colborne. Union locals charged the company with slowness in negotiations to replace old contracts which expired July 10.

No progress was reported in Wednesday's discussions, despite the presence of William Dickie, chief conciliation officer for the Ontario labor department. The union and management groups held separate meetings Wednesday night to review their positions and joint talks were to continue today.

In other developments, a union spokesman said an Inco application Tuesday to have the walkout declared illegal was a "lever to strengthen the company's bargaining position."

Bob Bouchard, a public relations official for the steelworkers, said: "If a strike is declared illegal then Inco could prosecute the union in a civil court for damages."

The Ontario Labor Relations Board will hear the application next Wednesday.

Rhodesia Jails Without Trial Nine Teachers, One Canadian

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Nine white university teachers, including a Canadian lecturer, were in prison today under a Rhodesian emergency law that allows them to be kept in solitary confinement indefinitely without charge or trial.

They were seized in a dawn police raid at the multi-racial university college Wednesday—on orders of Justice Minister Desmond Lardner-Burke.

The arrested Canadian was identified as Gerald Caplan, 28, of Toronto.

A spokesman for the external affairs department in Ottawa said Caplan was teaching and studying at University College on a Commonwealth scholarship.

Caplan, a 1960 graduate of the University of Todonto, was completing work toward a PhD in African history while lecturing.

The other jailed lecturers included five Britons, one Dutch-born British citizen, an Italian and a Norwegian.

Lardner - Burke told Parliament that people connected with the university had been associated with banned organizations or had strong Communist leanings. He said he had evidence that preparations were made at the college for "the commencement of violence" against students who refused to fall in line with a group opposing the policies of the all-white government.

Acting Principal Alan Milton promptly closed the college, a month before the scheduled end of the term, because the arrests depleted the staff and disrupted discipline.

Nine students seized in the raid but not jailed were ordered restricted. Five Negro students were sent to the remote Gonakudzingwe restriction area and four others were confined to the areas of their homes, all for one year.

The college has been a centre of feeling against the government, its unilateral declaration of independence from Britain last Nov. 11, and its actions to support the declaration.

The protest culminated in disturbances at the college graduation ceremony July 16 in which two cabinet ministers were the butt of jibes by demonstrators.

Thirty - one students were ordered to leave the college by noon Tuesday, as a result of the July 16 uproar, and not to come back until September. When they failed to do so, Lardner - Burke's men swooped at dawn Wednesday.

51 Persons on Burning Craft Are Rescued by Shrimp Boats

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (AP) —Shrimp boats heading into the Gulf of Mexico for a night's catch teamed for a swift and dramatic rescue of 51 persons forced overboard as the sports fishing craft Marlin Queen caught fire late Wednesday.

The Marlin Queen, later wracked by an explosion, burned and sank. It was inbound through shark - infested waters when a passenger shouted: "Smoke! Smoke!"

"I couldn't imagine where it was coming from," said the vessel's skipper, Tom McNatt "One of the deck hands opened an engine hatch and smoke billowed out.

"The crew shot carbon dioxide on flames but didn't make headway. That's when I told them to issue lifejackets and radioed a may day.

Forty - eight passengers and three crew members, including McNatt, scrambled off the stern of the burning craft into the sea—some into lifeboats.

All were rescued within 20 minutes by shrimp boats operating in the vicinity. They got clear shortly before the blazing Marlin Queen's fuel tanks exploded.

There were several women and children aboard, along with a young polio victim who had both legs in casts.

Atlantic Allies Weigh Proposals to Improve Relations With Communist Lands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atlantic allies are weighing proposals for initiatives to improve relations with the Communist East.

One suggestion—for a broad declaration of principles within which specific East-West accommodations could be worked out—is reported to have been submitted by the British for discussion in the North Atlantic Council.

In addition to the British paper, other allied representatives were said to have expressed varying views orally during past deliberations of the council, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's political body.

But there appears to be a widespread feeling that under the impact of the Viet Nam war, Moscow is hardening its position against the West. This tends to reduce western urgency for initiatives which, at this time, would seem likely to meet a Kremlin rebuff.

Prime Minister Wilson, due in Washington tonight for brief talks with President Johnson, is expected to focus on economic and defence problems. Wilson got a cool reception when he tried a Viet Nam peace move on Premier Kosygin in Moscow earlier this month.

A basic U.S. governmental review of European policy is under way but informants said no conclusions have yet been reached.

The search for ways to trim East-West tensions over Europe was ordered by the NATO ministers at their Brussels meeting last month. The ambassadors at the North Atlantic Council were told to prepare for the ministers a "report which should deal with all possible initiatives in their field."

The British proposal was said to envision a generalized statement of principles to which the NATO nations, and perhaps the East European Communist countries, too, could subscribe. The declaration would set forth common aims such as:

—Desire for limited East-West agreements in areas of common interest pending a broader settlement.

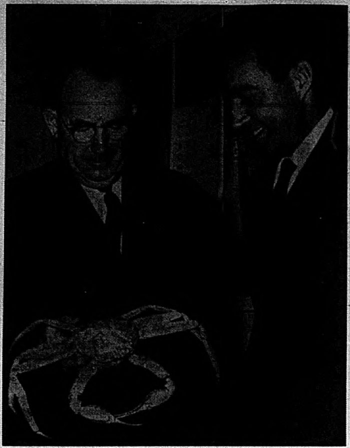
—More contacts between East and West.

—Renunciation of use of force in settling disputes.

—Disarmament.

—Co-operation in aiding underdeveloped countries.

The Atlantic allies were said to be in agreement that NATO itself, as an organization, would not be a practical channel for negotiating with the Communists. Each member would remain free to conduct his policy toward the East.



LOBSTER-FLAVORED CRAB — The North Atlantic queen crab, similar to but smaller than the Pacific king crab, is being investigated as a potential rival to the lobster in the seafood industry of the Maritime provinces. A two-pound crab yields about seven ounces of meat that has a lobster-like flavor. An experimental fishing program by the federal and Maritime provinces fisheries departments has located several large concentrations of crabs. Hiram McAllister, an official of the experimental program, holds one of the queen crabs as Louis E. Deveau, the general supervisor, watches. (CP Photo)

City's Golfing Aldermen to Play Ottawa

Belleville's golfing aldermen will take to the links again on Wednesday, August 3rd, at 1.30 p.m. This time the nation's capital hopes to put Belleville's aldermanic sharp shooters, Carruthers and Joss, in place with their team of Controller Murray Heit and Alderman Desmond Bender. In addition to Heit and Bender, Ottawa is fielding city clerk Hastey, and rumor as it that there might be more sharp shooters coming from the capital city hall.

To make extra sure that Beleville lives up to its reputation of being Canada's civic golfing champions, Alderman Williams, Boyle, and Soden will also be on deck August 3rd in a special demonstration of Belleville's "power play".

Hope North Atlantic Crab May Be Rival to Lobster

HALIFAX (CP) — The Maritime provinces' famous lobster catch may have an up-and-coming rival in the North Atlantic queen crab, hopefully in line to become the newest seafood delicacy from the east.

Belief that the crab has good market potential prompted the federal department of fisheries to begin an experimental fishing program in conjunction with the fisheries departments of the three Maritime provinces. One boat is operating out of each province this summer.

Similar to but smaller than the famous king crab of the Pacific, the species found on the East Coast was recently given the name North Atlantic queen crab by the fisheries departments. With a body shell of about five inches in diameter and legs up to 10 inches long, the crabs weigh from one-half to two pounds. A two-pound specimen will yield about seven ounces of meat, mostly from its 10 legs.

Chief feature of the queen crab is its lobster-like flavor. Its high meat yield, ease of shelling and flavor make the crab an attractive market possibility. Both larger and meatier than the rock crab, commonly found in eastern waters, the queen crab is definitely a tempting proposition for the fisheries departments.

RESULTS ENCOURAGING

In the initial program, the crabs were fished with a trawl or net. In this summer's expanded program, one boat will continue to use this method, while two other vessels will use steel and poly netting traps.

Since the experimental fishing began in the Gulf of St. Lawrence last fall, several large concentrations of crabs have been located. One grouping of the spidery creatures was estimated to be several miles in length and six miles in width.

Louis E. Deveau, general supervisor of the project, says results so far have been favorable. "The results of our fishing efforts last fall and winter certainly indicated that further exploration is warranted," he said.

In contrast to the lobster, biological information on the queen crab is not extensive. A scientist of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada will, however, make a biological study of the species this year.

Known biologically as chionoecetes opilio, the queen crab belongs to the spider crab family and inhabits waters from 200 to 2,000 feet in depth.

'North Star' Third in Freeman Race

Ian Morch's "North Star" placed third in the recent Lake Ontario Freeman Cup yacht races.

Morch's crew consisted of himself, skipper, and Freeman Burrowes, Ernst Kneisel, Ben Guyer and Arthur Alyea.

The "North Star" was beaten by "Red Jacket" of Toronto, a superb craft which swept aside all opposition to walk away with the Freeman Cup.

Both "Red Jacket" and North Star" were designed by the same man. The Toronto boat defeated many higher-priced boats in the race.

Lingham Lake Discharge Shows Increase

The rate of discharge from Lingham Lake has been increased from 24 to 37 cubic feet per second, the Moira River Conservation Authority reported today. The valve was opened July 26 and the increased flow should become noticeable by Saturday.

Purpose of the move was to supply more water downstream.

Viet Cong Hit By Record Air Raids

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots struck Viet Cong positions in South Viet Nam Wednesday with new fury, flying a record total of 826 combat sorties, a military spokesman reported.

American flyers also bombed North Viet Nam despite bad weather limiting most of their 108 missions Wednesday to the southern panhandle.

The increase in air missions over South Viet Nam came as the Viet Cong stepped up hit-and-run attacks.

The most significant of these assaults took place 18 miles from Saigon where guerrillas overran a village a few hours before dawn and drove off the 40 militiamen defenders.

WALTER WRIGHTMAN

TRENTON — A well-known Trenton businessman, Walter Wrightman, died suddenly Tuesday night at Trenton Memorial Hospital. Mr. Wrightman, in his late 40's, had been in failing health for the past few months.

A native of Trenton, Mr. Wrightman was owner of Quinte Machine and Repair. He was a member of King Street United Church.

Mr. Wrightman is survived by his wife, the former Mary Smithrim, two daughters, Sandra and Judy and a son, John.

GEORGE REDFREY AUNGER

MARMORA — Following an illness of three days, George Redfrey Aunger died in Belleville Hospital on Sunday, July 24th in his 87th year.

Born and educated in the village of Blairton, a son of the late John Aunger and the former Mary Jane Marian, he was the last of a family of ten children.

He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church where he had taught a Sunday School class of boys for over 50 years.

He was keenly interested in the youth of any denomination.

Mr. Aunger owned and operated a meat and grocery store in the village since 1920.

Surviving are a number of nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held on Tuesday, July 26th from the Howden Funeral Home to St. Andrew's Church for service by Rev. J. M. D. McLeod. Interment in Maple Grove Cemetery, Havelock. Bearers were Stanley Maxwell, Ralph Neal, Vincent Lynch, Joseph Murray, John Davidson and Leith Stetson.

CLAYTON JOSEPH YOUNG
(Tweed)

Saturday, July 23, the funeral of Clayton Joseph Young of Sulphide was held from the Cassidy Funeral Home to St. Carthagh Church. Rev. Dean C. E. Baker officiated. Bearers were Joseph Cassidy, Leonard Cassidy, Harold Varty, Clifford McEwen, Purdy Young and Harry Young. Interment in St. Carthagh Cemetery.

Mr. Young died Thursday, July 21 at Belleville General Hospital. He was 58-years-old. Born in Sulphide, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Young. He was a member of St. Michael's Church, Sulphide.

He is survived by his wife, the former Irene Clement; two sons, Orval of Belleville and Glenn of Vancouver, B.C.; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas P. (Mary) Farrell of Foxboro; three brothers, Bruce of Delora, William of Sulphide and Claude of Marlbank, and one sister, Mrs. Walter (Carmel) Henry of Marmora. He was predeceased by a son, Clayton, Jr.

Things We Could Do Without

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some things we could do without:

Fast-talking salesmen who try to sell you cemetery lots by telephone the day after you attend the funeral of a friend.

Girls who won't date a boy unless his hair is longer—and his slacks dirtier—than theirs.

Homely secretaries who wear in the office dresses shorter than the bathing suits their grandmothers used to wear at the beach.

Any place that charges a quarter for a cup of coffee that isn't worth a nickel.

Dentists with teeth so perfect they shame your own.

Articles about successful business executives which claim they put in 17 to 18 hours a day on the job.

Guys who hold on to your arm while telling a funny story—so that you can't flee, even though you've heard it from four other fellows the same morning.

Mothers who let teen-age daughters pierce their earlobes.

Smart alec computers that try to tell people they would make ideal marital mates.

The new arithmetic.

Cartoon blowups of Batman with your name printed on them.

Child violinists who play Flight of the Bumblebee anywhere except in a cave.

Cocktail parties which wind up with the host and hostess giving the guests free judo lessons.

Many Contracts Let in June

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of $47,072,806 worth of major contracts was awarded in June by the federal works department.

The amount was up $38,074,754 from May, due mainly to a $31,848,000 contract for the third construction phase of the National Arts Centre in Ottawa, and a $7,594,000 contract for the construction of a maximum security penitentiary at Ste. Anne des Plaines, Que.

Contracts worth $15,000 or more, not announced previously include:

ONTARIO

Erieau, dredging, $28,160, Dean Construction Co. Ltd., Tecumseh, Ont.; Peterborough, observation gallery facilities in federal building $39,727, Leslie George Construction Ltd., Peterborough; Port Hope, dredging, $23,100, J. P. Porter Co. Ltd.; Puce, dredging, $29,400, Dean Construction Co. Ltd.,

Marysville Farmers Undecided

The plans of four Marysville area farmers who left yesterday to participate in the Queen's Park tractor parade are uncertain today after the calling off of further demonstrations by Ontario Farm Union officials in Toronto.

The wife of Harold Murphy, county director of OFU Local 181, said this morning that the four Marysville tractors reached Cobourg last night on the first leg of the trek to Toronto. At present, it is not known whether the Local 181 demonstrators are aware of the OFU announcement, or if they have, what their reactions are to it.

One of the four Marysville tractors is being driven by a woman, Mrs. Carmel Bell, and another by Harold Murphy.

An O.P.P. spokesman said that yesterday's planned tractor parade from the Marysville Sideroad drew only three tractors, with no incidents being reported. The farmers were reportedly dissatisfied with developments in the OFU protest and resented being asked to leave their work to take part in demonstrations.

Hardy Annuals Are Listed On UN Agenda

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) The United Nations published Wednesday a 90-item agenda for the 21st session of the General Assembly which opens here Sept. 20.

The list includes many of the hardy annuals, such as disarmament, Korea, apartheid, Africa and the effects of atomic radiation.

A new item, proposed by Russia, and listed 90th in the agenda is "conclusion of an international agreement on legal principles governing the activities of states in the exploration and conquest of the moon and other celestial bodies."

Initial work on this subject has begun at Geneva in the legal subcommitte of the UN outer space committee.

The only candidate for president of the assembly is Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, one of the UN's foremost authorities on constitutional procedure. The presidency is passed around on a geographical basis and this year it is Asia's turn.

Rainier Gets Control of Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO (Reuters)—The Monaco government announced Wednesday a new financial move which could wrest control of the Monte Carlo playground from Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis.

For two years Onassis has been feuding with Prince Rainier over control of the gambling and other facilities that have made Monte Carlo famous.

The new government move was to purchase 600,000 newly-created shares in the Societe des Bains de Mer at a cost of 46,428,000 francs (about $11,600,000).

The Societe des Bains de Mer is the company which controls most of the Monaco tourist interests, including its famous casino.

Under the old arrangement Onassis — one of the world's richest men—held more than half the company's 1,000,000 previously-issued shares.

Ten Planters Put in Place

The last of the planters donated to the city by Wilson Concrete made their appearance on Front Street early yesterday morning. They join the four placed at the four corners several weeks ago.

The Victoria Avenue and Campbell Street intersections with Front Street both received four planters, while two were located further north on the street. Production problems at the Wilson Concrete plant delayed delivery of the planters and thus they are planted with small evergreens and geraniums. Deciduous trees will be substituted for the evergreens for next spring.

Move to Choke Pirate Radio

LONDON (AP)—The British government today threatened prison terms and fines in its campaign to silence the 10 pirate radio stations operating off Britain's shores.

The drastic legislation presented to the Commons would make it unlawful for any British subject to broadcast from the commercial stations, to install equipment for them, supply them with tapes, records or materials and advertise on their programs.

Penalties of up to two years imprisonment and fines exceeding £100 ($300) are provided.

The bill, introduced Wednesday by Postmaster General Edward Short and given its formal first reading, was published today. It is expectd to become effective by February.

The government was goaded into action by the slaying of the operator of a pirate station and the seizure of his station by raiders.

Buffalo Man Hurt as Van Leaves Road

A 65-year-old man from Buffalo, N.Y. was rushed to Belleville General Hospital this morning by City Ambulance after the European van-type vehicle he was driving left Highway 37, struck several guard-rails, and ended up in a ditch.

Frederick Lehman, who operates the Aragon Lodge in Harlow during the summers, was admitted to hospital with head and chest injuries. The other occupant, Mrs. Alice Akendorf, also of Buffalo, was given out-patient treatment.

The mishap occurred on Highway 37, about two miles south of the junction with Number 7 highway. The pavement was wet at the time.

Madoc O.P.P. investigated the accident, which took place about ten o'clock this morning.

Thinks Russia Ready to Put Dog on Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rocket scientist Wernher Von Braun was quoted here Wednesday night as saying he thinks the Soviet Union is close to sending live animals or men to the moon.

Von Braun's predictions were carried in a story by the Washington Post-Los Angeles Times news service. It was written by Rudy Abramson of The Times.

"I am convinced," Von Braun was quoted as saying, "the Russians are very close to being able to do one of two things—either go circumlunar (meaning to send astronauts on a flight around the moon) or land a dog on the moon and bring him back."

Von Braun said his belief was based on statements made from time to time by Soviet officials about their space program.

Von Braun, a leader in design and engineering of the United States' Saturn rockets, noted, however, that the Soviets have yet to demonstrate a "three-stage capability" with a space-launch vehicle and that they apparently have not subjected a space vehicle to the re-entry conditions it would face on a return to earth from the moon.

Otters, 'Rats' Pulled Plug, Drained Lake

BUCKHORN, Ont. (CP)—The owner of a man-made resort lake is blaming burrowing muskrats and otters for pulling the plug and letting the water drain out of his lake.

The man-made half of the 140-acre Green's Lake, owned by Joseph Robertson, located about 20 miles north of here, began draining Saturday, and by Tuesday was dry.

Half the masonry structure of the control dam toppled into the streambed of Upper Squaw Creek.

An earth cofferdam between the lower artificial and upper natural lake was washed out and upper water levels dropped six feet.

Mr. Robertson said muskrats and otters dug their burrows in clay between the dam and rock footing, so weakening the earth that it had the effect of pulling a plug in a basin.

Buckhorn is about 15 miles north of Peterborough.

Labor's Five-year Plan Wrecked by Austerity

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government's much - publicized five - year national economic plan has been virtually wrecked by Prime Minister Wilson's austerity measures.

In a highly emotional speech, Economics Secretary George Brown acknowledged in the Commons Wednesday night that the wage-and-price freeze, coupled with higher taxation, has killed off all hope of reaching the planned expansion for which he had struggled so hard.

The austerity measures — so heavy that the volatile 51-year-old economic chief and deputy prime minister at one stage threatened to resign—has put a squeeze on the British consumer market. Wages are to be frozen for six months, though one powerful union, the Transport Workers headed by Frank Cousins, has warned it will not hold the line.

The cabinet now is mulling a plan to put teeth into its prices freeze and there are reports that instead of six months, the over-all standstill may have to be continued for perhaps a year or more.

HAD IDEAS

Under Brown's national plan, the British economy was to grow roughly by an average four per cent between 1965 and 1970. It was to provide more social welfare at home while balancing Britain's crucial financial payments abroad. It was to provide more consumer production from British factories, more leisure and more of the other amenities for which the average Briton strives.

Now all that will have to be rewritten, Brown said. The rate of growth which he had intended to get was no longer available.

It means he will once more have to sit down with unions, with management and with all the other experts involved and try to write a new blueprint.

"I want the plan to go on," he said, but the country had to get rid of its restrictive practices and improve its industrial efficiency. Some parliamentary correspondents noted that his speech lacked bounce and coherence. Many of his statements were merely laughed down by the opposition.

Swimming Officials Invite Mao to Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the World Professional Marathom Swimming Federation has invited Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung to enter two 10-mile swimming races to be held in Canada this summer.

Carlos Larriera of Santa Fe, Argentina, the federation president, wrote to Mao inviting him to enter races scheduled for Hamilton, Ont., this weekend and Quebec City Aug. 13.

"We are told you swam nine miles on July 16 in the excellent time of one hour, five minutes," wrote Larriera. "This should put you in line for championships in both events, since the record for the 10-mile Quebec swim, set last year by one of the fastest swimmers in the world, Herman Willemse of Holland, was four hours, 35 minutes."

Guilio Travaglio of Italy established in February a record of three hours, 56 minutes for the 10-mile Lake el Quilla race in Argentina, Lariera said.

The federation president said Mao's reported time, broken down, gave him an average time of 24.6 seconds for 100 yards. The previously fastest time record for swimming 100 yards was 45.6 seconds.

"Perhaps Mao might prefer to represent Red China in the next Olympic Games before turning professional," Larriera said, "but if he wishes to earn some easy money, I suggest he turn pro this summer and give Willemse, Travaglio and others who apparently don't hold a candle to him, some swimming lessons in the Canadian races."

The federation has its head quarters in Washington.

Two Britons Are Rowing Across Ocean

LONDON (AP)—Two British soldiers trying to row the Atlantic from the United States to England were reported almost half way today and going strong.

Another British pair was far behind.

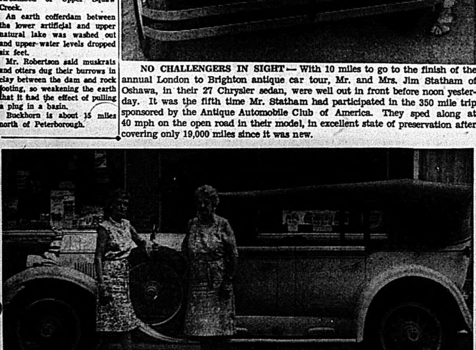
The Daily Mail said Capt. John Ridgway, 27, and Sgt. Shay Blyth, 26, were sighted by an American freighter Tuesday night. Their 22-foot long boat English Rose III was then 1,500 miles from its destination, Land's End, at the southwest tip of Britain. They told the freighter's crew they were fit, cheerful and needing no help.

This put the soldiers nearly 800 miles ahead of David Johnstone, 34-year-old Surrey journalist, and John Hoare, 29, Leicester public relations man, aboard the 16-foot Puffin.

Johnstone and Hoare, unsighted for 48 days, were running low on supplies when they communicated with the Swedish ship Bengazi Tuesday night, The Mail reported. They took food and water from the Bengazi and got more from the British freighter Silverbeach Wednesday.

The Silverbeach said the rowers were 750 miles southeast of Newfoundland and in good spirits.

NO CHALLENGERS IN SIGHT — With 10 miles to go to the finish of the annual London to Brighton antique car tour, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Statham of Oshawa, in their 27 Chrysler sedan, were well out in front before noon yesterday. It was the fifth time Mr. Statham had participated in the 350 mile trip sponsored by the Antique Automobile Club of America. They sped along at 40 mph on the open road in their model, in excellent state of preservation after covering only 19,000 miles since it was new.



TOUR GREETERS — Mrs. Bertha Marshall (right) and her daughter-in-law Mrs. G. Berniece Marshall, both of Brighton, were among the villagers who turned out as an enthusiastic welcoming committee. They take great pride in maintaining and driving the '28 McLaughlin Buick model that was provided the Prince of Wales (Duke of Windsor) for transportation when he visited Canada. The interior is finished in leather upholstery, in almost perfect condition after four decades.

Urges Action With Plans For Centennial

TRENTON — Robert Carleton, chairman of the Centennial Planning Committee, has called upon the people of Trenton and groups to get underway with plans for 1967 celebrations and projects.

"We've only got five months left to plan," he told members of the Kiwanis Club this week.

Mr. Carleton said projects need not be expensive, but should be original. Dates should be set and checked with the committee.

Mr. Carleton outlined programs which have been set up. One is the opening of the Centennial Park on June 14, 1967. A monster parade will be held that day.

Centennial dances have been set for May and October and the Centennial Caravan will visit the town July 13-18, 1967.

Merchants will be asked to dress their windows in a Centennial theme, with a change of theme every month.

"Act now to cut yourself a slice of our 100th birthday cake to honor our forefathers and prepare for our future," he said.

Will Entertain U.S. Cadets

TRENTON — Today, 15 members of the Civil Air Patrol Cadet Corps from the United States will arrive in Trenton for a two day visit. They will be billeted with 11 Trenton families who will be responsible for their entertainment.

The cadet exchange visits are arranged by the Air Cadet League of Canada and locally by Douglas Whitley, a director with that organization.

Suspect Was Subdued by Chief's Billy

TRENTON — Chief Constable Wm. Hockley of Frankford yesterday told Magistrate T. Y. Wills that when he and former Chief Constable Ed. McGeachy attempted to serve Raymond O'Sullivan of the 6th concession of Sidney with a warrant for his arrest on a theft charge, O'Sullivan tore up the warrant, threw it on the floor, kicked Constable McGeachy in the groin, bit him when he tried to handcuff him, tried to strike both officers with the handcuffs, attempted to reach a knife on the kitchen table and struggled with the men for 20 minutes.

"I took a swing at him with my billy, then had to 'forcibly subdue' him," the constable said.

"Would you please define 'forcibly subdue'," asked the magistrate.

"I struck him in the head with the billy and he became 'groggy'," Chief Hockley said.

O'Sullivan was remanded until next week while his record is being checked and will then be heard on a charge of theft of gasoline, to which he pleaded not guilty in court yesterday.

LIVE WITHOUT WATER

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — The 40 Indian families in Whitehorse Village have been without community water service since April, when the well water was declared unfit for human consumption. A new well failed to produce enough water and Indian agency officials are studying the possibility of connecting the village with the Whitehorse municipal system.

Given Month, In Jail, No Licence

TRENTON — Peter Harold Brunton of 240 Queen Street was sentenced to one month in jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton yesterday, after he was found guilty of driving while disqualified.

Brunton, who was picked up on June 3 and 4 had told police he didn't have a licence.

Hoever, in May, when picked up by Constable Gary Davis on a charge of disturbing the peace, Brunton was reported to have told the officer, "When I get my licence back, you'll be one of the ones I won't steer around. And remember you quite often direct traffic."

Junior Golf Tournament August 13

TRENTON — On August 13, an open tournament for junior golfers will be held at the Trenton Country Club. Last year, there were 98 entries. Entries this year are limited to 100. Applications are being received now. Last year's low gross champ was Neil McMillan of the Cataraqui, Kingston club.

In play is the "Quinte Transport Bowl," and merchants have donated several other prizes.

Contestants must be under 18 (by Aug. 15) and there will be special flights for beginners.

To enter, phone the club at 392-5244 or the pro shop at 392-3711.

Road Supt. To Quit Post

TRENTON — Clifford Wannamaker, road superintendent for the past 16 years in Murray Township, has tendered his official resignation to township council. Mr. Wannamaker, 70, wants a rest from his patrolling of 130 miles of township roads, but has agreed to stay on until the end of the year to train a successor. Council has advertised for another man.

Indian Week At Playgrounds

TRENTON — This is Indian Week at two Trenton playgrounds, College Street and Allison Park. Teepees have been set up and the children are dressed as braves and squaws.

At St. Peter's on Friday, a dress up day will be held.

Friday, too, the children at the high school will relive the Sherwood Forest saga, complete with Robin Hood, Maid Marion and Little John.

North Trenton today will have a service day and the children will be spoken to by a minister and a police officer.

One week from today, all playgrounds will join in a Junior Olympics Day with the opening ceremonies scheduled for 9.30 a.m. at the high school grounds.

Textile Firm Opposes Legislators' Intervention

MONTREAL (CP)—The president of Dominion Textile Co. Ltd. said today any attempts by an MP and a member of the Quebec legislature to intervene in the current strike by 5,000 textile workers will only delay a settlement.

The statement was contained in a letter released today replying to Maurice Allard, who represents Sherbrooke, Que. as an independent Progressive Conservative in the Commons, and Raynald Frechette, Union Nationale member of the legislature for Sherbrooke.

Mr. Allard and Mr. Frechette said last week in a letter to the company that they would launch an "information campaign" unless the company changed its "rigid and miserly" attitude toward the strikers.

F. R. Daniels, president of Dominion Textile, said in reply their public threat to conduct a campaign, if taken seriously by the union, can have only one effect."

"It would delay any real chance of negotiating a settlement. This would prolong the financial distress of our employees and their communities. That is your moral and social responsibility."

The strike has been in progress since last March in the Quebec communities of Magog, Montmorency, Drummondville and Sherbrooke.

Mr. Daniels blamed the Confederation of National Trade Unions for consistently changing course "when a settlement on any clause seems close."

Negotiations in the strike, called in support of workers demands for higher pay, resumed Wednesday...

Workers now receive $1.79 an hour.

BENNETT PASSES

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett will not attend the annual premiers' conference to be held Monday in Toronto. The premier said Wednesday he has a prior commitment to attend the Social Credit party's 14th anniversary celebration at Kelowna, B.C.

Demonstration Sidelight

Another area tractor demonstration by farmers protesting price levels paid them for their products is over.

It was an orderly demonstration, although motor traffic was slowed. Some farmers reportedly stayed away because of provincial police warnings that anyone impeding traffic would be prosecuted.

Much has been said about the difficulties the police face in their dealings with the public. In the United States cries of "police brutality," real or imagined, make the policeman's lot an unenviable one. Ganging up on the police forces in this country is not uncommon either.

Nothing like this occurred in the tractor demonstrations. A remark by one farmer, however, could have struck a discordant note in an otherwise peaceful and democratic expression of the farmer's discontent over the returns he is getting for his milk products.

"To my way of thinking," said the farmer, "when the police issued the warning they did, that was more reason than ever to get out here. They can't put us all in jail."

Nevertheless, the farmers are entitled to draw attention to what may be regarded as a decline in their economic status, stemming from the rising cost of living affecting their own industry as much as others. The tractor demonstrations have achieved this in dramatic fashion, and yet the farmers' conduct has been responsible and disciplined throughout.

The police, too, are to be commended for their handling of traffic, and for their restraint, while at the same time warning that the law should be respected.

Viet Nam Dilemma

The Earl of Avon's peace formula for Viet Nam — a proposal that the International Control Commission (Canada, Poland and India), named in 1954 to supervise the now-broken truce in Indo-China should continue with extended powers — is estimable, but as likely as not impractical.

Lord Avon, formerly British Prime Minister Anthony Eden, says the Commission should report regularly on Viet Nam through the two co-chairmen. In the event of a settlement, guarantees would be offered both North and South Viet Nam, while permitting a period of 10 to 15 years to elapse before they are called upon to decide their mutual relationship. Any agreement would also guarantee the territories and neutrality of Laos and Cambodia.

Unfortunately, the International Control Commission on Viet Nam has been notably unsuccessful in its past efforts to preserve peace in that war-torn land. In fact the body exists more on paper than in fact. In these circumstances it is difficult to imagine either side paying any heed to it at this juncture.

Meanwhile President Johnson says the initiative in Viet Nam is now with the United States, and that while the U.S. military forces make "conquest impossible for the communist forces in the field, our diplomats are probing for a way to make an honorable peace seem desirable to the communist leaders in Hanoi."

North Viet Nam has made it clear often enough that it intends to fight on for years if necessary. On the other hand, there is a feeling that the combination of American military power in Viet Nam and the various peace feelers that are being made may pave the way for a negotiated settlement before too long.

Japanese Progress

Not content with cementing relations with this country, Russia has decided to co-operate with Japan in Siberian development projects and promote bilateral economic relations.

Meanwhile, trade between Canada and Japan continues apace. Japan is that enigma — an Asian nation that has risen from the ashes of wartime defeat to become one of the most modern and industrialized nations in the world.

With Canada it enjoys particularly cordial relations, and its contemporary industrial achievements are the subject of a handsome publication issued by the Canada-Japan Trade Council. Just how swiftly the increasing industrialization of both countries has grown to the benefit of each may be gauged from figures provided by Hisanaga Shimadzu, Japanese ambassador to Canada.

He points out that the volume of trade between the two countries last year was about $550 million, compared with $114 million when the trade agreement was signed 12 years ago.

At a time when Asia is in ferment and relations with China are uncertain, a strong and stable Japan are cause for satisfaction. That it also enjoys cordial relations with Canada, as well as the United States and the western world generally, is also gratifying.

Increased attendance and good leadership make for interesting, instructive activities at Belleville Boys' camp. Improved campus and accommodation through the help of Belleville Rotary Club, the McFarlannd Construction bulldozer and numerous citizens are being taken full advantage of. The wiring provided by the Y's Men's Club of the Y.M.C.A., is a boon compared to the old coal oil lantern, while it also permits moving pictures for education and entertainment.

Acting postmaster since last April when Mr. J. V. C. Trualsch was granted si xmonths' leave of absence, Mr. J. C. Waddell, 133 Bridge St. W., has receivved the appointment as postmaster at Belleville.

Christ Church Boy Scouts under the leadership of the rector of the Parish, the Rev. C. E. Clarke, have returned home after a sttay of 10 days in camp at Rednersville and all of them are in the "pink". One of the features of the sports was training for swimming and rescuing certificates. The tests were conducted by Scout Master Varley of the third Belleville troup. Swimmers and Rescuers badges were awarded to John Evans, Jack Carter and Desmond Bonnacastle; swimmers badges were awarded to Ted Follwell and Jack Fisher and rescuers badge was awarded to James White. In training for the awards six of the boys swam the bay.

Major W. J. Cook and Captain Fred Wallbridge of the Argyll Light Infantry have been awarded the Colonial Forces Officers' Decoration and also the Long Service Medal.

Surgery May Help Bad Arteriosclerosis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Tests show that a man of 51 is afflicted with heart disease and arteriosclerosis obliterans in the lower extremities.

His legs are very weak and constantly painful. Is this disease curable or can arteries in the legs be replaced with plastic tubes? If so, can the patient use his legs normally. I have been told that nerves in the legs could be cut to relieve the severe pain. But wouldn't this leave the patient without use of his legs? — E. W.

Arteriosclerosis obliterans is a severe type of hardening of the arteries. Circulation is greatly impaired and this causes the weakness and pain.

Possibility of surgical help depends on the location of the narrowed segments of arteries. This can be determined in an arteriogram (special X-ray of the arteries).

If one of the larger arteries in the thigh or above is the site of the principal clogging, then surgery may be considered to insert a section of plastic, or in some other way (depending on circumstances) let blood flow more freely past the clogged point.

This will not interfere with use of the legs. Rather, it will improve their condition by increasing the circulation.

If the principal difficulty is in the smaller vessels of the lower leg, then this procedure cannot be done successfully.

The nerve operation you mentioned is called a sympathectomy, which involves severing a special segment of nerves which control the arterial tone. That is, the operation permits greater dilation of the smaller arteries in the affected region, thus increasing circulation through them.

These are not the nerves which control the leg muscles; therefore the patient can continue to use his legs as before. The difference is only that he will have more strength and less pain, the improvement depending on how much the cicrulattion is increased.

While both these procedures can be very helpful in suitable cases, keep in mind that they are not cure-alls. They are to be used only with due consideration for the extent of the problem and the degree of improvement which might be expected.

For example, repairing one of the arteries high in the leg could be of little value if too much clogging is present also in the lower limbs. You must abide by the doctor's decision after suitable tests have been made.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 13-year-old daughter who is 5 feet 1, and weight 159 pounds. What can ebe done for her? — Mrs. A. M.

The first step is to have a medical examination to make certain that no glandular disorder is causing this enormous weight. Preferably consult an endocrinologist. If her glands are operating properly, then the answer is a suitable reducing diet, no nibbling between meals, and more exercise. The fat child almost always shuns exercise. There often is a big psychological factor present — fear; a sense of insecurity; undue shyness. The eating patterns of the family may also be a factor. Anybody else overweight in the family?

Note to J. D.: Seafoods of all kinds are rich in iodine. There is also iodine in foods grown where some is present in the soil, which means the low areas along seacoasts.

The Great Lakes region and mountainous areas are most likely to be without iodine.

Slogans and Chinese Proverbs

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"One irrational slogan is worth a thousand facts" is an old Chinese proverb I have just made up for the fall election season.

Speaking of politics, has anyone noticed that our party has an "administration," but the other party has a "regime"?

Long ago I learned never to attend a lecture or forum, of which the title begins with "Whither."

Cab drivers should be graded Fast, Medium or Slow, on the sides of their cabs, so that a passenger won't (as I invariably do) pick up a myopic slowpoke when trying to make a plane, or fall into the clutches of a speed-demon when there is plenty of time for an appointmen

When I view a conceited performer, it reminds me of George Eliot's remark; "It has always seemed to me a sort of clever stupidity only to have one sort of talent like a carrier pigeon."

Performers, however, may conceitedly talk about themselves a lot, but at least most of them do it in entertaining fashion; it is the professional athlete who is conversationally self-centred in the most boring manner possible.

Women are excellent judges of men they care nothing about, but are easily deluded by the men they love; whereas men are absurdly taken in by strange women, but retain few illusions about the women they are close to.

A letter which begins, "I don't quite know how to say this . . ." is always unpleasant and usually dishonest.

It would help us to understand Europeans' ambivalent feelings toward America if we saw how identical the inhabitants of a tourist state feel toward the tourists — resenting their presence in almost exact proportion as they require their money.

What bigots never understand is that people who are treated like inferiors become inferiors; as G. L. Dickinson said: "Every kind of discrimination is a protection of the incompetent against the competent, with the result that the motive to become competent is taken away."

Why would anyone own a snarling dog that has to be walked on a short leash; what possible fun can it be to possess a snappish beast?

Paintings of landscapes (and, even more, seascapes) invariably bore me, because it is the element of slow or rapid change in the color-pattern which gives nature its greatest beauty — and no reproduction can be anything but static: a painting of a sunset, for instance, inevitably misses the one thing that makes a sunset memorable, namely, its movement.

My idea of an over-educated child is one who gives the past tense of the verb "sneak" as "sneaked" instead of the much more expressive "snuck."

Prayer and The Motorist

The Reverend Gerald Short, an Anglican has suggested in a South African magazine that motorists should sing three hymns as they increase their speed.

His suggestions were:

75 mph: "Nearer My God to Thee".

85 mph: "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There".

95 mph: "Lord I Am Coming Home".

Ottawa Offbeat

Paul Hellyer in Tradition Of No-Nonsense Ministers

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When it comes to Cabinets, the hard-nosed types always seem to end up as Defence Ministers.

If they're not tough to begin with, they get that way dealing with the Big Brass whose idea of "personnel management," as it is called in the softer circles of the Federal Government service, of necessity is to turn over disciplinary problems to no-nonsense sergeant-majors.

Around National Defence Headquarters you don't get to hear much of the "would-you-mind-if-it-isn't-too-much-trouble" way of doing business.

But you do get to hear a lot of the "get-on-with-it-man" manner of getting things done.

In the civilian departments of government when handling personnel problems they go through a strictly stylized routine, a sort of bureaucratic "Waltz-of-the-Protocol."

In the Defence Department, when the pressure's on — as it usually is in personnel crunches — they just fire ahead.

Like Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's doing in "weeping no tears," as he phrases it, about the high mortality rate in the upper echelons of the high command over integration — although when Parliament reassembles in the Fall, with the Honorable Members presumably awake at last to the issues, he may find himself doing a little crying.

THE ALL SUPREME

Like former Conservative Defence Minister Douglas Harkness did when, unable to get a firm decision out of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, he ordered the Navy to action stations in support of the U.S. Navy in the quarantine of Cuba during the nuclear missile crisis.

And like former Liberal Defence Minister Brooke Claxton did when he fired his Deputy Air Minister.

When you're a Cabinet Minister running a civilian department and you want to fire one of your deputies or a departmental director - general, you retire him. With full honors. Retirement leave, which is a long salary-paid pre-pension holiday. A fulsome statement declaring what a loss to the public service his departure will be. A formal presentation of a silver tray, a new set of golf clubs with caddy car, and maybe a color TV.

If you fire him, out of hand as former Conservative Trade Minister Gordon Churchill did with his deputy who was Mitchell Sharp, six years later to become Trade Minister himself, you create such an uproar that neither you nor any other Member of the Cabinet dares ever to fire anybody else.

In all except the Defence Department.

There you are Czar, Ruler-of-all-the-Red-Tabs.

Despot, dictator, the All Supreme, and only that mightiest of all bureaucratic mankind, the Prime Minister himself, or impossibly, a military coup, can touch you.

The last time the Brass, military or civilian challenged the Defence Minister, retribution was instant and final.

"I'LL GET HIM"

Brooke Claxton, too, faced a "revolt" when he was Defence Minister, a rebellion by his Deputy, the Number Two Man in the Department who was convinced that his boss was a spendthrift, frittering away millions of the taxpayers' dollars on unnecessary hardware for the Armed Forces.

In a manner that must remain secret, he so arranged things that Claxton's Defence Estimates became available to a pair of Parliamentary reporters in advance of Parliament.

That was the year they bought the carrier Magnificent, a fleet of new tanks, a flight or so of jets and some other expensive, if necessary equipment.

The story ran in a series in the two newspapers, The Ottawa Journal and one of the Toronto evenings, and it was a tossup who was the most popeyed, the outraged Defence Minister or the perplexed Parliament, both of them "scooped" by the Front Pages.

Furious, Claxton confronted one of the two newsmen: "I'll get the SOB who leaked it if it takes all year."

Confident their informant could remain snugly unidentified, the reporter told Claxton it would "take all year and next year, too."

"It can be only one of perhaps 20 or 30 men," swore Claxton, "and I'll have his head."

"Could be one of 20 or 30," agreed the still smug reporter, "but which one - - you can't hang 'em all."

It took four days. A single sentence in a Defence press release told the story: "The Minister of National Defence announces the resignation of the Deputy, effective today." No retirement leave. No statement of regret. No silver tray, no golf clubs and caddy car, no color TV. Just the sack.

"He narrowed it down to 10," related the Deputy later when his stunned friend the newsman called to find out what had happened. "And he stuck us in his offfce and said he would wait out the day and the next and the next, without food or drink, until somebody cracked. I did. Man, is he a hard case."

All Defence Ministers are hard cases.

Canadian Birth Rate in Decline

Ottawa Journal

The Canadian birth rate has fallen from 26.8 to 21.4 per 1,000 population since 1960. About 56,000 fewer babies were born last year than five years ago. Some predictions call for the birth rate to reach an all-time low of less than 20 by 1970. The American and West European experience has been similar.

Certain Canadians are worrying about the declining birth rates. Baby food manufacturers and other baby-oriented industries are directly affected. Hospitals and schools find their plans, based on more generous population growth estimates, now are being upset. Dr. P. B. Rynard, MP for Simcoe East, was quoted the other day as being worried about the effect of fewer births on the economy. He blamed the decrease not only on the increased use of birth control pills but, more generally, on the search for the "easy life." He feared the long-term result of this trend, if it goes unchecked, might be the "decay" of North American civilization.

Perhaps he fears too much too soon.

Historically, there seems to have been a natural decline in the Canadian birth rate. Rough estimates for the 1851-61 period place the birth rate at 45. It was down to 30 by 1901 and to 29 by 1921 and declined steadily at an all-time low of 20.1 in 1937. It had recovered to 24.3 by 1945, rose to a post-war high of 28.9 in 1947 and remained remarkably stable between 27.1 and 28.5 until 1959. Then started the present decline.

There is no way of knowing what the Canadian birth rate "should" be. It has ben affected by one "disturbance" after another — heavy immigration in the early 1900's followed by another war. Statisticians haven't had any "normal" population conditions to figure out a "normal" birth rate.

We should not forget that most of the babies lately have been produced by children of the Depression years, and there are fewer of them because economic hardship knocked the birth rates of the 1930s to an all-time low. The increased use of birth control pills is a factor, but nobody yet knows how much. An apparent reversal of the postwar trend to larger families has been noted, and many young wives have delayed child-bearing to continue working and earning money with which to raise a family later.

The complexity of all the factors affecting birth rates makes it hard to predict what will happen next but a safe assumption is that as more and more of the post - war babies grow up and get married a new population cycle will develop. It will mean many more babies even if the birth-rate remains steady or declines.

One thing is sure — babies aren't quite going out of style, as some fretters have suggested. Most Canadians will worry more about high birth rates in over-populated Latin America and Asia than they will about the lower Canadian rate. North America's living space will be used up soon enough in spite of a low birth rate.

Besides, there is an unfortunate tendency on this continent to regard people as primarily "consumers." Our complex economy does need to grow to stay healthy but if it depends on ever more relentless growth in the numbers of little "consumers" then we are all in trouble.

Jim Ryun's Great Run

Christian Science Monitor

Faster, farther, higher—world records continue to topple. Jim Ryun, 19 year-old University of Kansas freshman, timed in 3:51.3, broke Michel Jazy's mark for the mile, the first time an American has set a world record in the mile since Glenn Cunningham, fellow-Kansan, set his world mark back in 1934. Ryun cut 15½ seconds off Cunningham's time.

On the same day in a Soviet-American meet in Moscow Galina Prozumenshchikova set a new world's record in the 100-meter breast stroke, while the day before 13-year-old Irina Posdynakova won the 200-meter breast stroke in world record time.

Judge Refuses To Ban Pickets

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court judge, refusing to ban pickets at a Toronto apartment project, Wednesday described picketing as "the last weapon strikers have for endeavoring to obtain fair treatment from employers."

Mr. Justice F. T. McDermott said picketing which halted the $6,000,000 project July 21 was lawful and peaceful and that sub-contractors have voluntarily withdrawn to show their loyalty to union principles.

The pickets, members of Local 721 of the Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers Union (CLC) went on strike July 18 in a contract dispute with National Aluminum Products Co. Ltd., which is installing windows, doors and door frames in the Tenen Investments Ltd. project.

Trade was active and prices stronger on most classes of livestock for sale Tuesday. Fat steers and heifers were steady. Good cows were higher, common and medium cows were strong. Choice veal calves were higher, common and medium calves were much stronger. Weaned pigs were strong and shoats were higher. There was a strong demand for good springers with common and medium heifers selling actively higher.

Following are quotations:

Choice steers 23 to 25.

Good steers 22 to 23.

Good heifers 22 to 24. Mediums 20 to 22. Common 18 to 20.

Good cows 18½ to 21. Heifery cows as high as 22. Mediums 16 to 18. Common and cutters 12 to 16.

Good heavy bologna bulls 22½ to 23½. Mediums 21 to 22. Common 18 to 20.

Good stock calves 25 to 27.

Choice veal 36 to 41. Good 32 to 36. Mediums 28 to 32. Common 22 to 27. Boners 16 to 21.

Choice lambs 26 to 29. Common and mediums 24 to 26. Sheep .08 to 14.

Grade A hogs 23 to 24 on live weight basis.

Light sows 18 to 19. Heavy sows 16 to 17½.

Shoats 28 to 32. Weaned pigs $12 to $16 each.

Good springers $300 to $375 each.

Good heifers $250 to $340 each.

Good work horses $125 to $160. Meat horses .08 to .09.

The exchange will be held Thursday next week.

Hold Indian Day Program At East Hill Playground

Yesterday was Indian Day for the Belleville playgrounds. Excellent weather conditions brought close to 400 children, as well as some parents, to East Hill playground to participate.

The afternoon began with about 250 children in a costume contest, the winners being Keith Pearse and Bruce Pearse from East Hill playground; Linda Begley from C.N.R. playground; and Julie Bodley from Sir Winston Churchill playground.

Following the costume contest were races and Indian wrestling. The winners were:

5 - 7 years race Michael Crawford, East Hill; Cindy Walker, Queen Victoria.

8 - 10 years Johnny Tracey, John St.; Dianne Bertrim, East Hill.

11 - 13 years Dick Howe, O.S.D.; Donna Bertrim, East Hill

Backward Race 5 - 7 years Steven Frederick, O.S.D.; Cindy Walker, Queen Victoria.

8 - 10 years Michael Seguen, Churchill Cres.; Dianne Bertrim, East Hill.

11 - 13 years Dick Howe, O.S.D.; Eva Ibbotson, Hillcrest.

Indian Wrestling over 12 Mike Scarlett, East Hill; Lea Ann Doran, Queen Elizabeth; under 12 Al Pearce, East Hill; Karen Fraser, Stanley Parkette; and Malda Labaron, East Hill.

The climax of the program was a Camp Fire conducted by Chief Running Deer, played by Greg Scarlette. Greg also took the children on a deer hunt around the campfire.

Three-year-old Gives Alarm Saves Mother, Six Children

PICTON — Three-year-old Andy-John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ferguson of Gladstone Ave. yesterday morning was credited with saving the lives of his mother and six other children when an early morning flash fire broke out in their one-storey frame bungalow.

The father had left for work about 8 a.m. yesterday, leaving his wife and the children still sleeping. Andy-John awoke and noticed flames. He kept calling to his mother to rouse her. Mrs. Ferguson acted quickly. The ceiling was on fire and parts of it were falling. The family could not get out the front door because of smoke and flames so Mrs. Ferguson gathered her children together and they edged along a wall and got safely out the rear door. Flames were shooting from the roof.

The Picton Fire Department found the blaze well advanced on its arrival. Firemen concentrated on preventing the flames from spreading to another house about 60 feet away. The fire is believed to have started in the attic.

The home was completely destroyed and the contents were lost. It is understood there was no insurance on the house or contents. The house was built by Mr. Ferguson.

Diefenbaker Says Govt. Acted Ineptly

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday the fact George Victor Spencer was guilty of misconduct as a civil servant does not absolve the government from blame for "mishandling and ineptness" in the celebrated spy case.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in a statement by his office here, said if the government's handling of the case had not been inept there would have been no need for the inquiry by Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells.

Mr. Justice Wells in his report released Tuesday backed the government's firing of Spencer from his postal clerk's job and said there was no doubt the man had worked for Soviet espionage agents.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a number of questions about the case remain unanswered.

He said the government press release of May 11, 1965, mentioned another Canadian whose job was to compromise female civil servants.

"No more has been heard of this," he said.

Ford Reports Profits Cut

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. reported Wednesday, as General Motors did Tuesday, that profits for the second quarter and first six months of 1966 run behind 1965 figures.

Henry Ford II, board chairman, said consolidated net income for the second quarter was $216,900,000, or $1.97 a share, compared with $237,300,000, or $2.14 a share, for the corresponding three months of 1965. The $1.97 figure was the second highest quarterly payment in Ford history.

Sales for the three months totalled $3,331,900,000, an increase from last year's figure of 3,085,600,000.

Ford's six - month figures listed consolidated sales of $6,513,600,000, nine - per - cent higher than the $5,997,800,000 in the opening six months of 1965.

Net income for the first half was $427,100,000, or $3.86 a share, compared with $438,100,000, or $3.95 a share, in the opening six months of 1965.

Three in Four Want Divorce Made Easier

OTTAWA (CP) — Wider grounds for divorce are favored by 74 per cent of residents in Toronto's west end polled by Liberal MP Stanley Haidasz.

Mr. Haidasz, member for Toronto Parkdale, said 22 per cent of the persons who replied to a questionnaire he sent out answered "no" to a question reading: "Do you think divorces should be easier to obtain?" Another four per cent had no opinion.

Mr. Haidasz, releasing the results of his poll Wednesday, said 2,158 questionnaires out of the 20,000 he sent out were returned.

Federal lotteries and sweepstakes to finance hospital construction were endorsed by 91 per cent and opposed by eight per cent. Increased taxes on tobacco and alcohol were turned down by 56 per cent and favored by 36 per cent.

Now Piggy Banks Reject Lowly Pennies

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A statistical genius has found that a woman flexes her foot at least 6,000 times a day walking, sitting and changing the positions of her legs . . . Sorry, we haven't got the figures on her jaw movements.

Prosperity note: Obstetrical fees have risen 147 per cent in the U.S. since 1940 . . . Oh, baby.

Big opportunity: Only eight thoroughbreds (the last was Citation in 1948) have won racing's triple crown—victory in the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes . . . A horse that accomplished the feat today would bring home $345,000.

Shocking: Researchers here and in the Soviet Union are experimenting with a new kind of "anesthetic" — weak electrical currents . . . They produce a state of unconsciousness deep enough to permit surgery . . . Big worry: The patient may wake up with a new personality, altered by the electricity.

Inflation: A toy manufacturer has announced that it is discontinuing its line of penny banks . . . From now on, its banks will be geared to take only nickels, dimes and quarters.

How long can you remain still without squirming? . . . Zen Buddhist monks can sit in motionless, silent meditation for 17 hours, go five days without sleep—and suffer no apparent ill effects.

Doubts Catholic Intervention Decided Vote

QUEBEC (CP) — Abbe Gerard Dion, professor of industrial relations at Laval University, says he doubts that interventions by Quebec's Roman Catholic clergy had much influence on the outcome of the June 5 provincial general election.

He makes the statement in an article in Perspectives Sociales, a pastoral bulletin published Wednesday.

"For a long time in Quebec, people have been holding the clergy responsible for everything they dislike and for everything that goes wrong," Abbe Dion said in the article.

On election night, faced with "a result that took a good many people by surprise," former premier Jean Lesage and his welfare minister Rene Levesque had attributed their defeat at the hands of the Union Nationale to statements by the clergy, mainly on education issues.

"Falling back on a scapegoat to explain an annoying situation is an old custom . . . which the progress of civilization has not yet succeeded in changing."

Abbe Dion said considering the narrow margin of the Union Nationale victory, there were many factors which, singly or in combination, could have toppled the Lesage government.

Fewer Autos Sold in May

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales of new passenger cars and commercial vehicles in May numbered 76,205, a decline of 14 per cent from May, 1965, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Sales of cars numbered 63,543 and of commercial vehicles 12,662 in May this year, compared with 76,897 and 12,744 in May last year.

Sales in the first five months of 1966 were, however, 2.3-per-cent higher than in the same period last year, totalling 369,072 compared with 360,903.

SPICES are NICER REMOVED

Hi Su: If you are fortunate enough to have a loose-tea colander, use it for holding your spices when cooking soups and stews or when canning, or pickling eggs. This makes it so simple to remove the spices after they have done their work.

—A piece of well-worn soap is just the substitute you'll need one day when you run out of tailor's chalk half way through that dress you're making.

— Before using boullion cubes crush them by giving them a few whacks with the handle of a dull knife while they are still in their foil wrappers. The pulverized cubes dissolve much faster. — J. R.

STATELY — AND STEADFAST

Dear Susanna: Elegant, valuable vases are lovely on end tables but, watch it or you'll knock them over.

Prolong the lives of your lovely china, and save yourself a little heart failure at the same time by filling their bases with sand.

This will weigh them down, and make them so they won't over-balance even when filled with tall flowers. —Martha L.

MARMORA — Mrs. Clarence McCoy was hostess at a birthday party for Mrs. Charlotte O'Brien who celebrated her 83rd birthday this past week. Guests were present from Campbellford, Toronto, Marmora and the community.

Mrs. O'Brien was born and educated in the township where she lived until the death of her husband when she moved to Toronto, living there for over 30 years, returning in 1946. Her two daughters were present, Mrs. Russell Kerkham of Toronto and Mrs. Olive Jeffery, Marmora.

Timmy McCoy presented Mrs. O'Brien with a beautiful bouquet. Lunch was served by Mrs. McCoy assisted by Mrs. Myrtle McCormick, Mrs. Arthur Logan and Mrs. Olive Jeffrey. Cards and telegrams were received from friends, relatives and both federal and provincial members. A son, Angus O'Brien of Toronto, was unable to attend.

VARIETY OF VEGETABLES SALADS

A still life painting should have been made of the beautiful salad vegetables I had in my refrigerator, all grown in Canada. There was a shiny hard cabbage, a huge head of Iceberg lettuce, plump rosy tomatoes, big bunches of parsley and watercress, a long polished slim cucumber, some tiny green onions and fat red radishes.

I was like Stephen Leacock's horseman who rode off in all directions What to do first?

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Chicken Maryland; Curried Rice; New Green Peas; Chef's Salad with Swiss Cheese Slivers — Russian Dressing; Lemon Sherbet; Brownies; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Mild Sweet 'n Sour Spiced Beef with Cucumber and Radish Garnish (see Mon.); Shredded Cole Slaw with Parsley and Chives with Cole Slaw Dressing (see No. 2 Thurs.); Tomato and Cucumber Slices in Lettuce Cups (see Thurs.); Hot Rolls; Individual Black Currant Cottage Puddings with Lemon Butter Sauce; Tea.

We had six coming for a cold plate supper. The Sweet 'n Sour Spiced Brisket I gave you last Monday was the meat item.

I decided to make two cabbage salads — one in shreds on the Feemster shredder and one grated on the ¼" shredder! This latter has a different, more cabbage-y flavor than long shreds for it squeezes out and releases the cabbage juices.

CABBAGE SALAD NUMBER ONE

On Feemster shredder shred hard, shiny new cabbage into fine long shreds. (Be sure not to cut your fingers.) Sprinkle with accent. Toss with sparing amount of cole slaw dressing, or mayonnaise or French dressing. Before serving drain off any excess dressing which collects in bottom of bowl.

CABBAGE SALAD NUMBER TWO

On ¼" shredder grate hard, shiny new cabbage. To 3 cups of this add ¼ teaspoon celery seeds and 3 tablespoons finely chopped chives. Sprinkle with accent and moisten sparingly with homemade salad dressing or mayonnaise or cole slaw dressing. NOTE: Those of you who are counting calories could mix mayonnaise or Roquefort dressing half and half with plain Yogurt. I liked the half and half combination of Roquefort dressing with the plain yogurt.

LETTUCE CUP SALADS

On a shallow platter arrange six perfect inner cupped lettuce leaves, well dried. Into each, slice 3 tomato wedges from large ripe tomatoes, 3 pared and scored cucumber slices, 1 tiny green onion and top with a radish rose. Each guest helps himself to these neat units of salad. Pass sour cream dressing or Italian French dressing.

PREVENT SCURVY

Scurvy, a nutritional disease, can be prevented in children by vitamin C foods, especially citrus fruits and juices and vegetables.

Ann Landers

Ann Insists on Room Alone for Grandpa

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read some pretty stupid advice in your column but telling that 70-year-old grandfather to wait until 1967 to take his 18-year-old granddaughter on a trip to Europe just because he couldn't afford separate rooms this year was the dumbest thing yet.

ANN LANDERS

To begin with, the grandfather might not be here in 1967 and that girl could miss a chance of a lifetime just because you didn't think it was proper. If a girl can't trust her own grandfather, for heaven's sake, who can she trust?

I'll bet Grandpa has changed that girl's diapers and given her a bath dozens of times. Your advice was dumb and I hope it was ignored. — JUDI.

DEAR JUDI: Gramps may well have changed the girl's diapers and given her baths — but not lately, dearie. Little girls do grow up to be big girls.

Apparently you were so ignited by my advice that you didn't bother to read Gramp's letter. He described himself as "full of pep and a real swinger." This is not to suggest that I think grampe is a dirty old man, but I did get the impression that he is likely to live at least another year — which is the length of time he said it would take to save for separate rooms.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You do a good job for a non-lawyer. I liked your advice to the father who wrote about his avaricious children. They were trying to persuade him to stop spending his money so they would inherit a sizeable estate.

The next time you advise someone about estates, however, do them a favor and suggest that they leave the original of the will with an attorney and keep a copy.

Why? Father dies. Number two and three sons and their wives are the first to appear on the scene. They look in the desk for burial instructions — or out of sheer curiosity. They find Dad's will. The lion's share is left to Number one son. So they destroy the will. Result: In most states the sons get equal shares.

This sort of thing happens every day. It cannot occur if the original of the will is reposing safely in the attorney's vault. Pass the word, will you please? — ATTORNEY W.J.M.

DEAR W.J.M.: It's nice lawyers like you who help a non-lawyer like me alert millions of readers to some important facts of life. We are all in your debt.

DEAR ANN: I'm 43 now and ever since Mike and I married I've helped him in business. When he sold cookware I washed dishes while he gave the health talk. When he went to work for a trucking company and his helper didn't show up I'd go along and help him unload the furniture. Now we own a small cafe and I'm the cashier, bookkeeper and general manager.

Last month Mike hired a go-go girl as a waitress. He said she'd be a drawing card. We don't need a drawing card. We need someone who will work — and she won't.

I don't want Mike to think I am jealous. He is not a skirt-chaser and I don't worry about such things. But what should I do? — BOOTS.

DEAR BOOTS: Keep your eyes peeled for a working replacement for Miss Drawing Card. When you have one, hand the doll her walking papers and let her go-go.

Dior Lowers Skirts To Calf for Winter

PARIS (AP)—The House of Dior lowered its boom on the short skirt craze today as designer Marc Bohan startled viewers with calf-length hems for fall and winter.

Bohan opened his collection with four models wearing wool greatcoats dropped to calf length. These were worn over knee - length, two - piece costumes or dresss.

In another treatment, the hemline dropped in kerchief points on one side. This motif ran through all crepe evening dresses, many cocktail dresses and black numbers.

Bohan undoubtedly got his inspiration from Britain this year — Buckingham Palace, changing of the guard, everything except the Busby. But there were no British mini-skirts.

Sword belts and scarlet uniform jackets worn with contrasting green or grey, skirts went under those calf-length greatcoats.

He repeated the theme again and again in variations and color contrasts.

INCLUDES NANNY LOOK

From Hyde Park Bohan picked up nanny capes that were longer than calf length. For evening they dropped to the floor, but he did them for round the clock.

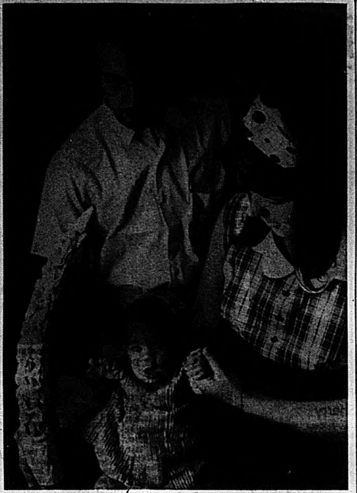
The focus this season moved from the knees to the arms. Now you see them. Now you don't.

Sleeves are all important. Bohan bared the top of the shoulder and did an infinitely varied story in slashing the sleeve, catching it again at intervals with diamond buttons or satin ribbon bows and ending it in a deep slashed medieval flounce.

The collection called forth cries of ecstasy and applause from the entire audience. It is probably the best Bohan has designed since he took over for Dior.

He has a wonderful pastel palette for evening. Tender, flattering shades are treated in bias crepes with terrific neckline interest. Halter - necked gowns flow in supple silhouettes to the ground or skim the body. The mood is supremely elegant.

1966 BELLEVILLE FAIR
AUGUST 13-15-16-17-18



HOME FROM GHANA — Marc and Lyse Larose with their baby Alexandre have returned to Ottawa after a two-year teaching assignment at a mixed boarding school in Tarkwa, Ghana, part of a program of the Canadian University Service Overseas. Alexandre, four months old, was born in Tarkwa. Lyse says there was no violence outside Ghana's capital, Accra, on the deposing of Kwame Nkrumah earlier this year, but there was rejoicing everywhere. Russian teachers had to leave after the coup. Lyse says the Larose family would like to go back. (CP Photo)

Their Butcher Stated Nkrumah Would Fall

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—The revolt in Ghana that deposed Kwamt Nkrumah came as no surprise to a young Ottawa couple who arrived there 18 months earlier and heard about it first from their butcher.

"We learned from our butcher the first day we were there that Nkrumah wouldn't be in power much longer," says Lyse Larose, who returned recently with her husband, Marc, and their four-month-old baby, Alexandre, born in Tarkwa.

Working with the Canadian University Service Overseas, the Laroses spent two years teaching at a mixed boarding school in Tarkwa, about 200 miles from the capital, Accra.

There was no violence outside the capital at Nkrumah's downfall, "but there was rejoicing everywhere."

"Nobody worked for two weeks and everybody was shouting for joy. They burned coffins with 'Kwame' written on them, and some even tried to burn the paper money because it had his picture on it," Lyse recalls.

BORN ON SUNDAY

She is pretty and vivacious, with brown eyes and long brown hair. Marc, 25, is dark-haired and serious, with gold-rimmed glasses and a beard. He plans to continue teaching French next year at a high school near Ottawa.

Both Ottawans and graduates of the University of Ottawa, the couple were married six days before they left in 1964 for Ghana.

"I was afraid the baby would be born on a Saturday, because then I would have had to call him 'Kwame' — that means 'born on Saturday,'" the 24-year-old mother says. But he was born on Sunday, so his friends can call him "Kwesi."

He received a movie-star welcome on his homecoming from hospital. The 300 students at the school turned out to cheer as he was carried into the house.

"The first year we were there they were all very worried that I wasn't having a baby." Lyse says. "They kept giving me fertility charms."

The students, from both Ghana and Nigeria, spent much of their spare time listening to the music of the Beatles and the Rolling Stones. The transistor radio plugged in the ear is as much a sign of the times there as here.

RUSSIANS PULLED OUT

Every home had a radio installed by the government for about $1 a month, with programs in English and several native languages. Television sets are still rare, but the schools have them and Lyse says programming is good.

The couple lived in a two-bedroom bungalow with all the conveniences. Cooking featured vegetables such as cocoyam leaves, like spinach, and egg-plant. Staple meat was "tough local cow."

Of the 20 teachers at the school, one other was a Canadian, Clayton Van Dyck of Saskatoon. Four others had university degrees, and the rest were sixth-form African students working to pay their way to university.

There were a lot of Russian teachers in the country, but they had to leave after the coup.

"A gold refinery near us had been completely built and run by the Russians. They all left the day of the coup and it was abandoned."

Why did the Laroses join CUSO?

"I had a lot of reasons, but I've forgotten them all," Lyse says. "I just went and did a job and enjoyed it very much.

"We'd like to go back but I want to have some milk shakes first."

ROWERS SIGHTED

NEW YORK (AP)—Two British journalists rowing across the Atlantic in a 16-foot row-boat were sighted Wednesday 1,080 miles east-northeast of New York City. David Johnson, 34, and John Hoare, 29, were sighted by a freighter which gave them food and cigarettes. They left Virginia Beach, Va., May 26, bound for England.

Family Reunion

STAPLEY — TUFTS

Recently about 100 members of the Stapley and Tufts families gathered at the Tweed Memorial Park for their 41st annual picnic.

Mr. Frank Stapley said grace, and dinner was served and enjoyed by all.

The president, Gavin Scott, Brockville, conducted a short business period during which it was decided to hold the 1967 picnic at the Park on the third Saturday in July and expressed a wish that every effort be made to make this another 1967 event to be remembered by all.

Gifts were made to several members of the families: Mr. Frank Stapley, Stirling, gentleman married the longest; Mrs. Dollie Ruttan, Tweed, lady with the largest number of descendants present; Mrs. Clayton Mills, Demorestville, mother with the largest family present; Mary O'Brien, youngest baby present; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ruttan, Toronto, couple most recently married; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruttan, Edmonton, Alta., family from the longest distance.

While the children spent the afternoon running races and swimming the adults enjoyed themselves looking at the pictures taken at former picnics, a Bible that gives the births, marriages and deaths of many members of the family, and the usual visit with people who are seen the only time at the picnic.

Poet Wallace Havelock Robb Protests Bay Water Aroma

Forty years has not changed the "fragrance" of the waters of the Bay of Quinte, at least in this immediate area

Wallace Havelock Robb of Abbey Dawn, poet laureate of the "Kente" district is the authority for that statement.

Four decades ago Mr. Robb expressed his feelings anent the "smelling waters" in poetic phrase.

The poem was not, what one would call a best seller. In fact some citizens, as Mr. Robb says, "deplored my insulting jolts, a lot were furious, and others damned me for a crackpot."

A few days ago Mr. Robb paid a visit to a brother, Morse Robb who is residing on the Trent Rd.

Time, it is stated, changes everything, but in Mr. Robb's opinion, except the aroma of Bay of Quinte waters.

His terse statement was:— "The water from the bay smells awful — terrible."

From his poetic pen comes a protest.

He writes: — "I have taken the destruction of part of the reed bed as a point to spark a new and devastating protest in a poem of only ten lines. And the madder it makes the old home town, the better."

Mr. Robb also announces the Department of Lands and Forests has made available to the public his long-awaited epic "Arrayed in Wampum."

This is a thin volume composed of truly Canadian poetry and rhythmis prose, balanced - - a mythological treasure for the ages. It is obtainable from the Department of Lands and Forests, Queen's Park, Toronto for $2.50.

Openly Flattering

The Rock of Gibraltar is not as solid as it appears: the 1,389-foot high stone mass is riddled with galleries, caves, basins and more than 30 miles of tunnels.

BELLEVILLE THE BLIND

How stupid! And how blind!
Oh, "Belleville the Beautiful" no more;
Dumping fill and destroying the reed bed,
Ending all nature-lore!
Gone, then, the life there — dead!

The poets are not asleep;
In sorrow, now, they weep,
But you, too, later, will weep,
Forever by the Kente shore —
"Belleville the Beautiful" no more.

MR. AND MRS. LYLE W. VANCLIEF

Vanclief – Hall

Wellington United Church was the setting on Saturday July 23rd at 7 p.m. for the candlelight wedding of Sharon Elizabeth Hall daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Hall of Bloomfield R. R. 1, to Lyle Winston Vanclief, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vanclief of R. R. 1, Ameliasburg.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. Alfred Poulter a former minister of the church. Mrs. Jack McNeil the organist played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mr. Wayne Soble.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length A-line gown of French bengaline highlighted with a capelet styled bodice of French appliqued lace and enhanced by a semi chapel train. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion fell from a small pillbox of lace and seed pearls, and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Barbara Hall sister of the bride as maid of honor wore a floor - length gown of peppermint green re-embroidered chantilly lace with capelet styled bodice similar to the bride's. Her headdress was of matching lace loops and petals with matching veil, and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of yellow Fugi 'mums. The bridesmaids Mrs. Allan Vanclief of Belleville sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Miss Molly Pammett of Peterborough and Miss Doris Euler of Belleville were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Mr. Ronald Heath of Guelph was groomsman. Mr. William Clarke, Mr. Terry Goodyear both of Toronto and Mr. James Richard of Newcastle ushered the guests.

At the reception for the 120 guests at Maple Inn Bloomfield, the bride's mother received wearing a soft pink crepe sheath with matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother wearing a Dior blue crepe sheath dress with matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of pale pink roses. Mr. Allan Vanclief brother of the bridegroom was toastmaster.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Vanclief will reside at 166 George St., Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD G. YELLOWLEES

Yellowlees – Elliott

Rev. James MacKnight performed the wedding ceremony in Calvary Temple, Belleville on Saturday, July 23, 1966, when Adeline Lois Elliott, Bowmanville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Elliott, Foxboro was united in marriage to Mr. Harold Glenn Yellowlees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Yellowlees, R.R. 1 Enniskillen, Ontario.

Mrs. W. Ogborne was organist and accompanied the soloist Mr. Lloyd Smith.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length bridal gown of peau de soie highlighted with appliques of French Guipure lace on the front and back of bodice and along the scalloped neckline. The full skirt was enhanced with random appliques of matching lace with appliques also encircling the hemline of the gown, and an attached train flowed from the waistline at back. A four-tier veil flowed from a double crown of organza dotted with sequins and pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with pink roses, Baby's breath and ivy with pink Sweetheart roses in the cascading knotted streamers.

Miss Karen Ingram, Campbellford, R.R. 3, as maid of honor wore a floor-length sheath dress of white lace over pink, matching pink headdress with short silk illusion veil and carried a hand bouquet of white 'mums with centres tinted pink to match her dress. The bridesmaids Miss Linda Moorcroft of Foxboro, cousin of the bride and Miss Carol Elliott, Corbyville, were attired identically to the maid of honor but in white over turquoise, matching headdreses and each carried a bouquet of white 'mums with centre 'mums tinted turquoise to match their dresses.

The little flower girl, Miss Debra Elliott, cousin of the bride wore a floor-length gown to match the maid of honor's dress but with full skirt, matching headpiece and carried a basket of white and pink 'mums.

The bridegroom's cousin, Mr. John D. Allen of Bowmanville was groomsman, while Mr. Larry Elliott, Georgetown, R.R. 3, brother of the bride and Mr. Murray Yellowlees, brother of the bridegroom, Enniskillen, R.R. 1 were the ushers.

The reception was held in Education Hall at Holloway Street United Church, Belleville where the bride's mother received wearing a silk crepe dress with an overlay of Chantilly lace on bodice, matching turquoise organza hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and white feathered carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a pale pink sheath style dress with matching pink lace jacket, pale pink accessories, and a white gardenia and pink Sweetheart roses corsage. At this time Mr. Doug Stark of Muskegan, Michigan, was master of ceremonies.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Northern Ontario and thence to the West Coast the bride chose a two-piece ensemble in orange ice shade, white sailor hat with trim to match dress, other white accessories and a corsage of Orange Delight roses.

Upon return the couple will live at 63 Lamb's Lane, Bowmanville, Ontario.

SHIPS SAILED THROUGH

Traffic through the St. Lawrence Seaway reached a record high in 1965: more than 43,000,000 tons of cargo on the Montreal-Lake Ontario section and more than 53,000,000 on the Welland section.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT G. LONG

Long – Sherry

Canon R. B. DeBlois Wright officiated at the wedding ceremony in Christ Church, Saturday, July 23, 1966, when Joan Suzanne Sherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Sherry of Belleville became the bride of Robert George Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Long, Belleville.

The church organist Mr. J. C. Withers played wedding music and accompanied the six choir boys in appropriate renditions.

Wearing a white nylon organza over taffeta floor-length bridal gown, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bodice and long sleeves were of Chantilly lace with an Empire waistline. A flowing train of nylon organza bordered with scalloped Chantilly lace extended from tiny bows at the shoulders. Her headdress was a pearl encrusted tiara from which flowed a four-tier veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of glamellias, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Marilyn Wadsworth as matron of honor wore a floor-length pink nylon organza over taffeta Empire styled gown with sleeves and skirt banded with lace and velvet ribbon. She wore a matching flowered and tulle headdress and carried a nosegay of pink and white 'mums. The bridesmaids Miss Joan Waters, Miss Ardel Sunderland and Miss Jacqueline Sullivan were dressed identically to the matron of honor but in turquoise shade and carried turquoise and white 'mums. Little Miss Mary Lynn Bowes was flower girl attired in a floor-length white nylon dotted Swiss over taffeta with Empire waistline outlined with white lace and pink velvet ribbon. Her headdress was similar to the bridesmaid's and she carried a basket of pink tinted 'mums.

Mr. Gerald Rollins was groomsman, while Mr. John Sager, Mr. Herb Seames and Mr. Ed. Michael were the ushers. Ring-bearer was Master Scott Bowes.

The reception was held in Christ Church parish hall where the bride's mother received the guests wearing an aqua silk linen dress, lace coat, aqua flowered hat, white accessories and a gardenia corsage. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a light rose terylene bastiste dress, matching flowered hat, white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

On departure for the honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride donned a two-piece blue silk jersey suit, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias and pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Long will reside at 471 Dundas Street W., Belleville.

U.C.W. Meetings

U.C.W. - UNIT 1

QUEENSBORO — The regular meeting of group 1 of the Queensboro United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. John Alexander Sr. on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. William Holmes, group leader had charge of the devotional period. This was followed by a business discussion.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Harry Declaire, program convener, who gave a talk on the possibility of church union between the United and Anglican churches. She also conducted a contest on animals of the Bible.

The meeting closed in the usual manner and lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

Toronto Ballerina's Dance Is Best in Two Classes

The City of Varna judged her dancing the best artistic interpretation in both senior and junior classes.

Her pas de deux from Solitaire, which won a standing ovation in the international competition, got the prize for the best choreography.

Miss van Hamel, daughter of the Netherlands consul-general in Toronto won the world junior competition over 50 other dancers.

She started dancing when she was four when her father was posted in Denmark.

"She was rather plump, not graceful," her mother said in an interview.

When she was 10, Mrs. van Hamel took her to the famed Preobrajenskaya's school in Paris. Preo, by then 80, said she had seen talent such as Martine's only once or twice in her life, Mrs. van Hamel said.

Martine joined the National Ballet School when she came to Canada in 1959. She was the first graduate to join the National Ballet Company as a soloist.

Betty Oliphant, head of the school was estatic about her former pupil's triumph.

"With our Canadian inferiority complex we think we can't compete with the best. This proves we have top talent."

When Martine returns to Toronto Sunday she will continue rehearsing with the National Ballet, despite several offers of guest appearances overseas.

Massive Figure of Le Grand Charles Looms Like Benign Shadow for Reds

The independent approach to the Soviet bloc by President de Gaulle of France has won favor in Eastern Europe. But John Best, Canadian Press correspondent in Moscow who toured that region, says in the long run it may work to Russia's disadvantage.

By JOHN BEST

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The massive figure of France's President Charles de Gaulle looms like a benign shadow over the Communist states of Eastern Europe, where he is regarded as a statesman of genius with a lot of answers to the problems facing an unstable world.

In Poland, the general is held in downright veneration.

"Gen. de Gaulle is the one Western statesman whose views on major international issues are respected and appreciated in Poland," says a recent Polish Press Agency bulletin.

De Gaulle is trying to take the "aggressive edges" off the situation in Europe, says a high Polish official.

"His whole policy is built on a premise we accept—that conditions were quite different in 1949 when negotiations for the establishment of NATO started."

(The faint suggestion that NATO was a justified response to an external menace—a premise that Moscow would never approve — was not necessarily inadvertent.)

De Gaulle is contributing to European stability, says another Polish official.

STATUS ENHANCED

Still another says he is contributing to a relaxation of "tension." To a suggestion that in the long run France's influence may be lessened as a result of de Gaulle's decision to break out of the Western alliance's common front on foreign policy and approach the Soviet bloc on his own, another Polish official said: "It has more influence now, not less."

The implication was that France's international status has increased as its role in the Western alliance diminishes.

During the last year the French president has worked assiduously to cement its influence by sending Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville off on official visits to several countries of Eastern Europe, where the reception accorded him was uniformly enthusiastic.

In Hungary, officials talk approvingly of de Gaulle's position on Viet Nam. If given a voice, one Hungarian official told me, the South Vietnamese people might opt for the type of neutrality that the French president has suggested as a way out of the current muddle there.

Whatever the merits of de Gaulle's policies, he has undoubtedly stirred the imagination of the reawakening peoples of Russia's erstwhile "satellite empire" with what they consider fresh approaches to old problems.

EXAMPLE TO FOLLOW

If on the surface this appears to be an unhappy omen for the West, it may eventually prove more damaging to Russia.

For thoughts of independent action can take root in Soviet-bloc countries as well as in the West, and if they admire de Gaulle so much some of them may want to imitate his example.

After all, there's no scientific law that says the Soviet bloc has to be more monolithic than the Western alliance.

East European leaders are much less dogmatic, one-sided and self-righteous in their approach to international problems than their Soviet colleagues anyway.

The prime example of just how independently a Communist-bloc country can act is, of course, Romana. It is taken as axiomatic by Bucharest observers that Romania, in standing up to Moscow, draws much of its inspiration from France.

"Romania is the France of the Soviet bloc," is the way one diplomat in the Romanian capital puts it.

ADOPTS SAME TONE

When Romanian Communist party boss Nicolae Ceaucescu delivers one of his strictures on the inviolability of Romanian independence or when he pronounces implied rebukes of the Warsaw Pact, he sounds just like Gen. de Gaulle letting off steam against the Americans and NATO integrated military planning.

It would not be surprising if other East European states, inspired by the combined examples of France and Romania — and wishing with good nationalistic fervor to get into the act—started making themselves heard as well.

These countries can ill afford the arms expenditure to which membership in the Warsaw Pact subjects them. And with Russia emphasizing the need for greater preparedness rather than less, this problem will undoubtedly become more acute.

Psychologically, at least, the stage will be set for more independent initiatives to find a way out of the cold war.

Czechoslovakia, for one country, has been reported resisting Soviet suggestions that Czech forces should be re-equipped with modern Soviet weapons.

At the present time, however, it would be unrealistic to expect any withdrawal of Soviet troops — voluntary or involuntary — from Eastern Europe. These are stationed in eastern Poland, East Germany and Hungary.

The Poles put up with the presence of Russian troops because it gives them assurance that they will not be alone should trouble with Germany develop. As for East Germany, Russia insists on keeping an army there as a forward counter to the growing might of West Germany and against the Western military alliance generally.

CULTURE IMPRESSES

In the cases of both East Germany and Hungary, everybody knows that if the Russian armies left, the Communist regimes would swiftly collapse.

Apart altogether from political and military considerations, however, the almost instinctive reaction of Eastern Europe to French overtures has its reassuring aspects.

Only up to a point is the reaction conditioned by pragmatic considerations. Beyond that, the universal attractiveness of French culture enters into the equation. For Eastern Europe, and even Russia itself, French culture has always held a radiant, glittering fascination.

For this reason, French influence tends to have a dimension far beyond what France could command through military and economic power.

And since France is a liberal, enlightened country its influence could have the effect of helping to break down the potent restraints on personal liberty that still exist in Eastern Europe.

Tomorrow: Viet Nam poisons relations between Eastern, Western Europe.

milk to processors. They now receive $3.25 from the manufactuers and a 75-cent government subsidy which they claim drops to 80 cents after transportation costs are taken away.

ESTIMATES COST

In a prepared statement before the meeting, Mr. Robarts estimated the OFU demands would cost Ontario $260,000,000 —more than it could afford without federal assistance.

The demands include milk subsidies, loans for construction of milk houses and purchase of bulk tanks, a 50-per-cent education tax rebate to farmers, acreage payments for crop losses and subsidies on other farm produce.

Meanwhile, most of the farmers who attended Wednesday's demonstration returned to farm chores today. Those who drove tractors said they would probably have their farm vehicles shipped home rather than wear them out on the return drive.

Earlier, John Dolmer, OFU president, had spoken with reporters about a possible farmers' strike. After the meeting with the premier, he said that while "we can't show material results" the talks were worth while.

The Corbetton, Ont., farm leader said tractor parades have been ended.

At Boston's Logan Airport, news-stands and shoeshine parlors have closed.

In Miami, however, the whole community was reported feeling the effects of an estimated $40,000,000 loss.

Winston Wynne, president of the chamber of commerce, said: "As the base of our economy is eaten away, the whole community suffers. The shock will be felt for many months to come."

Wynne gave these figures on losses: Tourist expenditures $28,000,000; airline salaries, $8,600,000; airline expenditures for services and supplies, $5,400,000.

Don Fazackerly, president of San Francisco's Downtown Association, said a survey he conducted showed a daily loss of about $1,000,000.

In Los Angeles, where the chamber of commerce estimated the daily loss at $617,000, flower growers were said to be hardest hit, with half their normal market falling away.

Philadelphia business sources pegged their losses at about $6,000,000 a week while the Association of Commerce and Industry in Chicago said the strike is costing that city about $800,000 a day.

additional $80,600,000 a year.

The federation said it was inadequate.

The federation previously has asked for a one-year contract and an $8 a week raise. A spokesman said the new proposal brings labor closer to the government's offers, but stressed there still was a wide gap.

If the counter-proposal is accepted it will be presented to the Quebec Hospital Association, the immediate employers of the striking workers.

Meanwhile, employees of 18 hospitals for the chronically and mentally ill disregarded interim court injunctions served Tuesday, ordering them back to work. All 18 groups voted Wednesday not to recognize the court orders.

The striking employees are members of 139 unions. A total of 119 hospitals are affected by the strike.

AWARD SCHOOL CONTRACT

NAPANEE — At a special meeting of the Napanee and District Collegiate Board, second tenders from two firms were opened, for the construction of the addition to the present building. The contract was awarded to A. Weller of Don Mills, subject to aproval of the Ontario Municipal Board and the Ontario Department of Education. The contract was for $1,680,000. This is for the building alone, an ddoes not include furnishings.

It is estimated that it will take at least a week for the approval of the two provincial bodies, and that if this is granted, construction will begin at least by the middle of August.

ROTARY MEET

At its regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday, the Rotarians heard Dr. Alan Hawley describe his recent visit to Holland and Denmark.

The purchase of 67 Expo passports was authorized, for the use of Rotarians next year. Each day that Expo continues, with the exception of Sundays, there will be a Rotary meeting, chaired and conducted by clubs of this district. Napanee has agreed to take charge of two such meetings. The Expo passports will be purchased from the Club by members of this Club who attend.

WHITE ELEPHANT STORE

Since opening the Rotary white elephant store May 1, Mrs. Ita McGuire has turned over $2,900 to the Rotary Club. This is the fourth year Mrs. McGuire has donated her time for this purpose, all the proceeds eventually swelling the hospital fund. During that time the store has netted approximately $20,000, operating during the summer only. The store is open each week day from 7:15 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. except Friday when it closes at 9:00 p.m.

O.P.P. REPORT

In its public information release for last week, the Napanee Detachmentof the Ontario Provincial Police reports that under the Criminal Investigation detail investigations were carried out on three thefts, one break and enter, eight disturbances and 34 other investigations which cover laws under the Liquor Control Act, family complaints and prowlers.

The general detail unit had 13 requests for assistance, spent a total of 24½ hours in Magistrate's Court in Napane, where 31 convictions were registered. These convictions were not all resulting from charges laid during the week, but consisted of previous charges laid in the past.

DIRECTOR NAMED

he said were attacking the dollar, but he and some of his advisers are known to suspect President de Gaulle wants both the pound and dollar to shed some of their value and status as reserve currencies financing two-thirds of world trade.

The British leader also thinks urgent action is needed to promote international liquidity — the easier flow of the world's main currencies and credit facilities.

The Labor government's austerity program won reluctant support Wednesday from Britain's big labor unions and from the Commons.

By a vote of 325 to 246, the Labor majority in the House beat back a Conservative censure motion attacking Wilson's management of the economy.

The general council of the 8,000,000-member Trades Union Congress voted 20 to 12 to acquiesce in the government's wage freeze but insisted that low-paid workers and workers who increase their output get special consideration for raises. Wilson already has indicated he would go along with that.

Wednesday to Sept. 18. Local 6500, which laid the charge, was ordered to supply the company with further particulars before Aug. 30.

Meanwhile, in Sudbury, the company began releasing $2,000,000 worth of pay cheques to its hourly-rated employees. The cheques covered the one-week pay period ending July 10. Current vacation pay cheques also were distributed.

The workers' pay became overdue when pickets prevented office workers from entering Inco premises. Office workers and supervisory personnel were allowed through picket lines this week under an agreement with the union.

A company spokesman said pay cheques for time worked during the week of the strike will be issued next Wednesday.

There were some traffic tie-ups as hundreds of employees rushed to pick up their cheques but otherwise all remained quiet.

A special 300-man provincial police force, sent to the area at the request of Mayor Richard Dow of Copper Cliff, is being reduced to 100.

SUGGESTS AGE CORPS

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)— Cy Toran, administrator of the social services department of West Vancouver, says a Company of Old Canadians should be formed along the lines of the Company of Young Canadians, as a clearing house for the talents of older people. He says the elderly could work in Canada or even overseas.

New Electric Artificial Arm Devised

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Crippled Children's Society announced Wednesday development of a 25-ounce electrically - co - ordinated artifical arm. It is the first of its kind to co-ordinate shoulder, elbow and wrist movements into a single, smooth arc swing.

Susie White, a four-year-old Ottawa thalidomide baby, is the first user of the arm. She was brought to the society's treatment centre here three weeks ago to test the limb which is half as heavy as other artificial arms and can lift seven pounds.

Susie has learned to feed herself, pick up toys from the floor, stack blocks and pull plastic rings apart.

Each arm, designed by the centre's prosthetic research director, Colin McLaurin, is custom-made. Estimated cost is $500 to $1,000.

By pressing on a shoulder switch with her flipper-like left arm stump, Susie can swing the arm as high as her mouth to feed herself or as far around as the back of her neck to dress herself. Susie has one deformed arm with fingers and a shoulder-stump.

CANADIAN CHAIRMAN

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters) — Canadian delegate Michael Sakellaropoulo has been elected chairman of the 34-nation group on preferences of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. The group, a subsidiary body of the UNCTAD committee on manufactures, will examine during the next three weeks the problem of granting and extending trade preferences by developed countries in favor of less-developed countries.

POLICE CHIEF HOCKLEY

Reeve Hopeful Chief of Police Will Remain

FRANKFORD — Village Reeve Ray Moran said this morning he hopes residents of this community will sign a petition to have Police Chief William Hockley reconsider his resignation. Chief Hockley tendered his resignation at a regulation meeting of the village council, Monday, July 25. At that time, he charged that a few residents of the village were abusng his famly and that some members of the council were trying to influence his methods of police work.

A special meeting of council has been called for Tuesday night, August 2, at which it is expected Chief Hockley's resignation will be the chief topic of discussion. A large number of Frankford residents will attend the meeting, seeking the answers to questions concerning the reasons for the chief's resignation.

Mrs. Ruth Hagerman returned home from Oshawa Friday night, having spent the week with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hagerman.

CBC Names Successor To Haggan

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC Wednesday announced the appointment of Peter C. R. Campbell, 50, as general supervisor of public affairs at the English language network centre in Toronto.

He succeeds Reeves Haggan who resigned July 7 in CBC's crisis over the controversial program This Hour Has Seven Days. Mr. Haggan said in his resignation statement he was quitting because of what he called the "sordid" actions the CBC went through to dismiss Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of the program.

Mr. Campbell joined the CBC in 1960 as a program organizer, after serving with the external affairs department in Shanghai, Ottawa, Washington and Laos.

To Integrate Britain's Rails, Roads, Ports

LONDON (Reuters) — Sweeping plans to tackle Britain's traffic chaos, speed rail services, and modernize the nation's ports were announced by Transport Minister Barbara Castle Wednesday.

Mrs. Castle announced a plan to integrate development of all aspects of the internal transport system. It had these main points:

1. Roads—A traffic plan for every big town and city, covering parking and possible tolls on the most congested roads.
2. Railways—Special development projects for main trunk routes linking big towns; creation of a national freight organization aimed at a fast door-to-door service by road and rail; local payments toward upkeep of uneconomic rail services still needed in remote areas.
3. Ports and Canals—Selective investment in some outdated ports to form the nucleus of further expansion as new towns are built and industries expand.

In the long term, the government aims to reorganize the ports on the basis of public ownership through a national ports authority.

RENTS RISING

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto apartment owners are boosting rents between 10 and 12 per cent to meet what they call heavy municipal taxes and higher maintenance costs. Herbert Stricker, apartment committee chairman of the Urban Development Institute, said that apartments are being assessed at a higher rate than single-family dwellings. He cited civic tax increases this year as the major factor behind the higher rates. Increased municipal taxes have added $8 a month to rents in the last 10 years and construction costs account for another $13, he said.

Much Canadian News Compiled In Pocketbook

Quick Canadian Facts. Twenty-second annual edition, 60 cents, 160 pages, paperback. Published by Quick Canadian Facts Limited, Box 699, Terminal A, Toronto.

For those who have friends and relatives in the United States or abroad who are interested in Canada's Centennial, here is a good and inexpensive volume to send them. It is the 22nd annual edition of the Canadian pocket encyclopedia, Quick Canadian Facts. It has 160 pages, sells for 60 cents, and provides a very readable, concise and comprehensive picture of this country.

The 12-page chronological history covers events from 1000 A.D., when Leif Ericson stopped in, to the first half of 1966, when a bomb-thrower blew himself up in a parliamentary washroom. There is a full explanation of our political system, down to the detail that in the 1965 election a total of 478 of the 1,011 candidates lost their deposits for a sum of $95,600. Each of the provinces has a section that describes its capital, history, geography and economy. There are reports on our resources, population, incomes, jobs, taxation, trade time zones, sports records education, immigration and emigration, stamps and coins.

This handy pocketbook would be a fine introduction to Canada to anyone coming to observe our Centennial celebrations. In fact, any visitor giving it a good reading would be better informed about this country than a lot of native Canadians.

QUEBECER BUILT CAR

The first gasoline car made in Canada was built by George Foote Foss in his bicycle repair shop in Sherbrooke, Que., in 1897.

Report Admiral and Two Generals Quit In Silence Because Unification Hurried

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Informants say that early retirement of three high officers and senior military advisers to Defence Minister Hellyer just before the minister's public dispute with the admirals stemmed from a head-on clash over how soon to unify the armed forces.

Mr. Hellyer is said to have ordered his senior advisers, if questioned by the Commons defence committee, to give a picture of progress on integration to date that would support his intention to take the final step in 12 or 24 months to unite the navy, army and air force into a single service.

However, for several reasons his advisers thought otherwise. They jointly urged a delay of three to five years in the final step to avoid the risk of unifying the fighting troops without having a proven, integrated supply, maintenance and training system to back them up in a emergency.

An aide to Mr. Hellyer said the minister, who returned here from Paris Wednesday, branded the report "absolutely false." The minister made no further comment.

Informants said the advisers declined to accept Mr. Hellyer's instructions on what the defence committee should be told. The committee was, in fact, repeatedly told that the newly-integrated supply and maintenance system was untested and would need three to five years to be fully effective.

At the time, the imminence of unification was not apparent since Mr. Hellyer had informed the committee June 30 that the final decision on unification had not yet been taken.

It wasn't until after his bout with the admirals that Mr. Hellyer made it plain July 20 that the governing factor in asking Parliament to sanction unification was whether the legislation could be fitted into the government's legislative timetable this fall.

Prime Minister Pearson confirmed July 26 that the government is working on a timetable which would include a unification bill.

The upshot of Mr. Hellyer's disagreement with his senior military advisers at Canadian Forces Headquarters here was that he initially offered them new postings, which they refused, and finally arranged for them to retire well ahead of retirement age of 55.

The three men involved were Vice-Admiral Kenneth L. Dyer, 50, chief of personnel; Lt.-Gen. Frank Fleury, 52, comptroller-general; and Lt.-Gen. Robert Moncel, 49, vice-chief of defence staff.

ALLARD TOOK OVER

Gen. Moncel was generally expected to succeed Air Chief Marshal F. R. Miller as chief of the defence staff, a post which subsequently went to the other top candidate, Lt.-Gen. Jean V. Allard, then in command of Mobile Command at Montreal who was promoted to general.

As comptroller-general, Gen. Fleury headed the headquarters branch which is in the most advanced state of integration. It also is the branch most closely in touch with the integration picture throughout the services because it deals with finance, manpower and forces management.

It was Gen. Fleury who appeared before the defence committee to provide a picture of the progress of integration. On June 7, he dropped his first intimation that the supply system was unready to proceed to the next stage—unification.

"It is estimated that the complete reorganization of the three different supply systems of the armed services into one automated system will take three to five years," he said.

At another point:

"It would be wrong to suggest that we have reached our final goal at this time. Full and complete integration will only be achieved when we have settled common policies and procedures for all aspects of Canadian forces administration and when we have shaken down the training organizations, logistics and administration systems and the operational command structure."

NOT YET READY

In effect, he was saying that not only was the supply system unready but also other branches such as training.

On training, he said Training Command "is not yet completely organized and shaken down."

"It was only brought into being a few months ago and only took over all its units by April 1."

The significance of what Gen. Fleury was saying was not immediately clear, partly because the committee's work was uncompleted when Parliament recessed for the summer and partly because committee members still were under the impression from Mr. Hellyer's opening statement that unification was not so immediately imminent as the minister later revealed it to be.

Gen. Fleury warned that the various command headquarters now faced "the job of analysing what they require to perform their functions most effectively and to make recommendations to headquarters and they will then be analysed there. . . ."

"It will be, I think, some time before it is finally worked out in detail."

Point was given to Gen. Fleury's preparedness picture by Rear-Admiral H. G. Burchell, 53, deputy chief of technical services for logistics at headquarters, who asked for early retirement.

He said he disagrees with the means being used in implementing integration and was reported by those who know him to feel there was a risk that operational units would lack logistic support through inadequate technical services.

But before the news of early retirement of senior naval officers became public July 14, the signs already pointed to Mr. Hellyer pressing ahead quickly with unification.

The tip-off to some in the services was the appointment July 4 of a new comptroller-general to succeed Gen. Fleury. He was Ralph L. Hennessy, a navy commodore who was given a double promotion to vice-admiral. The services knew he had been the author of a report on manpower which Mr. Hellyer has since called the blueprint which will be the "cornerstone" of unification.

Vice-Admiral Hennessy's appointment made it plain to many senior officers that unification was rapidly coming to a head.

EXPRESS DOUBTS

This was confirmed when most senior officers were called before Mr. Hellyer individually here July 10 and 11 and asked for their final views on taking the next step—unification. Many expressed doubts that the integrated headquarters and commands were ready yet to train and supply a unified force.

A few expressed doubts about a single service while supporting integration of headquarters and functional commands.

Mr. Hellyer made it plain to them he intended to proceed to unification soon. The reaction came within four days.

Rear-Admiral William Landymore, 50, commander of Maritime Command and of the Atlantic Fleet, publicly criticized unification as no more efficient or economical than three services. By speaking out and refusing to agree to retire, he forced Mr. Hellyer to fire him.

Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, 51, deputy commander of Maritime Command and commander of the Pacific Fleet, also asked to get out because he couldn't support a policy that led to unification of the three services into one.

BROKE UNWRITTEN RULE

Only Rear-Admirals Landymore and Stirling broke the unwritten rule that serving officers do not take internal dispute on policy before the public. Admiral Dyer and Generals Moncel and Fleury preserved a rigid public and private silence about the reasons for their retirements. Admiral Stirling confined himself to stating the reasons for his request to be retired.

Rear-Admiral Landymore hit the headlines in a running debate with Mr. Hellyer which was climaxed by the minister's decision to fire him.

This step was accompanied by a public commitment to the forces by the newly-appointed chief of staff, Gen. Allard, that servicemen would be fully informed about unification before it is implemented, would have a chance to comment through their commanders and would have a choice of serving with sea, land or air arms of the planned single service.

Far-reaching Policy Debates Stir Liberals on Parley Eve

OTTAWA (CP)—Far-reaching policy debates are agitating Liberals as they prepare for major conferences in Saskatoon next month and here in October.

Rival factions already are trading pot shots over such fundamental issues as the growth of the welfare state and American control of the Canadian economy.

The Saskatoon conference, the first of its kind in the Liberal party, will bring together about 150 party officials from the four western provinces Aug. 12 and 13.

Each province has been allocated 40 delegates, who will include federal ministers, provincial leaders, and MPs, as well as local organizers. Delegates will split into nine closed panel discussions and conclude with an open general meeting.

The meeting is seen as a warmup for the national Liberal conference being held in Ottawa Oct. 10-12 and to be attended by more than 2,000 delegates.

Various segments of the party calling themselves leftists, private enterprisers, economic nationalists and continentalists all are hoping to sell their policy ideas to the party as a whole.

The conference could have a marked influence on the course of the Pearson government and on the outcome of the next Liberal leadership convention, expected within two or three years.

GORDON WAS FIRST

Walter Gordon, former finance minister, set off the policy struggle last spring with his book advocating stiff government intervention to halt the American take-over of Canadian industry.

Since then Mr. Gordon and his so-called leftist-nationalist followers have been denounced by Liberal leaders in the western provinces, including Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan.

The western leaders contend that Canada forms an integral part of the North American economy and that U.S. investment is essential to Canada's economic growth. They also favor lower tariffs, more encouragement for private enterprise in the resource-development field and more federal attention to western problems.

Ron Basford, MP for Vancouver-Burrard and one of the organizers of both Liberal conferences, fired back at the provincial leaders in a blunt speech in Vancouver last Saturday.

"If I interpret these (leaders') statements correctly, we of the Liberal party are being asked, first to take a giant step to the right. . . . Second, that we, as a party, should be totally unconcerned about our balance of payments problem and the degree of foreign ownership of Canadian assets."

Mr. Basford rejected both policies, saying that leftist and nationalist directions are necessary to protect the public interest and preserve Canada's political independence.

He could not believe that western Liberals would turn their backs on social and economic reform.

"Certainly if the policies of the party and its delegates to the western conference are going to be selected solely from the board rooms of the Vancouver Club or the Petroleum Club or the Manitoba Club, then we are probably going to reject them."

Mr. Basford called for such policies as a guaranteed annual income for all, controls over "loan sharks," more effective anti-combines laws, broader grounds for divorce, more money for probation and parole services, more urban renewal projects and rehabilitation programs for Indians.

His reference to board rooms apparently was aimed at spokesmen for the business community, both inside and outside the party, who bitterly attack the rapid growth of the federal government, especially its expansion of welfare and social programs such as medical care insurance.

Some delegates to the two Liberal conferences are expected to plead for a return to free enterprise and individual freedom in the face of a vast, faceless bureaucracy.

This faction favors a curtailment of government spending and activity and more tax incentives for industrial development and investment.

Not Thalidomide Itself But Way It Was Taken Cause of Deformities

OTTAWA (CP)—Scientific research with the drug thalidomide, which was blamed for birth deformities in 1961 and 1962, indicates that the trouble may have been the way it was taken by pregnant women.

Four researchers reporting on tests with rabbits say that when the drug was administered by intravenous injection it had no observable effect on the young.

But when administered orally, the deformities showed up in the offspring.

They concluded that some chemical change may occur in the intestinal tract which produces the birth deformities.

Their project is reported in Science, the twice-monthly publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The researchers are R. R. Fox, P. B. Sawin and Dorcas D. Crary of the Jackson Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Maine, and H. M. Wuest, Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, New York.

The report is the second on research projects involving thalidomide in recent months. Last month an anatomist and a biologist reported that they produced the same malformations and abnormalities as in humans by testing the drug on female baboons.

WORKED IN SOUTH

The two researchers were Drs. L. A. Axelrod, director of biological growth and development, and A. G. Hendrickx, of the department of anatomy, who worked at the Southwest Foundation of Research and Education in San Antonio, Texas.

Dr. Hendrickx was quoted in a report in Medical Tribune, a three-times-a-week medical publication in the United States, as saying the malformations included stumps instead of arms or feet, a principal feature of the deformities reported in association with thalidomide in humans in the early 1960s.

The method of administering the drug was not specified but the researchers conclude that tests indicate the value of baboons in medical research. There is a close relationship between the reproductive physiologic processes of men and baboons.

Since the rash of birth malformations in Canada and elsewhere, thalidomide has been banned in this country for all except research use. At least one cancer-research project in Canada has been making use of thalidomide but there have been no published reports of the results.

Crime Rate Continues Rise in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. crime rate continued to rise faster than the population growth, with a five-per-cent increase in 1965.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation's annual crime report said Wednesday serious crimes occurred at a rate of five a minute last year, with more than 2,780,000 such crimes reported.

The increase was sharpest in the suburbs—eight per cent—and in the western states—10 per cent.

The five-per-cent gain in the crime rate reflected more than 14 crimes for every 1,000 inhabitants of the United States.

And while the rate increase fell off from the 11-per-cent gain reported a year ago over 1963, the crime rate continued to outpace the population increase by almost six to one. Since 1960, the FBI said, serious crimes have increased 46 per cent while the population has grown eight per cent.

The FBI said that the crime rate does not represent the number of criminals but the incidence of crime to the population.

Scaffold Falls, One Man Killed

TORONTO (CP) — One man was killed and six others injured Wednesday when a scaffold on a chimney collapsed at the Pilkington Glass plant in suburban Scarborough.

Fred Clarke, 58, of Angus, died from multiple head injuries about five hours after the accident.

Police said the men, employees of the Custodis Canadian Chimney Co. Ltd., fell about 40 feet when the scaffold collapsed.

Discover Car Of Youth After Shooting

SUDBURY (CP) — A car which police say was driven by a youth wanted in the shooting death Monday of his stepmother in Conestogo, Ont., was found Wednesday near the Burwash industrial farm, 15 miles south of here.

Provincial police have set up road blocks around the area where the car was found in the hope of capturing Frederick Dennis Sass, 18.

The youth's stepmother, Mrs. Fred Sass, 52, was found dead at her home in Conestogo, eight miles north of Kitchener, with a shotgun wound in her neck.

Police said the car was partly covered with tree branches when it was found Wednesday, just off Highway 69.

Roadblocks have been set up on Highways 69 and 17. Border officials at Sault Ste. Marie have also been asked to watch for the youth.

Kitchener police are holding a warrant for the youth's arrest on a charge of capital murder.

New Drug Can Reduce Blood Cancer

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) Abbott Laboratories reported Wednesday that a new drug for treating two rare forms of cancer of the blood is available to physicians.

The drug is known as pipobroman and bears the trade name Vercyte.

The company said five years of clinical testing has shown the therapeutic effectiveness of the drug in the two diseases. They are polycythemia vera, in which the number of red corpuscles and total blood volume increase markedly, and chronic granulocytic leukemia, in which there often is an abnormal increase in the number of white blood cells.

There are about 5,000 new cases of the former and 3,500 of the latter malady reported each year in the United States.

Canadian Designs Plane To Carry 200 Passengers

MONTREAL (CP)—A Canadian aircraft designer has handed a Montreal company patents applications for a 200-seat airliner he claims will be able to fly at 1,700 miles an hour.

Development costs of the huge surfboard-shaped transport would run in excess of $3,000,000,000, a spokesman for the company, World Wide Patents Corporation Ltd., said here Wednesday.

The design is still at the drawingboard stage though a wooden scale mock-up is being built by the inventor for wind tunnel tests.

So far, there have been no takers, but if the tests prove successful the project will be put up to the U.S. government, the World Wide spokesman said. He said only three countries—the U.S., Russia and France-Britain—could afford to pay the development costs.

For take-off, the almost externally-featureless plane would adopt the "flying wing" position, with the pilot facing front. At 60,000 feet, rocket engines and body would swing round and the craft would then fly in the conventional position, but with the pilot facing sideways. The position would be reversed for landing.

John Orr, scientific advisor to the National Research Council's defence production department, has described the design as a "very ingenious arrangement." But he said the Canadian Government is in no way endorsing the project or financing the design.

Ottawa Decides Against Continuing House Bonuses

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has decided against continuing for this winter its $500 winter house-building incentive program, Labor Minister Nicholson announced Wednesday.

At the same time, Mr. Nicholson, who reports to Parliament for the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., said in the announcement that between Aug. 1 and Dec. 1 this year the corporation will make available direct mortgage loans to merchant house builders without a pre-sale requirement.

At present CMHC loans are available only for houses that have been sold.

Mr. Nicholson said that to qualify for these loans the houses may not progress beyond the foundation and the first floor joist stage before Nov. 1.

Mr. Nicholson also announced that the government will ask Parliament when it reconvenes to extend the provisions of the National Housing Act for university housing projects to include vocational and training schools, training hospitals and schools for special groups of handicapped persons.

The bonus, started during the winter of 1963-64, paid $500 for each house built during the winter months. Its main purpose was to create jobs during the period of peak unemployment.

Mr. Nicholson's announcement said builders have been extremely successful in stabilizing employment in the industry by shifting a large portion of house construction to the winter months.

He said that to provide a proper balance of direct loans to merchant builders during the winter, he asked CMHC to devise administrative procedures to ensure maximum winter employment and a continuing supply of new housing.

CMHC will not permit the number of loans to any builder to exceed his physical and financial capacities, Mr. Nicholson said. He said special attention will be given to designated areas and new "resource-based communities" where the demand for housing is more acute.

Trio Convicted

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) Three Montreal men were found guilty of murder Wednesday night in the shooting of a teller during a $5,000 bank holdup in northern New York State in March, 1965. The three, all convicted of first-degree 36, Willie Dupuis, 35, and Guy Beaudet, 32.

South African Industries Grow So Fast Sufficient White Workers Are Lacking

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South Africa's industries are growing so fast there are insufficient skilled white workers to keep the wheels turning at full speed.

Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd's government is searching abroad for skilled European immigrants. Looking to the future, the minister for Bantu (African) administration, Conrad Botha, has appealed to white women to bear more babies. So far there is no sign he has been heeded.

The republic's flagging white population, coupled with a population explosion in the black community (up 1,234,000 in five years), is beginning to worry the republic's apartheid government.

An insatiable demand for more black labor in the white industrial areas is undermining Verwoerd's policy of separate development for the races.

The prime ministers's economic adviser, Dr. P. J. Reikert, says that even with a continued influx of European immigrants, South Africa will be shy 30,000 white workers in the next four years.

South Africa doesn't want to integrate black artisans and tradesmen into its white-run industries. The country's far-reaching apartheid laws reject the idea of black and white workers toiling together, earning the same salary and sharing the same social benefits.

The ministry of Bantu affairs has outlined plans to stem the increasing flow of black labor into the white industrial cities and eventually to turn them back to black reserves.

Job reservation keeps most skilled and well-paid positions firmly in white hands, relegating the African worker to lower-paid employment.

Dr. Anton Rupert, one of the republic's top industrialists, warned at a management conference that manpower shortages are retarding production.

"One of the inevitable results of the present labor shortage is the unhealthy cut-throat competition for staff," he said.

To overcome the shortage of manpower, he said the government should:

—Improve education so that a higher percentage of workers could attain executive positions.

—Seek immigrants with skilled technical training.

—Utilize woman-power fully and make better use of non-white workers' talents.

The shortage of white labor threatens to cut gold production, mainstay of the country's economy. More than 5,000 white miners left the gold fields in the last few years, seeking higher-paid, less arduous jobs.

An emergency program to fill the jobs with black workers was hastily shelved when white miners protested.

For a while a steady stream of European labor came into South Africa from African colonial territories as they became black-ruled independent states.

Many settlers from Kenya, Tanzania, Nigeria, The Congo and Zambia headed south rather than face the uncertain future of black independence, but this white labor source now has dried up.

More than 40,000 immigrants are expected this year from Britain, Holland, Portugal, Italy, France, Belgium, Switzerland and Greece.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

What was originally predicted by a Fleet Street bowler-and-brolly type to be a classic of world sportsmanship and the welding of international sports brotherhood almost turned out to be a six-ring circus, with no holds barred and the biggest kick in the pants the once-noble game of soccer has ever received..

To paraphrase Lord Tennyson, "The war drums throbbed out louder; the battle flags unfurled; the Parliament of man dissolved the Federation of the World."

This so-called epic of sport started out on an ugly note which crescendo'd with pactically every game, that is, up until Tuesday.

It was not so much the survival of the fittest as the removal of the fittest. It looked like the gentlemanly sportsmanlike attitude of English and Scottish soccer teams of two or three decades had been banished to the Siberian salt mines.

Mind you, these were sixteen national championship teams, survivors of hard-fought battles in their respective countries. In some countries, especially the Latin type, they were regarded as national heroes; one of the nation's institutions.

On the field the famous offensive and defensive patterns were marred by the players' get-your-man attitude. "Hacking" fouls were a dime a dozen and adding fuel to the fires of interclub ill-will was the claim that for every foul officials called, they missed three.

Injuries, deliberate or otherwise to the world's top stars; banishment from games of other high ranking players didn't exactly toss oil on the troubled waters. Club officials did not pull any punches in their verbal criticism. The English manager was officially reprimanded for calling the Argentine club "animals".

The continental news media, especially that in defeated countries, poured its wrath on Britain's handling of the classic. An Italian newspaper charged the result was "cut and dried."

"It was evident from the start that England would take the cup", it said. "They might better have dispensed with play and presented the cup to the English team."

The British press turned the full forced of its columnar howitzers on games, players and officials.

Fleet Street columnists deplored the fact that the tournament had pushed the famous game "below gutter level." They attacked the stubborn defensive patterns of Latin teams. They blasted the tactics of individual players.

Hot-tempered fans in Latin countries demonstrated in no uncertain manner that they would settle for nothing less than a national winner.

Defeated Italy greeted its once-national heroes with barrages of tomatoes and eggs. Brazil's millions gave the club the silent treatment on arrival home.

Up until the England-Portugal semi-final the future of World Cup soccer looked darker than the inside of a whale.

Some 90,000 international fans watched and waited for the usual display of roughness, banishments and alleged officials' inefficiency.

They didn't know, nor did anyone connected with the tournament, that the sun of sportsmanship, classic play and "the game's the thing" would break through the murky miasma of "gutter-level" soccer.

The English and Portuguese teams came up with a brilliant display, a magic about-face that must have warmed the cockles of the hearts of sane-thinking fans.

It was soccer at its best, a classic in itself that should go a long way in bringing back what was once the glory of the game.

Matches Bunning In 11 * * * * * * * * * * Neither Gets Decision

Sandy Whiffs 16 In Brilliant Duel

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax has given his aching left arm an 11-inning acid test . . . and proved that Los Angeles Dodgers can win without him.

SANDY KOUFAX

The Dodgers are within a whisker of the National League lead after Koufax' longest pitching ordeal of the season, but all the matchless southpaw has to show for it are two more strikeout standards and a no-decision.

And Jim Bunning of Philadelphia Phillies knows just how Sandy feels.

Bunning and Koufax gave way to relief pitchers after a brilliant 11-inning duel Wednesday night and the Dodgers immediately pushed over an unearned run in the 12th for a 2-1 victory that stretched their winning string to six and put them one - half game behind first place Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL race.

The Pirates climbed back into the top spot with a 5-3 victory over San Francisco Giants, dropping the Giants into second place.

GAVE UP HOMER

Koufax, whose arthritic pitching arm became painfully inflamed after his last start—causing speculation that he would miss a starting turn for the first time this year—overpowered the Phillies except for a second - inning homer by Rich Allen. He yielded four hits and fanned 16, breaking one of his own records and moving up a peg on the all-time strikeout list.

His fourth strikeout was the 2,267th of his career, moving him past Lefty Grove into 10th position among the lifetime leaders. His 15th strikeout, in the ninth inning, was his 200th this season, marking the sixth straight year he had reached that plateau.

But, although Koufax also became the first hurler to pass the 200 inning mark — while lowering his major - league-leading earned run average to 1.65—he failed to get victory No. 18.

Phil Regan, who pitched the 12th, gained his eighth victory against a one setback.

JOHNSON BROKE TIE

Neither was Bunning involved in the decision, despite a six - hit, 12 - strikeout performance. He was in the clubhouse when Lou Johnson's pinch hit single scored the winning run against reliever Darold Knowles in the 12th.

Elsewhere, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets continued to roll, the Cardinals downing Atlanta Braves 9-7 for their ninth victory in the last 10 games and the Mets edging Houston Astros 3-2 for a 10-3 mark over their last 13. Cincinnati Reds battered Chicago Cubs 11-2 in the other NL game.

Jim Davenport, San Francisco's usually slick - fielding third baseman, committed two errors in the ninth, helping the Pirates score twice and regain the league lead by two percentage points.

Bill Mazeroski singled one run in and Many Mota delivered the other with a sacrifice fly after Davenport threw wildly on Donn Clendenon's bunt single and then bobbled Jim Pagliaroni's sacrifice bunt.

The Cardinals climbed within 7½ games of the top behind Ray Washburn, who won his fifth straight with late-inning relief help.

Bob Friend combined with reliever Jack Hamilton for a six hitter and gained his fourth victory in five decisions with New York as the Mets beat the Astros and moved into a tie with Atlanta for eighth place. Ken Boyer's two - run homer paced the Mets' attack.

Tommy Helms stroked three singles and a double and Pete Rose and Vada Pinson added three hits apiece in the Reds' romp over Chicago.

Betty Ingram Retains Club Golf Title

The 13th hole of the Bay of Quinte Country Club should be dubbed "The Killer".

Twice this week the 13th has proven unlucky for two aspiring club champions.

Terry McCabe's hopes "died" at the "13" graveyard when he was defeated 7 and 5 for the men's title by John Woodcroft.

The hole claimed its second victim yesterday when Irene Belanger went down by the same score before Betty Ingram the club champion.

Mrs. Ingram won her seventh title in eight years carding an 80.

Cannifton Captures Loop Flag

Cannifton grabbed the South Hastings league pennant with a 4-1 win over second place Read at Read last night.

The winners have 24 points with one game remaining, while Read has finished its schedule with 23 points.

Butch Clapp pitched a sparkling six-hit, 10 strike-out win for Plane's. He did not give up a walk.

Frank Farrel went all the way for the losers, giving up 10 hits while fanning two and walking two.

Ron Urch, Larry Adams and John Tweedy slammed a pair of hits each. Court Brailey doubled, and Hugh Petrie, Gerald Hill and Butch Clapp had base hits.

Ken Abrams slammed a homer for the loser's lone run. Carm Milligan stroked two singles, Ted Abrams had a double, and Wayne Pascoe and Gerald Brennan had singles.

Argentines Claim They Were Robbed

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Thousands of Argentines stood in torrential rain chanting "Argentina champion" to welcome home their defeated World Cup soccer players Wednesday.

Several fans carried home-made posters depicting as donkeys the leaders of the International Football Federation, who slapped severe penalties on Argentine players and officials and warned them the country could be out of the next World Cup in 1970.

The Argentines claim they were "robbed" of the World Cup by biased refereeing in Saturday's quarter - final match against England. England won 1-0.

Ontario Amateur

Nash Upsets Cowan In 1st Round

By JIM. VICKERS

TORONTO (CP) — Sixty-four golfers teed off in the annual Ontario amateur championship Wednesday and the biggest surprise, besides the fact it didn't rain, was Jack Nash's victory over Garry Cowan.

Nash, a three-time Ontario amateur winner from London, wasn't expected to repeat his 1965 victory over Cowan but the 54-year-old veteran set the pace all the way for Cowan, the Willingdon Cupper from Kitchener.

In the 1965 amateur favored Cowan was eliminated by Nash in the first round. The script was the same Wednesday.

Nash won his first Ontario amateur title in 1930, nine years before Cowar was born, and was 3 up at the 15th but Cowan bore down and won 16 and 17.

On the par four 401-yard 18th, Nash played for a par, betting against Cowan's chances of getting a birdie and prolonging the match.

GOT THERE IN TWO

Both golfers reached the green in two. When Nash sent his first putt up for a sure par the pressure was on Cowan, whose 25-foot putt hit the back of the cup and popped out.

Nash won the match, 1 up.

In the afternoon round, Nash was eliminated by George Stokes, of Niagara Falls, Ont. In the morning match, Stokes defeated Bob Borthwick of Hamilton on the 23rd hole, the longest match of the day.

Nick Weslock of Port Credit moved two steps closer to his seventh amateur title, winning his first two matches in the tournament at the Summit Golf and Country Club.

Weslock eliminated Jim Doland of Toronto 4 and in a morning match and defeated David Cooper of Port Credit 4 and 2 in the afternoon. Cooper defeated David Wilson of Concord, Ont., 2 and 4 in the first round.

SIXTEEN REMAIN

A field of 64 starters was pared to 16 after the opening rounds of match play. Heavy grey clouds hung over the tournament most of the day but rain held off until the last pair was on the final hole of the afternoon round.

Doug Mossop, 1966 Ontario Open winner from Toronto, won both his matches. He defeated Richard Gay of Bowmanville 6 and 5 in the morning, then eliminated Bill Bell of Brantford on the 19th hole in the afternoon.

Mossop won the playoff with a par 4 on the 456-yard 1st hole. Both he and Bell had four-foot putts for pars. Mossop's putt curled around the cup and fell after hesitating a minute. Bell wasn't as fortunate. His putt ringed the cup but stayed out.

Bell defeated 1957 amateur winner Ray Coole of Brampton 3 and 2 in the morning.

Other golfers to survive the opening two rounds were Ian Thomas of London, Ont., Ken Doig of Seaforth, Ont., Doug Robertson of Trenton and Russ Hunter of Chatham.

PITCHER AILS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles placed ailing pitcher Wally Bunker on the disabled list and recalled catcher Larry Haney from Rochester of the International League. Bunker has a sore right elbow.

Belvedere Defeats Lightfoots

Belvedere Hotel kept their playoff hopes alive, snapping a lengthy "dry spell", by clipping Lightfoot Construction 4-2 in Commercial Softball play last night.

The winners broke a 1-1 deadlock in the sixth frame, scoring three times on three walks and a pair of base hits. Lightfoots came back for one in the bottom of the seventh but that was it.

Larry McMaster hurled a neat three - hit ball game on Belvedere's hilltop. He struck out five and walked a pair.

John French started and took the loss for Lightfoots with George Young coming on in the sixth and Don Smith in the seventh. They allowed six hits. French had two of the three strikeouts and issued all four walks.

Lightfoots' only base knocks came from Les Hall, Rusty Garvin and Jack "Deacon" Whiting.

Minor Baseball Results

Bad Boys erupted for eight runs in the first frame and coasted to a 12-6 win over Fountain Park in BMBA peewee play at the CNR last night.

Danny Coulson, with help from Brian Cousins, hurled the Bad Boy's win. They gave up six hits and struck out four.

Fountain Park's pitching pair of Paul Wolfe and Dan Lupenette allowed nine hits and fanned five.

Jack Ralph stroked three singles and Mike Bell two for the 'Boys. Dan Coulson slammed a triple, while Laurie Burnett, Andy Ricketts and Pete Wiseman had base hits.

John Mulvihill blasted a triple and a pair of singles, Dave Taylor had two singles, and Danny Lupenette one for the losers.

American Favored At Mosport

By JOHN TRACY

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—Big-time sedan racing comes to the sportscar track here Saturday when a field of 30 drivers, mostly mid - west Americans, start in the Kawartha 250-mile race for late - model stock cars.

Only two Canadians are listed among the 37 entries which include top drivers of the United States Auto Club racing circuit. They are Billy Foster of Victoria, a veteran of Indianapolis 500 competition, and Mike Rampling of Port Credit, Ont.

To confirm with rules of the USAC, sanctioning body, seven entries will be winnowed out in qualifying trials Friday.

At stake is $22,000 in prize money, including a first-place award of at least $3,200.

AMERICAN FAVORED

Favorite is Norm Nelson of Racine, Wis., top USAC driver in 1965, with a Plymouth. Among his challengers will be Indianapolis veterans Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., with a Dodge, and Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y., in a Plymouth.

The race will be run in two 125-mile heats over the 2.5-mile road circuit 45 miles northeast of Toronto starting at 1:30 p.m. EDT.

JUAN'S HURT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal, the 16-game winner of San Francisco Giants, probably will miss his next turn on the mound because of an injured middle finger on his pitching hand. Scheduled to start Friday at Atlanta, he was injured when a car door accidentally shut on the finger.

U.S. Scullers Set Pace At Henley

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) St. Catharines Rowing Club, host for the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, today was out to show itself the champion it has proved to be the last five years in succession.

The club took only half a point in Wednesday's opening competition as two United States scullers set the pace. However, most of St. Catharines' junior crews were not scheduled for action until today.

The results gave their teams 10 points each toward the regatta championship Maple Leaf Trophy, contested this year by a record 37 clubs from Canada, the United States and Mexico. Toronto Argonauts and the Oyster Bay Rowing Association of Hickville, N.Y., followed with five points each.

Last Tributes To Tony Lema

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — As his home town flew flags at half staff, funeral services were held today for professional golfer Tony Lema, 32, and his wife, Betty, 30.

They were killed with two other persons Sunday in a flaming crash of a private plane on a golf course near Munster, Ind.

Among the 12 pallbearers were fellow pro Ken Venturi of San Francisco and Tommy Jacobs, chairman of the Professional Golfers Association tournament committee.

Eight Roman Catholic priests were to offer mass at St. Elizabeth's Church. Burial was to follow at Holy Sepulchre Mausoleum in nearby Hayward.

Hundreds of persons filed past the two closed coffins Wednesday in San Leandro, Lema's hometown adjacent to Oakland.

Tigers, Argos Eke Out Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats fought from behind Wednesday night to score Canadian Football League exhibition victories against Western Conference opposition.

In Vancouver, Argos' rookie quarterback Wally Gabler overcame fierce rushing and threw a 21 yard touchdown pass to Bobby Taylor with two minutes left in the game to give Toronto a 28-27 win over British Columbia Lions.

In Calgary, the Stampeders were leading the Tiger - Cats 24-20 going into the fourth quarter when a fumble helped Bobby Kutz score a two-yard touchdown. Don Sutherin booted a field goal and Hamilton won 29-24.

The game was costly for the Stampeders. End Herman Harrison suffered a partially torn ligament in his knee and could be lost for three weeks.

Lineman George Hansen suffered a broken rib and could miss the league opener next week. Terry Evanshen picked up a badly bruised ankle and linebacker George Carr a dislocated shoulder.

The victory was the third for the Eastern Conference Tiger-Cats in four exhibition games. British Columbia ended its preseason schedule with three losses. Both Toronto and Calgary have 2-2 records.

Gabler's last-minute performance overshadowed three touchdowns scored for B.C. by Bill Munsey, two in the first quarter and one in the third.

Before marching the Argos 85 yards, Gabler had been rushed and pushed back to his own five-yard line with third and 61 yards to go.

The Toronto march started on the 25 after an exchange of punts.

THROWS FOUR PAYOFFS

Gabler threw four touchdown passes, two to Taylor, a former Stampeder, and two to Al Irwin. John Vilunas converted three and Dave Mann booted a 44-yard single.

Bill Mitchell got two converts and an 18-yard field goal for the Lions and B.C.'s other points came on two safety touches as Toronto gambled to keep possession of the ball.

Tiger-Cats got a 52 - yard touchdown from Garney Henley and a one-yard touchdown from Art Baker. Sutherin converted two of the three touchdowns and added two field goals. Tiger-Cats also earned a single and a safety touch.

Stampeders opened scoring quickly when Ted Woods took the opening kickoff and galloped 105 yards to score. Quarterback Eagle Day hit Terry Evanshen on a 29-yard pass-and-run touchdown play. Fullback Lovell Coleman hit Gerry Shaw on a 10-yard strike. Larry Robinson converted all three touchdowns and added a field goal.

The Argo - Lions game was played before 23,103 fans. The Calgary-Hamilton game drew 16,103.

Woods juggled Sutherin's kickoff but recovered and charged through the Hamilton tacklers. A fumble by Hamilton's Dave Fleming set up a march that led to Evanshen's touchdown and Calgary led 14-0 after 72 seconds.

Portugal, Russia Tonight

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP) — Portuguese soccer star Eusebio had the English fans at his feet today—and a special World Cup prize of £1,000 ($3,000) within his grasp.

Portugal meets Russia in a playoff for third place tonight. Every English fan at London's Wembley Stadium was certain to shout for Portugal and for Eusebio in particular.

A partisan crowd of 90,000 saw England defeat Portugal 2-1 in a classic semi-final Tuesday night, but the Portuguese team made friends with the fans by giving a superb and sportsmanlike display. Eusebio was one of the game's stars.

The lithe star from Mozambique is the most talked-of player in the tournament. He has scored eight goals and seems certain to collect an award of £1,000 offered by British businessmen to the tournament's top scorer.

Only a fantastic goal-scoring spree by somebody in Saturday's final between England and West Germany could deprive Eusebio of the prize.

GERMANS GET FOUR

The German pair of Franz Bekcenbauer and Helmut Haller each have scored four goals. England's Bobby Charlton has scored three.

Otherwise, there is nobody within striking distance of the fabulous Eusebio.

The Russians go into tonight's game without Igor Chislenko. He was sent off the field against West Germany and has been suspended by the World Soccer Federation for the next three international games.

The hard playing Russians have a wealth of strong reserves to draw on. Neither they nor the Portuguese were naming their teams until later today. The Russians were beaten 2-1 by West Germany in their semi-final.

A quieter atmosphere has crept into the tournament for the final phase. Tuesday's England-Portugal thriller, in which there was not one controversial incident, has to some extent erased the matches.

The Portuguese have been widely hailed as the team that helped to restore sportsmanship to the World Cup tournament by their display against England. That is why English fans are rooting for them today against Russia.

Scalpers Ask $47 Standing Room

Queen, Phillip Will Attend Cup Final

By JIM ANDERSON

LONDON (CP)—Ticket scalpers are finally getting their innings—and recouping some of their losses — on Saturday's World Cup soccer final between England and West Germany.

They haven't done well up to now, with seats going unsold at every game. Even the 90,000 fans who watched England defeat Portugal in Tuesday's semi-final didn't quite fill London's giant Wembley Stadium.

London newspapers, however, report asking prices up to 10 times the original cost for tickets to the final.

The Financial Times says standing room tickets rose to $47 from $16 Wednesday. One seller was asking $150 apiece for two $15 seats "near the Queen."

The Queen and Prince Philip will attend the game.

But if the demand for tickets hasn't lived up to the touts' expectations, the BBC picked a winner when it decided on blanket coverage of the tournament.

BROUGHT PROTEST

There were some howls of protest when the state - owned television network announced it would spend $750,000 and show 55 hours of soccer in less than three weeks—most of it in peak early - evening viewing time.

But Wednesday, when no games were played, it expanded its nightly World Cup commentary program in response to viewers' requests and showed film of most of the England-Portugal game.

Richard Last writes in The Sun today:

"Even the BBC were a little worried about housewifely reaction to their blanket coverage. They needn't have been. What they have is not rebels but converts.

"Colleagues report returning home to hear that their wives have been glued to the set, shouting and cheering. One says his mother is refusing to take phone calls during the nightly session."

A BBC spokesman said first reports indicated the audience for Tuesday's game was the largest in the history of British Television.

What will happen if England does win its first World Cup Saturday night?

The English Football Association has apparently made no plans. An official said Wednesday the bus route probably would be announced for the team's trip from the stadium to the official reception after the game.

'IS NOT ENOUGH'

But Desmond Hackett writes in The Express: "I am convinced that this is not half enough to satisfy the enthusiasm of every man woman and child who has choked, suffered and cheered over the television progress of England, to their first World Cup final.

"The Queen, whose original intention was to attend only at the opening ceremony, has now caught the football fever of the nation and has announced she will honor the final with her presence.

"As a loyal subject I humbly suggest that a truly royal accolade would be to invite the players back to Buckingham Palace and present them to the people from the balcony."

England supporters will have to change their words, if not their tune, Saturday.

They have been cheering their white - uniformed team on by singing When The Whites Go Marching In.

But the West Germans also wear white jerseys and officials ruled England will have to wear red for the final.

Financial footnote: If England wins, the 22 members of the team will divide a bonus of $66,000 but win or lose, the Germans will get their usual $69 for playing in an international game.

Trap and Gun Results

Lloyd Blue and Earl Marvin notched perfect scores of 25 at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's Wednesday shoots.

George Roberts scored 24, and Jim Hutchinson followed with 23. E. Pastosios, Lynn Reynolds, B. Yome and R. Thomson got 22.

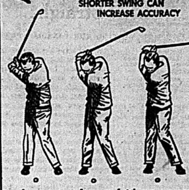
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

SHORTER SWING CAN INCREASE ACCURACY



I never cease to be amazed at the way many amateur golfers over-emphasize the importance of distance on iron shots. Such golfers seem interested only in, say, hitting a 9-iron from where their fellow-golfers would swing a 7-iron.

It should be obvious that success on iron shots rests primarily on producing accuracy.

This all brings us to the length of backswing on iron shots. I say your backswing should be no longer than that which will give you accurate shots. Don't be ashamed to use more club and take a three-quarter swing on iron shots. Keep your swing compact and rhythmical.

The illustrations show backswings of three different lengths. I know from experience that the longest swing will give me only about 10 yards more distance than the shortest swing. And who cares? No golf professional worth his salt would sacrifice accuracy for distance on shots to the green. You shouldn't either.

Departmental Softball

The Intelligencer won a see-saw Departmental Softball League battle over the Fire Department, 11-10, to clinch second place last night.

The loss left the Firemen and Public Works tied for third place and these two clubs meet in the only schedule game remaining.

Four runs in the first got the winners away strong but the losers rallied to take a 10-6 lead after four frames. Four in the fifth tied it and the Intelligencer won on Al Lee's lined single, Thompson's base hit and Ted Warwick's ground out in the sixth.

John Edwards pitched the victory, striking out 10, while George Woodhouse lost, with Larry Reid taking over in the last inning. They struck out six. Each team had 13 hits.

Bill Cooney slammed a home run, double and single to spark the winners. Maurice Switzer homered and singled. Terry Hiddleston and Lyle Thompson each had two safeties.

Bob Lloyd paced the Firemen with a double and three singles, aided by Al Ryan with three hits and Grant Parks with a double and single.

Leafs Sag, Lose Three Straight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A heat wave has covered Toronto for the last month, but the International League Maple Leafs have gone cold.

The Leafs, who started moving about the same time the heat wave struck and went from last place to second, have slipped back to fourth spot during the last week.

They took their third straight loss in two days Wednesday night as Jacksonville Suns completed a three-game sweep with a 5-3 victory.

Elsewhere, Rochester Red Wings swept a doubleheader 7-1 and 5-2 from league-leading Columbus Jets Wednesday night, while Toledo Mud Hens defeated Syracuse Chiefs 3-1, and Richmond Braves edged Buffalo Bisons 2-1.

CALLS OBSCENE

TORONTO (CP)—A 19-year-old youth was remanded Wednesday to Aug. 3 after he admitted making obscene telephone calls to 20 women whose telephone numbers he picked from the telephone directory.

Larry Alfred Golding was caught Tuesday at his aunt's home after one of his telephone calls was switched by the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada to a policewoman.

S. Warner Blanks City Hotel

Stewart Warner tightened its grip on second place in the Commercial Softball League standing last night by blanking City Hotel 7-0, at Alemite Park.

Rain halted the game in the top of the seventh inning.

Four of the winners' runs came in the fourth frame to open up a 1-0 contest. City had men on base in every inning but could not get hits in key spots to score them.

Doug Ellis spun three - hit ball for the victors. He struck out four and issued three free passes.

Gerry Genereaux pitched in defeat, with Larry Hull taking over in the sixth. Genereaux gave up all seven Stewart Warner hits, fanned two and walked two. Hull walked one.

John Trendall and Lyle Wannamaker sparked the Stewart Warner attack with a pair of base hits each. Chuck Rowbotham slammed a triple, Rod Turner and Claude Carr a single each.

Billy McGuire collected two of City's three singles and Larry Potter got the other one.

Stewart Warner announced this morning their game against Black Diamond, scheduled for Monday, will be played at the CNRA Park on Tuesday evening.

Nats' Valentine Clips Angels Wings

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

All the sweet talk in the world won't help. Until they are treated more gently, California Angels won't show any affection for Washington's Valentine.

Dan Cupid used a bow and arrow, but gave Fred Valentine a bat and the Angels to hit against and the results are just as devastating.

Valentine walloped a grand slam homer and a double Wednesday night, driving in five runs as Washington Senators whipped California 7-5.

His slugging was hardly unexpected by the Angels. Like a persistent beau, he's been pestering them all season. Valentine, batting .278 over-all, is hitting .521 against California.

The husky Senators outfielder has had 25 hits in 48 swings against the Angels this season. He has driven in 38 runs, 20 of them against California.

He tagged his 10th home run of the season in the third inning against rookie Clyde Wright following bunt singles by Ed Brinkman and Ken McMullen and a fielder's choice which loaded the bases.

In the sixth, his bloop double scored McMullen, who had singled.

Brinkman had four hits for the Senators and Barry Moore won his second major league game in as many starts.

Elsewhere, New York Yankees downed Minnesota Twins 6-3, Chicago White Sox blanked Detroit Tigers 5-0, Baltimore Orioles defeated Cleveland Indians 7-1 and Kansas City Athletics routed Boston Red Sox 14-2.

Bobby Richardson and Joe Pepitone walloped two - run homers and Horace Clarke drove in two runs with a triple as the Yankees downed the Twins against Jim Kaat 14-7. Fred Talbot went the distance for his ninth victory.

John Buzhardt pitched his fourth shutout of the season and Tommie Agee drove in four runs with a bases - loaded double and a sacrifice fly for the White Sox. Tom McCraw had three hits, driving in one run and scoring another for Chicago.

Frank Robinson hammered his 30th homer of the season, one of three home runs for the Orioles as Dave McNally won his 10th.

Rookie Larry Haney and veteran Luis Aparicio had homered earlier. Del Crandall hit his fourth for the Indians.

Kansas City used 13 singles and bases - empty homers by Mike Hershberger and Jim Gosger to humble the Red Sox. Jim Nash won his fourth decision.

Millar Golf

Three Break Par, Share Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Seven Canadian professional golfers proved Wednesday that good golf isn't only for good days. They broke par in the first round of the 72-hole Millar Trophy being played at Markland Woods Golf and Country Club.

Intermittent rain fell most of the day but it didn't seem to bother tournament leaders Moe Norman of Barrie, Frank Whibley of Kitchener and Johnny Henrick of Markham. They share first place with 68s.

George Knudson and host pro Al Balding, both of Toronto, were tied in fourth place with 69s.

Jack Kay of Toronto and Gerry Proulx of St. Eustace, Que. were the only other par busters. Each shot a one-under-par 70.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, who with Norman and Knudson is assured a berth on the nine-man Canadian contingent to the world championship at Birkdale, England, next month, shot an even-par 71 to tie with Bob Ure of Toronto.

The weather wasn't as kind to others of the 148 players. One unidentified golfer came home with 105, and match organizers said there were dozens in the 80s.

ONE BERTH OPEN

This is the first medal-play year for the Millar and the first time it has been a qualifying event for the world championship. The low pro in the Millar not yet on the team will win a berth.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., had a 73, including five penalty strokes for unintentionally visiting the waters of the Etobicoke Creek which come into play on 13 of the 18 holes.

Bob Breen of Toronto was alone in 10t hplace with a one-over-par 72.

Another shot back were seven pros, Wilson Patterson, Norm Smith, Ken Duggan, Gus Maue Jr., Alvie Thompson, Joe Rice, all of Toronto and Panasiuk.

After the second round today, the field will be reduced to the low 60 scorers and ties for the final 36 holes to be played Friday.

RAILS ARE LONG

The CNR is the largest railway in North America, operating nearly 35,000 miles of track.

How They're Biting

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Go north, anglers, for northern pike and pickerel. Move south or east for bass. And try a trip west for perch and panfish.

That's where the action was, according to the lands and forests department's weekly report on Ontario fishing, although there are exceptions.

After another week of hot, humid weather, fishing for all species of trout seemed pretty poor, but muskellunge angling improved in some areas.

SOUTH

Lake Simcoe—Bass good, but rainbow trout and muskellunge poor in Georgian Bay area. Bass and lake trout good on Lake Simcoe. Pickerel and bass fair to good at Sparrow Lake. Bass fair and panfish good at Lake Couchiching. Northern pike, pickerel, bass and muskellunge fair at Six Mile Lake.

EAST

Kemptville — Pickerel excellent in the upper Rideau Lakes region and bass good in Lanark County lakes where northern pike excellent. Perch excellent in upper Rideau area and Lake St. Francis. Northern pike excellent at Charleston Lake where lake trout poor.

Lindsay — Muskellunge and bass fair, pickerel poor to fair in Kawartha Lakes. Bass good in Apsley, Minden and Gooderham areas. Lake and speckled trout poor at Jack Lake while speckled and rainbow trout poor in Durham County.

Tweed — Pickerel good in Stoco, Moira, Crowe, Bobs and Beaver lakes. Baits include worms, plugs and frogs. Northern pike good in Madawaska River, Rock and Stoco lakes on live bait. Bass good in Wolfe Island area and Stoco, Crowe and Moira lakes. Muskellunge poor. Panfish excellent in Wellington area.

WEST

Lake Erie—Pickerel fair in Lake St. Clair, fair to good in Detroit, St. Clair and Niagara rivers with worm best bait. Smallmouth bass fair in Lake St. Clair, Lake Erie and Niagara River. Panfish and perch good in district.

Lake Huron — Speckled and rainbow trout poor, panfish fair. Bass fair in Maitland and Saugeen rivers.

Festival Honors Lema

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The $92,000 Festival open golf tournament starts today with the pros wearing black ribbons in memory of their colleague, Tony Lema, killed in a plane crash last Sunday.

During a pro-amateur affair Wednesday, which Jacky Cupit topped with a six-under-par 66 for a record on the new Speedway course, a memorial to Lema was recorded. At noon, play was halted and The Last Post played on the public address system. Rev. Paul Reichart, Speedway chaplain, gave a brief memorial prayer.

Flags were put at half-staff for the remainder of the meet, which ends Sunday.

Two minutes of silence were observed over the entire course and a flare burst overhead.

A field of 135 teed off today with Billy Casper the favorite. He won the same title in 1962 and is on the crest of a great 1966 season after taking the National and Western opens.

Alouettes Lose Whitfield

OTTAWA (CP)—Rookie halfback Dave Fleet, cut earlier this week by Ottawa Rough Riders, was claimed on waivers Wednesday by another Eastern Football Conference club, Montreal Alouettes.

Fleet, a Sarnia native who graduated from Northern Michigan University, was tried at both offensive halfback and flanker in training camp and early exhibition games.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference Wednesday lost the services of halfback A. D. Whitfield before he had seen any action with the club.

Whitfield, placed on waivers by Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, practised with the Als Tuesday night but was claimed by Washington Redskins of the NFL Wednesday before the waiver time had elapsed.

Doubt Earth Will Be Hit By Asteroid

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory discounted Wednesday night reports that an asteroid named Icarus might crash on the earth in 1968.

"The chances are about a billion to one," an observatory spokesman said.

James Cornell, public information officer for the observatory, said reports of an impending collision between the earth and Icarus keep cropping up, despite repeated disclaimers from most U.S. scientists.

He said the asteroid will pass the earth about 4,000,000 miles away on June 16, 1968, according to the latest calculations estimate.

Another asteroid, Hermes, came within 485,000 miles of the earth in 1937 without any problems, he said.

Still Plenty of 'Oomph' Left in Ann Sheridan

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There's plenty of oomph in the girl yet, as Ann Sheridan demonstrates on the set of the new television series, Pistols and Petticoats.

Ann would like not to be reminded that she was dubbed the Oomph Girl in the 1930s, when press agents could get away with that sort of thing. She managed to survive such a cognomen and go on to become a leading lady for Errol Flynn (Dodge City), Humphrey Bogart (They Drive By Night), Garry Cooper (Good Sam) and Cary Grant (I Was A Male War Bride.)

Last month she wed her longtime beau, actor Scott McKay.

It was just eight years ago that Ann turned her back on Hollywood to try her luck on the stage. She had been encouraged to do so by producer Ross Hunter, who wanted her to star in a property called Vermillion O'Toole first on Broadway and then in films.

The project never reached the theatre, but Ann did. She toured in Kind Sir, and her leading man was Scott McKay.

Ann continued to make her home in New York, appearing in the theatre and on television, most recently in the soap opera, Another World.

Frankly 50, Ann retains her oldtime allure and she photographs strikingly in color for Pistols and Petticoats, which will follow Jackie Gleason on CBS Saturday night.

"The producer, Joe Connelly, describes it as the Cat Ballou of television, and that's a pretty good description," said the actress. "It's a satire on westerns, but the people are real, not caricatures."

Miltie's Return Means Chance To Judge Golden Days of TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Nostalgic viewers who suspect that U.S. television entertainment has gone steadily down hill since the great "golden days" of the early 1950s will have a chance to find out whether television has changed—or whether they have.

Milton Berle—once Miltie, Mr. Tuesday night, Mr. Show Business—returns to television in September with a variety show on ABC after a 10-year absence. And Berle hopes to mount a Friday night program which will not be, at foundation, much different from the Tuesday night program that, with its inception in 1948, turned him into television's first really big star.

The question viewers will be answering will include:

Was Berle, clowning in women's clothes, as funny as those early audiences—most of them crowded into bars and grills—thought he was?

Berle himself doesn't think that the TV audience has really changed; it's just that there are more of them.

Berle's Star Theatre lasted for eight frenetic years. Then the show stopped. Berle had been signed to a profitable long-term contract by NBC and except for a thoroughly forgettable short-lived show after that, he has appeared only occasionally in guest shots.

Two things brought him back to star in his own show. First was the renegotiation of the NBC contract which permitted him to appear on other networks. Second was an appearance as host-comedian on ABC's Hollywood Palace resulting in a rating several points higher than the usual one pulled by that hour of vaudeville.

Berle, at 58, however, is not the same aggressive, brash show business know-it-all he was at the beginning of his TV career.

Years, success, financial security and—perhaps most of all—a happy marriage have mellowed him considerably.

But he is as excited as a beginner about returning to television as a regular.

"I feel that television is in a new era—hell, there's a whole generation that has never seen me," he said. "Kids who knew me as their Uncle Miltie in those days have their own kids now."

He doesn't think that the public tired of his comedy style—"hokey and wild," he calls it.

Berle now is an official resident of California. With his wife, the former Ruth Cosgrove, a press agent, and an adopted son, Billy, now four, home is in the heart of Beverly Hills.

Born Milton Berlinger in New York, he started in show business when he was five, working in the old Biograph Studios at Fort Lee, N.J. His first movie was Tillie's Punctured Romance, a comedy with Marie Dressler. He was tossed from a train by Pearl White in Perils of Pauline, and in all appeared in dozens of flickering silent movies as a child actor.

Later he moved on to vaudeville, but really scored on radio starting in 1934.

Firefighters Sponsoring Safety Contest

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Firemen in the Atlantic provinces hope to add a spark to Canada's centennial celebrations in 1967 that will turn into a blaze of worthwhile projects.

Officials of the Atlantic Firefighters' Workshop here have announced a scheme under which fire departments throughout the region will participate in a competition to determine which can come up with the most lasting beneficial fire safety effect.

About 500 communities are expected to enter. Prizes will be awarded for the best fire prevention work with children, the most original idea and the best provincial project. Industrial and military fire brigades are being invited to participate.

Fire Chief Millard F. Clifford of Saint John, a co-chairman of the Atlantic Firefighters' Workshop's steering committee, says details for entering the contest will be announced at the third annual workshop here in September.

"One of the purposes of this competition will be to show how the fire departments have shared in the growth of Canada in the last 100 years," he says.

The workshop was formed in 1964 and is made up of representatives from departments throughout the Atlantic provinces.

Saves Vintage Dolls, The Stuffed Variety

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I am the Vintage Fashion Editor of the Manitoba Classic and Antique Auto Club and I write and illustrate fashion articles of yesteryear for the club's monthly newsletter. Our club will be having a show in September and I have been asked to put on a display of old fashions and old-fashioned items.

We have just participated in a show and I had a display of 31 dolls, all over 40 years old and dressed in costumes according to their ages. So many people were thrilled with my dolls that I vowed to try to get more old dolls and dress them for the September show. I am prepared to pay something for them.

My oldest doll is 1856 and my newest one is 1919. I am also looking for old doll furniture, toy stoves, cradles, prams, dishes, pots and pans of the same age (40 years old or older.) Dolls don't have to be in perfect condition; as long as all the parts are there, as I restore them, wigs and all. They will never be sold or given away, they are like my babies. — ROSIE.

DEAR ROSIE: What a fascinating hobby! I'll forward any letter on the subject.

DEAR DORIS: Up until a year ago my facial skin was really lovely. But I fell ill and had to take a number of drugs, including a hormone and a type of cortisone.

Within three months my face was covered with hair. I used a depilatory cream and had a terrific reaction. Since, have gone to a place where they use electrolysis.

Have been told that you shouldn't have the natural hairs removed. As I never had hair on my face, how do you tell the natural hairs? — C.M.I.

DEAR C.M.I.: All faces have hairs; yours are just more noticeable now. This sometimes happens with certain drugs. Leaving the natural ones means leaving all of them. Removal by electrolysis, when the growth is fairly general, is a long, painful process. Even then many grow back in.

Perhaps the wax method is for you. The wax comes in cake form; is softened by warming, applied and allowed to set. When you pull off the wax layer, the hairs come with it, roots and all. It hurts — but not as much as if the unkind jibes about the lady-with-the-moustache, which you imagine even if you don't hear them.

They say you can get used to anything, even hanging. So chin up!

DEAR DORIS: I am 15. I like to baby sit, especially babies under one year of age. I have stacks of books on how to look after them, and have taken a few courses in child care and baby sitting, all of which I have passed.

I now feel that I could act sensibly if an emergency should arise if a small child was placed in my care.

Now my problem is this: My cousin has a baby a little over two months old. She will not let me sit with him because she says the baby is still too young, and I am not experienced enough. I happen to know that she gets a girl one year younger than me to stay with the baby and this girl feeds him and puts him to bed.

But how could I gain experience in this sort of thing if no one will give me a chance to look after their child. Any suggestions? — INEXPERIENCED.

DEAR INEXPERIENCED: If tiny babies are a new experience for you, go at it gradually. They aren't the sturdy, solid bundles of love that older one are — and if you aren't used to handling them they might just slip through your fingers! Ask your cousin to let you help with him while she's there, for a start. It's good technique to get acquainted with a little one while its mother is around, anyway.

P.S.: Full marks go to you for reading all about them and taking courses. You'll get there.

DEAR DORIS: We are in a fix. A girl we know annoys us, and we don't want to tell her she isn't wanted, but we are being driven to desperation. Please help us! — CONFUSED ONES.

DEAR ONES: If you go by me, you'll try to figure out why she does what she does — whatever it is. Then you'll be in a better position to take the positive approach.

There are times when we clash with other personalities, even when we are grown up and supposedly mature. But desperate measures aren't usually the answer.

DEAR DORIS: My neighbor's children damaged my garden so I asked their father to speak to them. Later I caught them breaking my fence down; also they shot my window out with a beebee gun. I finally called the police and had a lawyer write to them, so that is stopped.

Two days ago the mailman left his letters in my box. I could not get his gate open so I threw them over the fence onto his property. She saw me and he called the police to bawl me out for fooling with his mail!

He fought with the former owner so much that he sold. I think he is nuts. He will probably try to sue me or shoot me. I can't sell. If people get to know this I'll get nothing for my place. — AFRAID.

DEAR AFRAID: Nuts is the word. But I can't see grounds for a suit in the letter episode. Next time give any letters back to the mailman or put them in a mailbox.

You need advice from that lawyer; since you have done no wrong, all you need is to keep the record straight and yourself supplied with a counsellor.

Confidential to LOVES OLD PEOPLE: Why not start something where you are? I heard of one Y.W.C.A. group of teenagers which took to calling on a whole list of pensioners. One girl took her "Granny" to the movies and a family dinner. They learned afterwards that this was the first time the elderly woman had set foot outside in a year.

The famed anthropologist, Dr. Margaret Mead, pointed out that: "Our culture is oriented toward the two-generation family, consisting of parents and minor children. But grandparents are important to children too." There's a special warmth and understanding that can be nurtured between a youngster and an oldster.

Indiana Senator Asserts U.S. Policies Pushing Free World Into Bankruptcy

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana accused the U.S. government today of pursuing international economic and monetary policies which contributed to Britain's economic crisis and threaten the "free world" with bankruptcy.

The Democratic senator, a member of the Senate finance committee, used Prime Minister Wilson's visit to Washington for talks with President Johnson as the occasion for launching his attack against U.S. policy.

The prime minister's presence here "dramatizes the destructive international impact" of what the United States is doing, he said in prepared remarks to the Senate.

Hartke said the administration should immediately reconsider its commitment to total elimination of the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit and escalation of interest rates if it wants to avoid an international disaster.

"Let us make no mistake about it—it is bankruptcy that threatens the free world," he said.

"The unmistakable signs have been seen in Britain. After months of creeping, government-sponsored deflation, after two full-scale international rescue operations inspired, organized and led by the United States, the only alternative to devaluation of the pound has been seen to be savage economic restrictions and the deliberate promotion of unemployment in Britain. . . .

"This continuing, cruel British experience points up the bitter irony of American policy. On the one hand, the United States had . . . led emergency rescue operations to save the pound by pumping dollars into British reserves.

"But, on the other hand, U.S. restraint on dollar outflows has created conditions of international tight money which has forced ever greater restrictiveness in Britain. . . .

"U.S. monetary policy, which has produced unprecedentedly high interest rates at home, has contributed to the international interest rate war and has helped to provoke the current crisis in Britain. . . .

"American monetary policy has been destructive to Great Britain and disruptive to the whole complex system of international financial operations. This is consistency of a kind—and it is a kind that spells disaster."

Pakistan Claims India To Test Nuclear Device

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says in a dispatch from New Delhi that Pakistan has told the Canadian government that India will explode a nuclear device shortly.

The newspaper quotes Pakistan as saying the device will be ostensibly for peaceful purposes but will also allow India to claim membership in the nuclear club.

The report says James Weld, acting Canadian high commissioner in Rawalpindi, was called in by the Pakistani foreign ministry several days ago and given the news. The information was relayed to the external affairs department in Ottawa.

The newspaper says the direct implication in the Pakistani message was that India is allegedly planning an atomic blast using plutonium produced by the Trombay reactor near Bombay. The reactor was built with Canadian assistance.

An agreement between Canada and India specifies the reactor must only be employed for peaceful purposes.

The newspaper says one version of the Pakistani report to Canadian officials is that the atomic device will be exploded within 30 days.

Two Retired Air Marshals Assail Hellyer's Program

MONTREAL (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal Max Hendrick, who retired last year, said Thursday that Defence Minister Hellyer's move to integrate the armed forces "is being pushed through to enhance Mr. Hellyer's personal image and for no other reason."

The reduction of armed services personnel has been far greater than predicted with no corresponding reduction of costs, he said in an interview.

The former officer commanding the Air Defence Command said several senior officers have hesitated to speak out publicly for fear of being classed as "sort of a Col. Blimp—out of touch and against change."

"I think it's time the public knew that the feeling is not confined to one service," he said, referring to the recent outburst

Plan Special House Session To Stop National Rail Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans for a possible emergency session of Parliament next month to pass legislation against a national railway strike are being quietly arranged by the government.

Informants said Thursday key members of the House of Commons staff have been told to be available during the late August and early September period for a brief special session.

Although the government appears to be determined that a railway tieup will not occur, four different union groups are preparing for strike action to enforce wage demands.

There already have been informal discussions among top union officers about setting a joint strike deadline around the end of August. One date suggested has been Labor Day, Sept. 5.

A bill imposing a compulsory settlement on the unions would pevent legal strike action.

However, union sources say if the settlement terms involved were not acceptable many of their members would support a wildcat walkout.

Another possibility is that the unions would launch a work-to-rule campaign, slowing taffic to a crawl.

Early this month a conciliation board proposed a wage increase of 18 per cent spread over two years for two union groups representing about 80,000 non-operating railway workers. This would work out to between 40 and 43 cents an hour for the various categories involved.

The unions, which originally demanded boosts of up to $1 an hour and more for skilled classes, rejected the proposal and now are in the long pocedure of taking a mailed strike vote among members. This will take another three weeks.

Conciliation board reports are expected shortly in related disputes between the railways and two other unions—the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Tansport and General Workers (CLC) and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC).

The CBRT wants a 90-cent hourly boost for its 20,000 non-operating workers on the CNR, the BRT a 15-per-cent raise for its 20,000 conductors, brakemen and yardmen. The BRT also wants the work day cut to six hours from eight, a step the railways say involves a total wage package of 30 per cent.

Kill Cops Long Is. Negro Cry

NORTH AMITYVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Violence erupted in this predominantly Negro Long Island community Thursday night as a mob of 400 rioted after a community meeting, pelting police with rocks and gasoline bombs.

A one-square-mile area was cordoned off while 330 policemen attempted to restore order.

Chanting "Kill those cops," the mob tore through a shopping centre, pounding on the roofs of patrol cars and throwing a trash can through the window of a supermarket.

It took more than three hours for the steel-helmeted force to return a semblance of order to the community. Small bands of youths continued to roam through side streets and backyards into the early morning hours, lighting fires and throwing rocks.

Police reported nine arrests. One patrolman was taken to hospital after being hit near the eye with a broken bottle.

Johnson Enters Dispute

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson met today with Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, in what appeared to be a renewed effort to end a strike by 32,000 non-medical hospital workers.

The meeting was the first of a number scheduled for today between the premier and representatives of management and labor. The work-stoppage began to develop July 15.

Mr. Johnson held a special meeting of his cabinet Thursday night following what one hospital representative called the suspension of negotiations in Montreal.

There has been no direct bargaining for three days in the strike, and Mr. Johnson asked representatives of the Quebec Hospital Association, representing the 119 hospitals concerned, and of the National Federation of Services (CNTU), the union involved, to come to Quebec City for talks with him.

The premier made no immediate announcement concern-

With Wilson in U.S., Britons Display Ire At Details of Freeze

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — Prime Minister Wilson, here for talks today with President Johnson, will outline crisis efforts to save the pound sterling — and perhaps disclose to Johnson new austerity moves ahead.

There were indications some U.S. officials felt Wilson might be forced to go beyond last week's announced austerity directives if he is to save the pound from devaluation.

These officials—and it was not clear if they represented majority sentiment within the U.S. government — seemed convinced Wilson eventually must seek a mandatory freeze on wages and prices to help stabilize the pound at its present level of $3.

They apparently felt last week's freeze initiated by Wilson was shot through with loopholes and that, in the end, only

Ontario To Oppose Medicare

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will oppose medicare until Ottawa gives the provinces a bigger share of the tax dollar, says Premier John Robarts.

"We would like to get the money and established our own priorities instead of having the federal government dictate to us on what is purely a provincial matter," he said Thursday.

Mr. Robarts made the statement at a press conference, called to describe the three-day provincial premiers' conference opening Monday.

Nigerian Mutineers Seize Lagos Airport

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters)—Loyal and dissident Nigerian Army troops battled today for command of Lagos airport following the discovery of a plot to overthrow Nigeria's military government.

Reliable sources said detachments of the army, one of the best-drilled in Africa, mutinied and took over the airport.

The trouble began in the town of Obeokuta, about 50 miles from Lagos, during the night, and then spread, the informants said.

A plot to overthrow the government of Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, who himself took power after a coup in January, was unearthed and loyalist forces moved in to disarm the dissidents.

Fighting broke out between the loyalist troops and dissidents, and first reports said several were killed and many wounded.

Later the trouble spread to two barracks at Ikeja, on the outskirts of Lagos near the airport.

People in Lagos anxiously waited reports which would indicate whether Aguiyi-Ironsi's forces had succeeded in keeping the mutiny to an isolated outbreak. Fears were that it might spread to other parts of the country.

Usually reliable sources said the powerful Nigerian police—who played a key part in January's coup—did not appear to be intervening.

Dissident troops were then reported to have taken over the airport. Loyalist troops were sent to the airport and fighting broke out.

The sources said fighting was limited to the dissident and loyalist groups in the army. Nigerian police were not involved and there were no reports of civilians participating in the exchanges of fire.

Aguyi-Ironsi, 41, who was army chief, took over power in Nigeria in January after a coup organized by his junior officers had overthrown the civilian government. He was reported today to be in Ibadan, about 100 miles north of Lagos, mounting an operation to control the mutiny.

Report of Man Carrying Gun Delays Talks

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — British Prime Minister Wilson's press secretary, Trevor Lloyd Hughes, told reporters at the White House that Wilson's arrival for his talks with President Johnson this morning was delayed while police vainly searched a nearby building for a man reported seen entering carrying a rifle.

"They didn't find anyone there", Hughes said. "Nothing was found in the building".

The British press aide said a civilian passerby warned security guards outside Blair House, the U.S. guest house near the White House, that he had seen a man with a gun enter an office building under construction half a block away. Wilson had spent the night at Blair House.

LONDON (CP)—Storm signals and harsh predictions flew on all sides today as the Socialist government published proposals for a united national effort designed to cure Britain's chronic economic ills.

Parts of the governments' plan for a pay-and-prices freeze — considerably more strict than had been envisaged a week ago — were regarded as unworkable and possibly unacceptable by leaders of industry and trade unions, reports said.

A government document setting out the controversial new policy was issued today, stating that the administration plans to seek powers to enforce a temporary wage-and-price freeze if voluntary curbs did not work.

The new powers would give the government authority to reverse certain pay-and-price increases where they have been implemented since July 20. Pay raises agreed to before then but not yet implemented could be deferred for up to six months from the date they were due to take effect.

MAY TAKE TIME

Negotiations for new agreements may take place during the rest of this year, according to the new policies, but must not take effect before Jan. 1, 1967.

The document said the new powers, to be incorporated in wage-and-price restraint legislation already going through Parliament, were only temporary and would lapse after 12 months.

Volunteers Keeping Hospitals Going

MONTREAL (CP)—A university professor mans a dishwasher, businessmen mop floors, teen-agers dump garage—that's the story of how volunteers have been helping Quebec hospitals, hit by a strike of 32,500 non-medical workers.

"We've had 100 or more volunteers in here every day," said a spokesman for the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, one of 119 hospitals affected by the work-stoppage.

The Royal Vic, as it is commonly known, normally has 1,000 patients. But even before the workers began leaving their jobs July 15, the Royal Vic and other institutions likely to be involved discharged patients not on the serious list.

Now 500 are left at the Montreal hospital but there's a mountain of work to be done still—work that normally would have been carried out by the kitchen workers, laundry personnel, groundsmen and other regular employees who have been manning the picket lines.

WORK GETS DONE

Somehow the work gets done, with the help of the volunteers who have been calling by and phoning in at the hospital ever since the walkout started.

The Royal Vic story is true for other institutions too. A Montreal newspaper reporter filled a recent column with the story of his exploits as a dish-

'Improvement Association' At Frankford Backing Chief

FRANKFORD — Members of the Frankford Improvement Association are canvassing the village to obtain signatures for a petition calling for the five-man Village Council to resolve its differences with Police Chief William Hockley who has tendered his resignation.

The association was formed last night at the home of Hugh S. Powell who is the group's chairman. Reginald Simmons is secretary and the other members are Mrs. Gerald Curry, Mrs. Mary Baker, John Gilmour, Roy Lockwood, James Conlon, Ernest Sharp and Jim Forbes.

Village Reeve Ray Moran probably instigated the formation of the association when he called on villagers to organize and present a petition asking council members to make a special effort to have the police chief reconsider his resignation.

The petition now circulating protests the council chastised Chief Hockley for enforcing the law "without fear or favor". It reprimands council for "apparently condoning unlawful acts when performed by certain privileged persons"'. It says that by doing so council has made the streets of Frankford unsafe for those who oppose the actions of the privileged few.

In addition, the petition asks of council whether, in the opinion of individual members, the law should apply to all residents of the community, equally.

The fourth and final item contained in the peition is a request for the council as a whole to prevail upon Chief Hockley to reconsider his resignation and to offer the officer its full co-operation if he will remain.

Mr. Forbes, manager of the Oasis Restaurant in Frankford, said late last night that 35 villagers had signed the petition within 25 minutes.

Mr. Powell noted that persons signing the petion will be asked to support the issues by attending the special meeting of council scheduled for Tuesday, August 2, at 8 p.m.

Advised of the petition, Chief Hockley expressed appreciation.

This Leopard Lost Her Spots For Cameraman

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England (Reuters)—A near-nude blonde model caused traffic chaos here when she leaped through a hedge onto a busy highway while posing as a "leopard girl."

Motorists gasped and slammed on their brakes, two cars collided, a third swerved off the road and traffic jammed in both directions as model Julie Shaw, 21, landed in the roadside wearing only brief bikini pants.

Her leopard - skin towel caught on twigs and came adrift as she tried to hurdle the hedge for photographers.

"It was highly embarrassing," she said.

CUT REJECTED

LONDON (AP)—The British government rejected Thursday night a proposed salary cut for members of Parliament in the austerity program. The proposal was made in the House of Commons by Conservative Nigel Fisher who said MP pay should be cut 10 per cent "in view of the economic situation and as an example to the nation." MPs get £3,250 ($9,750) a year—about four times the national average wage. Cabinet ministers get more.

Man Suspended, Refuses to Join Union

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A man who refuses to join a union said Thursday he has been suspended from his job at the Greening Metal Products and Screening Ltd., plant.

Dirk Hoogendoorn, 57, said in an interview he received one week's notice of suspension last week despite an Ontario Supreme Court judge's request that he be kept on pending a court appeal.

Mr. Hoogendoorn has refused to join the United Steelworkers of America (CLC). He appealed recently to the Supreme Court an arbitration board ruling that he either join the union or be dismissed.

He has refused to join or support the union because he claims it is committed to socialism and to the New Democratic Party which his religious beliefs prohibit him from supporting.

Orangeville is 20 miles northeast of Guelph.

Says Canada Fills US Orders For Munitions

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Communist party newspaper Pravda says it "is an open secret" that the Canadian munitions industry is filling orders for the U.S. defence department.

V. Ozerov, Pravda's Ottawa correspondent, writes that planes and weapons, chemical substances and equipment, radio apparatus and missile components are being exported from Canada to the United States on an "unprecedented scale."

Although the Canadian government claims the use of Canadian weapons in Viet Nam does not contradict the neutrality of the country, Ozerov says, "different views are held by public organizations which are coming out against United States intervention in Southeast Asia and demand that Canada discontinue supporting the aggressor."

Ozerov quotes Canadian newspapers as saying the value of direct military orders placed by the U.S. with Canadian firms in 1965 was $260,000,000, an increase of $93,000,000 over 1964 and double the figure for 1963.

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) Luxembourg told the United Nations Thursday that it will make a voluntary donation of $5,000 to the costs of UN peacekeeping in Cyprus.

City Issues Call for Bids For Bridge Construction

Mayor J. R. Ellis announced today that tender advertising will appear in today's issue of the Daily Commercial News and the Ontario Intelligencer, calling for bids to be accepted until 3.00 p.m. on Monday, August 22nd for the construction of the new College Street Bridge to replace the obsolete one-lane bridge which has served this street for many years.

The engineering firm of Damas and Smith Limited of Don Mills have prepared the plans and specifications to provide for the construction of the new bridge which will be of pre-cast,, pre-stressed concrete girder construction. The bridge will have four lanes of traffic and will require three of the concrete girder spans to support the sub-structure and superstructure.

760 cubic yards of concrete will be required for the substructure and 464 cubic yards of concrete will be required for the superstructure and the widening will require approximately 1000 feet of new approach roads and will make necessary this installation of 600 linear feet of new storm sewer lines and appurtenances.

"We expect to call for tenders for sewers and sidewalks for the Senior Citizens' Development on Turnbull Street and for sewers on Harder Drive and for three new vehicles in the Annual Truck Replacement Program within the next week or so. These tender calls will have the same due date and it is my present intention to call a special meeting of Council shortly after these tenders have been opened and examined by the engineers. Recommendations can then be made to Council on all these submissions for consideration and action . . . particularly on this much needed bridge and on the other progressive developments which will be before us for consideration," he said.

"I am sure the people in the areas of the city most concerned with this civic undertaking will be pleased to see that action will soon be under way to further improve our city," he said.

Council recently approved a new temporary traffic routing plan devised by the consulting engineers to allow for the immediate demolition of the old bridge and the construction of the new one once the contract has been awarded. This plan is expected to be in operation for the estimated construction period of September 1966 to May 1967. Mayor Ellis added that a plan and description of the temporary traffic pattern required in the area bounded by Moira, Grove, Strachan, Harriett and Coleman streets and for the Station, Pinnacle and Front Street areas adjacent to the Upper Bridge, would be published and explained in the local press in the near future for the guidance of motorists and pedestrians.

"We are particularly concerned that the three school boards, each of which will have students affected by the demolition of the old bridge on College Street over the river, be fully apprised of the new traffic plan so that they can be completely prepared for school re-opening in September and can make whatever arrangements are required to get all of the students to school," he said. He added, "I have instructed the city manager to have the city engineer advise the school boards, transit commission, police and fire departments and all others very directly concerned with traffic to be given detailed plans of the proposed re-routing, and we believe the general public, motorists and pedestrians alike will soon adjust to this temporary situation."

Charles Forgey Heads County Federation

Charles Forgey of Stirling was last night elected president of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture at a regular monthly meeting held at the Forgey home. Don Martin of Tweed was elected first vice-president and Harold Harris of Madoc, second vice-president. The election of officers was necessitated by the death of former president Roy W. Sills.

In other business, Mrs. Percy Ray gave a report on the Rural Learning Association's first annual meeting held in Toronto in June. Allan MacDonald and George Carlish reported on the Labor Council Conference held last month at Port Elgin. They observed that the aim of the conference was to promote a better understanding between labor and the farmer.

In compliance with a request from the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, a survey of townships was taken to deal with the recent drought and its effect on hay, grain and corn crops. Mrs. Percy Ray was named to attend the Rural Learning Association workshop to be held in Aurora in September. If Mrs. Ray is unable to attend, her place will be taken by Mrs. W. Forestell.

Tyendinaga Indians Plan Centennial Role

Mohawk Indians from the Tyendinaga Reserve will probably take part in next year's Centennial celebrations in Belleville, according to Andrew Maracle of Deseronto.

Mr. Maracle, who is spearheading a drive for Indian participation in the Centennial, says the reserve has been invited to take part in the parade marking the formal opening of the city's centennial project at Zwick's Island on July 5, 1967.

The opening ceremony will be held in conjunction with the visit of the Centennial Caravan, and the Tyendinaga float likely will take the shape of an Indian village showing the traditional day-to-day life of the first inhabitants of this continent.

The invitation to take part in the formal celebrations at Zwick's Island resulted from talks between Mr. Maracle and Les Shore, executive director and co-ordinator of the Belleville Centennial Committee.

Meanwhile, Mr. Maracle has other plans for Centennial Year. He is considering the possibility of lacrosse matches and tug-of-war contests between Indians and white teams from the surrounding area.

He is also hoping to display a log cabin at his gift shop near Deseronto, similar to one in which his grandparents lived on the Six Nations Reserve at Brantford. It would feature the type of rawhide bed and traditional implements for grinding corn that he remembers from his youth.

Mr. Maracle says recent visitors to the gift shop he runs with his wife have come from the Soviet Union, Japan and Switzerland. Many other countries are also represented in their guest book.

IN MEMORIAM

BALDWIN — In loving memory of our dear brother David Baldwin who passed away July 29, 1965.

One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away,
God took him home — it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.
—Ever remembered by Dougie and Sharon.

BALDWIN — In loving memory of my dear son, David Baldwin, who passed away July 29, 1965.

There is a mother who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went,
And I think of you daily and hourly,
But try to be brave and content,
But the tears that I shed in silence,
And I breathe a sigh of regret,
For you were mine, and I remember,
Though all the world forget.
—Never forgotten by Mom.

SHAPPEE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Stella who passed away July 29th, 1956.

However long our lives may last,
Whatever lands we view,
Whatever joy or grief be ours,
We will always think of you.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Marjorie, Ivan and Wayne.

Not on Street, Drunk Charge Is Dismissed

A charge against a Belleville woman of being intoxicated in a public place was dismissed in magistrate's court by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Defence counsel Robert Temple moved for dismissal of the charge after hearing evidence that the woman was found curled up under a blanket in the back seat of a neighbor's car.

The car was parked just off a laneway. There was some question as to whether the car was parked on the defendant's property or on her neighbor's property because there is no clear marking between the property. Mr. Temple said it didn't really matter anyway, because she was on private property and not in a public place.

Crown Counsel Ralph Graham said, "This is very interesting indeed. If a common drunk wanders down the street and stands on my front lawn he is not subject to conviction under the LCA."

He said the only thing to do is charge people under the criminal code for causing a disturbance or something or else every drunk in town could wander onto peoples' lawns and couldn't be convicted.

Grounded Stewardesses Having a Ball

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Besides sleek jets, the airline strike has grounded more than 1,000 shapely stewardesses in Miami. With plenty of time and little money, the ever-smiling beauties of the skies are making the town hop.

They can party longer because they don't have to catch that early morning flight. There also is more time for tanning on the palm - lined beaches, splashing at the cozy pools and swinging at discotheques.

"Some of my friends are going out with men they have turned down before," said one stewardess. Without any income, she explained, the girls are willing to overlook some previously glaring faults because of the lure of a free meal.

"I wish the strike were over," said 21-year-old Susan Duncan, a brunette from Pensacola, Fla., "but this is our chance to play and relax."

Her roommate, Brigitte Rinschen of Bremen, Germany, also a National Airline stewardess, says: "I'm flat broke. I tried to get a job—any job—until the end of the strike, but I don't know what a stewardess can do."

While some 600 National and 600 Eastern Airlines girls remain aground, stewardesses for the non - strikebound carriers seem a bit envious.

"Look at them," said a blonde from Delta Air Lines. "They don't have any money, but they are all having a ball. And we get up early every morning and work like crazy. My flights have been full since the strike started."

FALLOUT MARKED

AUCKLAND (AP) — Debris from the first French nuclear test on Mururoa Atoll in the Pacific July 2 has begun to fall in New Zealand, health officials reported Thursday. Samplings indicated low levels of radioactivity and point to the probability that the debris has circled the southern hemisphere.

wage rises will be followed by a further six months of severe restraint when only special increases will be allowed under the new measures.

Existing provision to give advance warning of plans to increase prices also will be extended to cover a wider range of items.

The wages freeze would not apply to genuinely increased output or promotion — though employers are prohibited from reclassifying employees as a concealed form of wage increases.

MANY INVOLVED

The new restraints will immediately hit 3,000,000 workers —about a quarter of the country's total labor force — who have wage claims or hours cuts already under negotiation.

The government document said the new powers would last only a year while Britain takes "a breathing space . . . in which productivity can catch up with the excessive increases in incomes which have been taking place."

The biggest shock is that the powers of enforcement also will provide for some wage - and - price rises to be reversed.

The virtual standstill will apply to all wages, prices, rents, and company dividends and up to Dec. 31 wage and price increases will be avoided "so far as possible," the document said.

UNION AGREES

The 8,500,000-member Trades Union Congress agreed last week to support the wage freeze but that was before the union chiefs saw the new mandatory aspects of the legislation. They want further talks with the government next week.

Confederation of British Industry officials, as well as the union leaders, are insisting on more talks with government ministers next week. The present attitude was described as skepticism regarding the new austerity, said to be the strictest proposed since the lean post-war days of Sir Stafford Cripps.

DOESN'T SHAPE UP

The whole picture presented a sombre backdrop for Prime Minister Wilson's visit to Washington, where he was outlining to President Johnson the crisis efforts to save the pound sterling.

The Conservative Daily Express says in a front - page Washington story that United States diplomats in London presented Johnson with a shock report on the British position.

"The report says flatly that devaluation of the pound has been merely postponed by Mr. Wilson's latest austerity measures and must still come, probably within the next year," the Express relates.

The newspaper notes that Bill Moyers, White House press secretary, said that no such report has been received by the president. The London embassy, too, later denied it had prepared such a report.

The Express version said the report told of Britons who were unwilling to roll up their sleeves and "really work"—there was a disappearance "or at least dwindling" of the old spirit of resolution in time of adversity.

This, says the Express in an editorial, bears an "uncanny resemblance" to assessments made by the same embassy at the beginning of the Second World War:

"They were wrong then. They are wrong now."

Harold Hutchinson, political correspondent of The Sun, which supported Wilson in the last two general elections, says the government has suffered an "economic Suez"—a disaster comparable with the military and political humiliation Brit-

UNDER FIRE

Wilson, Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan and Economics Minister George Brown are under heavy criticism not only in Parliament but throughout the country, says Hutchinson.

One of them, Brown, "is being kicked to death."

"The boot is in for Brown."

"It is just a bit sickening," Hutchinson adds. "There is an emetic quality about politics as there is about Hollywood, where you are as good as your last picture and sycophants secretly hope it will be bad."

A cabinet reshuffle now must be in the cards for autumn and so must a "total rethink" of government policy, especially on Britain's much - discussed and controversial "world role," says Hutchinson.

"It is now a bad joke. . . . What would Mr. Wilson himself have said about a nation with a begging bowl in one hand and a flag in the other claiming some special world mission?"

The Grocery Trade Press, meanwhile, prepared to report this weekend price increases of a penny or so in an exceptionally large range of goods. Manufacturers blame a 10-per-cent purchase-tax increase imposed in Wilson's recent baby budget.

Prices for most eggs, which rose by amounts up to sixpence (seven cents) a dozen last week, were likely to go up another three pennies. The grocer periodical will report Saturday increases for 350 articles, including soaps, cosmetics, razor blades and soft drinks.

Status of Servicemen Unification Problem

OTTAWA (CP)—A problem in the planned unification of the armed services is the legal status of serving members of the three forces once Parliament converts them into a single service.

Informants say the legislation for a single service will have to provide a specific formula for the transition to it of the 100,000-odd present forces members.

One analogy being used is the merger of two companies. The employees of both continue in their jobs unless the jobs are done away with or an employee decides to move.

With the forces, the problem seems to boil down to the government making a decision whether each serviceman will be asked to re-enlist in the new unified force or whether the parlamentary legislation will conscript them en bloc into the new force.

Both courses appear to present some dangers.

MEANS VOTE

Asking the servicemen to re-enlist means, in effect, taking a vote of the services on unification.

One source estimates that in these circumstances a refusal to re-enlist by 20 per cent of highly - trained servicemen would paralyse the new force.

On the other hand, a parliamentary act that automatically makes currently-serving members of the forces part of the unified force runs into that old Canadian political spectre—conscription.

About all Defence Minister Hellyer has said to date on the status of forces members under unification is that the men won't have to serve in some other environment.

Gen. Jean V. Allard, chief of the defence staff, has ordered servicemen be advised that if they originally enlisted, for example, in the navy they won't be required to serve with land or air arms of the unified force.

So far the question of how they'll make the transition hasn't been sorted out.

Trenton Man Fined in Tax Law Case

Harry Seymour of Trenton was fined $200. in court this morning after he pleaded guilty to a breach of the income tax act.

It was his first offence and and he received the minimum fine under that section of the act.

He told Magistrate T. Y. Wills, that he had made restitution to the government. "The whole town of Trenton knew about this", he said. " I had people phoning me up all the time. I think that's sufficient penalty."

Magistrate Wills said, "That's something you should take up with the income tax people. If there's not sufficient security in their department, that's their concern. My concern is with breaches of the law".

Airwoman Hurt Struck by Cab

TRENTON — A 26-year-old airwoman, Hugetta Nicholl, was treated in the base hospital at the Canadian Forces Base last evening for a cut to the back of her head, suffered when she was struck by a taxicab on Tripp's corner in downtown Trenton. Miss Nicholl was kept in the hospital overnight for observation.

Fire Damages Van Contents

TRENTON — Trenton firemen were called out last night to the corner of Byron and Heber Streets where fire had broken out in the back of an Allied moving van. Slight damage was reported to the load of house furnishings aboard.

Earlier in the day, firemen answered what proved to be a false alarm to the Erie Technological Lab. where a cable had been knocked out during the storm, setting off the alarm and disconnecting all plant telephones.

Some Farmers Advocating Dumping Milk in Protest

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Some farmers in southwestern Ontario supplied their own answers Thursday to the problems of achieving higher prices for their products, notably milk.

"Dumping is the only way to get anything," said Ed Sims of Thamesford. "I'm in favor of holding everything back from eggs to a bottle of milk. No farmer can make a living comparable to the average worker unless he gets $5 a hundredweight for milk sold to the manufacturer."

"If everybody dumped, I guess I would too," said Hugh Davis, of Centralia. "But I couldn't afford it."

Such a strike would fail unless fluid milk suppliers support those producing for manufacturers, he said.

Glen Patterson, Strathroy, said the only way dairy farmers can get what they want is to shut down.

"The guy in the factory shuts down. Why not the farmer?"

Orlo Kettlewell, Appin, said selling herds and moving into another line is the best course for complaining dairymen.

"That would put the squeeze on the manufacturers."

White Mobs in Baltimore Hunt Negroes After Rally

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gangs of white youths numbering from 50 to 100 ranged through Negro neighborhoods in search of victims Thursday night shortly after white supremacist speakers had whipped them into a frenzy at a rally.

Police had the situation under control in about two hours, but beefed - up patrols roamed through the area into the morning.

Ironically, Baltimore has been labelled as the target city for 1966 by the Congress of Racial Equality, but CORE rallies have attracted only small audiences.

In comparison, Thursday, night's rally by the National States Rights party at Patterson Park drew a crowd estimated at about 1,000.

The sporadic trouble that plagued the southeast Baltimore area until late Thursday night began shortly after the rally sound trucks closed down about 8 p.m.

POLICE MOVED IN

As the crowd broke up, a cluster of white youths surrounded Robert Kaufman, a self - proclaimed socialist, and about a dozen of his companions. Police quickly formed a cordon around them and escorted them from the area, but eggs were tossed and before the group had got a block away, the crowd had grown larger, louder and more belligerent.

Riot police and officers with dogs hurried to the scene. Plainclothesmen, who had been mingling with the crowd dressed in dirty T-shirts and jeans, began pinning on badges.

The show of force stopped any immediate threat of violence, but the mob broke up into smaller groups and began ranging through side streets and into predominantly Negro areas.

One Negro boy walking his dog was set upon by a group of about 100 whites and knocked to the ground before police rescued him.

Before the gangs were dispersed, police had arrested seven persons.

blanket legislation would achieve results.

The prime minister arrived from London late Thursday night and was given a warm welcome by State Secretary Dean Rusk and other top officials.

In a brief arrival statement Wilson said he was looking forward to his talks with the president but did not mention any specific subject which would come up.

VISIT INFORMAL

It was billed as an informal visit, with a late morning conference, then a White House lunch before a final round of talks prior to the prime minister's departure.

As part of the discussion about financial matters, there was certain to be talk about retrenchment of British military operations around the globe. A $300,000,000 reduction in military spending is a Wilson goal.

The British, it was said, are most likely to make the heaviest withdrawals from among their 51,000 troops in West Germany.

There seemed to be no disposition in Washington to quarrel with the economic necessity for Britain to pull in her horns militarily.

The British embassy said a press conference by the prime minister has been scheduled for 5 p.m. EDT although the exact timing would depend on the course of the conversations with the president.

Wilson is due to fly from Washington tonight for a two-hour conference in Ottawa with Prime Minister Pearson before returning to London.

Soviet-Canadian Relations

Could there be ulterior motives in the relative warmth the Soviet Union is displaying in its relations with Canada these days?

When Soviet deputy premier Dmitri Polyansky was here recently we suggested that a Russian of his charm and personality was almost too good to be true, and went on to say: "Behind Mr. Polyansky's cheerful manner is a keen intelligence. He is a politician's politician, and his Ottawa blast at United States policy in Viet Nam showed that he is not always anxious to please. . ."

In other words Polyansky was indulging the old political game of playing off one against the other, attacking the United States and, by inference, whitewashing Canada and other countries which are not directly involved in the Viet Nam conflict.

External Affairs Minister Martin and other Government representatives who heard Mr. Polyansky did not take kindly to the Russian's comments, and the latter was left in no doubt about their attitude. However, the incident was the only sour note in an otherwise triumphal tour by Mr. Polyansky. Moreover, the decision to open a two-way air-link between Montreal and Moscow in the fall, and the existing sea link with Leningrad, give point to the friendly relations between the two countries.

Reports of the Polyansky visit have filtered through to Washington, and in a manner that is making the Americans sit up. A New York Times authority on Soviet affairs, Harry Schwartz, has been observing the trend. "Moscow," he notes, "has been forging new links with Ottawa, a capital Washington has tended too long to take for granted."

Note the latter observation about Ottawa. Never a truer word was spoken. Although Washington has its specialists on Canadian affairs, the fact is no one of any rank in the United States government has paid an official visit to Ottawa since the late President Kennedy was here following his inauguration.

And it may or may not be significant that the only other American of much note to come here in recent times was Senator Robert Kennedy, the late president's brother, and his visit was unofficial.

The Times article suggests the Canada-Soviet links could be a means of enhancing east-west relations generally, perhaps bringing Washington and Moscow closer together. On the other hand it warns that the Soviets may be interested in weakening Canada's ties with the United States.

One way or another, the result is that from now on Ottawa will not be taken so much for granted by our friends to the south. And that is all to the good.

Frankford Incident

Police work is challenging. It requires not only firmness but tact as well, and any force whose members can combine these two is entitled to the respect and support of the public it serves.

It is common knowledge, however, that dissident elements in any community can make the policeman's lot difficult. The smaller the community, moreover, the greater is his responsibility and the delicacy of his position in fulfilling the task of maintaining law and order.

Chief William Hockley of Frankford is a case in point. An officer of 21 years' experience, in London, England, and later with the RCAF in Canada, Chief Hockley has resigned as police chief of the community northwest of here. He says that his wife and family were made targets for abuse levelled by some residents of the village.

"I could take the abuse of certain village council members," said Chief Hockley, "but when my wife and family were subjected to cutting remarks and were the victims of acts committed by young hoodlums, I decided I had had enough and must resign."

The police chief says that sugar was put into the gas tank of his wife's car and the engine ruined. His wife has since left for England in a nervous state and may not return.

He claims that when first hired by council he was told to enforce the law. "Councillors told me to crack down on speeders and the hoodlum element. Later some councillors wanted special treatment for their friends. . ."

Chief Hockley has other complaints, but enough has been said here, and in our news columns earlier, to indicate that all is not well in Frankford. The chief's reasons for resigning have not been refuted. In fact Reeve Ray Moran is quoted as saying he has asked him to reconsider.

Described as "tough but fair," Chief Hockley does not sound like the kind of man who bends easily. But no man should tolerate abuse of his family. It may be only a few troublemakers are involved, but the fact that his wife's health was affected by the "war of nerves" is a reflection on the village as a whole.

The police, in big cities as well as small communities, are entitled to respect. So too is the law they are called upon to enforce. This story from Frankford is contrary to the tenets of fair play in relations between the police and the public.

Varsity Men And Politics

Lethbridge Herald

Signs are that university professors are becoming increasingly interested in taking an active part in politics. Dr. Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, is well aware of this and has laid down regulations on arrangements for political candidacy by members of the university staff.

There is no question that some university personnel are especially well qualified to make a contribution to public life and should be encouraged to do so. They will no doubt be grateful to the university for making their way clear by assuring them that their future in the university will not be jeopardized forever by such participation.

Strictly Personal

On Family Relationships

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is nearly impossible to describe someone we are particularly close to, or especially fond of. It simply cannot be done without sounding vague, mawkish and insipid.

When a friend asked me what one of my daughters was like, I suddenly became banal and tongue-tied, mumbling something like 'Nice girl . . . tall for nine . . . swims like a fish . . . good kid. . ."

But if we are asked about someone we dislike or resent, the words come tumbling through our mouths almost faster than the brain can form them. We know (or think we know) exactly why certain personalities offend us; we are mostly in the dark about the magic chemistry that produces not only love but a sense of closeness and companionship.

This odd disparity is not limited to our feelings about people: it includes things and activities as well. Though I have little interest in it myself, I know that the average fisherman, for instance, achieves a deep spiritual satisfaction from his sport, which has little to do with the number or size of fish he has caught.

Yet no fisherman (even Walton) can adequately put into words his feeling of "wholeness' or serenity while fishing, and the reasons usually given are the most obvious, trivial and lame. This stammering man, however, can explain with voluble accuracy why he despises golf, or bridge, or driving a car.

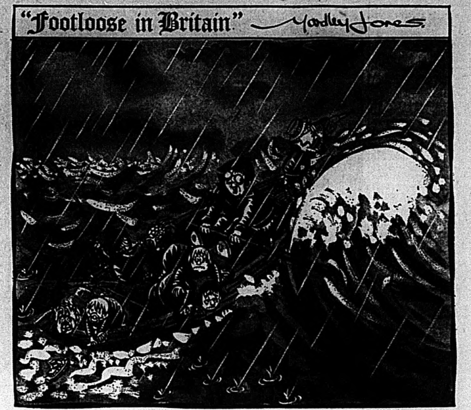
Positive emotion cannot really be verbalized — which is why so many millions of bad love-poems and love-songs are perpetrated year after year. With the utmost sincerity (and even with considerable talent) we become mawkish babblers when trying to convey such feelings.

It is no accident that almost every young writer begins his career with comedy and satire and scorn and malicious wit directed against society. Even Shakespeare began this way; the plays in which profound love dominates came much later in his career, and it took the summit of his genius to carry them off successfully.

And the reason, of course, that the villain in a play generally seems more credible than the hero is that the author finds it easier to express a character he dislikes than one he approves of — even great writers have difficulty making their heroes seem "real.'

Music is a deeper art than literature precisely because it embraces a wider range of human feelings. the right movement of a Mozart concerto might make you feel what my daughter is like, but I can only tell you that she is tall for her age and swims like a fish.

seems more credible than the



"Well, look at it this way, hon — if we're as far as you say from Llanfairechen Pier, we can't be all THAT far from Canada . . ."

Schools in Vacation Time

Brantford Expositor

All over Canada thousands of schools will stay closed from now to September. Even during the school year most of them are open less than eight hours in a day, and in a 365-day year they operate for only about 180 days.

If a longer school year is not the solution to their under-use, and there are strong arguments that it is not, critics could in future be rendered less vocal by a new approach to school building. Why not build at least some school with a branch of the public library and the school library combined, with a swimming pool open to the neighborhood (this has been done in Hamilton) and with rooms where civic societies can meet?

Plan them so as to be usable for schooling in the daytime and as community centres for other activities in the vacations. In this way there would be a better return for the capital invested in them, a saving on separate facilities and benefit to the whole community.

To Your Good Health

No Drug for Hepatitis And It Can Come Back

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a virus of the liver, or hepatitis. I am on a diet eliminating greasy foods, but the doctor said that medication would not be of much help.

How long does hepatitis last? What foods should be eliminated? Is there a chance of having the virus more than once? Will there be damage to the liver? — H. M.

Your doctor is perfectly right. Viral hapatitis (liver infection caused by virus) can't be cured by medication; we do not have a type which will attack such a virus. Discovery of drugs which would combat viruses the way antibiotics combat bacteria would be a vastly important step forward. And don't think the research people aren't avidly seeking such drugs! However, we don't have any such now.

Viral hepatitis is one of the self-limited diseases. The body gradually over-comes the virus, just as it overcomes other virus infections,, viral pneumonia, flu, colds, but it takes time. An attack may last a month or two, with gradual recovery.

Your doctor has already given you the essential diet consideration: go easy on fats, fried foods, greasy foods. This is to relieve the burden on the liver which manufactures juices which are necessary for digesting fats.

Yes, there is the possibility of repeated attacks, because the first one does not confer immunity. Since each attack will leave some residual damage to the liver, every effort should be made to avoid further ones.

The principal source of this type of hepatitis is from contaminated food or drink, or from polluted water. Leaking sewage lines, especially if seepage gets into the basement, can be a real risk. I have in mind a dilapidated apartment house which had bathroom leaks. A dozen or so cases of hepatitis broke out in that one building.

If you know or strongly suspect that you have been exposed, gamma globulin can be given and it is an effective preventive. However, it must be given early after exposure. It gives little continuing protection, and does not act like a vaccine. It just boosts your resistance to the disease at the time of exposure.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible at my age (34) to have dizzy spells and hot flashes? I have them often, my doctor only tell me, "You're getting old."—Miss J. L.

Yes, it's possible — since you have them. But dismissing it with age as an explanation is no answer. Menopause is possible but extremely rare at that age, and in any event treatment to ease the symptoms is possible. I recommend a competent medical examination to eliminate other possibilities — anemia, faulty nutrition, inadequate rest or glandular disorders.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 16 and plan to have plastic surgery on my nose. What age would you recommend? Also how can I get a good surgeon? We just moved here recently and do not have a family doctor. — J. J.

There is no critical age for this. By the time you finish high school you no doubt will have a family physician, and he would be the ideal person to refer you to a suitable surgeon. In turn, the surgeon can guide you as to whether, for any reason, a particular time would be best for you.

A Big Week For Oarsmen

St. Catharines Standard

It is a well - known fact that for most St. Catharines residents, Henley Week is only a time - worn title for the final week of every July. But for hundreds of young oarsmen and scullers, this is the magic week which has been their target for months and sometimes years.

The first trickle of some 700 young competitors began during the weekend. They come from as far south as Mexico City for this 84th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, the national rowing championships which have been held here annually sice 1903. Others are from as far west as Vancouver, as far east as Dartmouth and from all over the eastern and midwestern United States.

This week's Henley has an added spice since five of the 40 finals in the four days of competition along the Old Welland Canal here will double as trials for crews hoping to earn a berth on Canada's team for the World Rowing Championships at Bled, Yugoslavia, in September. It's rowing's own Olympics and to carry one's national colors into the event is the highest honor any young oarsman can earn.

This year's regatta also marks the first time a Henley has been rowed over the revamped St. Catharines course. The waterway has been deepened to international standards and by next year will be equipped with all the complicated facilities required for world rowing. Then comes the First North American Rowing Championships Canadian Centennial Regatta in August of 1967.

Curb on Sick Phone Calls

Financial Post

Few events can match the shock and horror of an unexpected telephone voice threatening violence or spewing out a stream of obscenity. It is a sick and sickening practice which has been spreading at an alarming rate throughout North America.

Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, following the example of U. S. telephone companies, has decided it will no longer tolerate this misuse of its equipment. This week it begins fighting back.

Batteries of specialists in all Bell centres are now trained to work closely with subscribers in tracking down problem callers. New and sophisticated tracing equipment, details of which the company keeps guarded, is being tested to quickly join the search for the origin of calls. Security personnell will press the attack, and enlist the aid of police and other law enforcement bodies when necessary. Bell will urge other Canadian telephone companies to help check this evil across the nation.

This is a costly and complicated business. And its success in large part will rest on the willingness of subscribers to answer questions and produce leads.

But there is much to be gained from such co - operation. No one is really immune from this kind of attack. People who resort to this type of call now feel they are safe from detection.

Bell's campaign can by no means quiet the psychopathic mind or alter the vindictive nature of such callers. But it can impress on some of them that a telephone is no longer the guaranteed mechanism to carry out their clandestine abuse.

Integration--Shades of 1984

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Are the Canadian forces going to jettison the Queen?

The famous initials "HMCS" have quietly disappeared from what used to be naval shore stations. Are they going to be scrapped off the ships, too?

They have been "Her Majesty's Canadian Ships" (or "His Majesty's") ever since the navy was started with two secondhand cruisers in 1910.

There is nothing particularly attractive about "CFB" (for "Canadian Forces Base") which now is used for shore installations of all arms as the integration of forces proceeds. We vastly preferred the sound of "Camp Gagetown" to the stern new "Base Gagetown" and "Station Chatham" is more uplifting, perhaps, than "Base Chatham," which might be interpreted as a reproach from an old-time melodrama: "Base villain — unhand that girl!"

And we liked the quaint naval tradition of referring to shore stations as ships, as in the case of former HMCS Brunswicker in Saint John.

Maybe there isn't room for such romanticism in our integrated forces — but those ships are still Her Majesty's Canadian Ships, in the public mind and by precise legal fact, too, and there seems to be no need to change that designation.

Integration or no, it remains precisely accurate. And it is deeply woven into the sensibilities and memories of this nation.

The Queen has disappeared from our mail boxes and a great many other places she used to appear regularly. Let's not trifle with HMCS.

India's Antiquated Methods

Edmonton Journal

Here's a tale rather like a Canadian version of "The Ugly American."

When a delegation of Alberta farmers was in India earlier this year, they concluded Indian food production could be substantially increased (perhaps by a startling 50 per cent) if:

(1) Indian peasant farmers used steel moldboard plows instead of wooden ones; and

(2) Indian oxen had conventional Western harness instead of yokes.

On their return, they got in touch with External Aid officers in Ottawa who said:

(1) The farmers' idea is "imaginative"; and

(2) They should get in touch with somebody in India.

External Aid detachment notwithstanding the farmers now are encouraging the 500 locals of the Alberta Farmers' Union to collect $25 each.

Somehow, they hope to get the money to India where, for $18 each, Indian - made steel plows can be purchased.

They hope, somehow, to get those plows out to Indian farmers who need them — farmers who, for generations, have been turning the same single furrow over and over because their wooden plows are too weak to turn fresh furrows.

Ater that, maybe something can be done about the harness — with which the oxen can turn more furrows more easily.

If the Alberta farmers are right — and we have no doubt that, basically, they are — why should this down-to-earth help await the success of their bingos, raffles, turkey-shoots and the rest?

The money Canada is putting into such esoteric aid as nuclear reactors would buy a line of steel moldboard plows stretching the length of India, with harness to match.

50 YEARS AGO

July 29th, 1916

Yesterday afternoon the 155th Battalion which was recruited in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties received its colors which the members of the Argyll Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire of this city donated. The battalion arrived in the morning by special train from Kingston for the happy event. For several weeks the battallion has been in training at Barriefield Camp. At two o'clock in the afternoon the battalion, which is about 1,000 men strong, was lined up on the armouries' lawn under the command of Lieut.-Col. Adams of Picton, who is deservedly a popular officer. Following the singing of one verse of "'Onward Christian Soldiers" the colors were dedicated by Captain the Rev. Thomas Dodds, the chaplain of the battalion. At the conclusion of this part of the ceremony, Col. Putman and Major A. P. Allen came forward and knelt to receive the colors which were presented by Mrs. George Wallbridge, first vice president of the Argyll Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire. Following the presentation a beautifully worded address was read by Mrs. S. W. Vermilyea, the Regent of the chapter.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Uraniums were the only bright spot in light morning trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The tempo of the market was slow and by 11 a.m. only 497,000 shares had been traded compared with 828,000 at the same time Thursday.

Denison paced the uranium group, climbing ⅛ to 64⅛. The stock moved up ⅛ Thursday. Roman Corp., which holds a large block of Denison shares, added ¼ at 16 and Rio Algom also gained ¼ to 26⅝.

Banks turned lower after two days of moderate gains. Montreal fell ¾ to 57, Nova Scotia and Royal ¼ each to 67¼ and 70¾ while Toronto - Dominion advanced ¼ to 60½ and Imperial-Commerce ⅛ to 60⅛.

Among industrials, Levy lost ¼ to 18½, Abitibi ⅛ to 10⅝ while Alcan moved up ¼ to 33¾.

On index, industrials were off .15 to 158.29, golds .40 to 187.76, western oils .03 to 102.15 and the TSE .10 to 151.18. Base metals were up .45 to 98.09.

The market was in the doldrums Thursday, with prices easing in most sections in mild profit taking.

Volume remained on the light side. A total of 2,648,000 shares changed hands compared with 2,687,000 Wednesday.

Alcan paced the decline, falling 1⅜ to 33½ on 16,250 shares. The stock rose ⅛ Wednesday. Maclean-Hunter was down 1 to 34. Toronto Iron Works gained 1 to 31¼.

Uraniums, which have been highlighting recent base-metal activity, were mixed. Denison increased ⅛ to 64 while Roman Corp., which holds a large block of Denison shares, fell ¼ to 15.

Silver Eureka slid 29 cents to 1.80 in speculative mines after it jumped 54 cents Wednesday.

On index, industrials were down .16 to 158.44 and the TSE .09 to 151.28. Golds were up 1.33 to 188.16, base metals .04 to 97.64 and western oils .78 to 102.18.

Restrictive Taxes Likely For Cable TV

HAMILTON (CP) — Restrictive tax measures may have to be used to ease the impact of cable television systems on regular broadcasting outlets, a government spokesman said Thursday.

Community antenna systems bringing U.S. programs to points in Canada are not upsetting by themselves, John Munro, parliamentary secretary to Citizenship Minister Marchand, told the Hamilton East Kiwanis club.

The only problem so far connected with this, is the loss of advertising to American outlets than might otherwise go to Canadian channels.

"However, this problem is no different from that of Canadian advertising in American magazines and can be approached in the same way, namely through restrictive tax measures."

He said there is no way to deny Canadians the right to watch U.S. television channels, but the government should take steps to ensure Canadian ownership and control of the cable firms that are having an increasing effect on broadcasting.

Early Bird Gets $2 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early Bird, the switchboard satellite 22,300 miles above the Atlantic, rang up revenues totalling $2,107,000 for telephone calls, television relays and other services in the first six months of 1966, the Communications Satellite Corp. reported Thursday.

The activities brought total Early Bird revenues, since the satellite started operating commercially June 28, 1965, to $4,472,000, COMSAT said.

The 1965 total was swollen by management fees from the COMSAT international consortium retroactive for 14 months, while the 1966 figure embraces such fees for only six months, a spokesman explained. Canada is a member of the consortium.

Milking Stool Presented To Admiral

HALIFAX (CP) — Rear-Admiral William Landymore has been presented with a milking stool following his dismissal as Canada's sea operations chief.

The stool was presented to the admiral at a formal dinner given him by about 100 lieutenant - commanders Thursday night at the CFB Stadacona wardroom.

The admiral has taken up farming on a full-time basis since his dismissal earlier this month by Defence Minister Hellyer following a dispute over the proposed unification of the armed forces.

Airline Strike Effect Small In Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of Air Canada and Canadian Pacific Airlines Ltd. say the airline strike in the United States is having little effect on Canadian air traffic.

"If anything the strike is costing us passengers on our long-haul routes," said L. E. Sawyer, Toronto press representative for Air Canada. "Passengers can't get from the U.S. deep south to Canadian gateway cities to board our aircraft."

A spokesman for CPA said Thursday the company has only one transcontinental flight daily and this is booked up until Aug. 3. He said the company's international flights are not filled to capacity.

Mr. Sawyer said Air Canada's short-haul routes to New York, Chicago and Cleveland are carrying normal passenger loads for this time of year.

"We're getting maximum use from our equipment, but if we had additional aircraft, I don't think we could use them," he said.

The International Association of Machinists has been on strike against United Air Lines, Trans World Airlines, Eastern Airlines Inc. and Northwest Airlines since July 8.

That's how White Satin is. Still made to Sir Robert Burnett's original 1770 London Dry formula; still exactly as dry and satin-smooth today as it ever was. After all, when great taste can keep a gin famous for generations on both sides of the ocean—we wouldn't dream of changing it. What we have done, though, is change the White Satin bottle. MR. AND MRS. MALCOLM G. SINE

Sine – Baker

College Hill United Church was the setting on Saturday July 23, 1966, when Marjorie Isobel Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Baker, Belleville was united in marriage to Mr. Malcolm Gary Sine, Oshawa, son of Mr. Malcolm Sine and Mrs. Elizabeth Sine of Belleville. The minister of the church Rev. Roy E. Vessey officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. L. Blakely was organist; also played accompaniment for Mr. Robert Burke who sang appropriate selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of peau de faille with embroidered French appliques on the bodice and the bell shaped sleeves. A detachable train fell from the fitted waistline. Her shoulder-length veil of net illusion was held by a matching rosette of peau de faille and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, stephanotis and greenery.

Mrs. James Sine as matron of honor wore a turquoise crystalette floor-length gown with a matching headdress and carried a nosegay of white carnations and 'mums tinted to match her dress. The bridesmaid Miss Carolyn Pegg and junior bridesmaid Miss Fern Baker were identically attired to the matron of honor.

The groomsman was Mr. James Sine and ushers were Mr. Allan McNaught and Mr. Donald Ridsdill.

At the reception held in College Hill United Church hall the bride's mother received the guests wearing a blue silk dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a beige dress with an overlay of white lace, beige accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to the East Coast the bride travelled in a white arnel two-piece suit, black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Sine will reside at 1221 Simcoe Street, Oshawa.

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony so a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

Pictures may be submitted by your photographer up to three days after the wedding. We cannot publish wedding write-ups submitted later than six days after the date of the ceremony.

Accounts of showers and entertainments in honor of the bride do not belong with the wedding write-up, but should be sent in immediately after they are held, for publication separately.

Playgirl Mother Has Her Roles Mixed Up

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hesitate to write this letter because my wife will call you a crazy nut if you side with me. She feels that anyone who doesn't agree with her is a candidate for the bughouse.

ANN LANDERS

At breakfast this morning my wife wore a flimsy, low-cut housecoat. When she stooped over to pour the coffee I held my breath. Our 17-year-old son was having breakfast with us and although his nose was buried in the newspapers he didn't miss anything.

I took my wife aside and suggested that maybe she ought to wear her heavy linen robe or her gingham wrapper at the breakfast table when the boy is around. She yelled, "That kid sees girlie magazines, French movies and Lord knows what else. What's the difference?"

I replied, "The difference is that you are his mother. "My wife called me a kook and locked herself in her room for three hours. Tonight she isn't saying much. What is your opinion? Am I wrong? — POPPA.

DEAR POPPA: No, you are not wrong. A boy does not think of his mother in the same way that he thinks of the playmate of the month. Obviously your wife fancies herself in that role, which makes her the kook, not you.

I vote for the linen housecoat or the gingham wrapper, and you can tell her I said so. Then she can be mad at both of us.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My "problem" may sound like a lot of nonsense, but it does bother me terribly. I am at the end of my rope with a certain friend who is a lint-picker.

Whenever I see Nell (faked name) she brushes my shoulders with her hand as if I had dandruff, or she picks a thread or a piece of lint off my collar. All this is done in a friendly and solicitous manner but she makes me feel like a slob. Nobody else does this to me and I'd like to know how to get her to stop it. — RATTLED HATTIE.

DEAR RATTLED: Lint-pickers are likely to be nervous types who can't think of anything to say so they busy themselves at the expense of others. The next time Nell goes into her act ask, "Do I need brushing?" She'll get the picture. If she's a little slow, keep repeating the question and eventually you'll get through to her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a friend who drops by often with her 12-year-old daughter, Sara. This mother has a hot temper and I really can't stand much more of it. She is not mean to me, but she is brutal to her daughter.

When Sara says something that displeases her, the mother slaps her across the face, pulls her hair, or punches her. I get very upset and have told my husband. He says to keep my mouth closed that it's not my place to tell a mother how to treat her child. I value your advice and I will follow it. — SORRY FOR THE CHILD.

DEAR SORRY: Your husband is right — up to a point. You cannot tell a mother how to treat her child, but you can let her know how you feel about it.

Telephone this woman at a time when Sara is not likely to be around. Tell her you can no longer bear to see her abuse the girl and either she leaves the girl at home when she comes to your house, or she treats her like a human being. Suggest to her, too, that it might be wise to get some outside counselling. Her doctor can guide her.

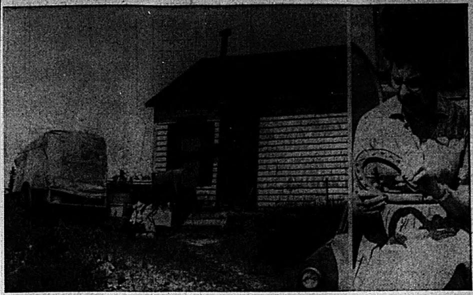
ISTHMUS TWISTS

The Isthmus of Panama twists in such a manner that the eastern end of the Canal is at the Pacific and the western end touches the Atlantic.



STORY IS STILL SECRET — Vivian Larsen lives in this little house on the outskirts of Moncton, N.B., nursing hopes for a best-selling novel and movie about the 4,500-mile trek she made across North America in a 13-foot covered wagon still parked beside her home. Mrs. Larsen and her daughter made the trip behind Bob, a former milk delivery horse, seven years ago. Now she is selling Bob's shoes for money to keep her going. Mrs. Larsen had a secret that she wanted to promote with Walt Disney, but he displayed little interest. She keeps the secret and says it will die with her if she can't publish her own book.

Moncton Widow Recalls Trek Across Continent

By DOVE HARKNESS
Canadian Press Correspondent

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Vivian Larsen, the nomadic widow whose 4,500-mile trek from here to Hollywood received a cold shoulder from Walt Disney and stirred up a heated controversy at home, still keeps her secret almost seven years after she set out in a horse-drawn covered wagon.

Now she nurses her hopes for a best-selling novel and movie in a cramped, dilapidated two-room dwelling on the outskirts of Moncton. In failing health and unable to find employment, Mrs. Larsen is living on welfare payments.

The 56-year-old widow left the city July 24, 1959, with her daughter Sandra in a 13-foot covered wagon pulled by a former milk delivery horse called Bob.

Sandra, who was 13 when the great journey began, now is serving with the navy in Halifax, while Bob is enjoying retirement on a farm, probably unaware that his exploits gave as much publicity to Moncton as its nearby Magnetic Hill.

EXPEDITION FAILED

The saga of the travelling Larsens drew attention throughout North America as Bob plodded westwards for 14 steady months. It also stirred up controversy in 1961, when the party ran out of money shortly after leaving Hollywood and a fund had to be raised to bring them back.

The papers were full of letters. Some condemned the whole expedition while others praised Mrs. Larsen "for showing us that the pioneer spirit that founded Canada is not entirely dead."

Mrs. Larsen recalled this in a recent interview. She had been criticized for taking Sandra out of school but says that the trip itself provided a wonderful education.

She had hoped movie-maker Walt Disney would be interested enough in her secret story to collaborate on a movie and perhaps a book that would finance Sandra's future schooling.

But he talked with them for only a few minutes in Hollywood and suggested Mrs. Larsen put her idea in writing.

Disney "seemed very nervous and apprehensive about our presence," she remembers. "He was surrounded by executives and lawyers and would not speak privately with us."

Although disappointed, she does not condemn him for his decision. She now thinks he turned them down for fear of legal implications.

Because Mrs. Larsen refused to reveal her secret, there were many rumors and speculations about her motives. She thinks Disney investigators warned their chief to be cautious.

STARTED BACK EAST

After Disney's dismissal, the Larsens started back again, Bob in the shafts of the wagon and $70 in their bankroll. When they reached Los Angeles a stable-owner took them in and persuaded them not to set out across the desert in winter.

There were many offers to make paid television appearances in Los Angeles, Mrs. Larsen remembers, but the Canadian consul said she could not earn money without the proper visa. Then the news got back to Moncton that she was stranded.

One New Brunswicker suggested a boycott on Disney movies. Another said Bob ranked with Black Beauty and the Lone Ranger's Silver and Disney ought to have filmed his life-story if not Mrs. Larsen's secret idea.

A less-friendly reaction was the complaint that the Larsen trek depicted New Brunswick as still in the horse-and-buggy age.

Now virtually shunned by the people of her home town, Mrs. Larsen enjoys recalling the "wonderful warm reception" strangers gave them along the journey.

"The people were just wonderful."

Her bitterest memory is of her own reception when they arrived back home in Moncton. Almost as many people turned out to greet Bob in his boxcar as to meet Mrs. Larsen and Sandra. There were no civic dinners or parades and except for "some kind-hearted people and the CNR officials who gave us passes" the Larsens might still be in Los Angeles.

She planned to write a book about the journey but ill health and lack of funds prevented this. Mrs. Larsen is also wary of offers to help her with the book for fear the idea would be stolen.

"I'll carry the secret to my grave if I am unable to publish it," she says.

Mrs. Larsen now spends most of her time sorting through more than 15,000 souvenirs of the great journey. She says she receives about $30 a month in welfare payments and is unable to find employment.

"People were friendly, but always had an excuse for not hiring me.'

Financial problems have prompted her to sell three of Bob's horseshoes. She is asking $3,000 each and feels the price would not be too high for some people interested in her travels.

Uniform Food Labels Discussed

OTTAWA (CP) — Establishment of a world-wide, uniform system of food labelling is being discussed in a five-day international meeting here which ends today.

The meeting of the food labelling committee of the United Nations—sponsored food code commission is attended by representatives of 11 countries.

Hosted by Canada, the countries are Australia, Belgium, Denmark, West Germany, Israel, Netherlands, Poland Switzerland, Britain and the United States.

The food code commission was set up in 1962 by the UN's Food and Agricultural Oganization and two years ago Canada took the responsibility for its food-labelling committee.

Objectives are strengthening of international trade in aw, semi-processed and processed foods, and promotion of fair trading practioes to ensure food supplies of acceptable quality and proper labelling.

IRON-ON DESIGNS

Dear Susanna: Without sewing, expense or bother, how would you like to transfer a colorful material design or monogram to the pocket or collar of your sports shirt or onto the corner of towels or plact mats?

As an example, let us say you wish to add a couple of flowers that you have cut out from a row of trimming, to the pocket of your new apron. Go about it this way.

Lay the apron out flat on your ironing board.

Place a patch of plastic slightly larger than the flowers right onto the pocket. Put the flowers on the plastic. Now lay an even larger piece of brown paper over all. Run a hot iron over the brown paper.

The design will stick to your apron, and the rest of the plastie will adhere to the brown paper.

This method can also be used for patches, and if it ever loosens, simply slip another piece of plastic under the spot or edge and do the same as before.

Two precautions: Be sure to always use the paper to prevent any plastic from getting onto your iron, and when using the thin plastic such as from cleaning bags, use it double. — Mrs. L. Phill.

If you have any hints for running a successful householld — or any problems, — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamp when requesting pamphlets.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION: My husband wants to pitch a tent by a small lake not very far from home and camp out for 3 weeks. We have two boys who are scouts and exicted over the idea. I would like to know what foods I can cook on a campfire. — Hazel N.

ANSWER: You can cook almost anything on the glowing coals of a campfire, Hazel. We are limited only by our imaginations.

Last weekend my secretary and her husband took their small daughter camping and cooked spareribs, herbed pork chops, potato burgers, corn on the cob, baked apples and potatoes. They even tried baking whole tomatoes because they were so encouraged with their powers.

FRIDAY Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Smoked Haddock Poached in Milk; Parsleyed New Potatoes; Buttered Zucchini; Cabbage Salad (see No. 1. Thurs.); Orange and Grapefruit Cup; Icebox Cookies; Tea.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS
(Serves 4 or 6)

NOTE: Before leaving home simmer 4 pounds spareribs for 45 minutes. Cut into serving portions. Chill and carry in portable cooler on ice, or parboil ribs at campsite. Dip in Barbecue Sauce: Mix together 1 cup catsup, ½ cup water, ½ cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon garlic salt, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons dry mustard. Dip ribs in sauce. Cover grill with foil, arrange ribs on it and cook about 6" from hit coals for 20 minutes, turning frequently and basting sparingly with sauce. Heat leftover sauce to pass when ribs are served.

HERBED PORK CHOPS
(Serves 4)

Mix together ½ to 1 teaspoon rubbed sage, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon black pepper. Rub this seasoning mixture into both surfaces of four thick loin or rib pork chops (1¼ to 1½" thick). Spread a sheet of heavy duty foil on rack on barbecue and arrange chops on it. Cook until rich gold on both sides, turning 2 or 3 times. Pork chops should be cooked through. Serve with —

BARBECUED BAKED APPLES (Serves 4)

4 baking apples
4 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
4 teaspoons butter
4 slices lemon

Core apples. Make 4 slits down sides to split skin to within ½" of bottom to speed up cooking time. Mix together the sugar, cinnamon and butter and fill centres with this mixture. Top with slices of lemon. Wrap each snugly in double foil. Place on sides, directly on coals, for 20 to 25 minutes, rolling them over ¼ turn every 5 minutes until they have had one full turn. Serve with pork chops above or for dessert.

CORN ON THE COB

Brush freshly husked cobs of corn with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Wrap in double foil. Place directly on glowing coals, rolling the cobs over a little until each has had a full turn. Time depends on tenderness of corn — some young corn requires only 10 minutes. More mature corn might need 20 minutes. NOTE: Please see column dated Thursday, August 4th for Potato Burgers.

COINED PHRASE

The phrase "the white man's Burden" was coined by Rudyard Kipling in a poem of 1899.

BANGS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE . . . Many styling experts insist that the shorter the hair, the more reason to wear bangs. Actress Deborah Walley illustrates styling variety available because of that sweep of hair across the forehead.

Sweeping Short Bangs Soften and Contour Hair

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

The shorter the hair, the more reason to wear bangs. This is the opinion of a group of styling experts, who insist that a sweep of hair across the forehead not only softens a clipped coiffure, but contours facial structure and camouflages a jagged hairline. They also point out that there is greater styling variation, for tresses can be worn slanted, tumbled and layered, or long, loose and brow-touching, as actress Deborah Walley illustrates. The latter look — a happy substitute for those straight, stringy strands of last season — features another innovation. Bangs are combed forward from the crown, so there is no unsightly part with scalp peeking through.

Another popular variation calls for gentle waves at the crown, a bright bandeau across the front, and a scatter of straight bangs over the forehead. Don't be deceived by the casual appearance of this style; it is the result of a strategic "arch cut." Bangs are snipped so they curve upwards at the temples, dip lower at the centre of the brow. Although such contouring should be done by a professional, if a touch-up trim is necessary, cut hair wet, pull it taut while scissoring, and snip it one-inch longer than desired.

For those who like their "fringe" full and shapely, keep these set 'n' style tips in mind. Straight tresses should be set on a roller turned away from the hairline; then, when combed, strands will have extra body and bounce. Curly hair should be styled wet and taped in position. As a finishing touch, spray may be necessary. To keep spray on hair and off skin, here's a suggestion Deborah discovered while working on the MGM film, "Spinout." Slip a tissue between bangs and forehead, then spray away!

Family Reunions

HUBBLE CLAN

STIRLING — The 17th annual reunion of the Hubble clan was held on Sunday in Frankford Community Hall with 52 members of the family and four visitors in attendance.

During the day relatives were in attendance from Windsor, Islington, Amherstview, Belleville, Marmora, Stirling, Harold, Stockdale, Wooler, Glen Ross and Carmel.

Previous to the dinner the president Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave the invocation and extended a welcome to all. The collection which amounted to $12.25 was used to pay for hall rental, five adult prizes, 20 gifts for the children and postage on invitations. Mr. and Mrs. Tony Aide purchased and wrapped the gifts and Mrs. Clifford Hubble assisted in the distribution. Mrs. Arthur Pyear presided for a piano musical.

PRIZES GIVEN

A number of prizes were given and these included: largest family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hubble and five children, Carmel; family who travelled the farthest that day, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Hubble, Amherstview, Ontario, 70 miles; youngest married couple, two guests Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bowers, Belleville; oldest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hubble, married almost 59 years; oldest person in attendance, Ernest Hubble, born in 1885.

The president opened the business portion with a period of silence for four deceased members, Mrs. Martin Donohoe, Walter Grass, Donald Edward Bates and Gregory Montgomery. An appropriate poem was read in their memory.

Mrs. MacMullen paid tribute to the late Lorne Hubble who was the founder of the Hubble reunion with the first gathering held at Presqu'ile in 1950.

Mrs. Russell Pyear read a message from Frank Hubbel of Huntsville who is ill in hospital. She also read the minutes and presented the financial statement which reveals a small bank balance.

Everett Hubble spoke briefly and presided over the election of officers when all of last year's officers were re-elected as follows: president Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Stirling R. R. 3; vice-president, Mr. Clinton Hubble, Amherstview; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Russell Pyear Belleville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Pyear, Frankford R. R. 3; prize committee, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Aide, Stirling R. R. 4.

The 1967 reunion will be held in the same place, the fourth Sunday in July.

The president gave a brief history and said the reunion was in honor of the pioneer Nehemiah Hubble who came to Hubble Hill in 1794 and hewed a home out of the wilderness. Eighty-five years later Rueben Hubble donated land for the free burial of the United Empire Loyalists and this is known as Hubble Hill Pioneer Cemetery. She gave a descriptive account of the work accomplished and paid tribute to the five men who have given their services for several years in the upkeep of this cemetery.

A discussion period followed and Clifford Hubble the treasurer was authorized to invest the money in a bank at Belleville and the interest to be used for special needs as they occur.

About 4:30 p.m. the group dispersed following a most enjoyable get - together.

Designer Will Quit Paris Group

PARIS (Reuters) — Jacques Heim announced Wednesday he has offered his resignation as a member of the Paris Syndicate of High Fashion Designers following a dispute over his release of advance fashion photographs to a Paris newspaper.

Heim said he intended to become an independent house after the "four greats"—Christian Dior, Yves St. Laurent, Givenchy and Balenciaga—protested formally to Heim over the release of the photographs to the paper Figaro.

The question of the release date of sketches and photographs of models crops up regularly during the Paris fashion season.

The fashion syndicate has never clearly defined the difference between a tendency sketch and a detailed drawing, and a general photograph and a close-up picture that might furnish sufficient information to permit copying.

Last week the French newspaper published a photograph of a new Heim model taken in designer Jean Pommurede's studio.

St. Laurent protested the photo showed a silhouette which was similar to the theme of his new collecton, which will be shown in Paris next week.

St. Laurent's protest was backed by the other three.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Sunday School Lesson

Remember Seventh Day

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Two men went fishing on Sunday. One confessed to a twinge of conscience because he had not gone to church. The other responded, "I could not have gone to church today anyhow. My wife is sick."

Society today is sick, and one symptom of this sickness is the wide-spread disregard of the Jewish Sabbath or the Christian Sunday. Many people are so busy making a living, they never stop to ask why they are alive. They are so preoccupied with work, they never stop too worship. They are so tied up to the physical and material sides of life, they have lost sight of the importance of the spiritual side.

Following the French revolution, the new leaders decided to grant only one day in 10 for rest and recreation. But the experiment didn't work. People became so dissatissfied that after 12 years the nation returned to the Biblican plan of one day in seven. (Exodus 20:8-9) This was not only Biblical, it proved to be psychologically sound. Experience has shown the value of setting aside one day in seven as a day in which to rethink life in terms of God's truth and power.

NEED PRAYER BREAK

If the Sabbath was important in ancient times, how much more it is needed today when millions of people live cooped up in cities and offices away from the recuperative influences of nature, and when life is lived at such a dizzy pace, people can hardly get through the day without at least one coffee break. Soometimes a prayer break would do more good. In selecting objects to represent life today to put in a time capsule, a group in Kalamazoo, Michigan, included aspirin and chewing gum, mute evidences of the helps people need to relieve the tensions of our time.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 31: "Remember The Lord's Day," Exodus 20:8-11; Isaiah 1:10-17, Luke 6:6-11 Mark 2:23 through 3:6; John 5:16-18.

A hymn calls Sunday a "day of rest and gladness." For many it has become a day of rush and madness. Shifts in population, the growth of cities, the speed of modern cars, dual highways, tempt thousands to spend their weekends travelling. Instead of what a poet has called a "neither- toil - nor - spin" day, Sunday has become a bumper-to-bumper traffic day as thousands seek to escape the heat and confinement of the city for the cool open spaces of the country.

So many people on Long Island spend their weekends at the beach, one church now holds its worship services on Thursday evening, and is attracting its largest congregations in years.

NOT AS HELP TO PREACHERS

The Jewish Sabbath and the Christian Sunday are not just devices to give rabbis and clergymen something to do. The need for such a day goes deeper than that. It is a reminder that "man shall not live by bread alone," but by the truth that comes from God (Matthew 4:4)

It is a protest against the complete commercialization of life. Life is more than getting and spending. The prophet Amos spoke of the age-old conflict between greed and goldiness when he denounced those who could hardly wait till the Sabbath was over to get back to the business of making money. (Amos 8:5)

Only a fool would say money is not necessary, but some things are more so. Money cannot buy forgiveness, or prevent death. It cannot buy security for life after death. Only faith in God can give such assurance. A person who spends all his time pursuing material things can hardly have much spiritual capital at death. The rich fool in the Bible said, "Soul you have ample goods laid up for many years." (Luke 12:19 RSV) But he was wrong. He hadn't thought about his soul, only about his stomach, and at death that would cease to function.

RENEWAL, NOT REPRESSION

One day in seven is meant for renewal, not repression. Often in the past Sunday was made so much a day of repression, it created resentment rather than reverence. Today, people have gone to the other extreme. Almost anything goes on Sunday.

Ancients hemmed the Sabbath in with so many restrictions they over did it. It became impossible to do good on the Sabbath. This is why Jesus took issue with the religious leaders.. (Mark 2:27) His quarrel was not with the fourth commandment. The Sabbath found Him regularly in synagogue. (Luke 4:16) But He refused to let the Sabbath become a straightjacket that prevented Him from helping others on that day.

For the Jew, the Sabbath is a witness to God the Creator. (Exodus 20:8-11) To the Christian, Sunday is a witness to a risen Lord. (Matthew 28:1) To all, it is a reminder that men aren't sufficient without God. (II Cor. 3:5).

Yves Pratte, the government-appointed mediator in the negotiations, saw the premier Thursday. The hospital association has a total membership of 139 institutions.

Employees at 18 hospitals for the mentally and chronically ill continued Thursday to disregard court orders issued Tuesday directing them to end their strike.

Premier Johnson said late Thursday provincial police had been told to make sure that patients wanting to enter or leave the 18 hospitals were not interfered with. The hospitals are considered to be the areas where the situation is most serious.

The injunctions, granted under the Quebec Labor Code, place an 80-day moratorium on strikes at the hospitals affected. However, pickets continued to be present at all the hospitals.

Earlier, Mr. Johnson said an emergency session of the legislature might be called if the strike was not settled soon.

of criticism by senior Royal Canadian Navy officers.

"It was proposed to cut the forces by 10,000 men and save $1,000,000. Well, we've since lost 17,000 men and the last two budgets show nc sign of saving. So where's the economy?"

No one could argue against the original plan—integration of headquarters, reduction of brass—but a single fighting force was ridiculous.

Air Marshal Clare Annis, closely involved in the preliminary work on integrating the services until his retirement two months ago, said the defence minister has set himself an impossible task.

"It seems that having struck an attitude, he (Mr. Hellyer) now finds himself frozen in it," the former chief of technical services said in a separate interview.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

By the law of averages, even the most astute professionals at times make poor real estate investments. The question is often asked, "what does one do when he finds he has made a poor investment?" This rather embarrassing question requires a frank answer.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I bought a 12-unit apartment. Within a month I knew I had made a mistake. The actual operating expenses were higher than anticipated. Worse yet, the building needed considerable repairs. Instead of showing a profit, my investments will be a losing proposition. I should have investigated and not acted on impulse.

Surely, I am not the first person who has ever made a bad investment in real estate. I'm sure you know of many similar situations. What do real estate professionals do when they make poor investments? — Mr. B. R.

ANSWER: Poor investments by professionals are not uncommon. As a rule, however, they make fewer mistakes. The question calls for a frank reply. The answer below gives a common method used in disposing of poor investments without passing judgment on the ethical or moral issues involved.

The first step is to hold the property for a reasonable time, usually a year or longer. During this period, statements that the property is an excellent investment will be spread around. After that, it is offered in the market at a substantial profit. Among the reasons given is that the owner is ill, has other business interests, or something similar.

The property is held for at least a year or more because re-offering a property immediately after purchase will make buyers suspicious. Even though it is a poor investment, the new asking price can't represent a loss . . . it must contain a profit. It has been found that buyers show great interest in properties whose prices keep going up and up. Offering a property at a loss has found to be an excellent way of killing interest in almost all potential buyers.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Last year I received in the mail a beautiful, colored brochure offering one-acre lots with stately trees in a park-like setting for $4,900. I bought!

During my vacation this year, I visited my lot and found an old lava bed in an inaccessible, barren wilderness. I contacted a realtor in the nearest town and asked him to sell it. He informed me that the land was worthless and would bring less than the cost of preparing a deed. I have been defrauded! Whom do I go after and how? — Mr. D.G.

ANSWER: The above is published because it is typical of a continuous volume of complaints. In this case I personally checked and found that the selling company is no longer in existence, with no trace of any of its officers. There is no one to go after. Even if there were, the chances of recovery are extremely remote. The best advice I can offer at this late date is for you and others in a similar situation to forward their complaints to the postal authorities. At least it may prevent others from being taken.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: After years of working as a salesman, I'm taking the plunge of establishing my own businss. I'm looking to rent an attractive office.

The prestige office building in our town asks that I sign a five-year lease. I have figured out that if something were to suddenly happen to me, the five-years rent my estate or I would be required to pay would about take all my money. This would leave my wife almost penniless. How do I provide for this contingency? — Mr. D. D.

ANSWER: Your worries can be resolved if you will insist that your contract contain a clause, cancelling your lease, in the event of your death or disability. I admit that this type of clause is almost never contained in the printed form, but some times is inserted when the leasee insists. Now is the time to negotiate, not when your widow may be trying to effect a settlement.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: This question may be out of season, but I have an unusual heating problem. I moved into a new house last November, and it was warm as toast. As the winter wore on, the house kept getting colder and colder, and the fuel bills higher and higher. By March we were all wearing sweaters.

I had the heating system checked twice and each time was told that everything was functioning fine. I don't want my family to go through this coming winter wearing overcoats. — Mr. H. D.

ANSWER: The symptoms describe a cause so minor that it is often overloooked. Our reader's complaint is symptomatic of a dirt-clogged air filter which progressively is getting worse. Since little or no air can pass through a clogged filter, the amount of warm air being delivered is reduced. The result is inadequate heat in spite of a proper functioning heater. The trouble can be resolved if the filter is removed and cleaned, or better yet, if it is replaced with a new one.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: This may seem like an awful petty question but curiosity has gotten the better of me. We have just installed a new air conditioning system. Immediately, the salt in the shaker started flowing freely. Is this just a coincidence? — Mrs. C. H.

ANSWER: The free flowing salt is not a coincidence, but demonstrates an additional beneficial effect of air conditioning. Everybody knows that air conditioning cools the house, but few people realize it also lowers humidity. With low humidity comes free flowing salt,, furniture that doesn't stick, and disappearance of mildew.

washer at the Montreal General Hospital, "garbed in doctor's white coat and two aprons."

A top newspaper executive was reported seen mopping floors at another local hospital. His wife was said to be in on the same operation.

The professor - turned - dishwasher also rinses silverware in the Royal Vic's cafeteria and, with teen-age help sees to it that the trays of dirty dishes get to the cleaning machine intact.

LEARN QUICKLY

The business of food preparation also draws on the adult volunteers who are quick to learn such tricky techniques as how to sprinkle sugar on newly-baked cup cakes.

A much - celebrated chore is that of the "sanitation brigade." Pitching garbage into the hospital's incinerator requires plenty of vigor and this is where energetic teen-agers excel. They are helped by volunteers from other hospital departments.

The Royal Vic's nurses are not on strike and they have extended their daily tasks to include sweeping floors, helping with the laundry and other jobs.

Viet Nam Poisoning Relations Between East Europe and West

Eastern Europe wants closer ties with the Western world. But the war in Viet Nam is a major obstacle. John Best, Canadian Press correspondent in Moscow who visited Soviet bloc countries, describes how the Viet Nam situation is hampering relations.

By JOHN BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Viet Nam is poisoning relations between Communist Eastern Europe and the West at a time when great strides could be made in building understanding and further eroding the Iron Curtain.

"Viet Nam is the big obstacle to a detente," says an East bloc official sternly. "Make no mistake about that."

There is a general feeling that valuable time is being lost in cementing East-West relations, in getting them to a stage where fragile and uneasy coexistence would be replaced by genuine understanding and co-operation.

All the countries blame the United States for the Viet Nam war. But they do it with varying degrees of enthusiasm. Some, such as Bulgaria, do it vehemently, while others, such as Hungary, do it more in sorrow than in anger. Romania does it with a ho-hum attitude.

Hungary, Romania and Yugoslavia have dabbled in peace-making ventures but so far with no noticeable results.

Hungary acted as a neutral go-between for a while last year, passing on to Hanoi the views of Washington and to Washington the views of Hanoi. "But there was no common ground and the action ceased," sadly remarks a Hungarian official. "Both sides apparently wanted military victory."

SETS UP BARRIER

In one way, Viet Nam has ironically demonstrated how strong coexistence between East Europe and the West had become. Generally, there is a yearning for closer ties with the West. East bloc officials say these must already have become sound in order to withstand the shockwaves of the Viet Nam conflict.

And the point is made that this is a good augury for the future.

But there has been what one Western diplomat calls an "accumulation of protests" against American policy in Viet Nam, the total effect of which is a serious brake on the development of good East-West relations.

East European officials make the point that it is impossible for a Communist country to stand idly by, without at least raising its voice in protest, when another Communist country—in this case North Viet Nam—is under attack.

They are little impressed by the argument that South Viet Nam is also under attack from North Viet Nam. At least in discussions with outsiders, they tend to take the position that infiltration of Northern troops and supplies is an insignificant factor in the equation.

CHARGE AGGRESSION

Symbols of the protest movement are mass workers' meetings demanding an end to American "aggression" and public posters bearing sinister silhouettes of U.S. bombers dropping payloads on North Viet Nam.

Viet Nam is a source of constant strain in relations between East European officials and Western diplomats, whether at formal conferences or cocktail parties.

On a more practical level, it complicates negotiations for East-West cultural exchanges —one of the few areas in which East-West coexistence is still at all active—particularly those involving the U.S.

"I sympathize with Gen. Westmoreland," says a U.S. cultural attache ruefully, commenting on the headaches that Viet Nam has caused in his work, "but I've got my troubles right here."

Everywhere, people are wishing that the nasty business could be ended before irreparable damage is done to the cause of international tranquility.

So far, the East European countries have not committed themselves at least publicly to supply any particular amount of military equipment to North Viet Nam, though some are sending economic help and others medical assistance.

REACTION CAUTIOUS

Some Western observers suspect that the response might be stiffer but for the possibility it would damage improved trade and economic relations with the West, which the Eastern countries want desperately.

The East Europeans are keeping things in perspective, realizing as apparently Russia has done that their national interests are not directly affected by a war in the far-off land of Viet Nam, even if the war does involve a "fraternal country."

It is entirely possible that the generally moderate stand of the East Europeans has helped to condition Russia's own basically cautious response to a dangerous situation.

An interesting commentary on the conflicting priorities involved was provided when the North Vietnamese ambassador asked a high foreign affairs official of an East European country whether citizens of the country could not perhaps consume 10 per cent less meat, with the difference being sent to Viet Nam.

Relating this afterward, the official didn't say what he told the ambassador. But he made clear the nature of his response.

"How can we ask our workers to eat less meat?" he asked.

But the same official was insistent that only a halt to American bombing of North Viet Nam could lead to ending the war.

England Favored * * * * * * * * * * Portugal Beats Russia

400 Million Will Watch Cup Final

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP) — A world-wide television audience of 400,000,000 people is expected to see Saturday's World Cup soccer final between England and West Germany, the BBC said today.

The game, the climax of a three-week tournament involving 16 national teams will be shown live in 29 countries, including Canada, where the CBC and CTV will carry it.

Another 30 countries will see video - tape recordings of the match later.

The BBC also estimated an aggregate total of about 2,000,000,000 viewers have watched the games on television since the tournament began.

An estimated 10,000 West German fans have begun streaming into London waving black, red and gold flags and chanting "Uwe, Uwe." That's the name of the team captain, Uwe Seeler. He may miss the game, however, because of an injury suffered in a 2-1 semi-final win over Russia.

Bookies made England 4-to-7 odds-on favorite to win its first World Cup. West Germany, which won the trophy in 1954, caried odds of 11-to-8 against.

The Germans were hoping to get two inured players fit for the game. Goalkeeper Hans Tilkowski has a stiff shoulder and right back Horst Hottges has a sore ankle.

Meanwhile, Alf Ramsey, England's team manager, has to make the hardest decision of his life—whether to play inside forward Jimmy Greaves in the final.

DIDN'T SCORE

The little Cockney of Tottenham Hotspur is rated one of the world's greatest goal - grabbers. But in the first three games of the World Cup tournament, he didn't score once.

Then he injured his knee. Ramsey brought in Geoff Hurst as replacement, and England clicked into its best form for years, defeating Portugal 2-1 in a thrilling semi-final match.

Now Greaves is fit again.

Both England and West Germany are expected to announce their lineups tonight.

Eusebio, the Mozambique-born star of Portugal, Thursday night scored his ninth goal and made himself practically sure of a prize of £1,000.

Portugal defeated Russia 2-1 at London's Wembley Stadium in a playoff for third place. It was a tame match and even the great Eusebio was subdued.

But he slammed home a penalty shot and kept up his fantastic scoring record.

Eusebio was cramped by Valery Voronin, the strong-tackling Russian, in Thursday's match. The game was disappointing for the 70,000 crowd, who had hoped to see Eusebio score more than a mere penalty - shot goal.

With two minutes to go, and an extra half hour of play on apparent certainty, lanky Jose Torres scored the winning goal.

SPORTS SLICES

And up cometh Civic Holiday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday with not a dam thing to do other than loaf, "blacksnake" at the cottage, golf, sail, bowl, fish, watch football and minor sports or go out and get killed on the highways.

I'm going to pass up the last item because I concur with William Henry Drummond who wrote "You'll never get drowned in Lac Pierre, as long as you stay on the shore."

If the weather man is caught with his breezes down and temperature up, it should be the greatest Civic Holiday respite from labor in years.

The city canyons will be left to swelter in their own juices while fun and rest-seeking crowds seek the cooling solace of resort, camp, cottage and public park.

In the city two great outstanding sports events will hold the holiday spotlight. The Old Lady of the Moira and her immediate environs will be the converging point for Ontario's finest in the realm of golf and lawn bowling.

Upwards of 450 golfers, professional and amateur will test the "deceivingly tough" 6,820-yards course of the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Some 130 of the cream of Ontario lawn bowlers will vie for the handsome Corbin Gold Trophy and other valuable awards on the velvety greens of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club.

The Old Lady of the Moira may have some tarnished gems in her sports tiara but two of the brightest stones are the facilities and hospitality readily available to visiting stars of golf and lawn bowling. The yacht club and power squadron can also take a bow.

The Lawn Bowling Club is hailing its 24th holding of its famous Corbin Gold Trophy Tournament, one of the best on the calendar of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association. Incidentally ex-mayor Gerald Hyde is the current president of the PLBA.

No more direct appreciation of the tournament and the city club is seen in the fact "they always come back," a deserved tribute to an outstanding tournament and its city sponsors.

The Bay of Quinte Country Club's three-day Festival of Golf scored a direct hit with participating pros and amateurs in its inaugural three years ago.

The club's 1964 president George O'Brien and his directorate and committee laid a solid foundation of success despite detractor opinion to the contrary. Club pro George Balazs was a prime factor in bringing some forty of Ontario's best professionals here.

The "word got around." Visiting golfers were impressed with the course, facilities and hospitality. Last year's Festival was another outstanding triumph from all points of view.

This year club president Don Lamb, Mr. Balazs and their committees have arranged what is, beyond the shadow of a doubt, the best Festival yet.

Nearly 400 amateur golfers from Calgary to Quebec will tee off in four tournaments starting tomorrow.

A professional entry of 59 including the top players of the province go to the tee Monday afternoon. Included are such scintillating stars of the fairways such as Moe Norman, winner of three 1966 provincial opens; Bill Breen, Ken Duggan, Gord DeLaat, Gus Maue, Wilf Homenuik, Bob Panasiuk, Bob Breen, Andy Bathgate and Vic Hadfield of the National Hockey League, Phil Brownlee, Alvie Thompson, Jack Kay, Leon DeCaire, and many others.

Club president Don Lamb said that all indications point to the best Festival since its inauguration three years ago.

"The original idea was to give Belleville golfers something special over the holiday weekend — and it has proven a success," he said.

"We hope to even better former Festivals because we believe that in attracting so many people from other districts it gives the club and Belleville a decided boost.

"Record entry lists in all tournaments are definite indications of the popularity of the Festival," the president said.

"The directors cordially invite the public to attend the event and watch some of Ontario's best golfers in tournament action."

Norman Tops Millar Field By 4

TORONTO (CP) — Moe Norman of Barrie, Ont., shot a four - under - par 67 Thursday to take a four - stroke lead going into the third round of the Millar Trophy golf tournament today.

Playing over the Markland Woods Golf Club, Norman shot his round during a downpour that lasted more than an hour.

His 67, added to an opening-round 68, gave him a four-stroke lead over touring professional George Knudson of Toronto and Jimmy Hendricks of Markham, Ont. Knudson shot a one-under-par 70 and Henricks a 71 for 139 totals.

Frank Whibley of Kitchener, Ont., had a 72, good for fourth place at 140, followed by Gerry Proulx, 53-year-old pro from St. Eutache, Que., who added a 70 to remain one under at 141 for the 36 holes.

BALDING CARDS 73

Proux is one up on a threesome tied at 142. Gary Maue of Toronto had a 69 while Jack Kay shot a 72 and Al Balding of Toronto a 73 for their 142 totals.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg added a 74 Thursday to his opening - round 71 for a three-way tie for ninth place with Bob Breen of Toronto and Harry McIlree of Burlington. All have two - round totals of 145.

The morning downpour left the course flooded in some spots and three tees were almost completely covered with water. The rain stopped and the sun came out in the afternoon as the 146 competitors finished play.

CFL Players Association Recognized

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Football Players Association has won its 14-month struggle for recognition by the Canadian Football League and now is working out details for its pension plan.

"We're not sure of the type of pension plan we'll have but it could become operational this year,' 'the association's president, Gary Schreider announced Thusday.

Key to the plan, and the association's recognition, is agreement by the CFL to match individual player contributions to a maximum of $300 a year. This will cost each team $9,600 a year if all players participate.

This will make a maximum of $600 a player for a starter. The association hopes to arrange an annual all-star game to boost the total.

The pension plan was the main demand made by the players when they formed the association in May, 1965, and until now provided the main stumbling block to negotiations with the league and team owners.

Clay Given Thirty Days; Time to Pay

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cassius Clay was sentenced to 30 days in jail Thursday when he did not appear in court or post $50,000 alimony bond, but Judge Harold B. Spaet gave him a chance to purge himself of contempt of court.

Judge Spaet gave the world heavyweight boxing champion 30 days to come up with the money.

Edward Jocko, a lawyer who said he was acting as a liaison between Clay and his Louisville sponsoring group, testified that Clay didn't have the money but would have it in 30 days.

34 Rinks Vie For Corbin Gold Trophy

Thirty two of the best foursomes in Ontario lawn bowling circles will compete for the Corbin gold trophy and the three other gold trophies in the twenty fourth renewal of this annual tournament on the greens of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club on Civic Holiday, with opening ceremonies scheduled for 10:30 a.m.

The bowlers will be officially welcomed to the city by Mayor Jack Ellis and to the area by Lee Grills M.P. and club president, Bill Wright, will extend the greetings of the members of the host club, following which the traditional "Spider" will be held with a suitable award to the winner.

The Corbin Gold Trophy is the principal prize being competed for with the Lord Calvert Gold Trophy, the Belle Cleaners Gold Trophy and the Gordon Watkin Memorial Gold Trophy being the second, third and fourth awards.

In the 23 previous years of this competition, the Corbin trophy has been won by a Kingston rink skipped by Dick Edney on four occasions. Mr. Edney's team has also won the second ranking Calvert trophy on two occasions and the third ranking Belle Cleaners trophy in two other years, a record unmatched by any of the other entries in this best one day men's rink tournament held in Eastern Ontario. This team will be back to try again this year for a third straight triumph.

Several other previous winners of the Corbin Trophy will be here again this year including entries skipped by Doug LaPorte of Prescott; Morley Galt of Kingston; Sam McMillan of Oshawa; Dick Adams of Whitby and Jim Watkin of London. Last year's winners of the Calvert Trophy, a rink from Port Credit skipped by Aubrey Pope, and the Toronto Balmy Beach team which won the Gordon Watkin Memorial Trophy, skipped by D. Tossell, will also be here to defend their laurels.

Much interest in lawn bowling circles this year will centre on the First World Bowls championships to be held in Kyeemagh, N.S.W. in Australia from October 10-23. Five man teams representing Australia, United States, Canada, Fiji, Hong Kong, Jersey, Kenya, New Zealand, Papau, Rhodesia, South Africa, England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales and Japan will be competing under the auspices of the Australian Bowls Council on behalf of the International Bowling Board. The team selected to represent Canada includes John Henderson (Captain) of Montreal, Joe Dorsh of Waterloo, Ray Reidel of Waterloo, Karl Beacom of Toronto, and Sandy Houston of Vancouver.

All of these players have been consistent winners of major lawn bowling events and all have competed in Canadian championships on several occasions. The first four will be there in Belleville on Monday to participate in this tournament.

A reception will be held at the Hotel Quinte on Sunday evening.

By limiting the entry list to one full draw this year, it will mean that the tournament can be conducted in a more leisurely fashion.

The public is cordially invited to attend. The host Belleville club will have 8 entries in the tournament skipped by Bill Wright, Percy Graham, Orlo Smith, Ab Wonnacott, Austin Watkin, Walter Elliott, Bruce Miller and Jerry Hyde.

The members of the Ladies Lawn Bowling Club, under the direction of President Lil Mascaro, will be serving light lunches throughout the day in the clubhouse and a hospitality room will be available between games at an adjoining fairgrounds building.

TV-Radio Column

Sex Trend in Commercials Deplored by MC John Daly

John Daly, in addition to his chores as host of What's My Line? is a veteran broadcast journalist and news executive. Here he sets down some opinions and observations of the U.S. television scene.

By JOHN DALY
(For CYNTHIA LOWRY)

NEW YORK (AP)—I am exceedingly loath to join the host of television critics. But, as a long-time trend spotter, I cannot refrain from noting a new drift that is creeping insidiously onto the airways.

It is a lenience designed to accommodate (or reflect) the new freedoms. It is opening the doors to a type of material that even a few years ago would have been consigned to the waste basket in the office of continuity acceptance, TV's self-censors.

It starts with the voluptuary on the bearskin rug and will end heaven knows where. At present a large number of performers in one-minute commercials spend substantial time discussing the desirability and frequency of the most intimate personal relationship between the sexes. The remainder archly insist they were only referring to the product of the sponsor.

There are other examples, some of them too unprintable to print. Not many. But they are there, blue as the night club joke and suggestive as perfume ads in the slick magazines. When the leer is fully commercialized, who can doubt that the direct statement is far behind.

We have not yet arrived at the explicit on American television, but a beginning is being made and the theatre has already demonstrated that from small four - letter words, big splotches of pure vulgarity grow.

I'm a nine-letter word man, myself. Tarnation, for instance, as in "what in tarnation goes on here?"

What's My Line? will have color in September and the lighting engineers tell me I will have to discard the bow tie I have worn on the program for 10 years. In color, they say, the hole worn in the knot will show.

Daily Grind Brought Money, Misery to Ames Brothers

By GENE HANSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ever feel like chucking the old daily grind for other work you think you'd really like? Who hasn't?

Ed Ames, who made the switch, advises:

"You can't do it capriciously. But many a man must ask himself, 'am I only to make a steady income and be miserable—or do what I really want to do and face up to the challenge of life!'"

Six years ago Ames was lead singer with The Ames Brothers quartet. For 10 years they'd toured the top night spots. Their record sales totalled 25,000,000. Ed, then 30, had an income of $100,000 a year, a wife, three children — and misery in his heart.

"It wasn't a good life," he says now. "We lived within four walls, never saw our wives and children. I felt my whole life was being frittered away, that I wasn't doing what God meant me to do."

"When I broached it to my wife, she said, 'I know how miserable you've been. The best thing is to do what your instinct tells you. We were poor when we started. If necessary we'll start all over again.'"

The Ames Brothers' last stand as a foursome was at Las Vegas' Sahara Hotel—at $12,500 a week. The three remaining brothers played out two years' bookings.

LIKED THEATRE

"I was interested in the theatre," Ed says. "In a theatre, even with nobody there, I get a lump in my throat."

Ed made it as an actor, starting at $40 a week off Broadway, after a year of job-hunting and drama study in which he got down to his last $200 savings.

"It was a struggle but it was like a catharsis," he says. "I'm a much happier, more balanced individual."

The setting for this conversation was as incongruous as one could find—the sparkling public dining room of The Assistance League. Young girls entering for a children's fashion show clutched their mother's hands as Ames strode in—a six-foot-four figure in beaded buckskins and chest-length black braids as a Cherokee Indian.

Ed co-stars as Fess Parker's Indian pal Mingo on the Daniel Boone television series. With his TV salary, fairs, rodeos, concerts and occasional recordings like Try To Remember, he says, his income is bigger than ever.

He says his brothers, too, had wearied of the road. Joe is in real estate, Gene in furniture and Vic in the restaurant business in New Jersey. Vic plays occasional club dates as singer-comedian.

Leafs Nip Braves 2-1, Suns Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dave Vineyard, virtually unknown when he went to the mound against Toledo Thursday night, won't be forgotten by the Mud Hens for awhile.

The 205-pound right-hander hurled a no-hit 1-0 victory for Rochester and brought the Red Wings within a game of International League leading Columbus Jets.

Vineyad's unimpressive record was 0-4 for last season and 5-6 going into Thursday's game. He struck out six and walked four.

The Red Wings had defeated the Hens 3-2 in the opening game of a doubleheader.

Elsewhere, Buffalo Bisons edged Jacksonville Suns 4-3, Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Richmond Braves 2-1 in 11 innings, and Columbus edged Syracuse Chiefs 2-1.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

By BOB BLAIND

Bass fishing is finally coming into the best time of the year for good catches.

Many nice ones taken on live minnows at Point Traverse in Lake Ontario.

West and East Lake are also producing very good catches mostly on live bait.

Moira Lake still is tops in pickerel with the best fish being caught on minnows.

Algonquin Park is the top spot for Lake Trout at the present time Cache, Source, and Opeongo yielding very good limits of Greys. These are being caught on Williams and Dominion 77's.

Consecon Lake and Wellers Bay now giving up some very nice pike. A large 6 inch minnow is giving best results.

Hundreds of young boys and girls are fishing in the Quinte area every day, catching crappies, mudcats, sunfish and perch. These young fry are enjoying themselves, in the river, at the Government Dock and the Belleville Harbor.

These kiddies are using all kinds of tackle from old sticks to the best outfits money can buy.

A nice family picnic and outing can be had at "Lake on the Mountain" near the Glenora Ferry.

This area has lots of shade trees, picnic tables and picnic area. The lake itself is crystal clear and you can see hundreds of perch, sunfish and rockfish swimming along the shore line.

The fishing for the children is fantastic, but if you are taking the whole family I would suggest you take just a couple of rods and reels and about 6 dozen worms, because just two fishing will give you all the running around you can take, baiting hooks, untangling lines and taking fish off.

Some of the small fish, in this lake, are tagged, for experimental work, by the Department of Lands and Forests at the Glenora Hatchery. If you are lucky enough to catch one of these tagged fish, take it to the hatchery and you will receive a one dollar bill.

My 2½ year old son was one of the lucky ones this week and now he has taken over as the best fisherman in the family.

England To Play In Montreal

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Simpson, president of the Canadian Soccer Association, says England will play in a Little World Cup tournament in Montreal next May as part of Canada's centennial celebrations.

Simpson said in an interview Wednesday night he had been assured by Denis Fellows, secretary of the English Football Association, that England, finalist Saturday against West Germany in London in the World Cup, has agreed to play at Expo 67 in Montreal.

450 Golfers Set Festival Record

Norman Heads Pros.

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The greatest galaxy of golfers ever to tread the Bay of Quinte Country Club course will highlight the Third Annual Festival of Golf over the holiday weekend.

Upwards of 450 amateur and pro golfers, an alltime record will tee off in the four scheduled tournaments during the three-day Festival fiesta.

Headed by colorful Moe Norman, winner of three 1966 provincial opens, 59 top Ontario professionals will provide the feature attraction on Monday.

Tomorrow morning 144 golfers will tee off the opening B (8-15 handicap) and D (15-30) tournament. Sunday 86 couples vie for Mixed Tournament honors starting 9 a.m.

On Monday at 8:30 a.m. 75 entries will go in the "A" Flight (7-under). In the afternoon the pros take over.

TOP PROS HERE

Norman heads a brilliant array of professionals including Wilf Homenuik of Calgary, Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Alvie Thompson of Whitevale, Leon DeCaire of Oakdale, Jack Kay of Rosedale, Phil Brownlee of Toronto, Gord DeLaat of Weston, Gus Maaue, Jr., of Bolton, Ken Duggan, Bob and Bill Breen and many others.

Andy Bathgate and Vic Hadfield of the National Hockey League are entered. Incidentally Norman Bathgate and host pro George Balazs will play in one threesome.

Eighteen Bay of Quinte golfers have entered the "A" Flight which has attracted the top golfers of a dozen district golf clubs. Entries are here from London, Montreal, Toronto, Bolton, Maitland - Goderich and other distant country clubs.

The high handicappers playing in the B and D tournament hail from many parts of the district and Ontario.

Entries from faraway places will shoot for the Mixed Tournament honors. Couples are here from Calgary Alberta, Toronto, Chaudiere, Westview, Lambton and Cedarbrae while from Perth comes Johnny Mowatt former well - known Belleville baseball pitcher and Mrs. Mowatt.

George Balazs has had little time from arduous Festival organizational duties to keep his "shooting eye" in proper trim.

"I'm up against Norman and Bathgate on Monday" he said, "so I'll need some practice rounds to keep up my end." Incidentally, he shot a 222 score tying for tenth place in the recent Ontario Open.

He has done a fine job organizing the Festival with the help of a committee consisting of Abe Tobe, Jack Glover, Bill Gregory and Dan Cowley.

Supervising the B. and D. Tournament is Bob Strachan, Doug Bennett and Bob Melbourne.

Club president Don Lamb and his directors round out the all-round Festival committee and are enthusiastic over the success of the affair.

"Everything is in order" he said "and all we need is the cooperation of the weatherman". The president's official statement can be found in the sports column.

The general public is invited to attend the Festival. There is no charge of admission. Parking and the clubhouse facilities are availble to spectators free.

The course dubbed "deceivingly tough" by OGA officials last year will be more so for the 1966 Festival it is expected."

"The hot dry weather has raised hob with it," says George Balazs. "The club's watering system cannot cope with the situation. All I can say is the course will be as good as can be expected under the circumstances."

MEMO TO MEMBERS

Members and guests not competing in Festival play are advised they may not use the tee before the draws on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. They may play after each draw is completed. President Lamb and his directors ask full co-operation in this respect.

Bob Dean, Cornwall Country Club pro who won the festival championship last year with a sparkling three-under-par 68, is not entered in this year's tournament. Nor is Gary Bowerman, formely of this city and now of Toronto.

Directors feel that the record entry list of some 450 golfers is a definite indication of the general popularity of the Festival.

Said one, "In my business a satisfied customer is always one that comes back again." The club pro said that those of his fairways counterparts he contacted showed no hesitancy. "We'll come if we can." The answer a 59-list entry.

Now, it appears everything is in the hands of the weather man.

LIONS SELL ROOKIES

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference Thursday announced the sale of rookie ends Len Frketich and Mel Profit to Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Conference.

Minor Baseball Results

DeMille Construction walloped Little Oven Bakery 14-3 behind the three-hit pitching of Tom Coughlin, in a BMBA tyke tilt last night.

Coughlin struck out 10 for the winners, and also led his team at the plate with two home runs, a double and a single.

Andy Ricketts had two doubles and two singles for Demille, Crawford slammed a pair of base hits, and Yott and Kirby one each. Venutti stroked two doubles and a single.

Rick Bell hurled for the Bakery, fanning eight.

Need for Instructors Stressed At Sports Organization Meet

DESERONTO — The Deseronto Sports Organization has been growing slowly but steadily ever since it was brought into being, almost spontaneously, by a handful of youths, the middle of June. They have been granted the use of the Lions Hall for their activities, and have been meeting there informally almost every evening that the hall is not being used for another purpose.

Lack of equipment and of instructors has hampered them but both these handicaps may soon be overcome. So far they have been concentrating on weight lifting, using equipment belonging to a member, and on volley ball. Many are interested in boxing and gloves have been purchased but have not yet arrived. Mats seem to be the prime need now.

At a business meeting Wednesday in the Town Hall, motions were passed authorizing the purchase of a punching bag and two head guards. Purchasing mats was rejected because of the lack of funds. A number of sources will be investigated with a view to renting or borrowing these until such time as they can afford to purchase them.

The boys also decided to hold a paper drive, and discussed holding a dance. Date and details were not decided, but the boys learned that Michael Paul and his group will donate their services to furnish the music for such a dance.

Arrangements were made to meet the following evening at Centennial Park to work to help clear away the small stones. The boys have already helped to set up the playground equipment donated by the Lions Club.

A donation of $50 from J. W. Spence, president of Canada Optical, was received. Councillor Marks had donated $25. on the evening the organization came into being, and the Lions Club contributed $50 soon afterwards.

D. W. Maddocks of Belleville had been listening to the proceedings with interest, and came up with some helpful suggestions. Mr. Maddocks is the district representative of the Community Program Division of the Department of Education. He told the boys of a number of places where used mats might be rented or borrowed or might even be donated, and offered to make some investigations personally, advising the boys to write to other addresses he gave them.

Mr. Maddocks complimented the boys on what they had already done, but said that they must have more instructors to make any progress, and gave advice on how these could be obtained or trained. He mentioned such sources of training as the Ontario Athletic Leadership Camp, attended by young people recommended through the schools, and the courses in swimming and water safety. He volunteered to have them visited this fall by a one-time professional boxer who is now the recreation director of a town in his district.

Mr. Maddocks explained why the government is now taking an active part in setting up recreation committees in all communities. With the rapid growth of automation, working hours are fewer, and leisure hours are increasing. People must be trained to make use of this leisure time, the government realizes.

After discussion, a meeting was arranged for August 19 in the Town Hall when the executive will meet with their advisory committee, of which Mr. Maddocks consented to be a member. The other members are Councillor Albert Marks, who assisted them at their organization meeting; Police Chief L. W. Thomlinson, and Mr. Spence who has actively supported junior athletics through the years.

The executive includes Danny Thomlinson, president; Arnold Marks, vice-president; and William Barnhardt, secretary-treasurer. Willard Brant is in charge of publicity, and Bob Punchard, sports organizer.

Mrs. L. Rankin Chosen County Dairy Princess

NAPANEE — Mrs. Lyall Rankin was chosen dairy Princess of Lennox and Addington County at the party on Clarence Baker's farm Wednesday evening. Runner-up was Donno Hogle, R. R. 8, Odessa.

The princess was born on a farm at Big Creek 20 years ago, and lived there until her marriage to Lyall Rankin, a farmer on the River Road. All her life she has taken an active part in farm work, and had helped with the milking. After she had demonstrated her skill in milking, Mrs. Rankin talked briefly on the changes in farm life in the county in the past 35 years, and particularly the revolution which has token place in the dairy industry.

Each of the four contestants was given $25 by the directors of the Lennox and Addington Unit of the Ontario Milk Board, and $5 from one of the banks. In addition, Mrs. Rankin was awarded a wrist watch, the gift of Mayhew Jewelers; a hair dryer, donated by the Hydro, and both she and the runner-up received a box of milk strainers fom the Napanee Distict Co-Operative.

Mrs. Hogle was given a radio, strainers and a wallet in addition to the cash prizes. Those who placed third and fourth received $5 each, donated by the Co-Op in addition to the other $25 and $5 gifts.

Over 500 people accepted the invitation received the previous morning along with the milk. Pitchers of milk, and plates of cheese from the Selby and Newburgh cheese factories, were constantly being offered to the crowd by members of the committee.

Hot Reds Turning Corner; Win 8 Of 10

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's third - string catcher has switched from morale booster to fence buster and the Reds are turning the corner in the National League scramble.

Jim Coker, a forgotten man in Cincinnati for two years, belted a grand - slam homer Thursday night as the Reds continued their upswing with a 7-5 victory over Chicago Cubs.

The Reds have won eight of their last 10 games and 10 of 16 since Dave Bristol replaced Don Heffner as manager two weeks ago after an 11-game losing streak toppled them into eighth place.

Coker, the club's No. 1 cheerleader and No. 3 receiver—behind John Edwards and Don Pavletich — since 1964, has caught in 10 games during the Reds' revival and has homered in two of the last three. He had only one home run before connecting Tuesday night against the Cubs and had hit just three for the Reds prior to this season.

"It's a good feeling when you come to the ball park knowing you have a chance to play," said the 29-year-old catcher, who appeared in 11 games last season and 24 the previous year.

KEPT SENSE OF HUMOR

Despite the inactivity, Coker never lost his enthusiasm or sense of humor. "Coker keeps everybody loose," says Bristol. "He says the right thing at the right time."

The streaking St. Louis Cardinals, led by bothitting Orlando Cepeda, outscored Atlanta Braves 7-5 in the only other scheduled National League game. The victory was St. Louis' fourth straight and 10th in 11 games.

Chicago White Sox edged Detroit Tigers 2-1 in the only American League action. Kansas City Athletics and Boston Red Sox were rained out.

Coker's bases - loaded blast off Curt Simmons capped a five-run explosion in the first inning. The Reds added two runs in the third when Tommy Helms doubled for his seventh consecutive hit and Deron Johnson cracked his 12th homer.

BANKS HOMERS

Ernie Banks hit a two-run homer for the Cubs, who have dropped six of their last seven while yielding 15 opposition homers.

Ontario Amateur

Weslock, Mossop Eliminated

By JIM VICKERS

TORONTO (CP)—Nick Weslock, six-time Ontario amateur winner, and Doug Mossop, 1966 Ontario Open champion, were eliminated Thursday in the third round of the Ontario amateur golf championship.

Weslock, from Port Credit, lost 1 up to Jim Neale of Burlington, a 33-year-old school teacher, while Mossop, from Toronto, was eliminated by Greg Patterson of Mount Hope 5 and 3.

Weslock took an early lead over Neale, going four up after seven holes but Neale carded five birdies in seven holes to go 1 up by the 15th.

Weslock won the 16th then halved the 17th to go into 18 all even.

Weslock, who has a decal on the top of his Arnold Palmer cast-off driver reading, "slow, stupid', didn't heed the advice and pushed his drive into a stand of spruce trees in the rough.

SACRIFICED SHOT

When his ball was found, Weslock had to sacrifice a shot to get back on the fairway. His second shot was less than 20 yards in front of Neale's drive which split the fairway all the way.

Both players put their next shots on the green, Neale about 18 feet from the pin and Weslock about 25, and when both two putted, Neale had eliminated Weslock with a par four.

Neale continued his winning ways in the afternoon round as he eliminated Russ Hunter of Chatham 5 and 3. Neale's best previous performance in the Ontario amateur was in 1952 when he was defeated 13 and 12 by Gerry Kesslering in the 36-hole final in Kingston.

Ontario Open champion Mossop also had trouble with his driver Thursday. Patterson was never behind Mossop and set a bristling pace which the Open winner couldn't match.

In the longest match of the day, Marty Mason of Toronto came from behind to defeat Paul Williams of Burlington on the 23rd hole.

Mason was two down on the 17th tee but won the 17th with a par 3 and the 18th with a par 4. Williams had a chance to close the match on the 16th green but missed a two-foot putt for a par which would have put him three up with two to go.

The other player to qualify for the semi-finals was Ken Doig of Seaforth who defeated Doug Robertson of Trenton 5 and 4.

The four semi-finalists tee off today at 8.30 a.m. with the final match starting at 1 p.m.

Neale will play Doig in the semi-final and Patterson will play Mason.

Hanover Turns Pace Into One-Horse Race

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Bret Hanover, so good he was barred from the betting, turned the $100,000 Empire Pace into a one - horse race as expected Thursday at Yonkers Raceway and became the leading money winning pacer of all time.

Veteran Frank Ervin took Richard Downing's four-year-old son of Adios-Brenna Hanover to the front after one-sixteenth of a mile and he stayed in front all the way while clocking 2:33 2-5 for the 1¼ miles.

The victory, Bret's 54th in 58 lifetime starts, was worth $55,000 and boosted his bank account to $760,352. He passed the record of $706,798 held by retired Henry T. Adios, but has a long way to go to match the record $885,095 by Su Mac Lad, a trotter.

Worried Wife Asks Where Money Goes

DEAR DORIS: Can you tell me how to start a budget plan?

My husband brings home $120.00 a week, we are buying a home, there are three children, eight, seven and three, but we find we are not saving as much as we should.

It seems there are always some things to pay such as taxes, oil, insurances, utilities, etc. I sure hope you can help us as you have helped others. — STILL HOPING.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR HOPING:

(a) Find out where the money goes.

1. Rule off a notebook with columns for food, house payments, fuel, clothing, utilities, et cetera. Don't forget the et cetra. Have a page for each month.

2. For three months, set down every last thing you've spent money on.

(b) Decide with your husband where you want it to go.

1. By reviewing the record, pick out the places where you can cut corners. Establish some priorities.

2. For three months, swear to stick with your new plan. This takes complete co-operation and confidence. None of that just-for-this-once-we'll-splurge nonsense.

I'm sending you a sheet of shopping hints; and would suggest you inquire at your bank for one of those charts which indicate percentage allotments.

(c) Take stock; repeat what succeeded, discard the failures. Make a long-term spending-and-saving program. The difference between success and failure is to have a dollar left over — on the right side of the ledger.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 30

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): You feel pull of family demands, responsbilities. Seek harmony. Otherwise, work is affected, And you lose face with friends, neighbors. Make this a day to achieve understanding.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Family reunions, messages, calls provide spice. Journey contemplated earlier could face delay. Be sure of why certain events transpire. Take nothing for granted now.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Emphasis on purchases, sales, commitments to mate or partner. You gain if persistent. If not, there is indecision which proves costly. Know this — act accordingly.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Restlessness dominates. You want to pull out of any rut. Now you can — but be sure you keep promises. Finish task so you see clearly. Future becomes brighter.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Emphasize basic needs. Be practical. You are facing a comparatively new situation. Realize this — give yourself time to adjust. Friend who is reckless should be ignored.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Wise decision necessary to avoid break in friendship. Follow conscience . . . practice golden rule. Then you gain allies instead of arousing resentment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Be sure of ground — then hold it! Means don't give up because of mere inconvenience. Stress versatility. Sense of humor also serves your purpose.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): See persons who can guide you . . ; but don't let pride stand in way of good advice. There is confusion. Forces appear scattered. Be aware of details. Then course straightens.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.. 22. — Dec. 21): If you are not wary. . financial upsets occur. Conserve resources. Make creative changes, decisions. Member of opposite sex due to offer constructive suggestion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Relations not apt to be harmonious if you press issue. Be especially considerate of mate, partner. Steer clear of legal controversies. Keynote harmony.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): If you look behind the scenes . . . you find what is sought. Tendency is to brood. Overcome it. You succeed only when slate is wiped clean. Forget bruised ego!

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Unnecessary journey could cause frayed nerves. Think before acting. Live up to potential, responsibilities. Older individual could offer benefit of wide experience.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are sensitive, a natural entertainer . . . possess much personal magnetism.

• • •

Meet Picton Tonight

Trudeaus Whip Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Trudeau Motors outlasted Ellis Juniors 11-7 in the slowest B. and D. softball game of the season at Alemite Park last night.

The victory boosted Trudeaus into a tie with Picton for second place and the two clubs clash in a sudden-death affair here tonight, at 8:30, to settle the second and third playoff positions.

The Motormen opened up a 10-3 lead after five frames in the free-hitting affair. The Juniors narrowed the gap, scoring three in the eighth, before the 10:30 curfew at the park halted play at the end of that inning.

Trudeaus took advantage of Junior pitching ace Bob Ethier's absence to comb young Bill Arthur and reliefer Carl Boomhower for 14 hits. Boomhower took over in the fifth, with the score 5-1. Each gave up seven hits and also split ten walks. Boomhower had six of seven strikeouts.

For Trudeaus' starter Bill Baldwin gave way to Bob Green in the bottom of the fifth. They divided 12 losers' safeties. Green had four strikeouts and Baldwin walked four.

Drake and Plane greeted Arthur with back - to - back doubles and Muirhead's sacrifice made it 2-0 to open the game. Two hits in the third netted one, another brace of doubles, walks and an error added two in the fourth while the losers' only reply in this period came on Barberstock's hit, an error and Chick's ground out.

Trudeaus met Boomhower with Baker's double, singles by Jeffs and Baldwin and Drake's two - run triple. Soule singled and scored on an error for the 10th. tally. Baker singled and rode home on Drake's safety for the final.

Boomhower doubled to plate two Junior runs in the fifth while a walk and three hits scored the eighth - frame trio.

Roger Drake had a perfect night at bat for Trudeaus, slamming a triple, two doubles and a single, walking twice, driving in three and scoring three.

Ralph Plane doubled twice, Bill Baldwin and John Baker had a double and single each, Larry Soule two hits, Pete Weston and Howard Jeffs the others.

Carl Boomhower starred in defeat with two doubles and two singles, good for three rbi. Bob Moon hit a double and single, Jerry St. Denis, Terry Wellsley, Jack Jury, Bill Barberstock, Bob Chick and Bill Arthur a safety each.

The eight innings took one hour and 52 minutes to play.

Lightfoots Shade S. Warner

Lightfoot Construction won a "must" game to keep the Commercial Softball standings tight last night, nipping Stewart Warner 5-4 with a lone marker in the sixth inning.

Whiting rapped a single and Dolan banged a double to plate him, snapping the 4-4 deadlock. Dolan's double took a bad bounce away from the fielder.

Lightfoots had led twice before, 1-0 and 4-3, while Stewart Warner had a 3-2 margin at one point in the evenly - played fixture.

George Young hurled eight-hit ball over the route for Lightfoots. He struck out two and walked a pair.

Junior Day started and Doug Ellis took over in the fifth for the losers. They also allowed eight hits. Ellis struck out five and walked none. Day whiffed one and walked two.

Both clubs played solid ball afield.

Les Hall slammed a long home run blast near the right field fence and also hit a single to spark the Lightfoots. Jack "Deacon" Whiting and Doug Rose collected two singles each, Don Dolan his game - winning double and Joe Clapp a single.

Keith Bertrim picked up three Stewart Warner safeties and Lyle Wannamaker had a pair. Rod Turner, John Trendall and Pat Glancey split the others.

Departmental Softball

Playoffs for the Departmental Softball League championship will get under way on Tuesday night, it was decided at a league meeting last night.

One postponed scheduled game remains to be played, between Fire Department and Public Works, and it has been called for Monday night. The two clubs are tied for third spot.

Monday's winner will open the "A" semi-finals against the first place City Hall team on Tuesday and the losers will go against the Intelliegncer in the other semi-final, starting Wednesday.

Semi-final series will be best of-five and finals will be best-of-seven. League president Al Rump is attempting to secure the use of another park, to go with Hillcrest School, for playoffs.

The team representatives last night requested that umpires in the playoffs rule with an iron hand. Profane language or unnecessary rough play will be curbed with player ejections, it was decided.

SMITHS SURVIVE

Some 21,280 blacksmiths still practise the craft in the United States—no one has yet invented a machine that can shoe a horse.

STAR IS HUGE

The star Epsilon Aurigae B is so vast that our solar system of the sun and the six planets as far out as Saturn could be accommodated in it.

Cementmen Coast Past Cheesemen

The Point Anne Cementmen may have first place all tied up in the Commercial Softball League standing but they are not taking it easy on the other clubs battling for playoff spots.

Black Diamond Cheese felt the Cementmen's sting last night, falling 11-3 at the Point.

The Cementmen won it in the first frame with a six-run burst and coasted to their 19th victory in 24 games. They have six left and are 12 points up on Stewart Warner.

Ron Maracle set the Cheesemen down on five hits, striking out nine and walking four.

Black Diamond's Sonny Holoway was touched for ten hits but much of the damage came from 13 walks and 11 errors. Holoway struck out five.

Denny Maher led the Point Anne hitters with three safeties including a double and triple. Jim Horwood had two hits, Ron Maracle a triple, Eric Maher a double, Mike Cook, Gerry Maher and Rick Rosebush a single each.

Sonny Holoway had a pair of the losers' hits, including a triple, while Jack Francis, Jack Douglas and Gene Francis bagged the others.

Minor Softball Results

In the semi-final playoffs of the BMSA peewee division, Cosy Grill Phillies whipped Barrett's Yankees 13-7. Al Travis was the winning pitcher.

The Phillies will now meet the winner of the Booth-Giant series for the city championship. The Giants hold a 1-0 edge in the best of three series.

EOBA Lions Finally Win

It took them a great part of the season but the Belleville Lions Club has at last come up with a victory against EOBA peewee competition. The Lions broke a season-long drought with a 4-1 triumph over Frankford.

On Sunday, Cobourg and the two Belleville EOBA entries, Holy Rosary and the Lions Club, will play a three game series to decide the eastern division winner. The winner of this series will meet the Western section's winner in the finals.

David Wood and Steve McDowell shared the pitching chore for Belleville. They gave up three hits and struck out eight.

B. MacAvley hurled for the losers, giving up five hits.

Belleville hitters were Dill Coughlin, Dave Wood, Stephen Burke, Mike Bell, Al Wood.

Ellis Bantams will play Cobourg at 3.00 p.m. on Saturday instead of against Oshawa as scheduled.

Vatican Seeks to Silence Guesses About Birth Control

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican has sought to silence journalistic guesswork about Pope Paul's forthcoming birth control decision.

It said Friday that no one knows what stand the pontiff will take on the issue.

At the same time, it echoed past statements by Pope Paul and his predecessor, Pope John, rejecting the view that all problems of the world's population explosion could be solved by birth control.

The Vatican's statements were included in a front-page editorial in the daily newspaper L'Osservatore Romano. They made clear that Vatican officials are unhappy over a torrent of recent press reports and speculation on changes the Pope may decree.

Pope Paul, in the seclusion of his summer residence at nearby Castel Gandolfo, now is studying the question of whether to alter the church's ban on contraception. His decision is generally expected to be announced by early fall.

One recent press report quoted unnamed Vatican sources as saying the Pope might allow married couples to use a contraceptive pill for up to two years after they have a child. Other reports have foreseen a decision revoking the church's ban altogether.

Colborne Man Fatally Hurt

COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—Barry McKenzie, owner of McKenzie Canners Ltd. died in nearby Cobourg hospital Friday after he was injured earlier in the day in a three vehicle accident. Colborne is about 30 miles west of Belleville.

Rules Corvair Design Is Safe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge ruled Friday that the Chevrolet Corvair automobile is not negligently designed.

Judge Bernard S. Jefferson of California Superior Court decided in favor of General Motors, Chevrolet's maker, in a $250,000 suit by the parents of a 16-year-old boy killed in a Corvair.

Two other suits against GM involving the Corvair have ended similarly. About 80 such suits are pending in California.

"The Corvair matches a standard of safety which does not create any unreasonable risk of harm to an average driver," the judge said.

'Concerned Canadians' to Fight Labor and Business Influence

REGINA (CP) — A Regina businessman says a new non-partisan organization has been established aimed at counteracting the political power of labor and large corporations.

Ralph J. Purdy said in an interview Friday that the organization, named the Congress of Concerned Canadians, was formed in Toronto earlier this week to "get politicians to govern on sound business and economic principles rather than on political expediency."

"Party loyalties today are taking precedence over the public good and welfare and it is our purpose to try and remedy this situation," said Mr. Purdy, one of nine men at the meeting.

He added the congress hopes to become a strong political force, not another political party.

Mr. Purdy said his group wants to organize businessmen, and white-collar and professional workers.

"We have been voiceless and unidentified. Although we constitute a large part of the electorate we have no influence politically because we have been unorganized."

Terming the congress moderate-right, Mr. Purdy, once an unsuccessful Social Credit candidate federally, said organizers hope to establish congress clubs in every riding in the country.

Included in the congress' guidelines, Mr. Purdy said, are an appeal for rejection of United States ownership of Canadian industry, opposition to Canadian trade-union affiliation with U.S. unions, a proposal to revise labor legislation and "a reduction in the size and power of the federal and provincial bureaucracies."

In Toronto Friday night, Mr. Cook said there would be no election of an executive until the organization has attracted a larger, cross-county following.

The meeting held in Toronto Wednesday was attended by Ottawa and Montreal businessmen, as well as Mr. Purdy and others from the West, he said.

"I suspect there are like-minded groups all across the country, and as soon as they hear about us we hope they will get in touch."

When asked if congress guidelines referring to rejection of United States ownership of Canadian industry meant support for former finance minister Walter Gordon's policies, Mr. Cook said some of Mr. Gordon's methods "are not too workable."

He said the congress would be more inclined to issue general statements of policy with regard to such matters rather than trying to get involved in "the specific legislation."

Greene Urges Wheat Price Be Protected

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Canadian Agriculture Minister John J. Greene proposed Friday that the world's wheat producing countries get together to protect wheat export prices.

But the Canadian minister cautioned that his conversations on the subject with Argentine Agriculture Minister Lorenzo Raggio will be informal, and "I have no instructions to negotiate this specific subject."

He said: "The association created by the European Common Market countries is defending the interests of its members as consumers of agricultural products. It would be proper for the big grain production countries, such as the United States, Argentina, Australia and Canada, to get together in order to secure better prices in the world market."

He said that for Argentina and Canada especially, "the world price of wheat is out of proportion with production costs."

Greene is here with several other foreign agriculture ministers at the invitation of the Argentine Rural Society, the country's leading farmers' association, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

Unification Opposition Inevitable

KINGSTON (CP)—Air Marshal F. R. Sharp, vice-chief of the Canadian Forces defence staff, says discontent in the ranks over unification was inevitable.

In an interview Friday after delivering the closing address at the Canadian Army Staff College at Fort Frontenac, he said the discontent arose because it took two years to sift the theory of integrating the three forces before it could be described to servicemen outside Ottawa.

"I think I would be very foolish to suggest there would or would not be opposition to it," he said, "but now we are able to get the people directly concerned involved in bringing about the changes and this will reduce resistance."

Asked about reports of low morale in the ranks, the air marsh said rumors had arisen from news that big changes were being made and few members of the services knew exactly what was going on.

Nun Suing Assistant For Libel

VICTORIA (CP)—Mother Cecilia Mary, 77-year-old nun and animal shelter operator, has issued a writ of libel against Dr. Bernadine Alexian and a Toronto ecumenical newspaper.

Mother Cecilia operates the Good Shepherd Animal Shelter at Mill Bay, about 25 miles north of here, and is president of the Good Shepherd Foundation. Dr. Alexian is vice-president of the foundation and chief assistant to Mother Cecilia.

The alleged libel is contained in an article about Mother Cecilia on the front page of the July issue of the CSP (Congregation of St. Paul) News and signed M. Alexian.

The masthead of the publication describes it as an ecumenical newspaper published on the authority of the spiritual head of old Roman Catholics, Most Rev. Guy F. Claude Hamel.

Lawyer Rodney Taylor, representing Mother Cecilia, said Friday "there is no indication when the libel suit will be heard, but the writ has been served on Dr. Alexian."

SPORT SLICES

"Give Fetlock Freddie the pole position, a couple of gads over the rump and he'll leave that bevy of bangtails so far behind they'll think they've a speck in their eye."

Not being a student of harness racing nor steeped in the vernacular of the sport that statement made by a grizzled punter several years ago made as much sense for me as the argument of two Tibetan monks yakking about their respective yaks.

In later years becoming "sadder, fatter" but no wiser, and fraternizing in a reportorial capacity with the camp followers of harness racing, I learned that the pole or number one post position was supposed to be the cream in the race coffee for the horse, the driver and the backers.

"Ah, what fools ye mortals be."

The pole horse, as they say in the racy set, is the Dan Patch which is number one at the left of the line of the front troop of leather cavalry, follows the shortest distance around the track by attaching himself to the fence, and is supposed to have the dollar sign on the remainder of the squadron.

When I learned this I barefooted my way to the track armed with the cookie-jar change and bet the bundle on a sad-looking charger named "Mournful Minnie" out of "Tearful Tessie" by "Weeping Willows". She, I had assured myself, had drawn the pole position.

When the bugles sounded the "charge" Minnie woke up with a start and decided to go on a fence-hugging search for her breakfast .She ambled to the first turn picking up splinters at every post. At the far turn she looked like a porcupine in hobbles.

Then the rest of the pack passed her so fast I thought she had turned and was on her way back. Then I knew why the driver had a lantern on the sulky.

He put it there to light his way to the stable after dark. Minnie, it seemed, was a nightmare in more ways than one. She had never forgotten her apprenticeship between the shafts of a milkwagon.

George Rutledge, the demon statistician of the Quinte Driving and Riding Club pointed out the fallacy of marrying finish positions with post positions.

"Why, we have grade three patrons of the pari-mutuels who know better than that."

"I have," George said, "a set of figures taken directly from the results of the first seven meets of the season, that prove beyond a doubt that the horse drawing the post position finished under the winner just nine times. It placed eight times and finished in the show spot eleven times."

During my junkets to the harness stables campuses where horsemen gather to talk shop, chew the rag along with wisps of hay, I noticed a number of the betting faithful gathered around the truck where positions were drawn and carefully noting them on paper.

"Why?" I asked George.

"The most of them are keen students of racing, who know, or think they know, their horses and who believe the position drawn has a lot to do with a winning ticket."

"And it has, at that," he said, "all depending on the horse. Drivers, too, can plan their driving strategy knowing their post positions."

"However," George went on, "as I said, figures don't lie. The top winning post position in the seven meets held here goes to the horse drawing Number Three with 13 victories, 11 places and seven shows."

The Number Two post position horse's had eight wins, 12 places and 11 shows. Number Four position horses came up with eleven wins, five places and seven shows.

Next best, George pointed out, was Number six with nine wins, nine shows and seven places. Number five position had 4-12-3; Number seven, 4-3-6; and Number eight 2-1-2.

Post positions may mean a lot to a lot of people, George said ,"but in the long run the horse and driver are the main factors."

Finals Today

St. Kitts Leads Regatta

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A smooth - stroking St. Catharines Rowing Club leads 29 other clubs as the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta swings into its final day of racing today.

After 12 finals Friday in the third day of competition of the 84th edition of the regatta, St. Catharines maintained its points lead with victories in the senior cox fours and junior pairs.

The host club entered today's finals with 147½ points to lead the Undine Boat Club of Philadelphia by 22½. New York Athletic Club was third spot with 87 points.

St. Catharines, regatta champions the last five years, also added two seconds and three thirds Friday. Undine completed its domination of junior 145 - pound events with victories in the eights and cox fours.

CAPTURES SINGLES

New York scored in the junior eights and took the association singles on the sculling of Dr. Richard Schwartz, a 27-year-old New York surgeon.

The Potomac boat Club of Washington, double winners Thursday, failed to score Friday and slipped to fourth place with 49 points while the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia was 3½ back in fifth.

The Brockville Rowing Club won the junior 135-pound four-oared final Friday and is in sixth position with 44 points.

In the biggest upset Friday's finals, St. Catharines scored a length decision over highly-favored Burnaby Lake Aquatic Association to win the senior cox four final.

Muhammad Ali Decisioned By Ali-Mony

LONDON (AP) — "Nothing bothers this gladiator."

Cassius Clay's manager, Angelo Dundee, made that comment Friday on reports from Miami that the world heavyweight champion was sentenced to a month in jail unless he pays alimony owed to his former wife within 30 days.

The champ himself had nothing to say about the court action in Miami, but Dundee told reporters:

"We understand that what they want is a $25,000 bond for future alimony and that will be put up from the purse from the fight with Brian London here next week

"This boy (Clay) is committed to pay $1,250 a month for the next 10 years."

Clay defends his heavyweight title against London at Earl's Court Stadium Aug. 6.

Brian Cousins and Laurie Burnett combined for a no-hitter in BMBA peewee play last night as they led Bad Boys to a 10-4 win over Sine Shell. They struck out six and walked seven in the six inning game.

Rick Meagher and Don McTaggart allowed four hits in defeat. They struck out eight.

Dan Coulson slammed a triple and Jack Ralph, Mike Bell and Rick Burnett hit singles for the winners.

HALFBACK ON WAIVERS

BUFFALO (AP) — Halfback Willie Ross, a two-year veteran with Buffalo Bills, was placed on waivers Friday by the American Football League champions. Ross, 25, of Chicago, is an outside speed-runner who played college football at Nebraska.

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Luis Aparicio is losing his personal battle, but he's helping Baltimore Orioles win the war.

Aparicio, overshadowed by Baltimore's power brigade of Robinson, Powell and Robinson, played his part again Friday night as the Orioles defeated Minnesota Twins 3-0 and took a 13½-game lead in the American League, biggest of the season.

Aparicio, 32, vowed before the season started that he would do his best to win back the stolen-base title he lost last year after winning it in his first nine years in the league.

The fleet shortstop really hasn't gotten started this year on his march toward regaining the stolen base crown. With just 60 games remaining, he has stolen 16 bases and trails six other speedsters, including Tommie Agee of Chicago White Sox, who leads with 29.

DO NOT NEED THEFTS

But the Orioles haven't needed the stolen base as a weapon in the drive toward their first pennant. They have so much power all they need is a few men to get on base.

And that's where Aparicio's value lies.

He had two hits against Minnesota, raising his season total to 116, fourth best in the league, and scored one run for a total of 71, a figure topped only by Frank Robinson, who lifted his total to 80 with his 31st home run.

Elsewhere in the league Kansas City Athletics defeated Detroit Tigers 4-1, California Angels edged Cleveland Indians 2-1, New York Yankees nipped Chicago 2-1 and Washington Senators swept Boston Red Sox 16-4 and 6-5 in 15 innings.

Kansas City downed Detroit with a four - run explosion in the second. Pitcher Lew Krausse drove in the first two runs with a double and Bert Campaneris followed with a two-run single.

WIN ON LATE HOMER

Ed Kirkpatrick brought California from behind with a two-out, two - run homer in the eighth. Cleveland had taken a 1-0 lead in the first on walks to Chico Salmon and Rocky Colavito and a double by Chuck Hinton.

Mickey Mantle of New York, hit his 21st homer of the season and 494th of his career, becoming the second greatest home run hitter in Yankee history and sixth greatest in baseball history. A bases - loaded walk to Elston Howard in the same inning, the fourth, brought in the decisive run.

Fred Valentine had seven hits for Washington in its two victories over Boston.

Four were in the first when Frank Howard drove in four runs. The Senators scored nine runs in the fifth inning, eight unearned as the result of four Boston Errors, three by Rico Petrocelli.

The Senators won the nightcap on Ken McMullen's two-out run - producing single in the 15th. The Red Sox took one-run leads in the 10th and 13th innings, but Washington came back each time and tied it.

Leafs Zero Richmond; Jets Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ed Rakow is finding Wilbur Wood a hard man to follow.

Rakow pitched his third shutout of the year as Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Richmond Braves 5-0 in International League action Friday night, but Woods, meanwhile, was registering his fifth of the season in leading Columbus Jets to a 1-0 route of Syracuse Chiefs.

And Rakow limited the Braves to four hits, while Wood contained the Chiefs on three hits.

Rakow's 8-3 season record overshadows Wood's 10-7 endeavor, however.

Elsewhere, Rochester Red Wings edged Toledo Mud Hens 4-2, and Buffalo Bisons split a doubleheader with Jacksonville Suns, winning the opener 6-5 before losing the second 8-7.

Lancaster Sparks 40-13 Win

Sasky Riders Corral Eskimos

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Neill Armstrong of Edmonton Eskimos replaced a leaky old pass defence in preparation for a new football season, but discovered Friday that his new one leaks too.

Ron Lancaster completed 13 of 17 passes for 270 yards and five touchdowns as Saskatchewan Roughriders battered Edmonton 40-13 in the 1966 Western Football Conference season opener for both clubs.

As usual, Lancaster's favorite target was flanker Hugh Campbell, who caught three touchdown passes. Lancaster, acknowledged the most talented scrambler among WFC quarterbacks, also fired scoring bombs to Paul Dudley and Ed Buchanan.

Actually, Saskatchewan won the game in the first eight minutes as Lancastet connected with Dudley on a six - yarder, Buchanan on a 55-yard toss and Campbell on a 20-yard heave.

Jack Abendschan converted all three and later converted two more and kicked a field goal. A safety touch conceded by Randy Kerbow completed scoring as Saskatchewan held leads of 21-0, 21-7 and 31-13.

Jim Thomas, an all-star halfback last year, burst 17 and 32 yards for Eskimos' touchdowns. Tommy Joe Coffey converted the first.

Despite the ease of their victory, Roughriders did not escape without damage. Linebacker Wally Dempsey tormented Edmonton backfielders until he retired in the second quarter with what coach Eagle Keys fears is a torn knee-ligament.

Dudley's touchdown came only seven plays after the opening kickoff.

Three minutes later, Buchanan slipped into the open for a pass from midfield and scampered away from his closest pursuer, defensive back Marshall Starks. Eskimos failed to get going after the kickoff and a punt attempt by Kerbow was blocked.

Saskatchewan recovered and took over at the Eskimo 20. On the next play, Campbell freed himself in a corner of the end zone to take his first scoring pass from Lancaster.

ESKS RALLIED

Bill Redell rallied Edmonton in the second quarter with passes to Thomas, Kerbow and Coffey before Thomas scored up the middle on a 17-yard run.

Abendschan lofted a 25-yard field goal early in the third quarter and Eskimos waited four plays to strike back.

Redell threw twice to Coffey and once to Kerbow. A penalty moved play to the Saskatchewan 32 and Thomas exploded for his second touchdown. He broke at least four tackles on his junket.

However, Reed controlled the middle with his power thrusts and Lancaster threw twice to Campbell to score less than three minutes later.

After that, it was a question of time.

Eskimos, victimized by opposition passers throughout their last-place finish in 1965, meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers Tuesday at Winnipeg in the next Western Conference game.

Millar Trophy

Norman Sags, Knudson Wins

TORONTO (CP)—It was a good day for touring professional George Knudson, but Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., would like to forget it

Norman carried a fat four-stroke bulge into Friday's final 36 holes in the Millar Trophy golf tournament. But he carded a four - over - par 75 in the morning round and an afternoon 72.

Knudson shot 67-69 for a 72-hole total of 275 while Norman finished with a 282, seven strokes back. The victory was worth $1,000 for Knudson, who plays out of Toronto.

There was drama in the third place battle too, as Bobby Breen of Toronto and Gerry Proulx of Ste. Eustache, Que., tied at 285.

They went into a sudden-death playoff to decide the final Canadian berth in the $200,000 world golf tournament at stake. Breen three - putted from 12 feet on the first extra hole and Proulx earned the ninth berth in the Birkdale, England tournament, with a par.

Host pro Al Balding and Alvie Thompson of Toronto tied for fifth place in the Millar, each with 288. They were two strokes ahead of Johnny Henrick and Ray Manion of Toronto and Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg.

Frank Whibley of Kitchener, one of the leaders after the first two rounds, finished with 292, one stroke ahead of Bob Panasiuk of Windsor.

Hands Out Second Life Ban

MONTREAL (CP)—For the second time in less than a week, Jean - Paul Massicotte, president of the Quebec Lacrosse League, has handed out a life-time suspension from the game in Quebec.

Harry Wooley of Sorel Titans was expelled Friday for an alleged attack on Jean - Pierre Blanchard of Valleyfield Nationals during a game at Sorel Thursday night.

The Nationals trounced the Titans 16-6, with both Blanchard and Wooley getting a goal for their clubs.

Massocitte announced July 26 that Frank Curotte, coach of Caughnawaga Indians of the same league, had been banned for life for an alleged attack last Sunday night on referee Leo Theoret after the Indians had dropped a 16-13 decision to Ville St. Pierre Saints at the suburban Lachine Arena.

Bedard Defeats Australian

MONTREAL (CP)—Bob Bedard, 34 - year - old Sherbrooke, Que. ace, overcame a one-set deficit Friday to defeat Alan Stone of Melbourne, Australia, in the quarter-final round of the Quebec open tennis championship.

Bedard, the defending champion, turned back Stone 4-6, 6-1, 7-5 to advance to the semifinals. Other victories were chalked up by Montrealer Mike Belkin, Alan Fox of Los Angeles and Keith Carpenter of Montreal.

Belkin, seeded second in the tournament, dropped John Powless of Madison, Wis., 6-3, 6-4. Fox defeated Montrealer Francois Godbout 7-5, 7-5 to earn his semi-final berth.

Carpenter upset fourth-seeded Lester Sack of Clarksdale, Miss, 6-3, 7-5.

Tigers Waive Eleven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fifty-one players—34 Americans and 17 Canadians—including a number of promising rookies and a handful of veterans were released by the nine Canadian Football League clubs Friday.

Eleven Canadians and 24 Americans were dropped from Eastern Football Conference rosters, while 10 Americans and six Canadians were placed on waivers by the five Western Conference teams as the clubs reduced lineups to 14 imports and 18 Canadians.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats of the EFC placed fullback Mel Anthony and halfback Johnny Counts on waivers. Both had played with the Grey Cup champion Ticats last season.

Other prominent veterans included guard Merv Collins, a 10-year performer with Ottawa Rough Riders, guard John Pentecost, who was cut by Winnipeg Blue Bombers, and guard Jim Higgins, who played with Edmonton Eskimos last season.

The Tiger - Cats cut the largest number of players, placing nine Americans and two Canadians on waivers. Imports released, in addition to Anthony and Counts, were halfback Howard Starks, ends Gene Donaldson, George Pearce and Bob Stohrer, linebacker Bob Soleau, lineman Bob Ellers and tackle John Smith.

Canadian halfbacks Allan Dostall and Steve Ostapchuk were the other two Hamilton discards.

PRECEDE ON INJURY LIST

The Eastern Conference Toronto Argonauts dropped six Americans and three Canadians, and placed import halfback Larry Ferguson and Canadian defensive lineman Billy Shipp on the 30-day injured list.

Jackie Parker, the former Edmonton great who joined the Argos in 1963, was temporarily retired. Parker has not recovered from knee surgery last winter.

Toronto cut linemen Bob Dugan and Norm Nicola, both import holdovers. Other imports dropped were rookies Nelson Adderley and Vic Reed, both halfbacks, and defensive end John Jennings and defensive tackle Ron Higdon.

Canadian linemen John Erickson, Walt Balasiuk and John Reykdal also got the gate.

Ottawa dropped two Canadians, including Collins, and four imports. The other Canadian was end John Quinn. Import cuts were end Art Zachery, fullbacks Marty Rosen and Mike Junker and defensive end Mario Mariani.

Montreal Alouettes dropped five imports and four Canadians and announced that they had purchased Ray Lychak, a guard, from British Columbia Lions of the WFC.

Dropped were Americans Phil Brady, a halfback, guard Willie Taylor, halfback Tom Hickey, tackle Don Bierowicz and linebacker Dennis Monack.

Ken Kilrea, a linebacker formerly with Saskatchewan Roughriders, defensive halfbacks Jim McKean and Dave Bowen and two-way halfback Dave Fleet, recently cut by Ottawa, were the Canadians dropped.

SCHNELL GIVEN RELEASE

Meanwhile, Saskatchewan dropped import lineman Dick Schnell, a four - year veteran, along with Canadian halfbacks Don Thompson and Vern Simonsen and guard Don Bahnuik.

Calgary Stampeders placed Canadian tackle Herb Schumm on waivers along with rookie imports Greg Palamountain, a halfback, and linebacker George Carr. Canadian flanker Pete Warren was placed on the injured reserved list.

Edmonton placed import half Mike Haffer and Higgins on waivers.

The Lions dropped import halfbacks Ron Morris, a three-year veteran; and Amos Bullocks, a two-year veteran.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers cut two Canadian and three Americans, added three new players and placed halfback Dick Wozney on the injured list. In addition to Pentecost, Winnipeg cut tackle Monte Kiffin and fullback Tom Urbanik. Freshman Larry Shine and sophomore Jack Robinson were returned to their Winnipeg senior clubs.

Added were two Canadians, tackle Ron Everett and halfback Ken Danchuk, and import halfback Billy Martin.

Ex-Giant Bucs Hero

Pirates Grab Game Lead Over Giants

B HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

In Spain the rain falls mainly on the plain but in Atlanta, it was Herman Franks who wound up all wet.

There was Franks doing a mental rain dance in the San Francisco Giants dugout Friday night when the rain started while his Giants were leading Atlanta Braves 5-3.

For 72 minutes, Franks watched the rain and the scoreboard which already showed that Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind for a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

Then the precipitation stopped and instead of a rain - shortened 5-3 victory, the Giants lost 7-6.

The Pirates' victory and San Francisco's loss left the Giants a full game behind Pittsburgh in the National League race.

After the rain stopped, Rico Carty walloped a three - run homer for the Braves, giving Atlanta a 6-5 lead. Willie Mays' 23rd homer tied it for the Giants in the ninth but the Braves pulled it out in the bottom of the ninth on singles by Carty, Ed Mathews and Denis Menke.

PAGAN BECAME HERO

And to make matters worse for Franks, the hero for the Pirates was ex-Giant Jose Pagan, who ripped a bases - loaded, two - out double in the eighth that scored three runs and beat Chris Short.

Elsewhere, Chicago Cubs downed New York Mets 7-4, Cincinnati Reds shaded Houston Astros 4-3 and St. Louis Cardinal blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0.

Rich Allen gave the Phillies the early lead against Pittsburgh with a three - run homer in the third.

After surrendering a run in the second on a walk to Pagan and a double by Jim Pagliaroni, and allowing a leadoff single to Alley in the third, Short retired 15 Pirates in a row before the eighth - inning rally.

Mays' homer was No. 528 and left him six short by Jimmy Foxx and second place on the all-time homer list.

Haller and Ollie Brown also hit homers for the Giants while pitcher Tony Cloninger homered for the Braves.

Picton Grabs 2nd Place

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Taking advantage of a mental lapse in the ninth, Picton Kinsmen nipped Trudeau Motors 2-1 in their sudden-death battle for second place in the final Belleville and District softball standings here last night.

Trudeaus, finishing third, meet the pennant-winning Bobcats in one semi-final; Picton and Ellis Juniors clash in the other. The "A" set opens at the Alemite Tuesday, the "B" series in Picton Wednesday.

Both clubs played excellent ball and got good pitching in last night's battle for second.

Picton moved ahead 1-0 in the first and Trudeaus tied it in the third.

The winners got their break and made the most of it with one out in the ninth. Marve Stacey popped up just beyond the infield.

Second-baseman Rich Morton started back for the ball and right fielder Stu Muirhead came in to cover up. Morton stopped and Muirhead had no chance. Stacey stopped at second with a double.

Eldon Gray lashed a single to score but was later erased himself on a play at the plate. Trudeaus went down in order in the bottom of the inning.

Ron Weese gave Picton the lead by lashing out a home run.

Roger Drake and Stu Muirhead popped a pair of duobles, sandwiched around Plan's sacrifice bunt, for the equalizer.

Carl Stacey pitched the victory. He scattered five hits, struck out 13 and walked a pair in a sound performance.

Howard Jeffs was touched for eight hits. He struck out a pair and did not walk a man. Several of the hits should have been putouts with a bit sharper fielding.

Frank Foster picked up two Picton singles, Ron Weese the homer, Marve Stacey a double and Eldon Gray his game-winning single. Dave Lockwood, Keith Stacey and Carl Stacey split the other base knocks.

Roger Drake had a double and single for the Motormen. Pete Weston hit a ground-rule double, Stu Muirhead a two-bagger and Rich Morton an infield tap.

Umpires - T. Hulme (p) and M. Whalen. Time - 1.25.

Defeats Jim Neale 5-3

Mason Wins Amateur Crown

By JIM VICKERS

TORONTO (CP)—Last summer Marty Mason spent a good deal of time and money developing a slow, smooth swing. Today, he is the winner of the Ontario amateur golf championship for the first time.

The Toronto golfer maintained his fluid motion throughout the annual tournament, refusing to hasten his swing when under pressure and it paid a handsome dividend.

Thursday he had to play to the 23rd hole with Paul Williams of Burlington before emerging the victor. Throughout the extra holes Mason continued to play steady golf and finally ran Williams to ground with a birdie on the par-five fifth hole.

Friday, Mason won the title by defeating Jim Neale of Burlington 4 and 3.

Neale pulled the upset victory of the tournament Thursday when he rallied to defeat pre-tournament favorite Nick Weslock of Port Credit 1-up. Neale was four down to Weslock at the end of seven holes but suddenly got hot and threw five birdies in seven holes at the six-time Ontario amateur winner.

Mason, a lanky long-ball hitter, served notice Friday to Neale on the first hole, which he won with a par-four.

Both players parred the second hole, a 201-yard par-three, then Neale made a critical series of misjudgments, allowing Mason to win the next four consecutive holes.

They split the seventh hole, then Neale shanked an approach shot to give Mason the eighth.

As if inspired by Neale's shank-shot, Mason hit one on the ninth, followed by a shot into a sand trap, and a futile effort to reach the green. Neale won the ninth with a birdie-four, although a six would also have beaten Mason.

Mason settled back into his smooth swing and won the 11th hole to go six up again.

Women's Open

American Leads Field

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Kathy Whitworth of San Antonio, Tex. combined a first-round 71 with a two-under-par 70 Friday to take the lead after two rounds of the 54-hole, $15,000 Women's Open.

Miss Whitworth, leading money winner last year on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, will take a one-stroke lead over Carol Mann of Buffalo, N.Y. going into today's final round.

Miss Mann shot 72 for a two-round total of 142.

Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth, Tex., Thursday's leader with a three-under-par 69, slumped to 75 for 144 and a fourth-place tie with Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria La.

Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex. jumped to third place from fifth, shooting a 71 Friday to go with her opening 72.

The best of the amateurs Friday was Gail Harvey Moore of Toronto. She had a 76 to go with 77 for 153.

Jocelyn Bourassa, Thursday's leading amateur, dropped to an 85 after finishing 16th Thursday with 76.

British Empire Games

Canada Has Strongest Team In Years

TORONTO (CP) — Confidently hailed as one of the strongest teams to represent Canada, 108 athletes made last-minute adjustments to new uniforms today as they awaited departure of their plane for Jamaica and the eighth British Empire Games, which open in Kingston Thursday.

In a competition that has brought Canadians five gold medals in the last two tries, a dozen were being claimed by track and swimming officials alone.

Pete Beach of Toronto, national chairman of the track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, called the track team the best to compete internationally since the 1928 Olympics, when Canada came up with a sprint double by Percy Williams of Vancouver, a high-jump victory by Ethel Catherwood of Saskatoon and a winning women's sprint relay.

LOOKS FOR GOLD

Track coach Paul Poce of Toronto is looking for another four gold medals in Kingston. He picked his potential winners as sprinter Harry Jerome of Vancouver; half - miler Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont.: Dave Steen of Burnaby, B.C., in the shot put, and George Puce of Toronto in the discus.

If his predictions come true, it will be Canada's finest showing since the 1938 Games at Sydney, Australia, which brought a harvest of eight victories in track and field. There have been only four Canadian gold medals in track events in the last four Games.

But Poce's predictions pale compared with the hopes of the swimming team, which has totalled seven gold medals in the last five Games and looks for eight this time.

The prediction comes from Nick Thierry of Toronto, who helps rate the top swimmers in the commonwealth. He calls 15-year-old Elaine Tanner of Vancouver to pile up half the total with unprecedented double victories in the butterfly and backstroke events.

RELAY TEAMS STRONG

He also sees victories by Marion Lay of Vancouver in the women's 110-yard freestyle, Ron Jacks of Vancouver in the men's 110-yard butterfly, Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., in the men's 440-yard individual medley and at least one of the strong Canadian relay teams.

If Miss Tanner lives up to her billing, she will be the first Canadian swimmer to capture four individual events.

Phyllis Dewar of Moose Jaw, Sask., won four gold medals in 1934 but two of her victories came in relays.

Jerome, co-holder of world records at 100 yards and 100 metres, has the most impressive credentials among Canadian track athletes. Normally best at the shorter distances, he won the 220 yards at the Games trials in Edmonton two weeks ago in an eye-opening 20.4 seconds, fastest time by a Commonwealth athlete this year.

Crothers, second behind Peter Snell of New Zealand in the 800 metres at the Tokyo Olympics two years ago, is generally conceded to be the Commonwealth's top half-miler since Snell's retirement but has been slow rounding into form this season. His best time this year is 1:47.3, half a second slower than the Canadian open record he set in 1963.

TOP IN COMMONWEALTH

Steen, third in the shot-put at the 1962 Games in Perth, Australia, is the only Canadian who has thrown farther than 60 feet, reaching 62-8¾ at the Edmonton trials July 15 to top the Commonwealth rankings.

Puce, a 25-year-old newcomer to Games competition, had a throw of 196-10¼ two months ago, best in the Commonwealth and No. 7 in the world.

The versatile Miss Tanner, involved in seven performances that broke Canadian records at the Games trials in Hamilton two weeks ago, packs the greatest potential among the Canadian swimmers, although the schedule may prevent her from competing in all the events in which she excels.

Miss Lay, who competed in the Tokyo Olympics at 14 and finished a strong fifth in the 100-metre freestyle, is the best in the Commonwealth in 110 yards and Gilchrist, at 20 a veteran of three previous international competitions, is similarly ranked in the 440 individual medley.

WAS OVERSHADOWED

Jacks, who operated in the shadow of Dan Sherry of Hamilton, the world record-holder, in the 110 - yard butterfly, has emerged as Canada's best hope since Sherry's retirement but is up against defending champion Kevin Berry of Australia, whose Games record of 59.5 seconds compares with Jacks' best of 1:00.1.

Apart from track and swimming, few extravagant claims have issued from Canadian team officials on behalf of participants in the seven other categories of Games competition.

Many lack comparative statistics and few competitors have international experience.

An outstanding exception is 42-year-old rifleman Gil Boa, a world champion in the smallbore event in 1954, a third-place bronze medallist in the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, Australia, and a fourth-place finisher at Tokyo two years ago. Shooting is a new event at the B.E.G.

Badminton, another new Games event, has eight Canadian entrants, four each in men's and women's competitions, none of whom has previously faced top Commonwealth opposition.

Canadians are entered in eight of the 10 weight divisions in boxing, all eight wrestling divisions and six of the seven divisions in weightlifting. Two lifters, featherweight Allen Salter of Ottawa and middleweight Pierre St. Jean of Montreal, won second-place silver medals at the 1962 Games.

Canada's cyclists and fencers rank as distinct underdogs. A gold medal in the team sabre competition in 1954 has been the only Canadian fencing victory and Bob McLeod of Toronto, who won the 10-mile road race in the 1934 Games, has been the only winner of a cycling title.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting — Fred Valentine, Washington Senators, smashed seven hits and drove in four runs in the doubleheader as Washington swept two games from Boston Red Sox, 13-4 and 6-5 in 15 innings.

Pitching—Larry Master, St. Louis Cardinals, held Los Angeles Dodgers, hitless for five innings and finished with a five-hit shutout as St. Louis blanked the Dodgers 4-0.

Minor Baseball Adopts Rules Regarding Umps

The Belleville Minor Baseball Association met last night, with the discussion centering on umpires. The following rules were set: Umpires shall have complete jurisdiction over games; players and coaches must address the umpires properly; players are not allowed to speak to umpires except to ask vital information; only coaches are allowed to dispute calls.

The Association felt that these rules are necessary for proper sportsmanship and respect of authority at the minor age bracket.

It was decided that spectators who leave the bleachers to harass umpires will be dealt with.

The meeting noted that minor baseball has doubled in the past two years.

This year the coaches will select two all-star teams, and an all-star team of coaches will be selected to play against the Ellis Bantams.

The annual baseball dance will be held in the near future, with the time and place to be announced.

August will be playoff month for city and EOBA teams.

FAISON ENDS HOLDOUT

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP)—Earl Faison ended his cold war with San Diego Chargers by signing a contract with the American Football League team Friday. The signing of the 260-pound defensive end came one day after Faison and Charger general manager-coach Sid Gillman denied they were about to reach an agreement. Terms were not announced.

Chi-Chi Has 66, Top Tied

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Chi Chi Rodriguez shot a six-under-par 66 Friday to move into a tie at 138 with rookie professional John Schlee for the second-round lead of the $92,000 Speedway Festival open golf tournament.

The 27-year-old Schlee, from Sun City, Ariz., had putting trouble as he scored an even par 72 after his opening round of 66 Thursday.

The new Speedway golf course, with its par 36-36—72, took a beating but also got the better on some players.

These included Charlie Wysong, who made duffers laugh by taking a 17 on the 14th hole.

Wysong, a McKinney, Tex. amateur whose brother Dudley was the recent runner-up in the U.S. PGA, packed up and went home after his horrendous score on the 436-yard par 4.

Another blowup was by Gay Brewer, who took five putts on the 18th green from 30 feet for a four-over par 9. Brewer, one of the top touring pros, finished with a 35-40-75.

Among those grouped at 139 were Lionel Hebert, with a 69, and U.S. Open champion Billy Casper with a 70.

DURELLE WINS DECISION

SHIPPEGAN, N.B. (CP)—Joey Durelle of Trois-Rivieres, Que., former Canadian welterweight champion, scored a 10-round split decision over Arnold Sparks of Montreal here Friday night. Durelle weighed 150, five pounds lighter than Sparks.

NOTICE

TREASURER'S SALE OF LAND FOR TAXES
CITY OF BELLEVILLE
COUNTY OF HASTINGS

TO WIT:

By virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville under his hand and the seal of the said Corporation bearing the date of the ninth day of May, 1966, the sale of lands in arrears of taxes in the City of Belleville will be held in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Belleville, Ontario, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon on Monday the twelfth day of September, 1966, unless the taxes and costs are sooner paid.

Notice is hereby further given that the adjourned sale, if necessary, shall be held on Friday, the twenty-third day of September, 1966, whereat the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall purchase any and all parcels of land if the price offered is less than the arrears of taxes and costs accrued.

Notice is hereby given that the list of lands for sale for arrears of taxes was published in the Ontario Gazette on the sixth day of June, 1966 and that copies of the said list may be obtained at my office.

Pinpointing Overheating Problems

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

More often than not, there's a simple remedy to torrid engine temperatures — pinpointing the cause is the problem. Here are a few heat-builders that may not be on your checklist.

Typical is the collection of insects, leaves and mud plastered on the radiator grille. This can hurt cooling to a surprising degree. So can soft tires. They set up abnormal rolling resistance, create heat and make the engine work harder than it should.

Another common trouble is poor carburetion, which results in a very lean fuel mixture and sends engine temperatures soaring. There are several possible causes, here. It could be due to faulty carb adjustment, weak fuel pump, clogged fuel line or filter, dirt or water in the gas, or manifold leaks.

Cast a suspicious eye on ignition timing, too. It's often the basic reason for engine overheating — and usually one of the last to be investigated.

T. N. writes: "I know the battery needs water more often in summer, but on mine, only one cell usually has to be filled. Would this mean it's overcharging?"

No — it indicates a battery leak.

From L. F.: "Lately the brake pedal on my '59 sedan feels very springy or rubberlike. Is it true that this is caused by air in the hydraulic lines?"

It can be. Brake fluid leakage or a clogged filler cap vent will also cause a spongy pedal.

G. N. writes: "I think you over-emphasize ignition point service. With every car I've owned I have gone two years or so before the points were serviced or needed it."

There are plenty of car owners who can say the same . . . and it also costs them about two gallons of gas per tankful.

S. R. asks: "Last weekend, I stopped along the thruway to make a phone call after driving our station wagon about 40 miles and it wouldn't restart. I had to wait 15 or 20 minutes before it finally started. Could this be due to the vapor lock trouble you wrote about in your last column?"

It certainly could . . . and probably is.

U.S. Takes Hold On Curtis Cup

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—The United States team and the short 18th hole were too much for Britain's Curtis Cup team Friday as the Americans took a 7-2 lead on the first day of the cup matches.

Helped by the inability of the young British team to handle the 174yard, par-three 18th, the U.S. won two of the three morning Scotch foursomes and then captured four of the six afternoon singles. One foursome and one singles were halved.

The only British winner was 24-year-old Ita Burke, who beat 46-year-old Mrs. Helen Sigel Wilson 3 and 1 in the No. 5 singles when Mrs. Wilson soared to 10 over par for 17 holes.

Going into today's foursome and singles, the Americans need only 2½ points of the nine available to wrap up a fourth straight victory in the biennial series.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method
by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER
BALL POSITION AFFECTS DIRECTION OF PUTTS

The illustrations show how the positioning of the ball in your stance can affect the direction of your putts.

At left the ball is well back in the stance. The putter contacts the ball before its face is square to the target line. The open putterface causes the ball to go to the right.

The center illustration shows my normal positioning of the ball. The putterface is looking down the line when it meets the ball and the putts roll straight.

If your ball is positioned too far forward, as in the illustration at right, the clubface may have moved past square and be closed, facing left, when it reaches the ball. Obviously the ball will then roll left of target.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: As my family suffer from hay fever each summer, I would like to know where would be a good place for us to stay for a holiday, where we can be free of pollen and enjoy ourselves. Your advice would be very much appreciated. — Mrs. McK. Belleville

ANSWER: Many holiday areas in Canada are entirely free from pollen, and others have so low a ragweed pollen air-index that they offer similar vacation relief for hay fever sufferers.

Northern Ontario, including the towns of Temagami, Kirkland Lake, Timmins, Cochrane, Kapuskasing, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie are considered a safe retreat. Dorset, Lake Joseph and some of the other wooded areas in the Muskoka Lake District should be nearly as satisfactory. North Bay locality should be safe. The greater part of Southern Ontario, including many of Ontario's major cities, is heavily polluted with ragweed. In general, hay fever in Ontario is caused by tree and ragweed pollens in late summer. Ragweed pollen is at the highest incidence from the middle of August to the middle of September.

QUESTION: We are thinking of driving to Alberta to visit Banff National Park. Could you please tell us the points of interest which we could take in on our visit. — R. B. J., Trenton.

ANSWER: Banff National Park is Canada's oldest and second largest National Park. Banff comprises an area of 2,564 square miles in the Canadian Rockies. The two main resorts within the park, which lies 75 miles west of Calgary, are Banff (park headquarters) and Lake Louise. Brochures on the points of interest may be obtained at the park gates, but the following will give you some idea of the things to see: Banff Museum, the Luxton Museum, Buffalo Paddocks, Upper Hot Springs, Cavi and Basin Springs.

Other points are: The Cave, the Cascade Rock Gardens and Tunnel Mountain Drive.

Fee for the park is $2, $3 with trailer. The pass will be honored by all other national parks in Canada.

Before leaving on vacation, here are some things to do:

Navigation — Mark your route ahead of time to avoid dangerous stops to read signs or maps. Big trip? Limit first day to 300 miles then work up. Stop early. Most accidents occur between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Health — Plenty of rest and reasonable diet prepare you for the monotony and high speeds of highways. And remember, drinking and driving never mix.

House Checkout — (long trip) — Stop deliveries (mail, milk, papers, etc.) Ask neighbors to remove advertisements. Be sure all windows and doors are locked. Be sure all heating units are "Off." Unplug all electric appliances. Aks police to keep an eye on the house.

Car loading: Trunk — Stow heavier items in rear. Distribute weight evenly to reduce car swaying. Tie nothing on the back of the car to obstruct your rear view. It's against the law. Bicycle, crib, etc., can go on car-top carrier. Remove loose objects from rear window. These can become flying missiles in a sudden stop.

Summertime Rashes — "Leaflets three, let it be, its poison ivy," they say. Contact with poison ivy produces a rash, severe itching, possible infection. If exposed, wash thoroughly with soap. Druggist can supply relieving remedies. Wear long sleeves and pants legs in woods.

Bites— (Bees, wasps, hornets, etc.) If one gets you, apply cold (ice) to the area . . . relieves pain and swelling. Continue as long as necessary. A baking soda paste on sting helps.

Thunder storms — "Nature's summer time fireworks" can be frightening. Stay safe and dry. Keep indoors, away from open windows, fireplaces and screen doors or any metal objects. If caught outdoors, or on water, head for shelter inn doors, in dense woods, a cave or a car — but avoid open areas, hill tops, isolated trees, metal fences, etc.

Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY,
Employer Relations Officer

There was a decreased demand for additional workers during the past week, as represented by local employment vacancies listed at the National Employment Service Office. The demand for male workers was in excess of the opportunities available to the female applicants.

In view of the present static local labor demand, the following analysis is interesting when it is remembered that no new industrial enterprises have been established in the area. From January 1, 1966, to July 28, 1966, a total of 1804 persons were placed in regular employment through vacancies listed at the local NES office. In addition, 600 people were placed in casual work (6 days or less). During the same period for 1965, a total of 1619 persons were placed in regular employment with 791 persons placed in casual work.

It is gratifying to note that the Belleville National Employment Service Office is indeed the community's central labor exchange working in the best interests of those seeking employment, the employer and the community.

The following job opportunities represent only a few of those now available at the local National Employment Service Office — In the female division, an urgent requirement exists in the neighboring town of Trenton by a new industry, that of manufacturing small engines, for assembly workers. The requirements call for a high degree of manual dexterity, a Grade 10 level of education, either single or married, with a height of at least 5 feet 2 inches. Trenton area residents interested in this type of work are requested to contact the NES Office, 72 Front St., Trenton.

Locally there is an excellent position for an experienced comptometer operator for regular employment within the transportation field. Another attractive position is available in the educational field for an experienced secretary. The successful applicant will be a mature person who can assume full responsibility and supervise an office staff of 4 other women workers.

SEEK EXPO GUIDES

As the Centennial year approaches some of the staffing requirements of Expo are being listed with the National Employment Service. For example, the Province of Ontario Department of Economics and Development is seeking guides who will staff the information booths, escort press representatives and VIP's, answer questions on the Province of Ontario, Ontario Pavilion, and Expo 67 and conduct tours around exhibits and grounds. The requirements call for a Grade 13 education, a knowledge of English and French with other languages an asset and to be between 21 and 26 years of age. All applicants must be residents of Ontario and will be required to complete an Ontario Civil Service application. A two-week training course in grooming, deportment, history and geography of Ontario and on Expo 67 will be given immediately prior to the opening date of April 28, 1967.

In the male division locally — an unusual career opportunity is available for young men possessing a Grade 12 technical certificate to join the servicing department of an internationally known weigh scale manufacturing company. Some knowledge of or interest in electroics would be an asset. The successful applicants will be given one year of training.

Retail merchandizing, the chartered banks, trust companies, and insurance and consumer credit companies are seeking young men possessing Grade 12 or Grade 13 education to fill career entry positions. Interesting training programs are offered in order to assist these young people to compete successfully for future managerial and executive positions within their chosen field. In other areas of Ontario there is a demand for trained men in maintenance work and for experienced welders.

Local employers are informed that several qualified second, third and fourth class stationary engineers are now seeking regular work. Interviews with interested employers may be arranged at once.

Both workers seeking employment and employers seeking work are invited to contact the NES Office, 224 Church St., Belleville.

Demorestville

DEMORESTVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Longwell, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Longwell and family attended a family picnic on Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gerow, Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan McConnell and family are visiting with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Turcotte.

Mrs. Floyd Goraline, Pam and Penny enjoyed a trip to Bon Echo over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goulding, Robby and Kathy of Oshawa, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Williams.

Mrs. Cecil Ruttan and three boys, have returned home, after a month's holiday, with her sister, at North Bay.

Harvey Says Unification 'Not Possible'

MONTREAL (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal James B. Harvey became the third retired air force officer in two days to criticize Defence Minister Hellyer's plan to integrate Canada's armed forces when he said Friday the scheme is "just not possible."

The former commandant of St. Hubert base near Montreal said "the people responsible for pushing it through are not as informed as they should be."

He said there are "a number of real benefits in integration," but government failure to state integration plans clearly had resulted in trouble, anxiety and frustration within the forces.

He could not see any efficiency nor economy resulting from the unification.

Two other former RCAF officers, Air Vice - Marshal Max Hendrick and Air Marshal Clare Annis, Thursday criticized the Hellyer plan to effect full integration of Canada's three armed forces.

PACES ALL-STARS

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP)—An 11-year-old pitching sensation led Windsor East All-Stars to a 12-5 victory Friday over Preston in the Ontario District 1 Little League playoffs. Bob Reisch mixed sliders, curves, fastballs and change-ups as he struck out 11 Preston batters and walked only one in six innings. The victory moves Windsor into the second round of the playoffs.

Willingdon Cup Team Completed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's four-man Willingdon Cup golf team was completed Friday when Paul Williams defeated Bob Bradley in an 18-hole playoff for the last berth on the team.

Williams, 24, of Burlington shot an even-par 71 over Summit Golf and Country Club to Bradley's five-over-par 56.

Bradley, from Oshawa, was tied with Williams at 291 aggregate strokes compiled over the 54 holes of the Ontario Open and the 18 qualifying holes of the 44th Ontario amateur golf championship.

Nick Weslock, 48, of Port Credit, Garry Cowan, 26, of Kitchener, and Doug Mossop, 42, of Toronto, were the team's first three members. Bradley is the team's alternate in case of illness.

The team, representing Ontario in the Willingdon Cup competition, faces nine other provincial teams Aug. 8-9 at Summerlea Golf Club, outside Dorion, Que.

The low team aggregate wins the cup first competed for in 1927.

CONDEMN U.S.

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesia's youth front has "strongly condemned the American inhuman armed aggression against the Vietnamese people," Radio Jakarta said Friday.

TV-Radio Column

Richard Chamberlain Finds Dr. Kildare Haunting Him

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —It has been a few months since Richard Chamberlain abandoned his bedside manner as Dr. Kildare, but the earnest young medic continues to haunt him.

"And will continue for some time to come," he says.

After all, the NBC series has been on the network five years and will continue to rerun itself to death in the late summer. Now Chamberlain is faced with the challenge that comes to all stars of television series: Establishing his own identity.

As a first move, Chamberlain embarked on a four-week tour of summer theatres in the Noel Coward comedy, Private Lives. The results?

"Mixed," the actor says. "The audiences laughed all the way, but it was tough playing an intimate comedy in theatres seating up to 4,000 people.

"While the audiences seemed to like the show, I could sense the resistance to my appearing as something besides Kildare. During the early part of the play, there would be an undercurrent of comment as people said things like, 'but his hair isn't blonde' or, 'he doesn't sound the same on TV.' "

The hair is part of his escape plan. He changed from his good-guy blonde to a shade somewhat darker than his natural brown.

Chamberlain realizes, of course, that it will take more than a change of hair shade to create himself in a new image. He's reading scripts in search of a movie to aid the campaign.

Gotham Happy, Mets Drop Loss Complex

NEW YORK (AP) — The Mets are winning because they've dropped their losing complex, says manager Wes Westrum.

"We've got away from our defeatism attitude and we're not making as many mistakes," Westrum said Friday as his team prepared to open a three-game series against the last-place Chicago Cubs.

Last-place Chicago Cubs?

The Mets and last place have gone hand and glove—not ball in glove—since 1962 when the National League expanded to 10 teams. They're No. 8 in the standings now and, with 45 victories, need only eight more to equal their high for one full season.

"The people don't leave the ball park before the game is over," said Westrum, who replaced Casey Stengel as manager last August.

"They come to see us play ball and not to make mistakes. We're treated with more respect everywhere we go."

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 31

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Stimulating conversation in evening opens mind to new vistas. Avoid depression. What is past — is gone. But future now offers many exciting possibilities.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Good lunar aspect early accents personal philosophy, decision. If you maintain dignity . . . you get what is desired. Your observations, opinions are sought. Be ready — alert and bright.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You can conclude profitable agreement. Be sure, gracious . . . also fair but firm. Fine for completion, rounding out rough edges. Refuse to be restricted. Examine new, exciting areas.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Money situation brighter than you might imagine. Persons work for you behind the scenes. If confident and cheerful . . . then others volunteer needed information.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): People want to know what you feel, think. Emphasize self-expression. Key is cooperation. Be willing to talk, but also to listen. Trust hunch. Follow through on pet project.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Some may stage certain events, conversations for your benefit. Know this . . . be perceptive. Don't grab at the bait. If you wait and observe . . . then you avoid mistakes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Fine for review and adjustment. Applies especially to home, family, domestic affairs. Minor matters become apparent, need attention. Plug loopholes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Some may urge you to form quick conclusion. These persons are not fully informed. Know this and play waiting game. Examine facts. Don't jump to conclusions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Travel emphasized. . . but there are responsibilities at home base. Means you must achieve sense of balance. Don't leave until commitments are fulfilled. Think!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Stress on personality, the way you react to minor crisis. Maintain aplomb, emphasize charm. Fine for new starts, contacts. Accent independence, originality.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Cycle moves up. You could receive news which strengthens legal position. Take your time. Check facts, aparent contradictions. You might make valuable discovery.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Many around you may appear supersensitive. Don't try to change everything overnight. Offer of symathy to associate who recently suffered setback will be repaid.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you have special talent for uncovering details which others overlook. You are a natural showman and can make most subjects exciting.

• • •

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Aquarius, Pisces. Special word to Libra: Be wary where romance enters picture.

For August 1

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Full Moon position emphasizes gain most through change,, exchange of thoughts. Study written word. Put thoughts on paper.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Stress on standing in community, ambition, willingness to invest in own abilities. Stand tall. You can now improve career potential. Look forward — not backward.

Germany Ties Cup In Last Minute

England Sees 2-1 Edge Wiped Out

WEMBLEY — The World Soccer Cup final between England and Germany went into overtime today.

England was leading 2-1 with only seconds to go when Germany was awarded a free kick and tied the score.

England had to come from behind to earn a 2-1 edge, the Germans opening the scoring.

Thirty minutes overtime will be played. If the score remains tied, the game will be replayed.

West Germany opened the scoring, but England also scored early in the first half and the half ended with the score tied, 1-1.

The game was seen by an estimated 400,000,000 television onlookers — the biggest live audience for any sports event in history.

Nearly 100,000 people, including the Queen were present at London's Wembley Stadium for the game. It was televised live to 29 countries, including Canada.

The match was the climax of a three-week tournament involving sixteen teams. Thousands of overseas fans have travelled from one stadium to another to see teams in action.

The Germans had 10,000 supporters at Wembley.

England had never previously reached the World Cup final, which was started in 1930.

West Germany won the trophy in 1954. That was before Brazil began its long reign as world champions, a reign which ended in defeat 10 days ago.

In nine previous matches against England, Germany had never won and England had been undefeated in its last ten international games.

Labor Govt. to Back Austerity With Penalties

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson, on his way home from a visit to Canada and the United States, was due to arrive today to find his government and his country's economy still under heavy pressure.

Both unions and employers have met the freeze in wages, prices and dividends announced by the government with bitter protests.

And Wilson's Labor government was expected to arm itself with stiff penalties today to enforce the 12-month austerity program it introduced to bolster sterling and the nation's economy.

A system of fines was scheduled to be announced in the Commons as part of the freeze, which economists already say includes the toughest peace-time statutory controls ever imposed in Britain.

Political sources say any union or employer disobeying directives issued by Economics Minister George Brown will face fines of up to £500 ($1,500).

Brown emerged from Friday's government policy announcements with virtually dictatorial powers on pay and prices within the economy.

HITS ONE IN FOUR

The pay standstill directly hits 6,000,000 workers—one in every four — whose already - negotiated pay increases will have to be delayed under the economic clampdown.

In Washington, President Johnson is described as pleased with Wilson's efforts to cure Britain's economic woes without abandoning her world roles in defence and financial affairs.

Administration sources said Johnson was favorably impressed with Wilson's new austerity measures, regarding them as realistic steps facing up to Britain's balance - of - payments difficulties.

The president was reported assured that Britain does not intend to pull out as a military power in the Southeast Asia area.

Wilson said Britain must as one measure cut back governmental outlays abroad by £100,000,000 ($300,000,000). This would be out of military and foreign aid spending.

As well, he said, "we have a world role" in both international security and financial affairs and "we intend to discharge those world roles."

Weary Wilson Gloomy

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—Beyond saying that he was betting on Britain to win today's World Soccer Cup match, Prime Minister Wilson had few optimistic words at a press conference Friday night.

After spending most of the day with President Johnson in Washington and then dropping in on Prime Minister Pearson for a 90-minute meeting Friday night, he told reporters that prospects for negotiations to end the Viet Nam war have not improved since he made a similar North American visit seven months ago.

It was important to keep all lines of communication open with the North Viet Nam and all diplomatic moves in this direction, including visits there by retired Canadian diplomat Chester Ronning, were important.

Mr. Wilson flew here from Washington and was met by Mr. Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin. Talks took place at the airport.

Following the press conference he wearily boarded his Royal Air Force jet for London. He had flown to Washington from London Thursday night.

An informant said following the British prime minister's meeting with Mr. Pearson and

LBJ Wins Quick Agreement For Airline Strike Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson quickly wooed negotiators to a tentative airline strike settlement Friday, but there are signs of concern today whether the 35,000 striking mechanics will approve it.

A vote Sunday by the strikers will determine how fast the five strikebound airlines will get their planes back in the air.

"This settlement will not be inflationary," Johnson said in announcing the agreement in a television - radio broadcast 12 hours after calling negotiators to the White House. The strike began 23 days ago.

Details were kept secret and comments from both union and management appeared directed primarily a ending the strike.

"We feel sure it will be ratified by our membership", said President P. L. (Roy) Siemiller of the striking International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO).

Chief negotiator William J. Curtin for United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World airlines expressed pleasure at the settlement of the "difficult and prolonged" strike.

But no planes can fly until the proposal is accepted by union members, who have thrown contract agreements back in the teeth of their own leaders in the past.

Based on the last reported union demand and airlines' offer, the contract seemed almost certain to provide wage increases of about four per cent annually over a three - year period.

U Thant Fears War May Grow

By ANDREW WALLER

MOSCOW (Reuters)—UN Secretary General U Thant today warned that the Viet Nam conflict may turn into a major war.

He told an airport press conference it might "spill over the frontiers," but he refused to say whether he meant Russia and the United States would become involved in direct conflict. Thant left Moscow for New York after the press conference.

The UN chief, who had talks with Kremlin leaders on Viet Nam, said:

"I am increasingly convinced that the Viet Nam war will develop into a major war if the present trend continues."

He said his meetings with Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev were useful and helpful.

Of his own Viet Nam peace proposals, Thant said "the reaction from some parties concerned has not been very positive."

Thant's proposals called for an end to U.S. bombing, a scaling down of military operations and all-round willingness to negotiate.

In reply to questions he told reporters "as you know, given the way the UN is constituted at present, it is not in a position to play a significant role in the Vie Nam conflic."

He would not comment on the Soviet attitude, saying that it was well known and not for him to interpret.

Lagos Rebels Seize Ironsi

LAGOS (Reuters) — Nigeria's military regime today opened urgent negotiations to end fighting between mutinous troops and loyalist army forces.

Usually reliable sources said the truce talks took place with the rebels apparently in a strong position holding the country's military leader, Maj.-Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, 41.

Aguiyi-Ironsi was seized during a visit to the Western Nigerian city of Ibadan early Friday morning. Earlier reports said there was an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate him.

Lagos radio broadcast early today a statement by the army chief of staff, Brig. Ogundipe, in which he claimed the situation was under control.

The radio quoted him as saying in a broadcast to the nation Friday night:

"The national military government appeals to all members of the public to co-operate with the armed forces in keeping the present peace and calm that now exists in our country. The national military government wishes to assure all that there is no cause for alarm."

But latest reports said army dissidents still held Lagos airport, which lies about 14 miles from the capital, in the face of heavy fighting. Reports said 10 to 12 soldiers were killed in the fighting there.

The troubles appeared to be confined to Ibadan, Abeokuta—where the fighting began—and Ikeja, near the airport. All three towns are in the west of Nigeria.

FEAR SPREAD

The rest of the country, Africa's most populous with 55,000,000 persons, were reported quiet but there were fears the disturbances could spread.

In the absence of any official explanation, unconfirmed reports said the mutiny was by Hausa officers and soldiers from the Moslem north.

Uniting Forces Long Job

OTTAWA (CP)—Even after Parliament sanctions uniting navy, army and air force into a single service, it would take several years to implement the unification plan, an informant in close touch with planning said Friday.

Defence Minister Hellyer intends to present the unification legislation this fall and ask that the Commons defence committee make a detailed study of unification plans involving several phases.

At the moment, the staff at defence headquarters here is working out full details of the plan and the timing of the various stages that would be required after approval of unification legislation.

Mr. Hellyer's intention is to go before Parliament with arguments for unification and with detailed plans for implementing it. He apparently has won an internal wrangle over whether to begin the unification process now or wait until the integrated headquarters and commands were ready to move on logistics and training for a single service.

The supply and maintenance experts have given the Commons defence committee an estimate of three to five years before they would be ready to support a unified force at the fighting level.

An informant said Mr. Hellyer and the defence staff figure there are stages of unification which could be undertaken while logistics and training are being geared to a unified force, even over a three to five-year period.

Mr. Hellyer is pinning his hopes on convincing the defence committee and the Commons that there will be sufficient savings in the long run from unification to justify parliamentary approval now of a single service.

Baltimore Receives Warning

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Legal action has stalled racist rallies in Baltimore, but a white supremacist warns, "You'll be seeing more and hearing more of us."

Negro and white youths threw bottles, rocks and metal pipes at each other in a 20-minute battle Friday night in a predominantly Negro section of east Baltimore.

What apparently started as a small fracas among four youths turned into a larger skirmish when about 20 white youths charged into the area.

A 33-year-old man and a 41-year-old woman suffered minor cuts and were treated at a hospital. Police reported one arrest.

Meanwhile, city police turned out in force to insure that an injunction against the National States Rights party forbidding rallies would be obeyed. There was no rally.

Officials of the organization had indicated earlier they would abide by the injunction, issued Friday.

Five persons were charged with rioting after white youths roamed through Negro neighboods Thursday night following an anti-Negro rally by the party—the third such rally in four nights.

The warning that more would be heard from the party came from Connie Lynch, an itinerant preacher who was one of the five persons charged with rioting in injunctions returned 35 on Ship Aground Off N.S.

PARRSBORO, N.S. (CP)—A ship with about 35 persons aboard ran aground in fog off Spencer's Island in Nova Scotia's Minas Basin early today and was reported in danger of sinking.

Cecil Gray, a resident of Spencer's Island in the Minas Channel, said in a telephone interview the captain, crew and passengers of the freighter Janet Glory had abandoned ship.

A woman and child were believed to be among the passengers.

Mr. Gray said it appeared there were no injuries among the ship's occupants. He said he thought the vessel carried a Spanish crew.

Quebec Legislature Is Called To Deal With Hospital Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—Talks resume today on the strike of 32,500 provincial non-medical hospital workers under the shadow of a special legislature session called Friday for Aug. 4 aimed at forcibly settling the dispute.

The special session was announced by Premier Daniel Johnson.

All union and Quebec Hospital Association leaders were informed of the session "aimed at adopting legislation necessary to end the hospital strike."

Mr. Johnson had met with Marcel Pepin, president of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions, earlier Friday at which time the union's counter - proposal was rejected.

The striking employees, who include dietary, housekeeping help and ward orderlies, are members of 139 unions affiliated with the National Federation of Services which is, in turn, affiliated with the CNTU. A total of 119 hospitals are affected by the strike.

The decision to hold a special session was thought to have been precipitated by union refusal to recognize a Tuesday court injunction against employees of 18 hospitals for the mentally and chronically ill.

The government is expected to introduce legislation at the special session which would suspend the right of public service employees to strike. Another step could be the placing of the conflict under compulsory arbitration.

The union negotiators will meet with government negotiator Yves Pratte today after a two-day suspension in talks. The union, which previously had held out for a one-year contract and an $8 a week raise, presented a counter-proposal Friday agreeing to a two-year contract and a $13 raise.

However, the government has not changed what it said was its final offer of a 30-month contract granting raises of about $10 a week. The raises would cost the government an additional $85,400,000 over the term of the contract.

The lowest paid non-medical hospital workers, who now make about $79 a week, would be assured of a minimum $3,016 annually by next July.

Paul-Emile Olivier, president of the hospital association, also met with Mr. Johnson Friday. After the meeting he told reporters "I am neither more nor less optimistic about the chances of ending the strike than I was Thursday."

Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) which represents about 5,000 non-medical hospital workers who have not joined the strike, said Friday negotiations between the QFL and the government are continuing.

In another development Friday, Mr. Pepin went into session in Montreal with about 250 local delegates to the CNTU's administrative council.

In a press conference after the meeting, Mr. Pepin said the meeting had been called to plan further strategy because the union counter - proposal had been turned down.

Also being bargained for by the CNTU are 2,294 nurses who are seeking a $20 raise to their $80 average weekly salary.

About 305 non-medical workers have abandoned the strike and returned to work, the government said. Meanwhile, the volunteers who have been helping to operate hospitals since the strike started, are reported losing enthusiasm and several hospitals are asking further volunteers to fill the striking workers' positions.

Johnson Claims French-Canadian Nation Has Priority

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson said Friday night he believes the future of the French-Canadian nation must have priority over that of Confederation, and any attempt by Ottawa to restrict Quebec's fiscal freedom will be regarded as a threat to the French-Canadian nation.

In a speech he was to deliver to a convention of the Association of French - Language Weeklies of Canada, Mr. Johnson proclaimed the right of every nation, big or small, to self-determination.

The speech was read to the association by Jean-Noel Tremblay, cultural affairs minister in the Union Nationale cabinet, the premier being held in the provincial capital by matters arising from the provincewide hospital strike.

The premier said the right to self-determination today is a pillar of international law.

He proposed for Canada a new alliance based on equality and freedom of growth for the two founding communities.

Quinte Crusade for Christ Set for Arena in October

JAMES O. BLACKWOOD

Evangelist Barry Moore, co-founder of the Canadian ministry of Crusade Evangelism, will be conducting a crusade from October 7 to 16 in the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Planning for the Quinte Crusade for Christ was officially launched with the recent visit to Belleville of the executive director of Crusade Evangelism of Canada, James O. (Jim) Blackwood. Mr. Blackwood directed a Youth For Christ ministry for nine years in Belleville, Bowmanville, and London, Ont.

Co-founder in 1960, with Barry Moore, of the Crusade Evangelism ministry in Canada, Mr. Blackwood was recognized as Director of the Year by Youth for Christ International in 1961. He is at present chairman of the board of Canadian Youth for Christ.

General chairman of the Quinte Crusade is Rev. Gordon Woodcock, of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church in Belleville. Assisting him in the capacity of vice-chairmen will be Rev. Eldon LeRoy, of the Wesleyan Methodist Church in Belleville, and Rev. Jas. MacKnight, pastor of Belleville's Calvary Temple.

Heads Canadian Cadet Services

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Lt.-Col. A. R. Harrison of Windsor, Ont., was named president of the Cadet Services of Canada Association Thursday in the final session of a four-day conference. He succeeds Maj. H. G. Andrew of Winnipeg.

Other officers selected were: Maj. B. H. Reeves of Chicoutimi-Nord, Que., first vice-president; Lieut. Scott Sheffield of Wolfeville, N.S., second vice-president and Maj. R. B. Strange of Lucerne, Que., secretary-treasurer.

Maj.-Gen. N. E. Rodgers of Winnipeg was named colonel-commandant.

The service is an association of persons who instruct army cadets aged 14-18. Its membership is largely made up of commissioned officers who are members of the Cadet Services of Canada, a branch of the Canadian Armed Forces.

Heat Wave Even Fooled A Flamingo

ROGERS CITY, Mich. (AP) Michigan's recent scorching heat wave had a lot of residents wondering if the sultry tropics had moved north.

Apparently, it fooled a flamingo, too.

Kirk Post of Fenton, who is vacationing near this northern lower Michigan community, reported spotting one wading on the Lake Huron shoreline earlier this week.

Post started making telephone calls, and friends, neighbors, U.S. fisheries laboratory staffers and Ed Moore, a Michigan conservation officer, flocked to the scene.

Sure enough, there was the knobby - kneed, rosy pink bird, defying all the rules of flamingo behavior by poking around in Michigan.

Flamingos, common in Florida, are believed to rarely venture far north.

The bird hung around the beach until sundown. It hasn't been seen since.

Freak Accident Sends Five To Hospital

A freak accident on Highway 401 near the Salmon River at 10:30 last night sent a Quebec family of five to Belleville General Hospital.

The car driven by Mrs. Betty Rose of Quebec was travelling west on the 401 when the spare tire of an eastbound transport truck fell off, rolled across the boulevard, and smashed into the car, ending up in the front seat between the driver and a passenger.

When the tire struck, the car went out of control and plunged down a 25-foot ravine.

Taken to hospital were Betty Rose, her husband Donald, and 53-year-old Jack Rose. They all suffered multiple lacerations and are in satisfactory condition.

Also taken to hospital were a son and daughter, John, 19, and Elizabeth, 13. They were treated for minor injuries and released.

City Ambulance carried the injured to hospital. Two ambulances were dispatched because the first ambulance was involved in a minor accident itself on the way to the accident.

The Rose family was headed for a cottage at Havelock when the accident occurred.

Demilitarized Zone Is Bombed By Big Planes

SAIGON (AP)—Giant Guam-based B-52 bombers struck in the southern half of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam today, the U.S. command announced.

A spokesman said the planes hit an ammunition dump, a weapons supply storage area, 26 known gun positions and extensive fortifications.

The zone is a six-mile wide area that separates North and South Viet Nam. It is not normally a target area.

U.S. planes accidentally bombed South Vietnamese installations in the zone earlier this year.

The U.S. B-52 raid today marked the first pre - planned raid against the neutral zone.

SAYS NORTH USING ZONE

The spokesman explained that the North Vietnamese 324th division has been using the zone to infiltrate into the south.

Indonesia To Send Peace Mission Soon

BOGOR (Reuters) — Indonesia will send an official peace mission to Malaysia within the next three weeks, Kogam, the powerful Crush Malaysia Command, announced today.

In a 90 - minute meeting in President Sukarno's summer palace here, the military leaders who make up Kogam decided to seek a formal end to the Indonesian confrontation with Malaysia.

The meeting followed a declaration by Sukarno Thursday that the confrontation still is a part of Indonesian policy.

"Indonesia will send a final contact mission to Kuala Lumpur (Malaysia's capital) soon," a Kogam spokesman, Col. Sunarjo, announced after a closed-door session between the president, army chief Gen. Suharto and the heads of the armed forces.

The decision underlined the deep split between the president and the new cabinet of army

Aim to Foil Slum Landlords' Trick of Selling to Tenants

TORONTO (CP) — City legal and buildings departments have moved to change the standard of housing bylaw to require absentee landlords to do repairs ordered by the city whether they sell their property to tenants under long-term purchase deals or not.

Additional court facilities will be established in September to prosecute absentee landlords who avoid making house repairs.

George Cook, director of Housing Standards and John Bond chief Housing Inspector said Friday six absentee landlords have followed a practice of negotiating sales agreements with tenants. In some cases actual ownership would not come for more than 150 years.

Agreement on the court facilities was reached Friday by Mrs. Campbell and city solicitor William Gallow following a conference with Ontario Chief Magistrate Arthur Klein.

Hazel Dolan signed an agreement for the purchase of 186 Berkeley St. on Nov. 16, 1965.

The price was $12,000 and Mrs. Dolan paid $90 down. She agreed to pay $1,080 a year, of which $14 would go to taxes and 100 to the payment of the principal.

At the rate of 100 a year paid on the principal, it would take Mrs. Dolan 120 years to pay for the house. But she agreed to sign a $6,000 first mortgage for 10 years and a $6,000 second mortgage also for 10 years.

Clansmen Lock Horns Over British Economy

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Two Scotsmen locked horns on the state of the British economy here Friday at the opening of the fifth biennial meeting of the 500-year-old MacMillan Clan.

About 300 members of the Clan are attending the three-day gathering, which includes a visit to the Highland Games in Cobourg, 20 miles south of here.

General Sir Gordon Holmes Alexander MacMillan, a former commander of the Gibraltar garrison, charged that prophets of doom are causing the economic turmoil in Britain.

"The English press is too fond of saying that Great Britain is through, that it is decadent and worn out as a nation," Sir Gordon said.

He said that when he left for the gathering of the Clan MacMillan Society of North America everything was booming in Scotland.

"It is only because of half-witted politicians and a futile press that the country is in trouble."

Rev. Somerled MacMillan, clan historian and moderator of the Presbytery of Glasgow and the west of Scotland, said:

"When there are so many silly politicians in England, it is time Parliament prorogued in Edinburgh where there are enough intelligent Scotsmen to run the country."

IN MEMORIAM

THOMPSON, T. W. "Bill" — In loving memory of a dear daddy who passed away July 31, 1960.

As time goes by we hope and pray,
That God is with you all the way,
We put our trust in God above,
For He knows you're the one we love.

—Sadly missed by daughter Frances, son-in-law Doug, and grandchildren Chris and Bonni-Lyn.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of my dear son, Bill Thompson, who passed away on July 31st, 1960.

The kindly things he did for me,
Like jewels set apart,
Now form a rosary of love,
Around this Mother's heart.
Just as one can't hold back the tide,
I can't hold back the tears,
But those precious words "I love you Mom"
Will help me through the years.

—Sadly missed by mother and sister Frances, daughter Olive.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bill Thompson, who passed away July 31st, 1960.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

—Lovingly remembered by wife Tena and family.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bill Thompson who passed away July 31st, 1960.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

—Lovingly remembered by wife Tena and family.

JONES — In loving memory of a dear husband, William Joseph Jones, who passed away July 30, 1960.

I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more,
As I walk through life alone.

—Lovingly remembered by his wife Gladys.

JONES — In loving memory of a dear father, William Joseph Jones who passed away July 30, 1960.

Gone dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place,
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Gladys, son-in-law Bob and granddaughter Gladys.

BROWN — In loving memory of the late Mrs. Annie Brown, wife of Donald H. Brown, of Belleville, Ont., who passed away on August 1, 1963.

There's an open gate at the end of the road,
Through each must go alone,
And they in light we cannot see,
Our Father claims His own,
Beyond the gate our loved one,
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought,
A loving God knows best.

—Lovingly remembered by her husband and family, Rev. C. Ross Brown, Ruth, Dorothy, Olive, Marion and Estella and their families.

BEAUDRIE — In loving memory of a dear Father and Grandfather, Ben Beudrie, who passed away August 1st, 1962.

Only a sigh for a face unseen,
A constant feeling that God alone,
Knows best what should have been,
God, put Your arms around him,
Keep him in Your care,
And make up for all he suffered,
And all that was unfair,
Only a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears,
And wishing God had spared you Dad,
For just a few more years.

—Always remembered by Joyce and Gilbert and grandchildren Stephen, Jenny and Ben.

CARDS OF THANKS

My sincere thanks to all friends and neighbors for wishing well cards, for visiting me, phone calls and for all the gifts while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. I am thankful to Local Union 219 for the beautiful fruit basket and to all who helped us in one way or another. With sincere thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Demczyneis and to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher who helped us at home. Special thanks to Dr. McDonald and Dr. Williamson for extreme care and also to the Nurses and Staff of 2nd West. Thank you once again.

Frank and Elen Seirys.

Miss Mary Margaret Gillies, VON nurse in charge at Trenton for the past two years, will hand over her position to Miss Joan Everest when she moves to California in the fall.

Group Captain C. R. Thompson, right, yesterday relinquished his command of No. 6 Repair Depot to Group Captain E. P. Bridgland.

Gp. Capt. C. R. Thompson Finishes Depot Command

TRENTON — In a stirring ceremony at No. 6 Repair Depot Friday afternoon, Group Captain C. R. Thompson, commanding officer for the past five years, relinquished his command to Group Captain E. P. Bridgland.

Group Captain Thompson led his men in a ceremonial march-past and then he and the incoming CO met in the centre of the square to shake hands.

Following this, the official papers were signed by the outgoing and incoming CO.

Station Warrant Officer Leo Kelly presented Group Captain Thompson with the last commanding officer's pennant to fly over the station during his term of office. This was the first time the pennant has been framed and presented as a perpetual momento.

Both commanding officers urged the men to "make integration work," by bringing the best effort, utmost co-operation and continued loyalty to the job ahead of them.

"We in the RCAF are required to uphold the policy of the government," said Group Captain Thompson, "and it has been decreed that the armed services are to be integrated. It's up to us as a group to make this policy work. It can work . . . it must work."

Group Captain Thompson, who leaves Trenton to take up lecturing in engineering at Carleton University, spoke briefly of the depot's new and important role as a maintenance development unit.

Group Captain Bridgland said that he and his family were pleased that they had been moved to the Trenton-Belleville area. He spoke of the outgoing commanding officer as being "an outstanding example of integrity and devotion to duty."

Guests at the ceremony included Mayor James MacDonald of Trenton, Mayor Jack Ellis of Belleville, Group Captain E. M. Butcher of RCAF Station Trenton.

Depot Commanding Officer Has Distinguished Record

Group Captain Edgar P. Bridgland who took over as commanding officer of a Repair Depot, Trenton, Ontario, July 29th, 1966, is a professional engineer in the province of Ontario and a chartered engineer in the United Kingdom. He holds a B.A.Sc. in engineering physics from the University of Toronto and MSc and aeronautical engineer degrees from the California Institute of Technology.

During the early years of the Second World War he served with Test and Development (now Central Experimental and Proving) Establishment at RCAF Station Uplands, Ontario. G/C Bridgland was transferred in 1944 to the United Kingdom where he served with the Ministry of Aircraft Production.

Following the war he served for three years as chief engineering officer at the RCAF's winter experimental establishment at Namao, Alberta, and later at Edmonton.

In 1949, G/C Bridgland was returned to air force headquarters to serve as chief of engine development and five years later was selected to attend the Royal Air Force Staff College at Bracknell, England. Returned to Canada in 1956, he was named commanding officer of 12 Technical Services Unit at Toronto, and later served as officer commanding the RCAF detachment at A. V. Roe Ltd., Malton, Ontario.

In October 1957, G/C Bridgland was appointed to the position of director of aircraft engineering at air force headquarters. He headed the programs which led to the development and inception of the Argus, Yukon, Cosmopolitan, and CF104 into the RCAF.

From September 1962 until July 1966 G/C Bridgland was senior technical staff officer at air division headquarters, Metz, France.

G/C Bridgland is a Fellow and original member of the Canadian Aeronautics and Space Institute and an Associate Fellow of both the Royal Aeronautical Society and the American Aero Space Institute.

Joan Everest New Nurse With V.O.N.

TRENTON — Trenton has a new Victorian Order nurse. She is Miss Joan Everest of Jasper, Alberta. Miss Everest will replace the VON nurse in charge for the past two years, Miss Mary Margaret Gillies, who will be leaving Trenton this fall for California where she intends to pursue her career as a public health nurse.

Trenton VON services are now available in Middleton Park, Bayside, Batawa, and Frankford.

The Trenton nurses help out at immunization clinics, TB x-ray clinics, run Child Health Clinics, pre-natal clinics, carry out nursing duties at St. Mary's and St. Peter's schools and act as industrial nurses at Domtar.

Minister Returns

TRENTON — Rev. J. T. (Jack) Irwin, formerly of King Street United Church, Trenton and now of Scarboro United Church in Calgary, is visiting in Trenton for the next month, accompanied by Mrs. Irwin and children, Bill and Janet.

Mr. Irwin and his family arrived in town on Thursday. On Friday, Mr. Irwin took the funeral service for Walter Wrightman, with whom Mr. Irwin had been associated in youth work in the Trenton church during his stay here. For the next week or so, he will be working on his boat and renewing acquaintances in town.

A 15-year-old Belleville boy will be taking part in the first exchange project to be held between Canadian and United Kingdom Boy Scout organizations.

Richard James Fort, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fort of 12 Strathcona Drive in Belleville, is one of the 110 Boy Scouts selected across Canada to take part in the exchange program. The Canadian Scout contingent will leave Toronto's Malton Airport for England on August 8th.

Richard, a grade nine student at Moira Secondary School, has completed six years in scouting activities, including three years in Cub Scouts. Ranked as a First Class Scout in the First Belleville St. Thomas Scout Troop, he works in his spare time as an Intelligencer carrier boy.

The Scouts participating in the exchange were chosen on an application basis, with each scouting district asked to submit one name for consideration from among the applications it received. The applicant selected from his district was then required to appear before an impartial board for an interview, and to submit a written essay on why he wanted to take part in the project.

On the basis of these factors, scouts from four of the 15 districts in the Quinte Scouting Region were chosen for the trip to England. Besides Richard Fort from the Belleville district, scouts from the Peterborough, Cobourg, and Napanee districts will also be representing the Quinte Region.

BRITISH SCOUTS COMING

A corresponding number of U.K. scouts will arrive at Malton on August 3rd. Provincial scouting councils in this country have made joint billeting arrangements with the United Kingdom scout organization to provide accommodation for the exchange scouts.

During the first of his three weeks in England, (an "optional" one with respect to accommodation), Richard Fort will be staying with relatives. He and the others in the Canadian contingent will spend the second week at the Sutton - Coldfield Scout Camp, at which an estimated 700 scouts will be in attendance. During the final week, the Canadian scouts will be billeted in the homes of British scouts and their families. The Canadian boys will arrive back in Toronto on August 29th.

Because the project is regarded as an important type of leadership training, the Belleville District Scout Council is subsidizing 50 per cent of the cost of sending a local scout.

Aside from giving Richard a chance to visit another country and the opportunity of participating in an unique scouting venture, it is expected that his scout training and knowledge will benefit from the experience.

Christopher Paul Allen, the 17-year-old United Kingdom exchange student coming to the Belleville district, will arrive at Malton on August 3rd with the other British scouts. Since he does not leave Canada until five days later, Richard Fort expects to get an opportunity to meet his U.K. counterpart.

New Corn Makes Debut On Market

What rain the area has received in the last few days has been very beneficial for growers of corn. According to growers, the corn is coming along well. This morning on Belleville market, there was corn aplenty and it was moving very well. Some brought 75 cents per dozen while others sold their product for 65 cents per dozen.

Six-quart baskets of cherries were selling for $2.50 while blueberries brought $3.75 per six-quart basket and $7.50 for the 11-quart size. There were two popular asking prices for raspberries. Some sold for 60 cents a quart and others, 65 cents a quart while red currants were priced at 35 cents per quart.

There was a large supply of new potatoes selling for 75 cents per six-quart basket. Cucumbers sold for 10 cents each, three for 25 cents; spanish onions, 25 cents each, lettuce, 20 cents per head; tomatoes, 25 cents a pint and 50 cents a quart, and green onions, carrots, beets and radishes, 10 cents a bunch or three bunches for 25 cents. Peppers were priced at 15 cents each or two for 25 cents. Egg prices were 65 cents a dozen for large size and 70 cents for extra large.

Breaks Leg In Bike Crash

Keith Campbell, 18, of R.R. 2, Bloomfield, was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital last night suffering from injuries received when the motorcycle he was driving became involved in a collision with a car. The accident happened at Rossmore about 8.45 p.m.

Mr. Campbell sustained a fractured leg. City Ambulance took him to hospital.

William Barber Wins Barley Field Contest

The annual Crop Competition held by the Belleville Agricultural Society was judged July 28th by Mr. Ken James, accompanied by W. M. Bishop, Field Crops Chairman. This year the competition was for barley because of its resurgence as a major cereal crop in Ontario. The crop is judged in the field before harvesting. Cash prize winners were as follows: First, Wm. Barber, R.R. 7, Belleville; 2nd, Ridley Wallbridge, R.R. 3, Belleville; 3rd, Douglas Black, R.R. 7, Belleville; 4th, Gerald Eggleton, R.R. 6, Belleville; 5th, Harvey Homan, Corbyville.

A large number of fields were entered in this year's competition and the quality of the entries was extremely high, in spite of drought conditions. Extreme heat and lack of rain has affected the barley crop in the Quinte District resulting in short straw and low bushel weight of the grain. Yields were estimated, however, at only 10 to 15 bushels per acre less than last year's record crop.

Grain harvesting could be 2 weekly early this year and will allow plenty of time to prepare samples for show in the Grain and Seeds Class at Belleville Fair, Aug. 13th to 18th.

Mayor, Wife Entertain City Hall Staff

His Worship Mayor J. R. Ellis and Mrs. Ellis played the roles of host and hostess when they entertained the City Hall staff and partners at a pool party, Thursday evening.

A large number of the group enjoyed a refreshing dip in the spacious pool at the mayor's home Selena Avenue, after which the mayor and his wife were kept busy in preparing a bountiful supply of tasty hamburgs and hot dogs which were served along with a variety of other refreshments.

Later in the evening a number enjoyed a second swim in the pool.

Women Active In Tractor Protest Parade

NAPANEE — While she left the tractor driving to her husband during the demonstration at Marysville both in June and again this week, Mrs. Harold Murphy played an active part throughout. Much of her time was spent telephoning, and the rest of it was taken up looking after her ten children, from 14 years to seven months. Mr. Murphy is the county director, Local 181 of the Ontario Farmers' Union.

During the afternoons the wives took turns catching up to the tractors and giving the drivers a welcome cold drink. Mrs. Murphy took her turn, usually with a carload of children.

Friday morning when her husband started for Toronto with the tractor, Mrs. Murphy followed him with the car, the nine oldest children, and a supply of food. However, on reaching Marysville, Mrs. Murphy discovered that Mrs. Vincent Hannifin, Mrs. Michael Whalen and Joseph McCambridge were heading for Toronto in a car. She and Michael, her oldest child, joined them, leaving the other eight children with her sister. They reached Queen's Park ahead of the tractor cavalcade from Western Ontario

ON ROAD EVERY DAY

Mrs. James Bell of R. R. 1, Selby, was at home Friday afternoon only because there was no tractor demonstration out of Marysville that day. She was on the road every day during the protest in June, and every day during this later protest except Monday, when the family tractor was out of commission.

Carmel Bell, a bride of a year, also drove one of the four tractors which set out from Marysville Wednesday, hoping vainly to be in Toronto to support their fellow demonstrators from the west who converged on Queen's Park. They got only as far as Cobourg, however. The Provincial Police were kind and understanding for the most part, warning them only to keep far enough apart. But they were delayed close to two hours between Trenton and Brighton when a Brighton O.P.P. constable ordered them to drive on the shoulder of the road and not on the highway. They pulled over to the shoulder and stopped, and Mr. Harold Murphy who was in the lead, walked ahead a few feet and discovered a broken beer bottle which would have ruined their tires. He called the Brighton detachment headquarters and a second constable came and waved them ahead.

Most of the drivers who passed them seemed friendly, Mrs. Bell states, smiling and waving. A few seemed annoyed.

Mrs. Bell confessed to being a bit tired, but was not too tired to cut the last field of hay that morning. The only memento she has of her experience is a red face, blistered by the sun and the wind.

O.P.P. Report

Mr. Wilson's Travels

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain is putting in more travel these days than any other world leader, with the exception perhaps of French President de Gaulle.

And these travels are not just to get away from it all, for on every hand Mr. Wilson is beset with troubles which require his presence as mediator, negotiator or just plain trouble-shooter.

There was Rhodesia, although his talks in Salisbury with Prime Minister Ian Smith and the subsequent imposition of trade sanctions have not been notably successful from a British or Commonwealth point of view.

And there was that quick trip to Moscow recently which most observers realized was doomed before it started. But Mr. Wilson went anyway in the hope of persuading Soviet Premier Kosygin to intercede with the communist side in attempting a negotiated settlement of the Viet Nam conflict.

Now Mr. Wilson is back in London after his fourth meeting with President Johnson in Washington in 21 months. Of the major problems affecting both countries, the economic difficulties facing Britain featured prominently. On his way back to London Mr. Wilson held a joint press conference with Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa. The scene was Uplands airport, late last night, an indication of how tight was Mr. Wilson's schedule and how effectively the jet airplane enables the latter-day politician to make the best use of his time.

It all goes to show that in politics a man can fight many issues on many fronts at the same time. Moreover, he is constantly being called upon to make decisions, right or wrong, and stick to them. Such a man may be called upon at any time to justify such decisions and make them appear correct in the eyes of the government he leads at least. When the decisions are made, there is no time to brood long on their possible outcome, for the major issues of the day are almost certainly succeeded immediately by others.

In this context it is appropriate to repeat an observation we made on this same theme recently. One of the most admirable qualities of politicians, and particularly of national leaders, we noted, is their resilience and sheer "toughness."

Railroad Hazard

One of the hazards train crews face is that posed by youngsters walking or playing near the tracks. It is a problem for the crews as well as railroad police at every community on the Toronto-Montreal route.

Two months ago a boy was killed near Port Hope and there have been other fatalities and near-misses over the years. Two years ago a boy was watching the approach of an east-bound train at Collins Bay when he was struck by one travelling west. About the same time a youngster with a bicycle was thrown onto the tracks between two trains at Cannifton Road.

Many of the youngsters place themselves in jeopardy by walking near the tracks and jumping clear at the last moment. Sometimes they vary this practice by climbing on bridges and jumping clear.

The task of patrolling the tracks in this area is the responsibility of Special Agent Fred Howard and his force of eight men. Watching for the kids is one of the biggest worries of train crews, he says.

Trespassing on the line of course is contrary to the Railway Act, and the youngsters lay themselves open to prosecution if caught. Along with routine warnings about crossing the street which every youngster learns, he should also be made aware of the dangers of loitering near rail tracks.

Soviet Crackdown

In Britain hoodlums are termed hooligans. At least they are in Ireland — and in Russia of all places.

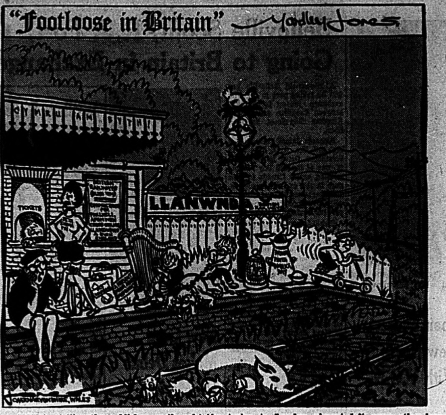
The Russians, according to a Moscow report, borrowed the world hooligan from English slang, which took it from an Irish family living in London. "In England," the report says, "hooligan means ruffian or loafer and is equated sometimes with hoodlum."

Another corruption of the word, in Irish usage, is "hoolie," which means anything from a noisy party to a real donnybrook.

And the word from Moscow is that the Soviet government has set up a special ministry to combat hooliganism, meaning juvenile delinquency and petty crime generally.

The problem has been building up in Soviet cities for some years, and the government evidently feels the time has come to take drastic action. A new ministry — the Ministry for the Protection of Public Order — has been set up on a national level and it will have its counterparts in the constituent republics.

Police are being given wider powers to deal directly with cases of hooliganism .This includes on-the-spot fines, with no recourse to the courts. Other measures ensure that retribution for delinquency in the Soviet Union henceforth will be swift and severe.



"Okay, so YOU try telling the publisher we thought the trains to London airport left every other hour, not every other week . . ."

Being Fat No Remedy For Boy With Nerves

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have read that the human body needs a thin layer of fat to "insulate the nerves."

I repeated this to my grown son (who is underweight) and he said the idea was false.

Is there a relationship between thinness and "nerves."? — L. I.

I'm afraid you are confusing nerve tracks of the body with "nerves" in the sense of nervousness or emotional problems.

Am I right in guessing that your son is a nervous individual and you are hoping that if he eats more, it will help him?

The answer is no. Emotional tensions does not depend on whether a person is thin or fat. For just one example, consider the compulsive eater, the person who eats too much because eating is for him a reaction from tension. Others drink too much, smoke too much, lose their tempers, go into sulks or have other compulsive reactions.

The complex networks of nerves, which are the "signalling system of the body," perform such things as transmitting sensations (pain, sight, sound, smell, etc.) and controlling muscular activity. When you move your hand, certain nerves tell the appropriate muscles to contract or relax.

These nerve trunks or chains of nerves do, indeed, have a thin protective sheath which contains fat, but a thin person has these sheaths just as well as a fat person.

Such fat has no relationship to the layers of fat just beneath the skin — the kind of fat that makes a fat person fat. And excessive food intake will not correct "nervousness."

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a virgin become pregnant? I stopped my boy friend before we went all the way, but now my period is late and my friends tell me I could be pregnant. I've prayed and am scared and awfully nervous. — Miss A. C.

This question comes up often enough to make it obvious that the younger generation, supposedly so sophisticated, misses the point about "going all the way."

Pregnancy can occur whenever an ovum, or female egg cell, is present, and is penetrated by a male sperm cell. Although an emission contains millions of sperm cells, only one is needed for pregnancy.

"Going all the way" is a somewhat vague term, but the important question is whether just one sperm cell found its way into the vaginal tract and to the ovum. These cells are vigorous and can "swim" or be carried quite a distance through the vaginal area. Such pregnancies probably are rare but they are possible, and every girl should be told of this possibility.

I have been chided at times as being a square old fogey for insisting that chastity is not an out-of-date virtue. The foregoing letter is typical of many that I receive from girls who are anxious, frightened or remorseful when they learn or suspect that sexual "freedom" isn't as simple and safe as they had let themselves suppose.

The sexual drive exists to procreate the race. Any sexual experimentation or byplay that permits the sperm cell to reach an ovum permits Nature to take its course and cause pregnancy. Yes, a virgin can become pregnant.

Tire Safety Is Studied

Montreal Star

The public investigation carried out in the U.S. auto manufacturers' interest in safety, yielded the information that it was not high. That is going to be changed, and government authority is going to be exerted to se that it is changed. Automobiles having been taken apart and examined critically, scrutiny turned to tires. There appears to be an equally urgent need of government oversight of the practices of manufacturers, who have shown as little regard for the well - being of the purchasers of their products as, until very lately, the makers of automobiles did.

The part played by tires in highway accidents is not determined with any accuracy. Estimates of the percentage of mishaps in which failure of a tire is a factor vary between one and ten. But it is known to every driver that a blowout may lead to loss of control of the car, and a blowout is a possible cause of every accident put down simply to loss of control.

The investigation of tire safety, summarized recently in a series of articles in the New York Times, laid some of the responsibility for unsavory discoveries directly at the door of the automobile makers. In many cases, new cars are equipped with tires designed to carry only a light load. If the car is fully occupied and the luggage compartment is filled, the tires are dangerously overloaded. On some station wagons, the tires are overloaded bearing an empty vehicle.

When the reliability of a product touching on the physical well - being of millions of people is concerned, it has been clearly established that the judgment of manufacturers cannot be trusted. Competition is too often the foe of conscience.

Some exercise of government power to set safety standards in car manufacture is being considered in Canada. Regulation is equally necessary in the field of tire manufacture.

Ottawa Landmark

Winnipeg Tribune

The Union Station in Ottawa, that Graeco-Bytown structure across from the Chateau Laurier, was scheduled for demolition this summer.

Ottawa planners are able to do things in the grand manner and have begun moving railway tracks to the outskirts of the capital. Thus there is no need for the monumental station.

But the scheduled demolition will not take place. Public Works Minister McIlraith has given the building a reprieve

This is quite in keeping with Ottawa habits: other cities may save steam locomotives as souvenirs, like the one in Assiniboine Park. Ottawa does things in a big way and saves whole a railway station as a keepsake.

Ottawa Offbeat

Capital's Not-so-quiet Revolution Really a Coup

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The "Quiet Revolution?"

Forget Quebec.

Just look, instead, at Ottawa.

Now here is a revolution.

Been going on for three years, and not always that quietly.

In not altogether unrelated stages, most of them to do with money, all of them with power.

First, three years ago, there was the take-over — the take-over of the Government by the Federal Civil Service, or at least by several of its most distinguished alumni.

Sure, it was Prime Minister Lester Pearson's new Liberal Government in name, but remember who, in fact, the Big Wheels of the Cabinet were, and still remain.

There was the PM himself, a former External Affairs Deputy Minister and career civil servant.

Mitchell Sharp, a former Trade and Commerce Deputy, as Finance Minister.

J. W. Pickersgill, the former Privy Council Clerk and strong right administrative arm of Prime Ministers Mackenzie King and Louis St. Laurent, as Transport Minister.

C. M. "Bud" Drury, former Defence Deputy, as Industries Minister.

J. R. Nicholson, former Crown Corporation boss and Federal Dollar-a-Year-Man, as Labor Minister.

Guy Favreau, former Deputy Justice Minister, as Privy Council President.

BI 'N BI

Then, within only a couple of months or so, there was the take-over of Parliament.

The "Golden Handshake" of the doubling of pay from $10,000 to a package worth, perhaps, with all those fancy fringe benefits, $22,000.

It was a clasp entrancing enough to win the hearts of Social Credit, and perhaps some other Opposition MPs.

It captivated enough of them that although Conservative, New Democrat, Socred and Creditiste could have toppled the minority Liberals on any and every issue, they never did it.

Nor are they likely to when Parliament resumes in the Fall.

Next, there was the take-over of the new Co-operative Federalism, a process by which the senior government at Ottawa, in shuffling off its own authority and letting the provinces go their own regional way, built up the prestige and power of the 10 junior administrations.

It has got to the point where at least one province, acting like a national government, is making its own treaties — cultural so far — with sovereign nations abroad. If one can do it — and it talks of wheeling and dealing for itself in trade, taxes and economics generally — why can't all 10 provinces?

Next, there was the take-over of an increasingly wide sector of the Federal Establishment by the Bilingual and Bicultural cultists to the point, at least in the National Capital, that to speak French is to have the inside track on more and more key government jobs.

Now, to speak French is the "in" thing. And to have to confess that you speak only English is to admit that you are . . . well, if not exactly second class, then certainly not quite worthy, definitely not real quality.

NAVY AHOY!

Next, there was the take-over of the industrial economy through the Government's blessing by the Prime Minister of the formula of giving strikers everything they ask as the price of getting them back to work.

In the test cases of the Montreal dockers who were holding up the shipment of as much as 35,000,000 bushels of wheat, and of the Seaway workers who threatened to halt all traffic in the Lower Lakes, it was an enormous 30 percent wage hike.

And even the Federal Government concedes that it will be the pattern through most of industry from now on.

Think of what that is going to do to our 54-cent dollar.

You think that a nine per cent increase in the cost of living over the last three years, as officially calculated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics — the biggest price binge ever — is squeezing your budget?

Wait until, with this federal blessing, they're paying 30 per cent across the job board.

Finally, there is the take-over of the Armed Forces by the integrationists.

Who'd have thought, three years ago, that Defence Minister Hellyer could have gone so far, without Parliamentary protest, in making the Navy, Air Force and Army into this strange new green-uniformed, common-commanded three-in-one force?

That he has done it with so little political challenge is another measure of the Government's take-over with its "Golden Handshake" of this plush Parliament.

Looking for the "Quiet Revolution" still?

Keep looking Ottawaward, you'll see these and many more clear indications of what has been a coup — non-military.

More Visitors From Quebec

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

The letter in the "Editor's Mail" column on this page today deals with a topic which has been discussed during the past two or three years. This is the increasing number of Quebec residents, particularly those living in the Montreal area, using parks, beaches, camp sites and recreation areas that extend from the Ontario-Quebec border all the way to the Bay of Quinte.

Since the latter body of water is quite some distance from Quebec, motorists from that province make full use of the recreational facilities in the Cornwall - Morrisburg - Lancaster district. Local residents think the Quebec visitors who have no similar facilities in their area, have been "taking over," so to speak, the district camping, swimming, etc., amenities provided by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

Actually there's nothing to stop them from doing so. Their money is as good as anybody's and, if they arrive at the parks campsites and beaches earlier than Cornwall and district people, they are entitled to full privileges. Unquestionably they arise earlier and get on the road much earlier than city and district folk to make certain they obtain good picnic, camping spots, etc., on the weekends and even during the week if they are on vacation.

The Commission can't show discrimination in this case anymore than it can when it deals with tourists and vacationists from the United States. Reason must prevail. The Quebec people are entitled to what they pay for and if they are causing overcrowding at swim places, campsites, etc., the only answer is for the Commission to construct more of these facilities. Certainly there is no lack of land for more beaches, campsites and picnic grounds. Swimming is ruled out by dangerously and exceptionally deep water in some places. But more campsite and picnic places could be installed by the Commission to handle the evergrowing number of patrons of parks and recreation areas.

Letter to A Small Boy

Winnipeg Tribune

It is to England we must go for surcease from the grim reality of modern living. The columns of the daily press in that land, where causes never lack protagonists, are worth mining for gems that otherwise might be lost.

The Daily Telegraph recently carried a letter postmarked Headington, Oxon. The writer, Anne C. Simpson, declares she knows the birth date of Peter Rabbit. If this is not a matter of permanent interest to everybody who ever was a child then what can be?

It seems that Beatrix Potter, the authoress wrote a letter to a small boy aged five: "Once upon a time there were four little Rabbits, and their names were Flopsy, Mopsy, Cottontail and Peter. They lived with their Mother in a sand-bank underneath the root of a very big fir tree." The letter was dated Sept. 4, 1893.

Chanel Strips Down Silhouette To Straight Line of Thirties

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—Chanel unveiled a collection Friday that stripped the silhouette down to the straight line of the 30s.

The flattened bosom, skirts gently dipping in the back, a longer jacket and the generous use of natural fox fur on coats were all reminiscent of this period.

Her display contrasted sharply with Cardin's new clothes for men and women of the future, which the designer told his audience Friday "even astounded me when I was designing them."

Cardin divided his collection between "women who dare and those others who dare not."

Emanuel Ungaro, the former employee and subsequent successor of Andre Courreges, made no change in the now classic architectural silhouette.

There were the same stark cuts that flatten the bosom and bare the knees but the look is no longer startling, since numerous other designers have adapted and refined it.

OPPOSING STYLES

Friday's showings were divided into two opposing schools. Cardin and Ungaro personify the avant-garde, ultra-modern look, opposed to the quiet and restrained fashions shown by Chanel and Castillo.

Castillo showed Friday youthful, high-waisted clothes for autumn.

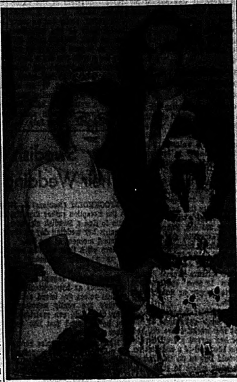
His new silhouette was based on a "mini-bodice" — a high-waisted babyish yoke contrasting with the long, unbroken line of the skirt.

Hemlines stopped above the knee but the silhouette achieved a different proportion with the raised waistline.

Castillo and Chanel left the future strictly alone and interpreted some of the best contemporary looks going. Castillo's "mini-bootees" and camisole tops over narrow flared skirts looked young and appealing.

Chanel's news was more a fabric than a silhouette story. Her famous tweeds came in Madras patterns. She also endorsed the metallic trend in lavish brocades mingling bright color against old gold or rose copper backgrounds.

Chanel's classic cardigan jacket was shown slightly longer this season, reaching to wristbone length.



MR. AND MRS. KENNETH BRUCE PRINDLE

Prindle – Doxtator

Archdeacon A. S. McConnell performed the wedding ceremony in St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville on Saturday July 23, 1966 at 2 p.m., when Beverly Jean Doxtator, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Doxtator, Carrying Place R.R. 1, was united in marriage to Mr. Kenneth Bruce Prindle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Prindle, Belleville.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by church organist Mr. D. W. Davenport who also accompanied the six choir boys in appropriate selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore an Empire style gown of white satin featuring a bodice enhanced with Chantilly lace with matching lace outlining the hemline. The back of the dress was highlighted with a flowing train of white satin edged with Chantilly lace. A shoulder-length tulle veil was caught by a pearl and crystal tiara and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

The matron of honor Mrs. Charles Weese, sister of the bride was dressed in a floor-length gown of yellow crepe with a Empire waistline enhancing the lace bodice. The headdress was a yellow crepe rosette with yellow tulle and she carried a bouquet of yellow and lime green Shasta daisies. The bridesmaids Miss Mary Clapp and Miss Vetha Conner and the junior bridesmaids Miss Laurie Doxtator, sister of the bride were gowned identically to the matron of honor but in green shade. Each carried a bouquet of yellow and lime green Shasta daisies and wore matching headdresses. The litle flower girls the Misses Angela Doxtator and Linda Mason, both nieces of the bride were identically attired in white dacron frocks highlighted with lime green sashes. Each wore a wedding ring headdress of daisies and each carried a basket of yellow Shasta daisies.

Mr. Charles Weese was groomsman, while Mr. Brian Adam, Mr. John Boyd and Mr. Joe Doxtator, brother of the bride were the ushers. Master Barry Hanthorn, nephew of the bride wearing white flannels and navy blue blazer was the ring-bearer. Similarly attired were the two train-bearers Master David Weese and Master Thomas Hanthorn.

At the reception in Albury Church parlors, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a beige taffeta sheath dress with an overlay of beige organza with flowing organza panel and lace bodice, beige and white accessories and a corsage of coral shade Sweetheart roses. Assisting in receiving the guests was the bridegroom's mother who chose a street-length gown of blue crepe with a matching coat of blue lace, blue and white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Atlantic City and other points in the United States the bride donned a blue and white striped suit, wide brimmed white hat with blue trim, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Prindle will reside in Oshawa.

Barnett – LaRue

MR. AND MRS. KEITH J. BARNETT

Foxboro United Church was the setting recently, when Rose Ann LaRue, daughter of Mrs. C. H. LaRue of Belleville and the late Mr. LaRue, became the bride of Keith James Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barnett, Belleville. Officiating clergyman was Rev. C. C. Gilbert, assisted by Rev. G. Miklejohn, uncle of the bridegroom. Mr. Doug Trumble of Mountain View was organist and accompanied the soloist Mr. David Havery of Toronto.

Given in marriage by a close friend of the family Mr. George Weymark of Belleville, the bride wore a full-length bridal gown of organza over taffeta featuring a nylon lace bodice. The back of the dress was highlighted with a flowing train of organza over net and bordered with lace appliques. A bouffant veil of nylon tulle fell from a headdress of dainty fabric roses centred with simulated pearls. She carried a semi-cascade of shasta 'mums and Pink Delight roses.

Mrs. G. Hillier sister of the bride as matron of honor and the bridesmaid Miss Susan Barnett, sister of the bridegroom, were identically attired in street length dresses of white lace over coral shrimp crystal fabric and each carried a colonial bouquet of Shasta 'mums sprayed coral shrimp color to match her dress.

Mr. Tom Logan was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. John Bakker and Mr. Lawrence LaRue.

The reception was held in the Foxboro United Church hall where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a three-piece dusty rose shantung ensemble with a corsage of yellow rosebuds. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who was wearing a two-piece blue shantung dress with a corsage of pink rosebuds.

For the honeymoon trip to Montreal and then south-east to the United States, the bride chose a two-piece dress of blue crepe with matching shoes and hat, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon return home Mr. and Mrs. Barnett will reside in Wellington.

ANN LANDERS

Unhappy in Youth, Fulfilled in Maturity

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Boy-oh-boy, did I ever see glimpses of myself in your column a few week ago ! ! ! I turned the clock back about 40 years, but there I was — just like the homely little girl whose father carried a picture in his wallet of a beautiful older sister. Her picture was left in the bureau drawer.

I'm 55 years old, but some of those memories still hurt. My older sister was the star and I was nothing. She got all the praise and I got all the criticism. When "The Beauty" graduated from the 8th grade the whole family was there. When I graduated from the 8th grade nobody showed up.

Life plays funny tricks. When it came time for marriage, my sister made a very poor selection. My marriage was one of the best.

To this day mother resents the fact that I have a wonderful husband, a lovely home, fine children, and a good life. My sister's looks are gone, her husband isn't much good and her life is empty. Mother says I was lucky and my sister was unlucky. I say somebody up there decided to even the score. — ORLANDO.

DEAR ORLANDO: I like your theory best.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son Jed is 19, a college sophomore and he is enrolled for summer courses. The college is about 100 miles from here. He comes home weekends. Jed has been dating a high school girl who lives in the college town.

The girl has a car. She drives Jed home almost every weekend and moves right into our our guest room. We hear them roaming around all hours of the night, which I think is bad for the younger children.

Our family is taking a trip in August and Jed wants to include the girl. I am against it. What kind of parents must she have, anyway? — R.R.R.

DEAR R.R.R.: The girl's parents must have rocks in their heads, but you've got a few boulders, too, lady. Obviously you can't police your son when he's away at school — and you shouldn't try — but permitting the girl to move in for weekends offers unspoken approval of this much-too-chummy relationship. Say "No" to the vacation deal.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is my parents. I am a 15-year-old girl. They make me kiss them good night every night. Then my mom blesses me and says something in her native tongue.

After that she makes me tell her that I love her. I think this is stupid. Besides I am too old for that junk. I have asked mom why she does this and she says it is good for people to tell each other they love one another. It doesn't really make me feel closer to her. In fact it makes me dislike her.

What is your opinion of all this garbage?—ANTI-MUSHER.

DEAR ANTI: I feel sorry for your mother. She must be desperately unfulfilled.

Maybe you think a good night kiss is "garbage," but one day you will wish you could turn the clock back and do a few things differently. But it will be too late.

* * *

Confidential to REDDY FREDDY: I hope you are "reddy" for plenty of trouble. This girl is underage no matter what state you live in. Her father can throw the book at you — and I hope he does.

What Experts Say

Before You Flip Your Wig Here Are Vital Statistics

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—The most expensive wigs are hand-made, of European hair. Almost hair by hair, strands are pulled through the mesh foundation with a tool like an embroidery hook.

The hair in machine-made wigs is stitched on the mesh in rows. Toronto wig maker Peter Suba says this process results in a heavier, warmer foundation, and a wig that will not stand as close an inspection as a hand-made one. Mr. Suba says, for instance, he would not recommend too short a hair cut on a machine-made wig because the rows of stitching might show.

Mr. Suba says wigs and hair pieces are usually made of European hair, Oriental hair, yak hair, an acrylic fibre artificial hair or a mixture.

SETS EASILY

He says European hair is considered the most flexible, the finest and therefore easiest to set and best at holding a set.

Wig prices, range from about $50 to $500. Hair pieces may cost from $20 to $100. Mr. Suba says you can often get some idea of what they are made of and how by noticing what is not mentioned.

"If it is European hair and hand-made, the ad will say so. If it just says wigs, they are probably synthetic fibre or a mixture. If it says human hair, it is probably Oriental hair."

If you do buy either a wig or a hair piece, good care will lengthen its life. Ask when you buy it where you can get it cared for—cleaned and set. They need knowledgeable care.

"If you buy a wig, get a good block in the right size. It will cost $10 or $15, and put your wig on it every night. People will buy an expensive wig and not spend a bit more to care for it. I had a customer who kept hers on a lamp shade when she wasn't wearing it, and it eventually took the shade's hexagonal shape."

DON'T WASH WIG

Mr. Suba says a wig might need to be set in dry rollers every couple of weeks, depending on how much it is used. In the meantime, if the set droops a bit, you can touch it up with a dry pin curl over night. Don't wet the curl or the pin or clip might leave a rust mark.

"No matter what kind of wig you have, don't put it in water and try to wash it. It will mat and the hair works back through the foundation. Your wig will be ruined.

"If you want to clean it at home, take the back combing out gently with a nylon brush. Then, working outdoors or in a well-ventilated place, dip it a few times in a bowl of of carbon tetrachloride. Don't rub it. Then leave it in the solution for 20 to 30 minutes, dip it up and down again a few times and hang it up to dry outdoors or in a well ventilated place. Incidentally, don't use a plastic bowl. The carbon tet will dissolve it.

"Your wig will dry in about a half an hour. Put it on the block, wet it gently and set it with large rollers. Then you might use your dryer because of the possibility of rust.

"Whatever you do, don't bleach or tint a wig. That means peroxide and peroxide will weaken the foundation and might ruin your wig. A hair piece might take a little tinting, but carefully.

"When you store a wig, put a light fabric cover over it. Don't use plastic, that will keep moisture in."

U.C.W. Meetings

STONE CHURCH U.C.W.

The July meeting of Stone Church U.C.W. was in the form of a potluck dinner at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Phillips, at Moira Lake.

After dinner the president, Mrs. E. Demorest opened the meeting with a reading, followed by prayer. Mrs. Omar Chisholm was in charge of the Scripture lesson and Bible study. Mrs. Chisholm Sr. who recently returned from a pleasant and most worthwhile weekend at Five Oaks told of her experiences there.

During business conducted by the president it was decided to have a bake sale at Oak Lake and the date for the fall bazaar was set for October 26.

Following the meeting the children and some of the grown-ups enjoyed a swim in the lake. To conclude activities for the day a marshmallow roast was enjoyed by all.

Family Honors Parents On Golden Anniversary

A surprise family dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Muir, in honor of Mr.and Mrs. George Nobles of 229 Cannifton Rd., who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nobles were married by Rev. G. R. Beamish in St. Thomas Anglican Church rectory in 1916.

Congratulations were received from Premier John P. Robarts; leader of the Opposition John Diefenbaker; Mr. Lee Grills M.P. and Mr. Clarke Rollins M.P.P.

Mr. and Mrs. Nobles were recipients of many gifts and cards from friends and relatives.

The table was attractively decorated with bronze and yellow 'mums centred by an anniversary cake.

Tea as served by Bessie Bly and Elsie Nobles.

Mr. and Mrs. Nobles have four children, Manley of Corbyville; Mack of Belleville; Mrs. Fred (Bessie) Bly, and Mrs. George (Genora) Muir also of Belleville.

The hostess was assisted by Dorothy Nobles.

A dash of salt made the glassy glaze for this stoneware jug made about 1702 - 1714 in Germany. It was made for the English and featured the letters AR for Queen Anne.

(Colonial Williamsburg, Williamsburg, Virginia)

Table Salt Is Added to Fire For Salt Glazed Storeware

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Common table salt was added to the fire to make the popular salt glazed stoneware often used for beer steins. The salt made a hard, shiny, glass coating on the pottery.

The Germans first made salt glaze in the 15th century. It did not appear in English made wares until about 1750. The Germans made stoneware in special patterns for sale in England. One design featured the initials of Queen Anne. Examples of the German made English designed wares are found in the Virginia and other North American sites.

Q. "S. Ely" is stamped on the bottom of my curly, maple, fiddleback chairs.

A. The best information available theorizes that S. Ely is Smith Ely. He was a chair maker from New York City who worked after 1823. Your chairs are of a style made about 1830. Chair vendors travelled and sold chairs in nearby states. Several of these chairs have appeared as far west as Ohio.

Q. How can I clean Japanese lacquer?

A. The orientals always liked their tea, and they used it for other purposes than drinking. Boil 2 tea bags in three-fourths cup of water. Cover the boiled water and tea, and let the liquid cool.

Remove all the wax from the lacquered pieces with a mild detergent solution. Wipe the lacquer with the tea water. Do not wipe it off. The tannic acid of the tea will restore the shine of the lacquer.

Q. "Flint Lead Works" is marked on my English half crown. A picture of the works is on the other side with the date 1813. Was Flint glass made in a city of the same name?

A. You own a company trade token. It may have been used by any of the English firms that made flint glass. It is called flint because ground flint stone was used in the glass. It is not the name for a city.

If you own a small art glass lampshade meant for a kerosene lamp, you can now buy a base for it that will hold an electric light bulb.

BOOK REVIEW

Well-illustrated books about everyday decorative arts of the 18th and 19th century in America are scarce. "The Folk Arts and Crafts of New England" by Lord and Foley (Chilton $17.50) is filled with pictures and information. It is an excellent book for the student of American history or the collector.

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony so a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

Pictures may be submitted by your photographer up to three days after the wedding. We cannot publish wedding write-ups submitted later than six days after the date of the ceremony.

Accounts of showers and entertainments in honor of the bride do not belong with the wedding write-up, but should be sent in immediately after they are held, for publication separately.

Family Reunion

JOHNSTON CLAN

On Saturday July 24 at Glen Allen Park on Crowe Lake, the descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander (Sandy) Johnston held the fourth reunion with about 130 present.

Relatives were present from Toronto, Orillia, Norwood, Campbellford, Marmora, Stirling, Trenton, Milford, Foxboro, Batawa Healy Falls Oshawa, Lakefield, Belleville and as far away as MooseJaw Saskatchewan and other places.

After a tasty picnic dinner and a time spent in visiting which was much enjoyed. The president Ernie Tuck welcomed everyone and thanked them for their co-operation and help during his two years in office. The minutes of the last reunion were read and a two minute silence was observed in memory of the ones who had passed away during the last year. They were Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gunning and Mr. Bill Brennan.

Officers were elected for the following year. The past presidents were: Mr. F. S. Johnston and Mr. Ernie Tuck, president, Mr. Charles Johnston, Trenton; 1st vice, Mr. John Pounder, Milford; treasurer, Mrs. Chas. (Myrtle) Johnston, Trenton; secretary, Mrs. Blake (Catherine) Johnston, Belleville; assistant secretary, Mrs. Walter (Helen) Johnston, Foxboro; chairman of Sports, Mr. Earl Johnston, Guelph. Directors, Mrs. Conard (Daisy) Tripp, Batawa; Mr. Frank McAvoy, Campbellford; Mr. Glen Forrestell, Oshawa; Mr. Harold Johnston, Stirling.

It was decided to hold the picnic the same place, the last Sunday in July next year.

The following prizes were given out: oldest man, William Johnston, oldest lady, Mrs. Charles Johnston; man's birthday, Ernie Tuck; lady's birthday Mrs. Elmer Stacey; youngest baby Brent Walker; longest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston; newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. David Russell; coming the farthest, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor, MooseJaw, Sask., largest family, Mr. and Mrs. Conard Tripp oldest twins, Wilfred and Walter Johnston, man's biggest shoes, Blake Johnston; ladies' biggest shoe, Mrs. Blake Johnston; baldest man, John Johnston, oldest widow, Mrs. Minnie Kellar. Anniversary nearest picnic day, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Tuck, and best joke, Mr. Frank McAvoy.

There were races and a carmel scramble for the younger ones. Swimming was also enjoyed.

Before supper there was music by young and old. Miss Anna Lea Walker of Milford played a number of musical selections on the accordion and a number of violin and guitar players joined in.

"Church of the Gulls" Painting

DAWN'S ART

"Poetry and dream is expressed in the work of Madame Dawn McRae Strathy." — Pierre Mornand, prominent Paris Art Critic, (Feb. 1965.)

* * *

"A newcomer to Belleville, she's had a one-man exhibition at the Galerie du Colisee in Paris, and I think you'll find her career interesting as an artist . . . " stated Mrs. George (Philippa) Faulkner.

Thus, we interviewed Dawn McRae Strathy, youthful mother of Kim, Ian and Nicky, aged 11, 8 and 7 years respectively, and wife of Flt. Lieut. W. V. C. Strathy, at their home, 199 MacDonald Ave., who answered our, "Have you always liked to paint?" with:

"Always!" as she relaxed in a round, orange-colored stuffed chair by a yellow draped window, her blue eyes shyly remembering. "At home in Montreal, where I went to school in Westmount, Art periods were my special joy," and, whenever prizes always seemed to come her way, "I was certain it was only because the others didn't like art enough to try."

Talking about her art achievement, we discovered, is like trying to grasp a sun's shadow, such is her modesty and interest in the world about her, as she said:

"I studied some art in Montreal, and after marriage, we settled with our two children in Portage la Prairie, where my husband was stationed for several years. Though I had resolved to work (paint) the need for an art teacher was so great, I weakened and taught classes, still-life. It takes more than a beginner in art to capture the beauty that belongs to the prairie.

"Later, with three children, we lived abroad where my husband was assigned to NATO DUTY AT Zweibrucken, Germany,; St. Avold, in the Moselle country of France; and Virton, Belgium, near the Province de Luxembourg. Here is a marvellous scenic centre of beauty: the Castle of Luxembourg, Hiedelberg, the Rhine, and so on.

"Also available were large, roomy old houses so splendid for children to romp in, (though one, once 'Nazi occupied' had a distressing atmosphere of sadness I keenly felt); good help; fine schools (hours from 8 to 4) where the children learned French, German and deportment (an important item on the report card, which we liked and approved); and low-priced exhibitions and concerts by the best artists in Europe, on tour.

"The people were kind and friendly. I met other artists — one lived down the road from us in one place, in a very old stone house close beside a ripply, noisy stream. She was one of Belgium's most outstanding artists and poets, and said, 'I like working here more than anywhere else in the world.'

"With time to spare, I worked rather than taught." (The Pollock Gallery of Toronto held a first Canadian showing of a collection of her water-colors done during this time).

"This part of Europe poses a problem for the artist lest his work look like a picture postcard, for the streets, country and village scenes really do possess this very quality. Every window beheld an enchanting view.

"Our weekends were such family fun. We'd pile into the car and motor down to Venice or up to places in Denmark or to Brussells, Paris, Cologne, etc. For long holidays we drove down the Rhone Valley to lay in the sun and sand at little fishing villages on the Costa Brave in Spain, near Barcelona.

"Our memories are happy ones of our life abroad. You ask me about women who bring talent to their marriage. I urge all who have it, to develop it. It expands, enriches a marriage. All artists need families more than anybody, as a core, a centre and source of inspiration, love and expression, don't you think?"

At the Paris Galerie Gaveau exhibition where a painting of Mrs. Strathy's was selected from among 2,000 entrees and shown among others so chosen, she met the promotore Lucie Valore and widow of Maurice Utrillo, "a petite, lively, white-haired lady with whom I spoke, and found most charming."

Because we feel sure you would like to know more of Dawn McRae Strathy, here is a biographical sketch, and in so presenting it, wish her every success as one of "the (young) artists of recognized gifts and accomplishment, who now," says Hilton Kramer in the N.Y. Times, "bears the most complex responsibility for determining the values that are to live or die" in art.

We read:

Studied: Montreal: Valentine School of Commercial Art, Sir George William College, Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, Ecole des Beaux Arts, two years summer school studying water color, Valentine Summer School, Grand Manan, New Brunswick. years living and working in France, Belgium, Germany and Worked: In the Maritime and Western provinces last four Spain. Reader's Saturday Column

"Butter Tart" Pan Cookies

QUESTION: About 7 or 8 years ago you gave a recipe for pan cookies that had a butter tart layer. It was one of my best recipes and it has disappeared . . . Dierdre McC.

ANSWER: It has been a favorite with other readers too so I think its worthy of reprinting.

"BUTTER TART" PAN COOKIES (Repeated from August 11, 1958)

One-half cup butter (or margarine), 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons white sugar, 1½ cups brown sugar, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the butter well, then cream into it the 1 cup sifted flour and 2 tablespoons white sugar. Press this smoothly into an ungreased 9" x 9" pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 15 minutes. Meanwhile, mix together all remaining ingredients. When base has baked 15 minutes, remove it from oven and spread second mixture over it evenly. Return to oven and bake 20 minutes longer or until golden brown.

QUESTION: I have been to three large gatherings in the past few weeks where the hostess has served a fruit dessert from the shell of a watermelon. I would like to do this but do not know where to start . . . Maggie R."

ANSWER:

FRESH FRUITS IN WATERMELON SHELL (Serves 16-20)

NOTES: 1) Select a medium-sized watermelon. 2) If desired a wide "handle" of green rind may be left on top when you cut away the top slice to make it look like a basket.

With long - bladed sharp strong knife cut a quarter of the watermelon off — a slice from the long side which leaves three - quarters of the watermelon intact. Using a melon ball cutter, scoop out as many melon balls as you can, from top as well. Discard seeds and reserve ragged outouts of melon for a fruit cup for a family meal later. Scrape out most of the pink flesh but leave a pink lining about ¼ or ½" thick. Drain watermelon shell. Combine watermelon balls with other fresh fruits in season: In June and early July use strawberries. Right now you can use raspberries, blueberries, cantaloupe balls, grapefruit and orange sections. Add a 20-oz. can of pineapple tidbits, juice and all. Sweeten sparingly with fruit sugar, gently mix and fill watermelon shell to the brim. (Reserve any surplus to refill melon for those wanting "seconds".) Chill well before serving garnished with tiny sprigs of mint. Serve fruit-filled melon on a large silver tray decorated with a border of fresh flowers such as zinnias or carnations.

Few Swedish Brides Find Their Wedding Day a Thrill

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — It is the exception rather than the rule to find a Swedish girl who regards her wedding day as the greatest moment of her life.

More often than not she sees it as a costly ceremony required by law.

Many brides regard church ceremonies as hypocritical and radical voices are heard asking if they are really necessary. Why, they ask, can matrimony not be arranged just like any other contract?

Many Swedish couples refuse to marry. They live together, an act condoned by legislation providing that such couples must be taxed jointly.

These couples say that the main advantage is that should they wish to separate there will be no expensive legal fees for divorce.

When a couple fall in love the suitor does not normally approach the girl's parents with a formal request for her hand. He simply announces that he is taking it.

The length of a Swedish engagement may vary from a few days to several years.

FEW ATTEND CHURCH

As in other countries availability of accommodation often decides the wedding day, and in Sweden there are more than 400,000 persons waiting for homes.

Selection of a church or civil ceremony depends on the couples' financial position or their attitude to religion.

Extremely few people in Sweden are regular churchgoers.

Receptions may be large banquets with relatives and friends from both families eating, drinking and dancing through the evening, or they may be less expensive with guests chatting over a glass of wine and a sandwich.

Honeymoon holidays also vary widely. Some couples travel, others go back to work the following day.

At civil marriages, the bridegroom usually wears a dark suit while his bride wears a smart costume or dress. Each wears a buttonhole flower.

Church marriages usually are white weddings with the bridegroom wearing a black tie and tailcoat.

Because of Sweden's high cost of living, many brides continue working—often even after the birth of children.

Daughter Seeks Encouragement To Look After Paralyzed Mother

DEAR DORIS: I wonder whether you have any help for me? My mother had a stroke. She has always been a wonderfully active person and now she is depressed. Her whole left side is paralyzed.

The doctor thinks it will come back; and says I'm to keep her occupied. What am I to do? — STYMIED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR STYMIED: You're to do every last thing you can dream up to make her feel like a going concern, in bed or out of it. Encourage her. Get her doing her prescribed exercises religiously; and praise any improvement. Ask her advice about cooking, a new dress, the baby's formula — or whatever she has always been good at.

Some of the self-help devices you might explore are:

1. A trapeze at the head of the bed to help pull herself up.
2. Buttons on clothing instead of zippers.
3. A seat straddling the bathtub.
4. A walking cane fitted with a suction cup.
5. Such little helps as book holders, a suction cup to hold a mixing bowl, a shoulder cradle to hold the telephone, a board on which a potato peeler may be impaled for peeling.

Occupational therapists are masters of the art of devising imaginative and helpful gadgets to meet particular handicaps. The new book turned out by The Canadian Red Cross Society, entitled "Care in the Home," has a special section on strokes; as well as 255 pages on other diseases and aspects of home nursing.

Get the book from your local branch or by writing to the national office at 95 Wellesley Street East, Toronto, Ontario.

DEAR DORIS: Our son of 16 is at a crossroads. He would like to become a veterinarian but I doubt if he can make the grades he needs. He has a particulary trying time with French and the 65 average required is like reaching for the moon.

This year he is faced with either dropping French or dropping agriculture. He doesn't want to make a decision he'll later regret. It would be so easy to become a dropout. — CROSSROADS.

DEAR CROSSROADS: My first question would be: What is holding him back? Does he have poor study habits, or too many interests, or not enough academic knowhow? If just this one language is the stumbling block, a tutor might be the answer.

But if he is not cut out for university, he'd be better to aim for the haystack. Vocational counselling and a clear picture of his potential are what you need above all else.

A talent for animal care can be expressed at several levels of education.

Confidential to MOURNER: Don't shield your little girl too much from the facts of death. She needs to belong, not to be shut out; especially since she, too, will be missing her Daddy.

Protect her from any hysterical displays of emotion, but let her have a part in anything the community does to honor her Daddy.

Then take her in your arms and love her.

Confidential to JUST WONDERING: There's room for broadmindedness in such situations, and that's for sure. But I don't feel any column is the place for such a controversy as this one.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

Saviour, Again To Thy Dear Name We Raise

Savior, again to Thy dear Name we raise
With one accord our parting hymn of praise;
We stand to bless Thee
 ere our worship cease;
Then, slowly kneeling,
 wait Thy word of peace.

Grant us they peace upon our homeward way;
With Thee began, with Thee
 shall end the day;
Guard Thou the lips from sin,
 the hearts from shame,
That in this house have called upon Thy Name.

Grant us Thy peace, Lord,
 through the coming night;
Turn Thou for us its darkness into light;
From harm and danger
 keep Thy children free,
For dark and light are both alike to Thee.

Grant us Thy peace throughout our earthly life,
Our balm in sorrow,
 and our stay in strife;
Then, when Thy voice shall bid our conflict cease,
Call us, O Lord, to Thine eternal peace.

When a group of English choir singers wanted a new song for a music festival in which they were to participate at Nantwich, England, in 1886, the Rev. John Ellerton composed this beautiful benediction hymn. Today — a century after its composition — it is still sung at the close of worship in many churches.

Mr. Ellerton, a clergyman of the Church of England, was serving as vicar of Crewe Green at the time the Nantwich choristers asked him to help them with their festival song. His fame as a writer of religious verse was already being recognized and some of the 60 hymns which he turned out during his ministry were already written.

His "parting hymn of praise" — though like Dr. Sabine Baring-Gould's "Onward Christian Soldiers" it was written hurriedly to meet the demands of a special occasion — turned out to be the best-loved and most enduring of his works. It is, perhaps, largely responsible for the fact that Mr. Ellerton is known today for his hymns far better than for his pastoral work and his preaching.

Born in London in 1826, the young preacher-poet was graduated, 23 years later, from Trinity College at Cambridge. For nearly half a century he served as vicar and rector in a succession of English parishes. In 1892, just a year before his death, he was appointed Canon of St- Albans.

Lines on Life

Too Little, Too Much

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

"Too little" is the twin of "too much." Those who have too little self-confidence often betray their lack, by too much talking, too much pushing, too much bragging. Three kinds of people would do well to underplay their overdone, frenetic zeal.

The first of the trio may be conveniently dubbed as Mr Over-Aggressive. We find him everywhere we go. He's forever fussing, feuding, and fuming.

His shirts are never laundered right; his coffee's never hot enough. He vows vengeance on the whole dry-cleaning industry and upon all of the world's poor and unsuspecting waiters. He makes the mistake of assuming that he has been made the special, supreme target of all assorted inadequacies. For, after all, he tells himself, the earth and the fulness thereof are his.

His life is eloquent testimony to stored-up aggressions which he makes no attempt to control, subdue, or sublimate. He has never learned to be still and contemplate, to think rather than grunt. He might live longer himself if he were willing to let others live longer.

The over-competitive man is our next victim of excess. Competition, of itself, need not destroy our values or our hearts. If it is not the total measure of our life's work, competition can spur us without injury. But success comes to those who learn how to work with people, not against them; when we are consumed with a passion to win all the time, we must slowly go down the road to self-destruction.

The third victim of immaturity is the man who never grows up — he thinks that the only way to remain active is to be over-active. And so, he is constantly running, proving himself, and impressing others with his strength and prowess. But to grow old is not a sin; it is an art.

Maturity knows what not to do; it has already outgrown the stage of frantic doing and is quite prepared to let the more foolish burn out their physical machines in exciting but empty whirligigging. Wise men are active but not frantic.

To those who would shed their insecurities: Stop being over-aggressive, over-competitive, over-active! The confident soul is quiet, noiseless. It learns to avoid excesses.

A Lift for Living

Church Must Recognize Need to 'Go Farther'

By REV. HAROLD. E. KOHN

When Spanish explorers first reached the east coast of South America, they were wild with excitement and relief. After a long, perilous and exhausting voyage across unknown seas they had finally reached land in safety. It seemed like more than the end of a voyage. They were certain they had come to the end of the earth. They could not imagine anything beyond the eastern South American coast.

When word concerning the explorers' successful voyage reached Spain, the Spanish court and the people could not contain their satisfaction and joy. There was no doubt about it: the heroic sailors had reached the end of the world. In honor of the occasion the Spanish treasury issued new coins on which was stamped the expression Ne Plus Ultra — No More Beyond.

But the Spanish explorers decided not to stop on the east coast of South America. They pressed westward into the interior of the continent, and every day brought new adventures and fresh surprises. Following the issuance of the coins, and before three decades had passed, brave men had spanned the thousands of miles between the east and west coasts of South America and had reached the Pacific Ocean.

HAD BEEN MISTAKEN

Word soon reached Spain that the nation had been mistaken in striking the first coins with their Ne Plus Ultra. There actually was more, much more, to be seen beyond the east coast. There were jungles, rain forests, rivers, lakes, swamps and mountains. People of strange customs and habits, civilizations far older than the explorer could comprehend, and riches unimaginable existed beyond the coast. And beyond the Pacific — who could guess what wonders awaited later adventurers?

So the government of Spain called in the coins with the unwise inscription "No More Beyond." New coins were stamped with Plus Ultra — "More Beyond" — and these were distributed throughout Spain.

One reason some religious people remain sluggish, impassive and bored with their religion is because they stamp religious experience with the same slogan — "No More Beyond." When they are converted, confirmed, or when they unite with a church, they think they have arrived at the end of their little religious world. They putter around at this destination exploring everything that is in plain sight, the religious holidays and festivals, the rituals and formalities, the prescribed prayers and creeds, but they are unaware that faith is a continuing adventure rather than a dead-end destination.

Actually, any religious experience is a new beginning. It is an arrival at a coastline beyond which there are unimaginable adventures with God, where surprising spiritual riches can be found. Everyone who lives vitally presses far beyond where he was yesterday, knowing that God offers "more beyond."

CHURCH MUST ADVANCE

The Church, as well as the individual, needs to go farther. It must keep in mind that there is "more beyond" its present achievements: The Church must do more than comfort its people. It must march over its present horizons and take the Gospel into all of the affairs of life. Politics, international relations, economics, class and race relations, should all bear the footprints of a forward-marching Church, for there is no place where God does not belong, and nowhere that should be an exception to His sovereignty.

It may be that one reason people take their children to the circus but send them to Sunday School is that the Church is not as excitingly venturesome as it should be. If the Church of this century is to command the interest, respect and loyalty of the "average" man, it will need to be fascinatingly forward looking. It will need to thrill the world with a call to adventure into new areas of exploration.

Belief in God compels persons and institutions alike to be perpetually dissatisfied with coastlines. Faith prompts us to discard self-satisfied slogans that mean "I know enough" or "I am good enough" or "This is far enough." The life of faith in God overflows with the excitement of unending adventure.

It faces even death with the glad announcement, "More Beyond!"

The Golden Years

Giving Money to Children Retired Parents' Mistake

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Most of us who are of retirement age, and whose children are grown, would welcome some hard-headed advice on our money — as it relates to our childred . . ."

This man, as most of them who start off this way, doesn't want advice. He is looking for approval of what he has already decided to do. Read on:

"My wife and I, while aware of the warnings that retired parents should hold to what they have, think the warnings fail to take into account the peculiar affection of older couples for their children. We want our children to have what we can give them as soon as they can get it. We want to see them enjoy it while we still are around. We want, certainly to avoid the percentage that lawyers and probate courts will take if we draw wills and leave our money behind in a conventional way.

"My wife and I have a comfortable income, for as long as either of us lives. In fact we are saving better than $110 a month out of the income, simply because there is nothing we want to spend it for. In investments we have about $24,000. In the bank we have another $8,000. And we own our home, worth $18,000. I have a $10,000 life insurance policy that is paid up.

"Why shouldn't we split up the investments, and later the bank account, and let the children have the money now? Company ties weaken after retirement, and old friends fade away. Our children are eventually all we have left to love. . ."

Parents who come up to retirement with a hunk of money have the right to do what they jolly-well please with it. But except for a few dollars dropped now and then — always unexpectedly — they should not pass on any major portion of what they have to their children until after they are dead. The reasons:

—Children of retirement - age parents are moving about as no generations ever did. Their careers take them to this city this year and that continent the next. They are seldom around for long for the parents to see them enjoy any gifts.

GONE IN A HURRY

—Children of 1966 who are grown and married can, and do, dispose of $10,000 or so in two weeks . . . to settle a mortgage, buy a car, pay off debts, or send their own kiddies to private schools. Once the older parents give them money there is almost no chance of ever getting it back.

— Parents giving money to married children are giving it in each case to two people, not one—to the child and a spouse. This is an age of divorce and separation. Half of any gift to any child may go off to divorce courts while the parents watch.

— Retired parents cannot possibly know what the financial turns in the future will be. A "safe" retirement income today carries no guarantees.

— Retired parents cannot possibly know what demands may come up later for money they have already given away. For example: the husband or wife enters a final illness, doesn't want hospitals but a view out the bedroom window at home? Or, they develop a yen to live in Jamaica? Or, a child gets into serious trouble and needs $10,000 to bail out? Or, the parents are assessed for $25,000 in a damage suit?

— Grown children of retired human beings like the rest of us, cannot bring themselves to be grateful for long for what came to them free. Cannot regard $5,000 made with blood and sweat in the 1930's and 1940's as a big deal in the 1960's. Can't be too interested in a Santa Claus who has already dumped his bag and won't be coming down the chimney again.

Weary Wilson

Mr. Martin that the three had found "no reason to be optimistic" about prospects for an early solution to the Viet Nam war. They were hopeful, however, that continued diplomatic efforts would be successful in the long run.

Regarding Britain's troublesome problem of the illegal Smith regime in Rhodesia, Mr. Wilson said that although economic sanctions had cut deeply into the country's economy, they had no political or constitutional effects.

The British leader said informal discussions are being held to determine whether negotiations can be started and with whom they should be held.

Mr. Wilson discussed Britain's new austerity program with Mr. Pearson and said later that failure to solve the economic problems would affect Britain widely in a number of directions. However, it was unlikely the new measures would affect the trade with Canada.

Earlier, he told a Washington press conference that Britain's economic plight had been exaggerated.

Baltimore

by the Baltimore grand jury.

Thursday night, speakers at a rally at Patterson Park whipped white youths into a racial frenzy with anti - Negro speeches. When the gathering dispersed, white gangs roamed surrounding Negro neighborhoods throwing eggs and bottles and beating one 16-year-old Negro they cornered in an alley.

Richard B. Norton, Maryland coordinator of the group, Lynch of San Bernardino, Calif., and Joseph Carroll of Baltimore—both speakers at Thursday night's rally — and Edwin F. Hendle and Paul Cordle, also of Baltimore, were charged with inciting a riot.

ASK CONDEMNATION

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Jordan and Mali submitted a resolution Thursday to have the United Nations Security Council condemn Israel's July 14 air attack on Syria. The resolution was distributed to council members after a meeting at which the United States, Britain and France deplored the attack and expressed regret at prior border incidents that Israel blamed on Syria.

Even Good Corporate News Cannot Halt Market's Fall

By GORDON GRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prices continued this summer drift to lower levels on Canadian stock markets this week and even good corporate news had little effect.

A good example on the Toronto market was Levy Industries, which announced an increase of 79 per cent in first-half earnings, but closed the week unchanged at 16¾.

Moore Corp. was unchanged at 83½ despite an increase in first half income to $1.75 a share compared with $1.50 last year. John Inglis turned a hefty loss in the first half of 1965 into a profit of $451,000 in the first half of this year but it too was unchanged.

Among car markers, General Motors and Chrysler took losses after reports that their United States parent companies had shown declines in first - half earnings.

Ford of Canada, however, received support when it announced increased first - half earnings. It climbed 4½ to 156.

Home Oil A reacted strongly Friday after the company disclosed it had encountered a large pocket of natural gas in Yorkshire, England. The stock jumped 1⅛ to 20¼.

URANIUMS DIP

In uraniums, Denison dipped slightly more than $2 while Roman Corp., whose chief asset is a block of Denison shares, and Preston, which controls Rio Algom, were down a little more than $1. Rio Algom was off a fraction.

There was little speculative activity with daily volumes averaging about 2,400,000 shares.

Volume for the week was 12,388,783 shares compared with 12,700,983 last week; the value of transactions rose to $45,065,770 from $44,477,593.

On index, industrials were down 1.54 to 158.11; golds 4.51 to 187.03; base metals 2.04 to 97.70; and the TSE index 1.51 to 151.05. Western oils climbed .96 to 103.64.

In Montreal, industrials were down 2.03 to 157.85; utilities 2.06 to 138.06; banks .06 to 105.80, and papers 1.89 to 118.64.

Industrial volume was 645,583 and mining volume 4,222,918 compared with 591,000 and 4,654,521 last week.

WIN FIGHT

MADRID (AP)—Spanish students apparently have won their long fight with Franco's government for the right to elect their own student representatives. The education ministry decreed Thursday the direct election of representatives to the student associations. The students have had government-controlled student syndicates.

London Doing Utmost to Get Firms to Leave

By MYRON K. MYERS

LONDON (AP) — Most cities spend a good deal of time seeking new industries and investment. London is doing its utmost to talk companies into leaving.

The Greater London Council has persuaded 280 firms to move outside the city, offering them subsidized sites elsewhere, and, in many cases, buying their existing property.

In the last three years, the government - sponsored Location of Offices bureau has talked 258 firms into building offices outside London and often outside southeast England.

Although London's skyline boasts some impressive new buildings, it has been almost impossible for the last year to get a permit to build more.

Behind the program to move people out is the fear that increasing congestion will push London's hard - pressed public services to the breaking-point.

HAD AMBITIOUS PLAN

Three hundred years ago, the architect Sir Christopher Wren drew up a plan to make London a city of broad, tree-lined boulevards. But the plan was scrapped, and much of London grew instead with narrow streets crowded closely by offices and factories.

More recently, a post-war office building boom sent up skyscrapers to tower above the historic castles and cathedrals.

The boom and bright lights of London brought thousands of people from all over the kingdom, swamping public transportation and housing.

"Since 1951, 200,000 office jobs have been created in London," a spokesman for Britain's board of trade said. "And today 16,000,000 trips are made daily within or in and out of the city."

British governments long have discouraged new building in London's centre. In August, 1965, the Labor government decided to get tough and produced new rules for granting building permits.

Since then, the board of trade has allowed almost no construction in the centreal area (a 15-mile radius from Charing Cross railway station) and little in the rest of the urban area (a 40-mile radius from Charing Cross).

RULES ARE STIFF

To qualify for a building permit, the applicant must show proof that his business can not be carried on elsewhere, there is no alternative site, and the building is essential to the public good.

The Greater London Council, which governs London's urban area, signed agreements 14 years ago to encourage industries to move to 21 towns located 40 to 100 miles outside the city.

So far 280 firms taking 50,000 families have moved to these towns and another 200 firms "are in the pipeline."

H. K. Haskael of the council's industrial service says:

"We provide building sites and employee housing in the new locations. The towns' expenses are partly met by a subsidy from the central government.

"Firms move out because land is cheaper outside the city, and often we buy their property in the city. The land is used for public housing."

"We need to move 1,000,000 people out by 1981 just to keep the population where it is now," said a council planner.

INNOVATOR DIES

VENCE, France (AP) — Edward Gordon Craig, 94, whose influence helped revolutionize the modern theatre, died Friday at his Riviera villa. As a critic and director, he was credited with many major theatrical innovations.

Aardvark Terminates Termites

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One way to solve your termite problem is to buy an aardvark as a pet. . . . These African anteaters dote on termites. . . . As they are strong-clawed and nearly seven feet long, you probably can also train them to protect your home from burglars.

The alarm clock isn't the strident brainchild of a modern efficiency expert. . . . It was invented during the middle ages for use in monasteries — to awaken monks for their nocturnal prayers.

Starting from scratch, Tokyo is building a "satellite city" of 300,000 in its suburbs. . . . To be called Tama, the new town will be completed in 1973 at a cost of $1,250,000,000.

If your wife claims she has no more appetite than a mouse, ask her if she means the meadow mouse. . . . This tiny creature eats its own weight in food every 24 hours.

FISH FEEL LITTLE

Nice to know: Do you suffer for the fish when you catch one? . . . Well, scientists say, fish have such poorly-developed nervous systems that they probably feel discomfort rather than actual pain when hooked.

Let's toss a snappy salute today to the hard-working dairy cow. . . . In one year she produces enough fluid milk and cream for 24 people . . . enough butter for 48 . . . and enough cheese for 120.

What makes you tired: Psychiatrists say the biggest cause of fatigue is simply—boredom. . . . To feel stronger, get interested in more things.

Are you a time-waster? . . . If you put to use only 15 minutes daily of the time you fritter, it would enable you to read the Bible through in a year, or the entire works of Shakespeare twice.
